Zak appointed district director of extension

20-year Pennington veteran will supervise 21 counties

Effective Feb. 1, 1997, Deb Zak will leave the post of Pennington county extension leader in Thief River Falls to assume the role of district director for the northwest district, which includes 21 counties from the Canadian border south to near the Morris area.

Zak announced at the December meeting of the Pennington county extension committee that she had been offered the position. At its meeting in January the committee is expected to consider a successor for the Pennington county post.

Making the appointment was Katherine Fennelly, dean and director of the Minnesota Extension Service. Interestingly, Zak served on the state selection committee which recommended Fennelly for appointment to the state directorship which she assumed Jan. 1, 1996.

In another unusual twist, one of Zak's first duties as district director will likely be to assist the extension committee in Pennington to select her successor—and that selection will involve more than county consideration.

"Extension is becoming more and more involved on a larger basis than simply county needs," Zak said. "Much work is being handled in a cluster with neighboring counties, and it is important to look at balance of needs and specialties on a multi-county scale. On an overall basis, of course, that balance will be of greater benefit to Pennington as well as other counties."

In her district position, Zak will have her office at the University of Minnesota in Crookston, but from a practical standpoint, her day's work may not often involve being there.

"With 21 counties to cover, I will be on the road a great deal," she said. "Whether I leave from our

Four presumed drowned as van goes through ice

Four individuals are missing and presumed dead after a track van broke through the ice on the south shore of Lake of the Woods Monday morning.

Names of the individuals involved in the accident have been released. Still missing as of Tuesday morning are Donald and LaVerne Kutcher of Beaver Dam, WI, and Henry and Ellajean Goldman of Beaver Dam, WI. Three individuals, Jim and Wendy Rollie of Baudette and Don Dose of Elgin, MN, were able to escape from the van. They were transported to LakeWood Health Center, treated and released.

Lake of the Woods County Sheriff's department received a report of the incident at 7:45 a.m. on Monday, December 30. According to the incident report, seven people were in a track van when it broke through the ice. Three of the occupants were able to escape and were transported to LakeWood Health Center.

Efforts to recover the bodies of the missing individuals are underway by the Lake of the Woods Sheriff's department, a Lake of the Woods rescue team, and the Pennington County Dive and Rescue Squad.

The track van is located in about 27 feet of water.

Burnsville PeeWee A hockey team visits site of book lore

River of Champions book inspires team to visit Thief River Falls

River of Champions, a book based on Thief River Falls' 1956 state champion high school hockey team, provided the inspiration for Rich Leonard, Burnsville PeeWee A hockey coach, to bring his team and a number of parents and others to Thief River Falls for a game and other activities Saturday, December 28.

Mary Halvorson Schofield wrote River of Champions, which received several good reviews among sports writers shortly after its release about a year ago. Schofield is a graduate of Lincoln high school and witnessed the season during which the Prowler hockey team, with hard work and dedication, overcame misfortune and seemingly insurmountable odds to win the Minnesota high school hockey championship.

Leonard encouraged members of his Burnsville PeeWee A team to read the book and a number of them brought personal copies with them to Thief River Falls. Duane Glass, a member of that championship team and one of the heroes in the book, signed autographs when the team members visited his sports card shop prior to the Saturday afternoon game.

The group of about 40 people, including 17 players, their coaches, parents and others, were given a tour of the city which included stops at sites highlighted in the book. These included the area of the river where the hockey team practiced on its own in addition to the organized practices indoors, the garage where Glass severely hurt his hand prior to the state tournament, and Lincoln high school.

At 4:30 p.m. the Burnsville team met the Thief River Falls PeeWee A team at the Old Arena, exchanged gifts (hockey pins from Thief River Falls and miniature hockey sticks from Burnsville) and beat the host team 6-1.

Duane Glass, a member of the 1956 state champion Lincoln high school Prowler hockey team, autographs a book about the team for Burnsville PeeWee A player Kevin Dixon. Mary Halvorson Schofield wrote the book in which Glass, who played in the state tournament with a severely injured hand, is one of the team heroes. Glass now operates Sport Cards Etc. in Thief River Falls.

Following the game, the visiting group went to The Club in the lower level of the Elk's building, where many members of the 1956 team spent a good deal of their time when not on the ice. Owner Larry Haugen and his wife Marie hosted a meal for them there.

Harriet Worker of Thief River Falls served as the local contact and made many of the arrangements. The Burnsville team also went on to play games with Roseau and Warroad during the weekend.

City okays hike in water rates to help paint tower

The City Council approved a resolution raising water rates at a council meeting held at noon on Monday, December 30.

The rate increase is expected to raise roughly $42,000 per year and was seen as necessary to help pay for the cost of re-painting of the westside water tower.

Council Representative Don Barron said he had received a letter from one constituent worried that they were raising rates without much concern for residents on fixed incomes.

Council representatives noted that they had made efforts to keep the increase reasonable, but had to increase it because there weren't enough funds in reserve to pay for the cost of re-painting the westside tower.

Several water department projects have been undertaken during the past year, which have depleted the reserve fund. It was also noted that the cost of painting the westside water tower, $350,000, was roughly $100,000 more than what it cost to paint the eastside tower a year ago. That increase was due in part to changes to EPA requirements on lead-based paint removal. Those requirements also came without funds to cover additional costs.

The new water rate increase commences January 1, 1997.

During the meeting, the council also approved year-end adjustments to the city's general fund budget. The budget balance after adjustments was $10,373. The remaining balance was placed into fund reserves.

The council later received a notice that it would receive a 1996 property/casualty dividend of $92,732 from the League of Minnesota Cities Insurance Trust. The dividend will be placed in the insurance reserve fund.

The council has approved a res-

Thief River Falls Centennial headlined 1996 news stories

Certainly the top story of the year would have to be all of the Centennial activities that took place during 1996. As The Times began it's coverage of 1996, the first edition on January 3, was filled with pictures of the Thief River Falls Centennial kickoff, which took place at the Armory. Activities included sledding, sleigh rides, musical performances, and speeches.

The first edition of the Northern Watch began with a story of Kara Haugen, a young writer. The first baby of the new year was born at 10:50 a.m., Monday, January 1, to Kenneth and Lesa Hagman. Residents were curious about a smell in the air. The smell was coming from decomposing matter in the river water.

The January 10 edition of The Times began with a story about Bob Wald and his wife Rita who were selected as Outstanding Conservationists of the Year in 1995. In other stories, Carl Clark was elected chairman of the board of directors for school district 564, and residents began talking about the affect deep snow would have on the deer herd.

The January 13 edition of the Northern Watch began with a story about deer feeding projects which had begun. The feature story in this edition was about the Global Studies Institute in Red Lake Falls.

The January 17 edition of The Times included stories about a Centennial Beard Growing contest; a tragic accident on Highway 1 east of Thief River Falls; the election of Darcy Harbott to president of the Chamber of Commerce board; and a city council story which discussed a grant that would result in the hiring of another police officer for Pennington county schools.

Snow and ice grabbed many headlines in 1996. The January 20 edition of the Northern Watch included a story about a blizzard that pummeled the area. The Ironman 25 snowmobile race was about to get underway, and the feature story was about Sheldon and Eloda Knutson of rural Goodridge, who had been recognized by the Goodridge Area Historical Society for their contributions.

In the January 24 edition of The Times, the public was encouraged to attend a pro driver open house prior to the start of the Ironman 250 snowmobile race; the fire department reported responding to fewer calls during 1995; and Lincoln High school was to act as host of the Sub-Section AA one-act play contest.

Snow and cold brought other visitors to Thief River Falls other than snowmobilers. As is usual during tough winters, moose wandered into town looking for shelter and forage. The January 27 edition of the Northern Watch included a picture of a moose that had wandered close to the Lowell Swenson home. This edition also included information about a proposed truck toll road between Duluth and Winnipeg; a fire that caused losses for the tech prep program at Twin Valley; and a feature about students in Plummer learning practical skills and building trades.

Jeremy Fyle of Burnsville, who was riding for Arctic Cat, won the Ironman 250 snowmobile race in Thief River Falls. Also included among front page stories in the January 31 edition of The Times, was a story about Sno-Fest activities at Lincoln High school and Northland Community and Technical College. The Pennington County Board of Commissioners re-organized and Bud Comstock was elected chairman of the board.

The February 3 edition of the Northern Watch included a story about Arctco posting a third quarter sales increase of 10 per cent. Other stories included discussion about the proposed consolidation of Stephen and Argyle schools; Polaris exceeding $1 billion in sales for the first time; Red River Valley Winter Shows activities; and big changes at the Kittson County History Center and Museum in Lake Bronson.

Cold weather kept Minnesota in a tight grip. According to stories in the February 7 edition of The Times, schools and activities, such as Sno-Fest events, were postponed when Gov. Arne Carlson ordered all K-12 schools in the state closed due to the extremely cold weather. Cross country snowmobilers participating in the Amoco Ultimate 500 race roared into and out of Thief River Falls with Brad Pake of Felton and riding for Arctco in the lead. Northland men clinched a state tournament spot, and Kyle Sanden and Krissi Super were candidates for top basketball awards.

The February 10 edition of the Northern Watch announced that Brad Pake had won the 1996 Amoco Ultimate 500 cross-country snowmobile race. Several other Arctic Cat racers were among the top riders. In the same edition, Ernest Swanson of Goodridge was named a Melvin Jones Fellow in recognition of his service to the world community through Lions International.

Estelle Grunde, who taught rural school near Thief River Falls during the extremely cold winter of 1936, had lots of stories to tell those who thought this winter was cold. The February 14 edition of The Times, included a story about Centennial Ag Day planned for March 1 at the armory. Kyle Sanden was an All-American pick.

In the February 17 edition of the Northern Watch, Hartz Foods reported an operating loss, but was upbeat about the future. At the invitation of Jobs Inc. of Thief River Falls and the Agricultural Utilization Research Institute, presented a conference on a new product called WheatBoard, which planted an idea for bringing a plant to Thief River Falls.

According to the February 21 edition of The Times, delinquent taxes declined the previous year, and the Pennington County Historical Society began offering memberships.

The wetlands reform issue was a top story in the February 24 edition of the Northern Watch. Wetland reform had been and would continue to be a top story in many issues of the newspaper in 1996. It was also announced that Capt. Dale Stuck would take over as the captain at Minnesota State Patrol district headquarters in Thief River Falls. St. Hilaire was making clean water its priority by developing a Wellhead Protection Plan.

The February 28 edition of The Times included stories about Celebrate Agriculture awards being presented, precinct caucuses, and the Pennington county fair board, which had decided not to seek a "big name" entertainer for the county fair.

Calls to law enforcement increased significantly during 1995. Miscellaneous calls to the Pennington County Sheriff increased 17 per cent. Also according to the March 2 edition of the Northern Watch, Two Rivers Area Theatre was bringing the musical "Les Miserables" to Thief River Falls, and a Christian rock group known as "Bethesda" was looking for its big break.

In the March 6 edition of The Times, residents of northwestern Minnesota were invited to discuss an environmental impact statement on Northern Tall grass Prairie Habitat Preservation Areas; the naming of Bill Ness to the International Snowmobile Hall of Fame; and Centennial Agriculture awards.

The March 9 edition of the Northern Watch included stories about Andrea Vigen who was named the American Cancer Society Teen Flower of Hope for her struggle against cancer, the new bookmobile for Northwest Regional Library, and the sentencing of a young man to 10 years in prison for his part in an assault on another local man.

The March 13 edition of The Times included stories about the Lincoln High school concert entitled "Songs of the Homeland"; fire damage to a historic home near Oklee, and the addition of a new computer system at Digi-Key.

The March 16 edition of the Northern Watch included stories about a benefit for Jim Tippart who was injured in a snowmobile accident; Boy Scouts about to begin their annual collection of food for the Area Food Shelf, and Pierre Uebe of Red Lake Falls who revels in the history of the French Voyageurs.

The March 20 edition of The Times included a story about the completion of an addition to the school at Goodridge; Sen. LeRoy Stumpf requesting a subcommittee on ethics to review his consulting contract with the Red Lake Watershed District following a story in the Star Tribune, which attempted to show a conflict of interest; the LHS choir telethon; and the announcement that Kamie Twomey and Keith Anderson had been named winners in the Region 8AA Triple A awards program.

The March 23 edition of the Northern Watch included pictures of a 12-car pile up on a CP rail line near Radium; a story about Lowell Hanrum, owners of Hanrum Custom Saddle Shop, continuing developments in Sen. Stumpf's requests, and a regional job shop to be held at the armory in Thief River Falls.

The March 27 edition of The Times included stories about a decline in criminal complaints to the police; a young artists piano competition which attracted 37 entries; a report that the subcommittee had cleared Sen. Stumpf on questions of a conflict of interest; and Arlo and Erna Scholin being recognized as Pennington County's Farm Family of the Year.

The March 30 edition of the Northern Watch included stories about the community holding a benefit for Jusdy Hitesman who was diagnosed with cancer in the fall; Wesley and Sharon Bring who were named Marshall County Farm Family of the Year; Northern Expressions School of Arts taking applications, and Helen Halvorson, who likes to walk, and walk, and walk.

The April 3 edition of The Times included stories about a DTED commissioner speaking at a Jobs Inc. meeting; St. Hilaire winning an award for its work on a WellHead Protection plan, 35 students being inducted into the LHS Honor Society chapter; winners of a regional science fair; and pianists who won awards at the Young Artists Piano Competition.

The April 6 edition of the Northern Watch included stories about the Miss TRF Pageant seeking entries, a special "Lunch at the Library" which focused on the centennial, Plummer students advancing to the state science fair; and a feature story about Marie Lindstrom of Lake Bronson who decorates eggs.

In the April 10 edition of The Times, School District 564 approved budget reductions; a CRP information meeting was planned; the Wetlands compromise was delivered to Minnesota Governor Arne Carlson; and Marcia Kruttila's lifelong dream of owning a Busendorfer piano came true through a remarkable set of circumstances. Baseball and softball openers were, of course, delayed by snow.

Stories in the April 13 edition of the Northern Watch included a story about drug arrests made by officers of several agencies working together; area schools preparing for elections; and the proposed merger of St. Hilaire and Warren elevators. Philip Flickinger, a junior at Marshall County Central high school, was featured in a story about his success in speech.

The April 17 edition of The Times included stories about Celebrate Progress awards presented to William Ness, Richard Spyhalski, and Mark Larson; local students going to the state speech event; and more about local residents being arrested in a major drug bust.

Record snow and ice during the winter along with a fast melt and rains resulted in record flood waters in a large part of the area. The April 20 edition of the Northern Watch included several pictures of flood damage and efforts to prevent flood damage. The feature story in the Northern Watch was a study of the declining moose population.

The April 24 edition of The Times included stories about the school board approving a permanent leave of absence for the superintendent of schools; Nunsense II, a musical, being presented April 27-30, the Scout Exposition, recycling efforts by SwisCorp; and the 9th District VFW Loyalty Days rally in Thief River Falls.

The April 27 edition of the Northern Watch included a disturbing story about a disturbance at a Red Lake Falls school that had to be quelled by law enforcement officers. The edition also included stories about preliminary estimates of flood damage amounting to about $1.5 million; the Grygla Knowledge Bowl team winning the regional contest; and Hospice volunteers.

olution establishing a 15 per cent surcharge on fire insurance premiums. The surcharge is held in escrow until cleanup is completed following a fire. The surcharge is allowed under current state law and is intended to address the failure of some property owners to clean-up hazards created as a result of property fires.

The council approved a resolution appointing Jean Heinrichs and Frank Hamerlinck to the ad-hoc labor committee for 1997.

The council adopted a memorandum of understanding designating Brian Arlo as the city's substitute animal control officer for 1997.

Also approved was the extension of an animal disposal contract for 1997 with Dan and Janeece Trontvet.

The council approved a request from the SnoDrifters snowmobile club to allow alcohol consumption in Red Robe Park on January 11 and 12 during the annual Ironman 250 snowmobile race.

"Effective Visiting with the Elderly" course to be offered January 3

Do you have an elderly friend or relative that you should visit but you're not quite sure what to say or how to act around them? Do you feel at a loss for words and ideas for activities and conversation during your visit?

"Effective Visiting with the Elderly" will be offered by the Minnesota Extension Service at 1:30 p.m. on Friday, January 3 in the Courthouse meeting room in Thief River Falls. The program will be presented by Glenice Johnson, Gerontology Professor from the University of Minnesota Crookston.

The program will include ideas for individuals who visit the elderly, either in their homes or at a nursing home. Ideas will be shared concerning topics for discussion during visits, simple personal care activities to do together; and suggestions of gift items to bring that are meaningful to an elderly person. Suggestions to improve communication with hearing or visually impaired will also be addressed.

The long winter months ahead provide many opportunities to visit elderly people in the community. These visits are especially welcome after the excitement of the holidays has passed.

Glenice will present many suggestions on how to improve communication with hearing and visually impared elders. She will provide a list of ways to help keep that communication going so that your visit can be more enjoyable by both parties.

Individuals who regularly (or irregularly) visit the elderly, either in their homes or at a nursing home, often are at a loss as to what to do during a visit. This could be a very positive experience for both parties if the time is pre-planned or if specific, structured tasks are considered.

Glenice will go over many of the different ideas you can use for discussion and activities for your visit. Some of the ideas include: Talk about what's happening in the weather such as a bad storm, early snow or a drought, update or make new photo albums and/or scrapbooks of special items, prepare a favorite recipe together; take a walk, or read outloud together. She will also go over a list of gift ideas to bring. Some of the items include: a good lamp for reading, video tapes, stationery, a plant, a polaroid camera, or a lap robe.

This is just a begining of what will be covered, there are many ideas Glenice will go over that can help make your visit an enjoyable and memorable one for both of you.

Anyone interested in this topic is welcome to attend the program. For more details, contact Deb Zak at the Pennington County Extension Office at 681-2116 or toll-free at 1-800-681-2116.

Do you believe in reincarnation? It's kind of cool to think about, although there are no answers. Imagine all the people and souls that exist in this world now have really existed in the past. I would love to think that reincarnation exists.

How can a new being be created after all the old beings? Maybe that's a dumb question because each person is different since they get their traits from their parents and peers. But what if people who make the souls quit making new souls after, say, around 500 A.D. and started to remake old souls. What if Adolf Hitler was reborn as Charles Manson, or maybe George Washington was reborn as John F. Kennedy? Or maybe everything is the opposite, and all the bad people that created problems on earth were reborn as good people.

What if souls that were males on earth came back as females or poor people were reborn as rich people. Or, still, a black man reborn as a white man? To make things seem even more crazy, I wonder if people can come back as an animal? Crazy thoughts this world holds. I wonder if animals act dumb, but are really smart? Maybe they are looking at us thinking, "What a dumb human!" They maybe have this world completely figured out and know why we're here and what our purpose is as well as there own.

Maybe this world is made up of subliminal messages; every single word that comes out of a person is a message. These messages make you do what you do, and don't know why. I guess that's kind of dumb because, after all, that's what commercials kind of do; you see a food on T.V., and you get hungry not knowing why.

I am also thinking maybe the person in charge made it so that every word you have ever heard from every person you have ever spoken to is a hint – maybe a hint about the future. None of the people know it, but they may be hinting about a great war that may end our problem of over population. They could tell us secrets of this universe without us ever noticing. Maybe I'm going a little too far.

Do you ever wonder why you were created? I mean, why was it me? What's my purpose in this world? Am I here to be a bum and teach the rest of the world not to be one? Am I here to destroy the world or save it? Maybe I'm here to teach my parents or maybe...or maybe ..I could just go on because there are no answers, and we all know it. In the meantime I am here to find my destiny.

If you think my mind is going in circles, you might be right. This is what happens when a teenager has too much time to think during two consecutive storm days.

ON MY MIND

Another Year Goes By

As the year of 1996 comes to an end, I realize it's been another interesting one. It wasn't much unlike other stretches of 365 days, but it did have its own personality of challenges, special occasions, happiness, sadness and changes. And as I reflect on the happenings I discovered that I've learned a lot in this past year.

For instance, I learned that most human beings CAN live through a winter that has temperotures dropping to near 50 below zero. (Although it's not something we want to brag about or repeat too many times.) During last year's stretch of frigid weather, my husband and I found that boiling water DOES freeze when you throw it in the air. That was all the excitement we mustered for temperatures that cold.

The cold temps and deep snow taught us another lesson: moose are big animals and they CAN be seen in town. When we moved to this house people told us that these critters often took a snooze under our back yard evergreen trees. We learned that it is true. It was excitement around our house that morning – my first up-close look at a moose. (And no film for the camera!)

As winter gave way to summer (I still insist we didn't have a spring) we found that deep snow makes for deep water in the river. As we watched the rapidly rising water from our living room window across the street from the river, we wondered if we should be running for sandbags. We learned that the water gets pretty high, but not enough to come across the street.

Water taught me another important lesson. Cars don't float. Actually, after my car decided to drown itself in the river I learned a number of very important things. Always, always use the emergency brake, even if the terrain looks and is flat. Never, ever park BETWEEN two posts. Walk wherever you need to go. Next time, buy a car that does float – one with airbags.

In early summer I learned another important lesson associated with water. Never bathe a dirty white rabbit that you find hopping around in your back yard. It could be an Angora with fine hair that mats together when mixed with water. Trying to de-tangle the rabbit left me with one bloody thumb (now a scar) and a call to a pet groomer. I now know that I need a special blow dryer and brush if I wish to give the rabbit a bath. I think he can handle that himself with his little pink tongue.

The recurring theme here seems to be water. And after three trips to Belize in one year, I reaffirmed my desire to be near water. That's where I feel most at home. But more than that, all those trips to this Central American country the size of Massachusetts taught me many things.

People are all the same, but they're all different. The Belizeans are the friendliest group of people I've met. In a few short days, we become good friends. Most visitors to Belize say they never want to leave. They have to, but sooner or later they return.

Slow down, relax, enjoy. Nothing in Belize happens too quickly. It's a nice change of pace from our run-here-to-there lifestyle. In fact, the motto of the town of San Pedro on Ambergris Caye is: No shirt, no shoes, no problem. Belizean author Emory King has his own saying: "If you come to Belize without patience, you'll learn it; if you come to Belize with patience, you'll lose it."

Appreciate what you have. Although Belize is an attractive vacation destination, many still live a lifestyle to which we're unaccustomed. Some areas of the country just received electrical and telephone service. Goods are not easy to come by and are not cheap. At lunch break and after school children are content to play marbles with their friends. The laidback, simple lifestyle adds to Belize's appeal.

It's a different country with many lessons to impart. I take home with me what I can and remember it always. The dolphins gliding through the water. The iguanas basking in the sun. The abundance of fresh fruit. The warm tropical weather.

It's a continent away and this winter it seems even farther. Because the last lesson I've learned this year is that there CAN be another winter to match last winter.

I'm spending Christmas with Jesus this year

I see the countless Christmas trees,
Around the world below
With tiny lights like heaven's stars,
Reflecting on the snow.

The sight is so spectacular.
Please wipe away that tear.
For I'm spending Christmas with Jesus Christ this year.

I hear the many Christmas songs.
That people hold so dear
But the sound of music can't compare
With the Christmas choir up here

For I have no words to tell you,
The joy their voices bring,
For it is beyond description
To hear an angel sing.

I can't, tell you of the splendor,
Or the peace here in this place.
Can you just imagine Christmas
With our Savior, face to face?

I'll ask Him to light your spirit,
As I tell Him of your love
So then pray for one another.
As you lift your eyes above

Please let your hearts be joyful,
And let your spirit sing.
For I'm spending Christmas in heaven,
And I'm walking with the King.

Who Is Made Of Snow?

(Tune: Do Your Ears Hang Low?)

Who is made of snow
When the temperature is low?
Who stands outside
When the ground is cold and white?
Who starts to melt
When the sunshine is felt?
Who is made of snow?

I'm A Little Snowman

(Tune: I'm A Little Teapot)

I'm a little snowman
Round and fat
Here is my scarf
Here is my hat
When the sun comes out to chat
Watch me melt away like that!

PARENTING TIPS

After the Holidays

After the holidays, it is sometimes hard to get back into the routine of things. Some people (parents as well as children) experience a real let down or depression. The house looks so bare when all the decorations are put away and the holiday special events are all over. The time has come to make a transition back into "normal routines." The good news is that it can be done smoothly without those feelings of depression. Here are some suggestions:

•Do something to spark up your house. Buy a new centerpiece, or have your children make some snowmen and snowflake decorations or simply rearrange the furniture.

•Plan some activities to look forward to in the next couple of weeks. Remember that the planning and anticipation are half of the fun of the event.

•Don't let the thought of a long, cold winter get you down. Plan to make the most of winter in Northern Minnesota!

•Check out the Early Childhood Family Education program winter quarter events. The newsletter with details of January and February events will be in the mail this week. All activities start the week of January 13.

(Contributed by the Early Childhood Family Education department of School District 564.)

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about the holidays. See if your child can retell three events in the order they happened. Ask which one happened first, next and last.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Don't Fight It - Thrive In It

I got a garden catalog last week. The temperature that morning was 31 degrees below zero and the snow was piled to the top of my garage in the back. I haven't dared look at the pictures of bright green grass and sun drenched flowers and vegetables in the catalog yet, not when the view out of my frosted windows is so white and cold.

The thing we have to do is make the most of what we have, which is what? Plenty of snow and cold, I guess. But we who live here know very well what to expect in the winter and it shouldn't be any surprise when the snowfall is measured in feet and the temperatures plummet overnight. We choose to live here, so we'd better learn to live with it.

It seems to me that we northerners are doing much better at dressing for the cold now than when I was young. Everyone seems to be actually dressing like it is winter outside instead of trying to pretend that it is still summer. People are seen wearing warm parkas, heavy boots, warm mittens and scarves, and those wonderful new "Mad Bomber" hats. The hats are one of the most sensible winter fashions I have seen in a long time. I bought one for each of my children and their spouses this winter (and one for me, too). I love that soft rabbit fur on my cheeks and chin. The dog loves it too - he wants to eat it.

When I was in school, the fashion was to dress as if winter wasn't cold. I remember wearing tennis shoes all winter long - no boots (remember when the boots were called "Kickerinos"?). We wore nothing on our heads, although back in those days we did have quite a bit of hair to keep our heads warm, as opposed to some of us now, and we never, ever, put a warm scarf around our necks. I don't remember gloves or mittens, but I do remember chapped, red hands. Could the way we dressed then be the cause of that nasty arthritis now when we are old? Seems to me my mom told me so.

Dressing for the cold also includes dressing our houses warmly. Most northern living rooms and rec rooms include cozy afghans and quilts scattered around for quick warm-ups and lots of soft pillows to snuggle into. North country beds often sport flannel sheets and down-filled comforters. We do know how to cuddle up to keep warm in the cold.

Insides stay warm with cooking that is quite different from other times of year. Hearty soups, casseroles and stews are mainstays, along with freshly-baked hot breads and rolls. Every north country cupboard has the ingredients for chill-chasing hot chocolates, teas and coffees.

What would be a good thing to have that is provided by too few work places and other places where people park for any length of time are electrical plug-in spots. When I last visited Winnipeg in the winter, it seemed that every place a person would park had a place in which to plug cars. Everyone drove around with extension cords draped around their cars. We should do this, too - have plug- in spots - not necessarily the extension cords.

Another thing we up north need to do is learn to build our houses for the cold. Igloos would be appropriate, but they might melt in the summer and leave us without a house at all, so I guess that wouldn't work.

You may or may not know that our neighbor Grand Forks was named the worst climate in the nation in the recent edition of the "Places Rated Almanac." This statistic rated an editorial by Tim Fought in the Sunday Grand Forks Herald called "Cold, Hard Place, Cold Hard Facts."

As well as stating some of the good points about life in Grand Forks, Mr. Fought brought up an interesting idea about housing in the area. He suggested that our houses, instead of being built in "grids and the curvilinear patterns of southerly suburbs," face southwest "to take advantage of the sun." Doesn't this sound like a good idea? I always wondered why I have so few south windows in my house when they are the warmest places to be near on a sunny winter afternoon.

Mr. Fought also suggested that homes and businesses have large entries and foyers that would conserve indoor heat and also be a place to accommodate the clothing that we northerners must wear. I love this idea. Why do so many houses have little, tiny entryways (or none at all) in this part of the country? I have a very small entry and closet in my house and when I have more than two guests, boots, coats, scarves, hats and gloves are strewn all over the living room. We need room to get into the house, a place to stamp the snow off of our feet, and somewhere to stand or sit to take off all of the assorted paraphernalia we are forced to wear to keep ourselves warm. Then we need some place to place it all while we visit - and then someplace to put it all back on ourselves before we go out again.

Since Grand Forks isn't all that far from here and our weather is pretty much the same (sometimes worse), I enjoy the feisty Mr. Fought's final statements:

"As for the climate, we'll live with it, we'll thrive in it."

"The worst climate? Fine. It just makes the rest of what we do the more remarkable."

ON THE OTHER HAND

Hans Heppner
Lincoln High School

It's Christmas again, in case anyone missed the last three months of advertising propaganda. Isn't that it? We get the first commercial signs of the Yule just a little after Halloween. We seem to be bombarded with that until Thanksgiving, a holiday that always surprises people, because it isn't on the same day every year. Most of us have our ears plugged with red and green cottonballs.

Sometime in late October or early November is when we first hear sleigh bells, and the Christmas season doesn't stop until the end of December. We wait through the post Xmas sales and get a few weeks of respite until the end of January when we have to get a head start on next year's Christmas.

What's fascinating is the plethora of Yuletide products. I'm talking about the flame retardant space age polymer tree, the remarkably real pine scent spray to "liven up" your tannenbaum, and High Gloss Mirror Surfaced wrapping paper to wrap up what playthings you put under the tree.

It's a wonder anybody can decide on what to buy! Everything comes in multiple versions. There's always the "digitally remastered" type or at least the "new and improved." Not to mention the specially colored Christmas-oriented style. Just about anything you want to buy you can get in at least holiday colors, if not scents, tastes or textures. The Santa gimmick extends even to soft drink cans emblazoned with nostalgic paintings of Santa drinking a familiar carbonated beverage. The corporation heads at Coca Cola are not stupid. Coke did not become the world's second most recognized word, behind "hello," by sheer luck. No, it was advertising. All the toymakers, confectioners and business people know that the season sells. Like mad.

It's a shame nobody has done anything about it. All these companies take the nice parts of the season and package them and parcel them until they mean nothing except money. I like Christmas, and I think it's sad the way it gets cartooned. It seems like Christmas stops being Jesus' birthday and becomes a day when they release all the cool new movies.

I'm not going to wax sentimental with my parting statement. I'm just going to say that Christmas is what you make of it, not what they package in cans or boxes. It's not what we save up money for all year before. Christmas is as Christmas does.

D.A.R.E.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL OVERVIEW

The emphasis of the D.A.R.E. program for the junior high/middle school level is to provide or reinforce the information and skills which enable students to resist pressure and other influences in making personal choices. In addition, the lessons focus on helping students manage their feelings of anger and resolving conflicts without causing harm to themselves or others and without resorting to violence or the use of alcohol and drugs.

The instruction consists of a series of ten lessons on social skills and violence prevention strategies to be taught cooperatively by the officer and the classroom teacher. The lessons and activities were designed to be implemented as an instructional block of ten days during a required course period such as health, science, social studies or other appropriate academic subject, as designated by the individual school district. The lesson descriptions are as follows:

Lesson 1 - DRUG USE AND ABUSE
To help students understand how certain mind-altering substances can change the way the mind and body function.

Lesson 2 - DRUGS, VIOLENCE AND THE LAW
To inform students about laws, school behavior codes regarding possession of substances (alcohol, tobacco and other dangerous drugs) and acts of violence. To help students understand their role in observing these expected standards of conduct.

Lesson 3 - CONSEQUENCES
To help students to explore how the use of drugs affect every person living in a community.

Lesson 4 - ASSERTIVE RESISTANCE
To make students aware of the various pressures that influence people to use drugs and to teach assertiveness as a way for resisting these pressures.

Lesson 5 - FORMING POSITIVE FRIENDSHIPS
To help students recognize ways that individuals can reach out to form positive relationships with many different people in order to help one another and to fulfill their needs for affection, belonging, recognition, respect and the feelings of self-worth.

Lesson 6 - RESOLVING CONFLICTS WITHOUT VIOLENCE
To help students explore ways of dealing with anger and conflict without resorting to acts of violence.

Lesson 7 - DESTRUCTIVE ECOLOGY: TAGGING AND TRASHING
To help students understand how destructive acts of vandalism against personal or public property or living things affect everyone.

Lesson 8 - PRESSURE FROM GANGS AND GANG VIOLENCE
To make students aware of the kinds of pressures and violence they may encounter from gangs and to help them evaluate the consequences of the choices available to them.

Lesson 9 - PROJECT D.A.R.E. REVIEW ACTIVITIES
To provide an opportunity for students to review and strengthen what they learned in D.A.R.E.

Lesson 10 - D.A.R.E. TO BE!
To help students act in their own best interest under pressure.

Cooperative learning is an important strategy used throughout the D.A.R.E. Junior High/Middle School lessons. Learning to function as a responsible, sharing member of a group and to participate in cooperative problem-solving is a key factor in helping students meet their need for affection, recognition, respect and feeling of self-worth.

When the temperature is low?
Who stands outside
When the ground is cold and white?
Who starts to melt

After the Holidays

After the holidays, it is sometimes hard to get back into the routine of things. Some people (parents as well as children) experience a real let down or depression. The house looks so bare when all the decorations are put away and the holiday special events are all over. The time has come to make a transition back into "normal routines." The good news is that it can be done smoothly without those feelings of depression. Here are some suggestions:

- Do something to spark up your house. Buy a new centerpiece, or have your children make some snowmen and snowflake decorations or simply rearrange the furniture.
- Plan some activities to look forward to in the next couple of weeks. Remember that the planning and anticipation are half of the fun of the event.
- Don't let the thought of a long, cold winter get you down. Plan to make the most of winter in Northern Minnesota!
- Check out the Early Childhood Family Education program winter quarter events. The newsletter with details of January and February events will be in the mail this week. All activities start the week of January 13.

(Contributed by the Early Childhood Family Education department of School District 564.)

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk about the holidays. See if your child can retell three events in the order they happened. Ask which one happened first, next and last.

Many enrollment options available for state students

Students in greater numbers are taking advantage of opportunities to choose—where they attend school. Minnesota was the first state in the nation to offer parents and learners a chance to seek the public school that best fits the needs and interests of the individual.

The following enrollment options are available to learners in Minnesota:

Post-secondary Enrollment Options allows students in grades 11 and 12 to attend, full or part-time, a technical college, community college, private liberal arts college or university, or any of the state universities, for high school credit. Students must meet the requirements of that post-secondary institution. Students should work with their high school counselors to ensure the courses taken will meet graduation requirements.

Open Enrollment permits kindergarten through 12th grade students to apply to attend a school outside the district in which they live. Applications must be received by the non-resident district before January 15 for enrollment the following fall. Accepted students must agree to attend the new district for one full school year. School districts with desegregation plans require that applications be sent to the home district first for approval to leave, before it is sent on to the non-resident district.

Transportation costs will be reimbursed for qualifying low-income families whose children are participating in Open Enrollment and Post-secondary Enrollment Options programs.

High School Graduation Incentives program is designed to encourage learners who are having difficulty in school or who have dropped out of school to complete their high school credits in an alternative setting. Qualifying students may attend another traditional high school inside or outside their district, an Area Learning Center, an alternative school or program or a non-public, non-sectarian school which has been contracted by a district to provide educational services.

Area Learning Centers provide year-around, non-traditional education toward a high school diploma for students 12 years of age through adult on a full-time or part-time basis. Students develop, with an instructor, learning plans which best fit their course needs and learning style.

Public and Private Alternative Programs personalize the education of learners at risk of not completing high school. Classes are taught using non-traditional methods and allow for flexible scheduling. these programs operate during the school day and year.

Education Programs for Minor Parents and Pregnant Minors are designed to ensure teens, who are parents or pregnant, complete their high school education. When requested, educational programs which fit the needs of the individual must be made available by the school district, along with any necessary supportive services.

Diploma Opportunities for Adults encourages individuals age 21 or older, who have not completed high school, to return to get their diplomas. Qualifying persons have up to two years of free state aid to finish their requirements. Many of the same programs available under high school graduation incentives are available to adults.

For information about these enrollment option programs, contact the high school principal or counselor in your local school district or call the Enrollment Options Hotline at 1-800-657-3990.

Why Teach Music In The Schools?

As School District 564 continues to deal with its difficulties of financing local education, the board of education will be looking at any number of ways of cutting or at least holding down the costs of various programs and areas. Sure to come under especially close scrutiny will be the co-curricular and non-academic areas of education, including athletics, art and music.

What is easy to forget when targeting cuts is the interrelationship of educational programs and how removal of one may affect the effectiveness of others.

Inter-school athletics, for instance, are often criticized as unnecessary expense that benefits a relative few and could be eliminated without affecting the academic quality of education. But athletics teach many valuable lessons beyond the skills required to participate, as most former high school athletes will attest. And the diversion they offer make academics tolerable for many who, as teenagers, find scholarly studies a bore.

Similarly, music and other arts have their detractors as well, particularly—as with athletics—among those who have not been participants or who have had an unsatisfactory experience. Our biases show quite readily when such subjects are discussed.

A reader recently sent us a single sheet explanation entitled "Why Music In Our Schools?" Much of what it says could be applied to other arts or to athletics or other co-curricular activities. We believe it offers some thoughts worthy of consideration and discussion:

WHY MUSIC IN OUR SCHOOLS?

MUSIC IS A SCIENCE. It is exact, specific and it demands acoustics. A conductor's score is a chart, a graph which indicates frequencies, intensities, volume changes, melody and harmony, all at once and with the most exact control of time.

MUSIC IS MATHEMATICAL. It is rhythmically based on the subdivisions of time into fractions which must be done instantaneously, not worked out on paper.

MUSIC IS A FOREIGN LANGUAGE. Most of the terms are in Italian, German or French, and the notation is certainly not English, but a highly developed kind of shorthand that uses symbols to represent ideas. The semantics of music is the most complete and universal language.

MUSIC IS HISTORY. Music usually reflects the environment and times of its creation, often even the country and/or racial feeling.

MUSIC IS PHYSICAL EDUCATION. It requires fantastic coordination of fingers, hands, arms, lip, cheek and facial muscles, in addition to extraordinary control of the diaphragm, back, stomach and chest muscles, which respond instantly to the sound the ears and the mind interpret.

MUSIC IS ALL THESE THINGS, BUT MOST OF ALL, MUSIC IS ART. It allows a human being to take all accumulated knowledge and skill and use it to create emotion. That is one thing science cannot duplicate: humanism, feeling, emotion—call it what you will.

THAT IS WHY WE TEACH MUSIC. Not because we expect you to major in music. Not because we expect you to play or sing all your life. Not so you can relax. Not so you can have fun.

BUT, so you will be more human. So you will recognize beauty. So you will be more sensitive. So you will be closer to an infinite beyond this world. So you will have something to cling to. So you will have more love, more compassion, more gentleness, more good. In short, more life.

Of what value is it to make a prosperous living unless you know how to live!

Private Schools Defend Turf Against Critics

Minnesota's 543 private schools produce better results at a lower cost than public schools while saving taxpayers about half a billion dollars a year, according to a report called The Public Purpose of Private Education prepared by the Minnesota Independent School Forum, the Choice in Education Foundation and the CELM Foundation, Inc.

At a press conference releasing the report late last fall, former U.S. Sen. Dave Durenberger and former State Sen. John Brandl said that private schools serve a public purpose by achieving improved outcomes while serving students about as diverse as those in public schools.

"Private schools are effective, efficient and accessible," Sen. Durenberger said. "This report debunks many of the myths about private schools and illustrates how they serve the public interest."

Brandl said the report "indicates that private schools serve a public purpose by providing a fine education to a significant number of our state's children at low cost." He added that private schools should be included in efforts to improve education.

The study examined the results, student populations and costs of nonpublic schools and found that private schools do more for less money while serving virtually the same student population as public schools. For example:

- 77% of nonpublic students passed the Basic Standards Reading test with scores of 70% or above while only 63% of public students passed at that level.
- 86% of nonpublic students passed the Basic Standards Math test with scores of 70% or above while only 76% of public students passed at that level.
- 98% of nonpublic schools do not require entrance exams.
- The median cost per student in a nonpublic secondary school is $4,500, compared to the median cost per student in a public district of $5,776.
- 100% of the nonpublic high schools in the state and 80% of the Catholic schools in the Twin Cities provide students with tuition assistance.
- Nonpublic schools save state and local taxpayers approximately $500 million each year.

Jim Field, president of the Minnesota Independent School Forum, said the idea for the report came from concern about inaccurate reporting about private schools in recent months.

"We realized that we had not done a good job in collecting and disseminating data on our schools," Field said, "so we decided to get the facts and set the record straight."

The report shows that Minnesota had 8,828 non-public school enrollment in kindergarten, 47,776 in elementary and 26,831 in secondary for the 1994-95 school year. Had those students been enrolled in the public schools, state and local taxpayers would have had to pay an additional $537,190,120 for their education.

Copies of the report are available from the Minnesota Independent School Forum by calling 612-297-6716.

To The Editor:

There are a couple of things that are of concern to me in the community. Has anyone noticed the amount of salt on the garage floor! There is no excuse for that. A little sand on the corners should be sufficient. I am sure we could save a certain amount of money not using salt.

Another thing is the stop lights; the timing should be set the same for each direction. It is almost impossible to make a turn east from Main to Third street.

We could save a bundle of money if lights at the hospital corner and the liquor store corner were eliminated. The traffic is controlled by other lights.

Why don't our city fathers notice this?

Sincerely,
Jack Boyer

Watch for the impaired driver during holidays

Alcohol plays a prominent role in traffic crashes. According to the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration (NHTSA), there were 17,274 alcohol-related fatalities in 1995, or one in every 30 minutes. In Minnesota last year, alcohol accounted for 41 per cent of the total number of vehicle fatalities in 1995. Of the 597 people killed in Minnesota in traffic crashes last year, 246 of those deaths were alcohol related.

According to NHTSA, about two out of every five Americans will be involved in an alcohol-related crash at some time in their lives whether they drink or not.

"One of the most important things is to wear your seatbelt. Of all the occupants killed in alcohol-related crashes, 80 per cent were unrestrained," said Barb Buchholz, spokesperson for AAA Minnesota.

Motorists are urged to be especially careful at night and on weekends, when alcohol-related crashes are more likely to occur, and learn to distinguish an impaired driver by his or her actions on the road. These may include: driving too fast or slow for conditions; crossing the centerline repeatedly; driving hunched over behind the wheel; weaving between lanes and the sides of the road; accelerating and braking erratically; driving with headlights off; making wider turns than necessary; responding slowly to traffic signals (sudden stops, delayed starts), and driving with an open window in cold weather.

Drivers are encouraged to stay behind the impaired driver. If the driver behind you is impaired, keep track of him and turn off at the next intersection.

Drivers are also encouraged to contact law enforcement officers about the impaired driver. Provide them with a description of the car including the model, color and license number, location and describe what leads you to believe the driver is impaired. Do not stop the vehicle, follow the vehicle or act in the capacity of a law enforcement officer.

Morris and Marcelyn were supper guests at the Bob Lindstrom home for Christmas.

Sharry Steffania and Scott Stewart arrived from the Cities on Sunday to spend the holidays with Peter and Pearl Thompson and the rest of the family. For Christmas dinner they were joined by Dave, Phaela and Brent Thompson, LaVonne and Brian Johnson, Danny, Becky and Jeremy Johnson, Michalla and Jake Melby.

Tod and Lori Johnson of Osage stopped in to visit Morris and Marcelyn Lindstrom on their way home after spending time in Karlstad with Tad's mother Marian Johnson.

Deb Zak appointed district director of MN Extension

The counties involved in her district include Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, East and West Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Beltrami, Clearwater, Mahnomen, Norman, Hubbard, Becker, Clay, Wilkin, East and West Ottertail, Grant, Douglas, Traverse, Stevens and Pope.

State Director Fennelly was in Thief River Falls Monday to meet with Zak regarding the position, as well as discuss with Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls the work being done by the extension service. And since the county board of commissioners met at 5 p.m., she was able to meet with them before catching her return flight to the Twin Cities.

"District directors have key positions in the extension service, as they provide a direct link between the administration in St. Paul and the 'real work' that is done at the county level," Fennelly said. "We rely heavily on the expertise of our five district directors as we develop our state-wide program.

"Deb clearly has the skills necessary to fill a district director role," she added. "In the interview process we were particularly impressed by her commitment to teamwork and her abilities to plan and organize on a group basis, both in her personal experience summary and in the comments we received from others who have worked with her."

Fennelly said that since a restructuring of the extension service four years ago, there has been a concerted effort to make the service a more participatory organization. This means an accelerated response to expressed needs from the counties as well as greater access to 10 colleges of the University of Minnesota in the Twin Cities and U of M campuses at Crookston, Duluth and Morris. District directors help to facilitate this response.

Reorganization extended the scope of Minnesota extension beyond its association with the university's Institute of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics. It now has a financial interest in the Colleges of Agriculture, Architecture and Landscape Architecture, Continuing Education and Extension, Education, Hubert H. Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs, Human Ecology, Public Health, Natural Resources, Nursing and Veterinary Medicine. This interest obligates the colleges toward a greater participation role in extension.

While agriculture continues to be a major emphasis of extension throughout rural Minnesota, change in farming practices and rural living is being addressed as it applies to the environment, public health, government regulations and other factors.

Fennelly, who came to her job in Minnesota after being head of the department of agriculture and extension education at Penn State University, where she directed a 4-H program with 225,000 members, said she was interested in the Minnesota program because of the university-wide involvement in the extension service. Her first three impressions of the state in her first year here were the flat topography, absence of toll roads and strong community commitment to extension and other public programs.

Zak said that during her experience in extension she has found it necessary for educators to be more versatile and yet more specialized. The public needs more complete information on an ever-increasing number of concerns, which is one of the reasons a mix of expertise among educators in extension clusters has growing importance.

Originally from Middle River, Deborah Matero Zak has been a Pennington county extension educator since 1977. She has been the county extension leader since 1985 and Cluster 5 program leader since 1993. Her specialization is community resources and she has applied that specialty to her private as well as professional life.

Zak is co-vice president of the American Association of University Women, chairs the community education advisory committee and the Inter-Agency Network, serves on the board of the chamber of commerce and convention and visitors bureau, is a member of the Rotary Club, youth development committee and the Northwest Economic Developers Network.

She received a BS degree in vocational home economics education from the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks in 1976 and an MS in education/general studies from UND in 1991.

Zak has made a number of professional contributions during her 20 years in the extension service, including membership on the Minnesota Extension Service Citizens Advisory Committee Faculty Liaison, leadership team member of the Info Tech Team, member of the Active Citizenship State Leadership Team, chair of the Extension Faculty Consultative Committee in 1994 and a trustee of the Minnesota 4-H Foundation.

The vacancy in the district director position was created by the retirement of Gordon Shafer of Detroit Lakes.

Record year for recycling

Minnesota Department of Agriculture reports that 419,000 containers which equals 125 tons of plastic were recycled in 1996 through the empty pesticide container collection and recycling program. The number of containers collected is the largest ever collected in the seven year history of the program. The 1996 totals are 32 per cent larger than the 1995 collection.

"It is gratifying to see the program continue to grow," stated Minnesota Department of Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson. "The program utilizes a resource which a few years ago was viewed as a waste problem."

Since the program began in 1990, 413 tons of plastic pesticide containers have been recycled. Currently, all the recycled pesticide containers are being made into plastic pallets. Demand for the new plastic pallets is outstripping the supply. The pallets are being used within the pesticide industry to ship crop protection chemicals.

Swift county led all other counties by collecting 21,027 containers for a new state record. The previous record was 16,850 set in 1994, also in Swift county. Other major collections were: McLeod county 16,975; Watonwan county 11,200, Stevens county 10,675; Dakota county 10,500, Grant county 10,229 and Waseca county 10,000.

Red Lake County

"The great man, he uttereth his mischevious desires; so they wrap it up.' [Micah 7:3]

"For the past few days the inhabitants of this 'neck of the woods' have been asking each other, what county do we live in? We are told that Marcus Johnson brought [Polk County Auditor] Clough's proclamation to Red Lake Falls on Christmas day and that the county of Red Lake was secretly organized. At midnight a mass meeting was held, and the commissioners duly installed. The board consists of K. M. Hanson, North; O. J. Johnson, Wyandotte; Swan Anderson, Black River; Sam Gibeau, Lambert; Wm. P. L. Denman, Lake Pleasant. The commissioners then arranged for officers' quarters and appointed the following county officers.

"Auditor, W. T. Mullarky, Thief River Falls; treasurer, M. A. Halton, Lake Pleasant; register, S. A. Swanson, Wylie; sheriff, Sam Dainard, St. Hilaire; county attorney, Charles E. Boughton, Red Lake Falls; superintendent of schools, Frank Jeffers, Terrebonne; surveyor, P. O. Heglund; coroner, Joe Belaire.

"To a law abiding citizen who has something of a legal mind, there is something very 'queer' about Polk county's 'gerrymander' that is hard to digest. It may be an illustration of the proverb, 'That he who sows to the wind shall reap the whirlwind.'

"First of all, old Polk county was cut up 'bridle' ways so that every little village could have a bit (of county seat). This was proposition number one, to cut up Polk county into five strings.

"It was petitioned for an illegal gerrymander, which ought to have been promptly denied by Clough, but his re-election was trembling in the balance and he could not afford to lose a vote.

"Then came proposition number two, to divide Polk county into three parts upon a fair division of territory. This also was submitted to Clough and considered with reference to its vote-giving power. 'Yes! yes! yes! have all the counties you want, in the critical situation I am in, I can't afford to deny a voter anything he asks for.' But in some way and by some person, the Supreme Court was invoked to stop the gerrymander but the Supreme Court declined to do anything of the kind. They said in effect, that the legislature whose especial business it was to organize counties, had opened a way for the dear people to organize as many counties as they wanted, within certain limits and therefore all the propositions should be submitted to them, if they were fools enough to gerrymander old Polk county and lap and overlap territory, they should not interfere to prevent the will of the people from being known and the people voted and voted to organize Red Lake, Columbia and Mills county but, says Marcus Johnson, this won't do, I'm a Republican, I want a county seat where my property is situated and I don't want it anywhere else; I helped to elect Clough and he has got to fix this thing for me. I'll just 'whisper' in his ear and we'll fix it. The legislature don't know what I want as well as Clough does and Clough and [State Attorney General] Childs know better what the legislature intended than anybody else and we have a better right to determine what the legislature meant, and the people want than any Supreme Court and so, in the words of our text, 'The great man, he uttereth his mischevious desires; so they wrap it up.' ■ TRF tops Roseau in Russ Smith Classic final

Host Thief River Falls regained possession of the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament title Saturday with a 46-43 championship game win over Roseau.

It was the fifth title for the Prowlers in the 14-year history of the tournament, but their first since they won three straight in 1985, 1986 and 1987.

Fertile-Beltrami came into the event as the two-time defending champion, but had to settle for the consolation trophy this time after suffering a 66-62 quarterfinal loss to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Thursday.

The Gators, who then lost a 38-32 Friday semifinal to Roseau, wound up taking third with a 72-67 overtime win over Kittson Central.

Thief River Falls 46
Roseau 43

It was another hard-hitting Thief River Falls vs. Roseau match-up Saturday. But instead of taking place on the ice at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, this knock-down affair took place on the court at Lincoln High School as the Prowlers out-muscled the Rams 46-43.

Basketball is not supposed to be a contact sport, but the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic final was no place for the timid. It was battle of brawn from start to finish.

"It was a very physical game," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "It was a hard-fought game. I was proud of the kids they way they hung in there and got things done in spite of all the adversity they've faced – the injuries, illness and fouls."

Roseau faced a major challenge of its own when point guard Peter Erickson went down with a ankle injury in the first minute of the second quarter. The Rams, who started the game with a 10-2 lead, trailed just 13-12 at the time.

Moments later Roseau was down 21-14. But they stayed close, pulling within 25-23 when Justin Kjos scored from underneath with one second left in the first half.

Roseau began the fourth quarter with a 36-35 edge and the Rams were up 38-35 when Erick Hallie came up with a steal and fast break lay-up in the opening moments of the final period.

A single free throw by Jon Blomker and two by Jeremy Swanson lifted the Prowlers to a 38-38 tie with 6:42 remaining.

Nearly three minutes went by before the score changed on a fast break lay-up by Swanson. Courtney Skjerven followed with a rebound basket and Swanson again broke away for a lay-up to compete a string of nine straight Thief River Falls points and a 44-38 advantage with 2:25 to go.

The Rams' Matt Sjulstad scored on the inside and added a free throw for a three-point play to chop the different in half, 44-41, with 1:46 still showing.

Two free throws by Kjos with 35.7 seconds remaining tightened things even more, 44-43.

The Rams had a chance to go ahead by grabbing a rebound on a missed Thief River Falls free throw with 34 seconds on the clock, but they turned it over with 10 seconds left, and single free throws by Blomker and Swanson made it 46-43.

Roseau put the ball back in play with 6.1 seconds to go, but could not get off a final shot off from outside the 3-point line for the tie.

Swanson scored 13 points, Hendrickson and Skjerven 12 each for the Prowlers. Sjulstad came up with 15 and Kjos had 10 for the Rams.

Thief River Falls was 16-for-46 from the field (35 percent) and went 14-for-26 at the free throw line, where they missed seven of eight during one stretch in the fourth quarter.

Roseau had troubles of its own with a 30 percent 14-for-46 showing from the field. The Rams were 14-for-19 at the line and had a 28-27 rebound edge. Turnovers were even at 20-apiece.

The three tournament wins elevated the Prowlers to 4-3 for the year.

Kittson Central 67

A little luck sometimes comes in handy, admitted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby after the Gators' third place game 72-67 overtime win over Kittson Central.

With his team down 56-53, Sparby lost Andy Schenkey to fouls with 15.6 seconds left. He called on Jed Geer to replace Schenkey. With 6.3 seconds on the clock, Geer drained a game-tying 3-pointer from the wing.

And 54 seconds into the four-minute overtime, after Geer had started the extra session with a tie-breaking drive to the basket, Jeremy Vacura took what Sparby considered an ill-advised 3-point shot from the corner – and hit it for a quick 61-56 lead.

"We got lucky," said Sparby. "Much of it is dumb luck. We get the 3-pointer to tie it at the end of regulation time, they hit another one to start overtime. It wasn't the shot we were looking for, but it went in."

The Gators also benefited from a Wolfpack freeze at the free throw line, where an 0-for-5 fourth quarter included three misses on the front end of bonus situations in the final 65 seconds.

Kittson Central put together a 9-0 run to go up 56-49 following a base line drive by Blake Elhard with 1:49 to play. But thanks to the Wolfpack free throw shooting, the Gators closed regulation with a 7-0 finish – two free throws by Matt Kujava, a basket underneath by Daryl Wockenfuss and Geer's 3-pointer.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River won the unusually high-scoring overtime 16-11 by making 9 of 10 free throws.

Kujava scored 20 points, Geer 16 and Wockenfuss 14 for the Gators. Josh Deere of the Wolfpack led all scorers with 25 points. Elhard had 11.

"I was pleased with our second half," said Sparby. "We did a much better job offensively in the second half. We moved the ball better and we got good shots."

The Gators were 25-for-57 from the field (44 percent) and 18-for-26 at the free throw line. The Wolfpack went 27-for-73 from the floor (37 percent) and 9-for-18 at the line. Kittson Central had a 39-38 rebound edge.

Thief River Falls 1-1-1 in McDonald's Holiday Classic...

Spoilers beat Prowlers 4-1

Grafton-Park River certainly lived up to its nickname the Spoilers by spoiling the chances for Thief River Falls to put together a three-game high school hockey unbeaten streak, beating the Prowlers 4-1 in the last game of the McDonald's Holiday Hockey Classic Saturday night at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Failure to put together three solid periods of hockey proved costly for the young Thief River Falls team. Going into the third period the Prowlers trailed only 1-0.

The teams skated through a scoreless first period. Grafton-Park River seemed to have opened the scoring at the 13-minute mark of the period, but what appeared to a power play goal for the Spoilers was waved off for being kicked in.

Scoring didn't occur until late in the second period, when at 14:14, Grafton-Park River forward Ryan Kallnener put a shot past Prowler goaltender Brian Barry after receiving a centering pass from teammate Andrew Olson.

The Prowlers then came out flat for the third period, and two unassisted goals early in the period put the game out of reach. The first one came just 43 seconds into the period when Andrew Olson dumped the puck in from the blue line. What seemed to be a routine stop ended up as a Grafton-Park River goal when Barry mishandled the puck with his glove and it went into the net.

Two minutes later Barry saw his night come to an end when Brian Presteng scored after the Prowlers failed to clear the puck from in front of the net.

Mike Dowers finished the game in the nets for the Prowlers, and Garret Johnson finished the scoring for the Spoilers when he received a pass from Rob Larson, then slipped the puck past Dowers.

The Prowlers managed to get on the board about midway through the third period. The Prowlers scored the only power play goal of the evening in what was a penalty-filled third period. The Prowlers' Jared Sunsdahl put a shot on net from the blue line, the puck was left in front of the net and Curt Edwards put the rebound away.

The 2-7-1 Prowlers, who outscored Austin 7-6 in overtime and skated to a 2-2 overtime tie against Red Lake Falls in two earlier McDonald's Holiday Classic starts, will return to action Tuesday, Jan. 7, when they play host to Grand Forks Red River.

Falcons, Bears win consolation games

Defending champion Fertile-Beltrami went home with another trophy in the 1996 edition of the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament, but Saturday's 69-59 consolation final victory over Stephen-Argyle wasn't exactly the prize the Falcons were looking for.

Runner-up in last year's Sweet 16 state tournament and unbeaten coming into the Thief River Falls event, Fertile-Beltrami was trying to win the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic for the third straight time and for the fourth time in six years. But a 66-62 Friday semifinal loss to upstart Badger/Greenbush-Middle River took care of those plans.

Clearbrook-Gonvick defeated Marshall County Central 72-46 in the seventh place game to start the final-day consolation doubleheader.

Stephen-Argyle......................59

Fertile-Beltrami could never quite shake Stephen-Argyle, fashioning 17-12, 32-29 and 47-42 quarter leaders into a 69-59 consolation championship game win.

Four Falcons hit double figures, led by Ryan Solie with 24 points, Gary Ledding 14, Jason Franklin 12, and Ryan Strem 10. Blair Stoltman netted a game-high 25 points for the Storm, while Mike Crummy had 16 and Kent Benson 10.

The Storm stayed close by hitting 15 of 18 free throws. The Falcons were 5-for-8 at the line.

Roseau, TRF reach Russ Smith finals

Double coverage by Thief River Falls' Courtney Skjerven (53) and Jared Brandt made it tough for Roseau's Erick Hallie to get this shot off during the championship game of the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament Saturday. The host Prowlers won the title 46-43.

Roseau won a low-scoring 38-32 match-up with Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Thief River Falls held off a Kittson Central comeback to claim a 59-51 victory in the Friday night semifinal session of the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament at the Lincoln High School gym.

Roseau 38
B/G-Middle River....................32

There was little offense from either team in the 38-32 Roseau decision over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. And the low score wasn't necessarily attributed to great defense. It was simply a case of poor shooting – 29 percent figures on both sides.

"The shooting percentage was atrocious," confirmed frustrated Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, who watched his team turn in an attention-grabbing 66-62 quarterfinal win over highly-regarded Fertile-Beltrami the previous night before coming out flat against the Rams. "We shot poorly because we weren't looking for the shots, we weren't looking for the passes and we weren't looking to penetrate," he said. "We did nothing offensively. It's a mental thing between the ears. There's no sense out to beat somebody when they scored 38 points."

Roseau started the game with a 5-0 lead and had an 11-7 edge at the end of the first quarter. Only sign of the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River offense came during a 10-1 run midway through the second quarter as the Gators took a 21-20 lead into halftime.

Ahead 30-28, Roseau elected to employ a clock-eating, slow-down tactic to start the fourth quarter. But the Rams' first three possessions resulted in one (missed) shot and two turnovers. First points of the period didn't come until the Gators' Chris Haarstick scored on a drive to the basket to tie it at 30-30 with 3:21 remaining.

A rebound basket by Matt Sjulstad put the Rams back on top 32-30 with 2:33 to play, and they locked it up at the free throw line – two by Erick Hallie with 1:30 left, two by Isaac Lang with 50.1 seconds on the clock, and two more by Lang with 28.2 seconds showing.

The Gators, who netted just 11 second half points and had just two points in the first 7:49 of the fourth quarter, came up with the final basket on a jumper by Schenkey with 11.6 seconds remaining.

With 11 points, Lang with the game's only double figure scorer.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 13-for-45 from the field and 3-for-4 at the free throw line. Roseau went 12-for-41 from the floor and had a 14-for-23 free throw night. The Rams had a 31-21 rebound advantage. They topped the turnover charts 15-14.

Thief River Falls......................59
Kittson Central..........................51

Kittson Central erased a 15-point second half deficit, but couldn't complete the rally, losing to Thief River Falls 59-51 in the semifinal doubleheader nightcap.

The Storm caught the Prowlers at 49-49 on a steal and a fast break lay-up by Blake Elhard with 2:37 remaining. But on their next four possessions the visitors had three turnovers and a foul going for an offensive rebound to sabotage the comeback.

Jeremy Swanson broke the tie by hitting two free throws with 2:13 left. A Kittson Central turnover led to a basket by Karl Anderson, who was wide open in the middle of the lane with 1:44 to go.

Turnovers also preceded two free throws by Swanson with 51.3 seconds on the clock and a short jumper from the side by Courtney Skjerven with [illegible] as the Prowlers [illegible] to 57-49.

Swanson, Anderson and Skjerven scored 11 points each to pace Thief River Falls attack. Josh Deere had 14 points and Elhard 12 for the Wolfpack.

The Prowlers had a 10-4 first quarter lead, were up 29-16 at halftime and had their biggest advantage of the night at 31-16 when Skjerven opened the second half with a rebound basket.

That's when the Wolfpack charged back. Three times they were within two before tying it with a six-point run capped by Elhard's basket.

Seventeen Thief River Falls turnovers helped fuel the Kittson Central comeback. "They did a nice job double teaming Anthony (point guard Anthony Hendricks)," explained Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke, "and we didn't do a very good job helping him out.

But Brekke was happy with the way the [illegible] at the end. [illegible] the kids responded to the challenge," he said. "It was a good clutch time."

The Prowlers shot 43 percent from the field (21-48) and made 15 of 22 free throws. The Wolfpack shot only 36 percent from the floor (20-55) and went 9-for-17 at the line. Thief River Falls finished with a 31-27 rebound edge. Kittson Central turned it over 14 times.

Storm, Falcons win consolation semifinal games

The Storm handled Marshall County Central 71-59 and the Falcons blitzed Clearbrook-Gonvick 60-37.

The Storm from Stephen-Argyle blew on by the Marshall County Central Nordics 71-59 in the first game of consolation play Friday afternoon at the Lincoln High School gym.

Stephen-Argyle, jumping out to a 21-11 first quarter lead, never trailed.

The Nordics closed the gap to eight at halftime, 37-29, but the comeback was quickly diminished by the Storm in the third quarter. The shooting of Jamie Morberg, who had a game-high 23 points, proved too much for the Nordics to handle.

Fouls played a role in deciding the contest as the teams combined for 64 free throw attempts. The Nordics managed to make 16 of their 34 attempts, while the Storm drained 17 of 28 from the line.

The Nordics were lead in scoring by senior forward Mark Augustine, who had 21 points.

Blake Elhard of Kittson Central was headed to the basket as he drew the attention of Thief River Falls defenders Michael Morris (43), Jeremy Swanson and Anthony Hendricks (background) during Friday's semifinal game in the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament. The Prowlers outlasted the Wolfpack 59-51.

Prowlers win tournament

■ TRF tops Roseau in Russ Smith Classic final

Host Thief River Falls regained possession of the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament title Saturday with a 46-43 championship game win over Roseau.

It was the fifth title for the Prowlers in the 14-year history of the tournament, but their first since they won three straight in 1985, 1986 and 1987.

Fertile-Beltrami came into the event as the two-time defending champion, but had to settle for the consolation trophy this time after suffering a 66-62 quarterfinal loss to Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Thursday.

The Gators, who then lost a 38-32 Friday semifinal to Roseau, wound up taking third with a 72-67 overtime win over Kittson Central.

Thief River Falls................46
Roseau 43

It was another hard-hitting Thief River Falls vs. Roseau match-up Saturday. But instead of taking place on the ice at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, this knock-down affair took place on the court at Lincoln High School as the Prowlers out-muscled the Rams 46-43.

Basketball is not supposed to be a contact sport, but the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic final was no place for the timid. It was battle of brawn from start to finish.

"It was a very physical game," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "It was a hard-fought game. I was proud of the kids they way they hung in there and got things done in spite of all the adversity they've faced – the injuries, illness and fouls."

Roseau faced a major challenge of its own when point guard Peter Erickson went down with a ankle injury in the first minute of the second quarter. The Rams, who started the game with a 10-2 lead, trailed just 13-12 at the time.

Moments later Roseau was down 21-14. But they stayed close, pulling within 25-23 when Justin Kjos scored from underneath with one second left in the first half.

Roseau began the fourth quarter with a 36-35 edge and the Rams were up 38-35 when Erick Hallie came up with a steal and fast break lay-up in the opening moments of the final period.

A single free throw by Jon Blomker and two by Jeremy Swanson lifted the Prowlers to a 38-38 tie with 6:42 remaining.

Nearly three minutes went by before the score changed on a fast break lay-up by Swanson. Courtney Skjerven followed with a rebound basket and Swanson again broke away for a lay-up to complete a string of nine straight Thief River Falls points and a 44-38 advantage with 2:25 to go.

The Rams' Matt Sjulstad scored on the inside and added a free throw for a three-point play to chop the different in half, 44-41, with 1:46 still showing.

Two free throws by Kjos with 35.7 seconds remaining tightened things even more, 44-43.

The Rams had a chance to go ahead by grabbing a rebound on a missed Thief River Falls free throw with 34 seconds on the clock, but they turned it over with 10 seconds left, and single free throws by Blomker and Swanson made it 46-43.

Roseau put the ball back in play with 6.1 seconds to go, but could not get off a final shot off from outside the 3-point line for the tie.

Swanson scored 13 points, Hendrickson and Skjerven 12 each for the Prowlers. Sjulstad came up with 15 and Kjos had 10 for the Rams.

Thief River Falls was 16-for-46 from the field (35 percent) and went 14-for-26 at the free throw line, where they missed seven of eight during one stretch in the fourth quarter.

Roseau had troubles of its own with a 30 percent 14-for-46 showing from the field. The Rams were 14-for-19 at the line and had a 28-27 rebound edge. Turnovers were even at 20-apiece.

The three tournament wins elevated the Prowlers to 4-3 for the year.

Kittson Central..................67

A little luck sometimes comes in handy, admitted Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby after the Gators' third place game 72-67 overtime win over Kittson Central.

With his team down 56-53, Sparby lost Andy Schenkey to fouls with 15.6 seconds left. He called on Jed Geer to replace Schenkey. With 6.3 seconds on the clock, Geer drained a game-tying 3-pointer from the wing.

And 54 seconds into the four-minute overtime, after Geer had started the extra session with a tie-breaking drive to the basket, Jeremy Vacura took what Sparby considered an ill-advised 3-point shot from the corner – and hit it for a quick 61-56 lead.

"We got lucky," said Sparby. "Much of it is dumb luck. We get the 3-pointer to tie it at the end of regulation time, they hit another one to start overtime. It wasn't the shot we were looking for, but it went in."

The Gators also benefited from a Wolfpack freeze at the free throw line, where an 0-for-5 fourth quarter included three misses on the front end of bonus situations in the final 65 seconds.

Kittson Central put together a 9-0 run to go up 56-49 following a base line drive by Blake Elhard with 1:49 to play. But thanks to the Wolfpack free throw shooting, the Gators closed regulation with a 7-0 finish – two free throws by Matt Kujava, a basket underneath by Daryl Wockenfuss and Geer's 3-pointer.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River won the unusually high-scoring overtime 16-11 by making 9 of 10 free throws.

Kujava scored 20 points, Geer 16 and Wockenfuss 14 for the Gators. Josh Deere of the Wolfpack led all scorers with 25 points. Elhard had 11.

"I was pleased with our second half," said Sparby. "We did a much better job offensively in the second half. We moved the ball better and we got good shots."

The Gators were 25-for-57 from the field (44 percent) and 18-for-26 at the free throw line. The Wolfpack went 27-for-73 from the floor (37 percent) and 9-for-18 at the line. Kittson Central had a 39-38 rebound edge.

Thief River Falls 1-1-1 in McDonald's Holiday Classic...

Spoilers beat Prowlers 4-1

Grafton-Park River certainly lived up to its nickname the Spoilers by spoiling the chance for Thief River Falls to put together a three-game high school hockey unbeaten streak, beating the Prowlers 4-1 in the last game of the McDonald's Holiday Hockey Classic Saturday night at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center.

Failure to put together three solid periods of hockey proved costly for the young Thief River Falls team. Going into the third period the Prowlers trailed only 1-0.

The teams skated through a scoreless first period. Grafton-Park River seemed to have opened the scoring at the 13-minute mark of the period, but what appeared to a power play goal for the Spoilers was waved off for being kicked in.

Scoring didn't occur until late in the second period, when at 14:14, Grafton-Park River forward Ryan Kalbrener put a shot past Prowler goaltender Brian Barry after receiving a centering pass from teammate Andrew Olson.

The Prowlers then came out flat for the third period, and two unassisted goals early in the period put the game out of reach. The first one came just 43 seconds into the period when Andrew Olson dumped the puck in from the blue line. What seemed to be a routine stop ended up as a Grafton-Park River goal when Barry mishandled the puck with his glove and it went into the net.

Two minutes later Barry saw his night come to an end when Brian Presteng scored after the Prowlers failed to clear the puck from in front of the net.

Mike Dowers finished the game in the nets for the Prowlers, and Garret Johnson finished the scoring for the Spoilers when he received a pass from Rob Larson, then slipped the puck past Dowers.

The Prowlers managed to get on the board about midway through the third period. The Prowlers scored the only power play goal of the evening in what was a penalty-filled third period. The Prowlers' Jared Sunsdahl put a shot on net from the blue line; the puck was left in front of the net and Curt Edwards put the rebound away.

The 2-7-1 Prowlers, who out-scored Austin 7-6 in overtime and skated to a 2-2 overtime tie against Red Lake Falls in two earlier McDonald's Holiday Classic starts, will return to action Tuesday, Jan. 7, when they play host to Grand Forks Red River.

Falcons, Bears win consolation games

Defending champion Fertile-Beltrami went home with another trophy in the 1996 edition of the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament, but Saturday's 69-59 consolation final victory over Stephen-Argyle wasn't exactly the prize the Falcons were looking for.

Runner-up in last year's Sweet 16 state tournament and unbeaten coming into the Thief River Falls event, Fertile-Beltrami was trying to win the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic for the third straight time and for the fourth time in six years. But a 66-62 Friday semifinal loss to upstart Badger/Greenbush-Middle River took care of those plans.

Clearbrook-Gonvick defeated Marshall County Central 72-46 in the seventh place game to start the final-day consolation doubleheader.

Fertile-Beltrami 69
Stephen-Argyle....................59

Fertile-Beltrami could never quite shake Stephen-Argyle, fashioning 17-12, 32-29 and 47-42 quarter leaders into a 69-59 consolation championship game win.

Four Falcons hit double figures, led by Ryan Solie with 24 points, Gary Ledding 14, Jason Franklin 12, and Ryan Strem 10. Blair Stoltman netted a game-high 25 points for the Storm, while Mike Crummy had 16 and Kent Benson 10.

The Storm stayed close by hitting 15 of 18 free throws. The Falcons were 5-for-8 at the line.

Roseau, TRF reach Russ Smith finals

Roseau won a low-scoring 38-32 match-up with Badger/Greenbush-Middle River and Thief River Falls held off a Kittson Central comeback to claim a 59-51 victory in the Friday night semifinal session of the Russ Smith Northwest Holiday Classic boys high school basketball tournament at the Lincoln High School gym.

Roseau 38
B/G-Middle River...............32

There was little offense from either team in the 38-32 Roseau decision over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River. And the low score wasn't necessarily attributed to great defense. It was simply a case of poor shooting – 29 percent figures on both sides.

"The shooting percentage was atrocious," confirmed frustrated Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby, who watched his team turn in an attention-grabbing 66-62 quarterfinal win over highly-regarded Fertile-Beltrami the previous night before coming out flat against the Rams. "We shot poorly because we weren't looking for the shots, we weren't looking for the passes and we weren't looking to penetrate," he said. "We did nothing offensively. It's a mental thing between the ears. There's no sense not to beat somebody when they scored 38 points."

Roseau started the game with a 5-0 lead and had an 11-7 edge at the end of the first quarter. Only sign of the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River offense came during a 10-1 run midway through the second quarter as the Gators took a 21-20 lead into halftime.

Ahead 30-28, Roseau elected to employ a clock-eating, slow-down tactic to start the fourth quarter. But the Rams' first three possessions resulted in one (missed) shot and two turnovers. First points of the period didn't come until the Gators' Chris Haarstick scored on a drive to the basket to tie it at 30-30 with 3:21 remaining.

A rebound basket by Matt Sjulstad put the Rams back on top 32-30 with 2:33 to play, and they locked it up at the free throw line – two by Erick Hallie with 1:30 left, two by Isaac Lang with 50.1 seconds on the clock, and two more by Lang with 28.2 seconds showing.

The Gators, who netted just 11 second half points and had just two points in the first 7:49 of the fourth quarter, came up with the final basket on a jumper by Schenkey with 11.6 seconds remaining.

With 11 points, Lang was the game's only double figure scorer.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 13-for-45 from the field and 3-for-4 at the free throw line. Roseau went 12-for-41 from the floor and had a 14-for-23 free throw night. The Rams had a 31-21 rebound advantage. They topped the turnover charts 15-14.

Thief River Falls 59
Kittson Central....................51

Kittson Central erased a 15-point second half deficit, but couldn't complete the rally, losing to Thief River Falls 59-51 in the semifinal doubleheader nightcap.

The Storm caught the Prowlers at 49-49 on a steal and a fast break lay-up by Blake Elhard with 2:37 remaining. But on their next four possessions the visitors had three turnovers and a foul going for an offensive rebound to sabotage the comeback.

Jeremy Swanson broke the tie by hitting two free throws with 2:13 left. A Kittson Central turnover led to a basket by Karl Anderson, who was wide open in the middle of the lane with 1:44 to go.

Turnovers also preceded two free throws by Swanson with 54.3 seconds on the clock and a short jumper from the side by Courtney Skjerven with 41 seconds showing as the Prowlers' lead shot back to 57-49.

Swanson, Anderson and Skjerven scored 11 points each in a balanced Thief River Falls attack. Josh Deere had 14 points and Elhard 12 for the Wolfpack.

The Prowlers had a 10-4 first quarter lead, were up 29-16 at halftime and had their biggest advantage of the night at 31-16 when Skjerven opened the second half with a rebound basket.

That's when the Wolfpack charged back. Three times they were within two before tying it with a six-point run capped by Elhard's basket.

Seventeen Thief River Falls turnovers helped fuel the Kittson Central comeback. "They did a nice job double-teaming Anthony (point guard Anthony Hendricks)," explained Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke, "and we didn't do a very good job helping him out. They hit a few shots, picked up their intensity and we got into foul trouble."

But Brekke was happy with the way the Prowlers held on at the end. "I was really proud of the way the kids responded to the challenge," he said. "It was a gut check time."

The Prowlers shot 14 percent from the field ([illegible]18) and made 15 of 22 free throws. The Wolfpack shot only 36 percent from the floor (20/55) and went 9-for-17 at the line. Thief River Falls finished with a 31-27 rebound edge. Kittson Central turned it over 16 times.

Storm, Falcons win consolation semifinal games

The Storm handled Marshall County Central 71-59 and the Falcons blitzed Clearbrook-Gonvick 60-37.

Marshall County Central 59

The Storm from Stephen-Argyle blew on by the Marshall County Central Nordics 71-59 in the first game of consolation play Friday afternoon at the Lincoln High School gym.

Stephen-Argyle, jumping out to a 21-11 first quarter lead, never trailed.

The Nordics closed the gap to eight at halftime, 37-29, but the comeback was quickly diminished by the Storm in the third quarter. The shooting of Jamie Morberg, who had a game-high 23 points, proved too much for the Nordics to handle.

Fouls played a role in deciding the contest as the teams combined for 64 free throw attempts. The Nordies managed to make 16 of their 34 attempts, while the Storm drained 17 of 28 from the line.

The Nordics were lead in scoring by senior forward Mark Augustine, who had 21 points.

Deer harvest figure is down, says DNR

Results from the 1996 firearms deer season show that Minnesota hunters harvested 138,100 deer, a 30 percent decline from 1995, but still the eighth highest harvest on record, the Department of Natural Resources reported this week.

Dave Schad, DNR Forest Wildlife Program leader, said that the lower harvest was expected as a result of a bucks only restriction in the northeast and a 23 percent decrease in antlerless permits available statewide. He added that poor weather during opening weekend and throughout much of the gun season probably contributed to the lower harvest in some areas.

"We also know that fewer hunters purchased licenses this year as a result of reduced deer populations in some areas, although we will not have final license information available for several months," Schad noted. "However, good harvests in many agricultural areas in the west and south, where large winter deer losses are uncommon, continue to support a strong statewide harvest."

The largest declines were in the northeast and in parts of the northwest that were hardest-hit by last year's severe winter. Harvest dropped by 68 percent in the northeast region, and buck harvest dropped by 41 percent in this area, said Schad. He added that the latter statistic is more representative because no antlerless permits were offered in that region this year.

Harvest information from other areas of Minnesota showed declines of 31 percent in the northwest, 34 percent in the central and east-central portion of the state, 7 percent in the west and southwest, and 17 percent in the Twin Cities metro area. Harvests actually increased by 2 percent in the southeast.

To obtain additional information about the impact that last winter had on deer populations in forested areas of the state, wildlife managers from across northern Minnesota spent time at check stations aging deer and collecting other information from hunters. "Most hunters reported seeing fewer deer, but still more than they expected," according to Mark Lenarz, group leader for DNR's Forest Wildlife Research group. More than 2,000 deer were aged in the survey. As expected, the number of yearling bucks (last winter's fawns) was down, especially in northern and northeastern permit areas. "When combined with the information on the severity of winter, this data will be especially important in determining where we could have antlerless permits available next year," Lenarz said.

Check station information has also been collected in agricultural areas the last several years, with similar results, according to Jay McAninch, a deer biologist with the DNR's Farmland Wildlife Research office. "The proportion of yearlings in the buck harvest was 40 to 50 percent lower than normal in the extreme northwest, but near normal further south in west-central areas," McAninch said. He added that since there were antlerless permits available in these areas, they were able to obtain additional information about does and fawns. "We found that in the hardest-hit areas, there was a significant drop in the proportion of fawns, especially female fawns, which will result in some lingering effects on future fawn production and population performance," McAninch said.

Schad pointed out that despite reduced deer numbers in much of the north, populations remain strong in many areas of the state.

Kyle Mehrkens at Harvest States New Leader sessions

Kyle Mehrkens of Thief River Falls represented Northwest Grain (formerly St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator Association) at the Harvest States New Leader conference held in conjunction with the cooperative's annual meeting recently in Portland, OR.

"Northwest Grain is fortunate to have new young leaders such as Kyle to participate in its programs," stated Bob Miller, manager of the local cooperative.

Miller also attended the Harvest States annual meeting along with board members Arlo Scholin, Don Mosbeck and Jerry Hasnedl, St. Hilaire; Robert Proulx, Crookston; and Richard Jorde, Thief River Falls. Wives of the directors and manager also attended the meeting.

Northwest Grain was fourth among the top five in grain shipments to Harvest States in Region I last year. The region includes the states of Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

At the annual meeting, Harvest States announced record pre-tax earnings of $57.9 million and total revenues that topped $8.2 billion. Overall revenues were stimulated by strong domestic and overseas demand that pushed grain prices to record or near-record levels. Harvest States marketed an all-time high of almost 1.7 billion bushels of grain.

St. Hilaire Cooperative Elevator Association merged into the Harvest States operation September 4 through a regionalization with a Warren company into Northwest Grain—Division of Harvest States. Much of the time since has been spent in the conversion from the previous company to the new operation.

Miller said that the fiscal years of Northwest Grain and Harvest States do not coincide, so it is difficult to compare business volumes with the main cooperative. He said the St. Hilaire operation has averaged about 17 million bushels of grain handled each year, but is expected to be down about two million bushels for this year.

A number of efficiencies have resulted from the merger, he noted, including insurances, financing costs and shipping. He added that rail freight rates have been high lately, resulting in about 30 semi-trailer loads of grain per day being shipped to Duluth from the St. Hilaire elevators.

Kyle Mehrkens

Miller also said that the local cooperative's sunflower operations have been highly successful. Although the local crop was below average in quality, sunflowers have been available from a good North Dakota crop at a favorable price.

At the New Leader conference attended by Mehrkens in Portland, Iowa farmer and motivational speaker Jolene Brown spoke on "Leadership: It's Worth the Journey." She stressed that "those who say it can't be done shouldn't interrupt those of us doing it.

"Many complain, wish and guess ...few do," she said. "The leaders at this seminar do. They learn the difference between sustainers and achievers. They sharpen their skills through education and participation. They reap personal rewards and agriculture thrives because of their involvement."

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, represented by Bob Bergan, executive vice president, presented a donation for Christmas lights to the Mayor of Thief River Falls, Robert Reeve. This was the second donation from the chamber toward their $5,000 commitment to the Christmas Lighting program

Congratulations and Best Wishes to JoAnn Hanson and Gary Lundeen who were united in marriage Friday, November 23rd at Oak Park Lutheran Church, rural Oklee. A reception was held in the church dining hall, and many friends and relatives attended the wedding dance at DW's in Goodridge. The couple will be making their home in Oak Park. Welcome to our community JoAnn!

Mr. and Mrs. Juell Chervestad motored to Fairmont over the Thanksgiving holiday; they stayed at the Jim Johnson home. The Neuschwander and Sparby families from Grygla also motored to Fairmont.

Get well wishes to Verner Alveson who was hospitalized at Northwest Medical Center for surgery recently.

Get well wishes also go to Helen Chervestad, who has been diagnosed with shingles in her eyes last week. Get well soon Verner and Helen.

The Darrow Lundeen Farm is a quiet place these days. Kelly and Gary decided earlier this fall to sell their dairy operation. With the K and G dairy gone, that leaves only one remaining dairy in operation in Deer Park Township, owned by Orlan and Clarice Stolaas and their son Joel and his wife Leann. Good luck to Kelly and Gary with their future plans.

Barry and Adrianne Jenson have recently returned to America following a mission trip to Russia. They will be moving from their present Tulsa, Oklahoma home to the Princeton area for missionary work together with Philip and Donna Larson. Barry, Donna and Jean Marquis are children of Alvin and Bonnie Jenson of Oklee. Barry and Adrianne arrived at the Arlen Marquis home Saturday, November 23rd for an extended visit in the area.

Sen. Stumpf named Official of the Year by Builders Ass'n.

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls was named the 1996 State Official of the Year by the National Association of Home Builders. He was nominated by the Builders Association of Minnesota "for his hard work and commitment to wetlands reform."

In announcing the selection, the Builders Association of Minnesota stated:

Sen. Stumpf, who is currently serving his fifth term in the Minnesota Senate, led the charge for statewide reform of the Minnesota Wetlands Conservation Act, which was passed into law during the 1996 legislative session. The law streamlined processes and placed common sense in the application and preservation of our natural resources.

"Senator Stumpf has been a leader on environmental issues as well as an advocate for Minnesota's education system, serving as chair of the Senate Higher Education Committee. He has been the chief advocate for legislation that would improve networking and telecommunications throughout the state's K-12 education system, higher educational facilities, colleges and universities.

"In addition, Senator Stumpf is a proponent of work to campaign reform legislation. As a legislator representing a district with international boundaries along Canada's Manitoba and Ontario provinces, he has been active in the Council of State Government's Midwest Canada Relations committee, working on various international issues.

"Senator Stumpf was first elected to the Minnesota House of Representatives in 1980 and then to the Minnesota Senate in 1982. He received his master's degree in public administration from the Maxwell School of Government at Syracuse University.

"The Official of the Year award recognizes the efforts of public officials who support pro-housing policies."

Builders Association of Minnesota represents 3,800 members in the housing industry before the state legislature and governmental agencies. Members include home builders, remodelers, developers, real estate representatives, building material retailers and lenders.

Tsukichi on Dean's list

Christopher Tsukichi, son of Steve and Cindy Tsukichi of Thief River Falls and a 1996 graduate of Lincoln high school, has been named to the Marquette University dean's list for the fall semester. In his first semester as a college student he attained a 3.566 grade point average for 16 credits.

With credit given for advance placement courses taken at Lincoln and for classes taken at Northland Community and Technical College during his senior year in high school, he will start his second semester at Marquette as a sophomore. He is planning to major in International Business.

Host families for foreign students needed

International Student Exchange (ISE) is seeking host families for foreign exchange students soon to be arriving for the second semester (January) programs.

ISE is a designated United States Information Agency (USIA) program and is listed by the Council on Standards for International Educational Travel, certifying that ISE complies with the standards set forth for International Educational Travel Programs.

ISE is presently seeking host families for students from a number of different countries. Students between the ages of 15 and 18 are carefully screened by ISE for suitability. They bring their own spending money and are covered by health insurance. These students speak English and are anxious to share their native culture with an American family.

ISE's Area Representatives assist prospective host families in the selection of a student who best matches each host family's interests and lifestyle. Students are selected from student applications which include family photos and biographical essays. As there are no "typical" host families, ISE places students with large and small families, single parents, single persons and retired couples. While living with you, a student attends the local high school and is expected to bear his or her share of household responsibilities. The length of stay can range from six months to a full year, depending on your wishes.

If you are interested in learning more about ISE's student programs, or becoming an Area Representative please call ISE, toll-free at 1-800-233-4678.

Deer harvest figure is down, says DNR

Results from the 1996 firearms deer season show that Minnesota hunters harvested 138,100 deer, a 30 percent decline from 1995, but still the eighth highest harvest on record, the Department of Natural Resources reported this week.

Dave Schad, DNR Forest Wildlife Program leader, said that the lower harvest was expected as a result of a bucks-only restriction in the northeast and a 23 percent decrease in antlerless permits available statewide. He added that poor weather during opening weekend and throughout much of the gun season probably contributed to the lower harvest in some areas.

"We also know that fewer hunters purchased licenses this year as a result of reduced deer populations in some areas, although we will not have final license information available for several months," Schad noted. "However, good harvests in many agricultural areas in the west and south, where large winter deer losses are uncommon, continue to support a strong statewide harvest."

The largest declines were in the northeast and in parts of the northwest that were hardest-hit by last year's severe winter. Harvest dropped by 68 percent in the northeast region, and buck harvest dropped by 41 percent in this area, said Schad. He added that the latter statistic is more representative because no antlerless permits were offered in that region this year.

Harvest information from other areas of Minnesota showed declines of 31 percent in the northwest, 34 percent in the central and east-central portion of the state, 7 percent in the west and southwest, and 17 percent in the Twin Cities metro area. Harvests actually increased by 2 percent in the southeast.

To obtain additional information about the impact that last winter had on deer populations in forested areas of the state, wildlife managers from across northern Minnesota spent time at check stations aging deer and collecting other information from hunters. "Most hunters reported seeing fewer deer, but still more than they expected," according to Mark Lenarz, group leader for DNR's Forest Wildlife Research group. More than 2,000 deer were aged in the survey. As expected, the number of yearling bucks (last winter's fawns) was down, especially in northern and northeastern permit areas. "When combined with the information on the severity of winter, this data will be especially important in determining where we could have antlerless permits available next year," Lenarz said.

Check station information has also been collected in agricultural areas the last several years, with similar results, according to Jay McAninch, a deer biologist with the DNR's Farmland Wildlife Research office. "The proportion of yearlings in the buck harvest was 40 to 50 percent lower than normal in the extreme northwest, but near normal further south in west-central areas," McAninch said. He added that since there were antlerless permits available in these areas, they were able to obtain additional information about does and fawns. "We found that in the hardest-hit areas, there was a significant drop in the proportion of fawns, especially female fawns, which will result in some lingering effects on future fawn production and population performance," McAninch said.

Schad pointed out that despite reduced deer numbers in much of the north, populations remain strong in many areas of the state.

Thief River Falls Archery Club recently elected officers for 1997 and announced the start of winter league shooting the first week in January. Indoor shooting at the range in the Old Arena in downtown Thief River Falls will continue for a 15-week season. Cost is $2 per week and archers may join by filling out membership forms at Champ's Sporting Goods on LaBree Avenue. Club officers for 1997 include (from left), seated, Audrey Burde, secretary and Dana Kios, president; standing, Merv Carlson, vice president and Darrell Janisch, treasurer. Other members of the board include continuing members Dave Mugaas, Donoven Erlandson, Dale Narlock, Alden Hugg, Wayne Johaneson, Bill Wightman and Tom Molskness; new members Paul Weswick and Steve Brotan; and junior member Dustin Carlson.

Kyle Mebrkens

Kyle Mehrkens of Thief River Falls represented Northwest Grain (formerly St. Hilaire Co-op Elevator Association) at the Harvest States New Leader conference held in conjunction with the cooperative's annual meeting recently in Portland, OR.

"Northwest Grain is fortunate to have new young leaders such as Kyle to participate in its programs," stated Bob Miller, manager of the local cooperative.

Miller also attended the Harvest States annual meeting along with board members Arlo Scholin, Don Mosbeck and Jerry Hasnedl, St. Hilaire; Robert Proulx, Crookston; and Richard Jorde, Thief River Falls. Wives of the directors and manager also attended the meeting.

Northwest Grain was fourth among the top five in grain shipments to Harvest States in Region 1 last year. The region includes the states of Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

At the annual meeting, Harvest States announced record pre-tax earnings of $57.9 million and total revenues that topped $8.2 billion. Overall revenues were stimulated by strong domestic and overseas demand that pushed grain prices to record or near-record levels. Harvest States marketed an all-time high of almost 1.7 billion bushels of grain.

St. Hilaire Cooperative Elevator Association merged into the Harvest States operation September 4 through a regionalization with a Warren company into Northwest Grain—Division of Harvest States. Much of the time since has been spent in the conversion from the previous company to the new operation.

Miller said that the fiscal years of Northwest Grain and Harvest States do not coincide, so it is difficult to compare business volumes with the main cooperative. He said the St. Hilaire operation has averaged about 17 million bushels of grain handled each year, but is expected to be down about two million bushels for this year.

A number of efficiencies have resulted from the merger, he noted, including insurances, financing costs and shipping. He added that rail freight rates have been high lately, resulting in about 30 semi-trailer loads of grain per day being shipped to Duluth from the St. Hilaire elevators.

Miller also said that the local cooperative's sunflower operations have been highly successful. Although the local crop was below average in quality, sunflowers have been available from a good North Dakota crop at a favorable price.

At the New Leader conference attended by Mehrkens in Portland, Iowa farmer and motivational speaker Jolene Brown spoke on "Leadership: It's Worth the Journey." She stressed that "those who say it can't be done shouldn't interrupt those of us doing it.

"Many complain, wish and guess ...few do," she said. "The leaders at this seminar do. They learn the difference between sustainers and achievers. They sharpen their skills through education and participation. They reap personal rewards and agriculture thrives because of their involvement."

Host families for foreign students needed

International Student Exchange (ISE) is seeking host families for foreign exchange students soon to be arriving for the second semester (January) programs.

ISE is a designated United States Information Agency (USIA) program and is listed by the Council on Standards for International Educational Travel, certifying that ISE complies with the standards set forth for International Educational Travel Programs.

ISE is presently seeking host families for students from a number of different countries. Students between the ages of 15 and 18 are carefully screened by ISE for suitability. They bring their own spending money and are covered by health insurance. These students speak English and are anxious to share their native culture with an American family.

ISE's Area Representatives assist prospective host families in the selection of a student who best matches each host family's interests and lifestyle. Students are selected from student applications which include family photos and biographical essays. As there are no "typical" host families, ISE places students with large and small families, single parents, single persons and retired couples. While living with you, a student attends the local high school and is expected to bear his or her share of household responsibilities. The length of stay can range from six months to a full year, depending on your wishes.

If you are interested in learning more about ISE's student programs, or becoming an Area Representative please call ISE, toll-free at 1-800-233-4678.

Matthew's First Christmas

Matthew Eskell spent his first Christmas at the home of his grandparents, Malvin and Rosemary Eskell. With Matthew was his mom and dad, Becky and Steve, uncle Wesley Eskell of Roseau and uncle David. Matthew was a great little boy all year so he got some great gifts from old Santa. The family enjoyed a good dinner and a fun filled day together.

Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce, represented by Bob Bergan, executive vice president, presented a donation for Christmas lights to the Mayor of Thief River Falls, Robert Reeve. This was the second donation from the chamber toward their $5,000 commitment to the Christmas Lighting program.

Barb Chervestad

Congratulations and Best Wishes to JoAnn Hanson and Gary Lundeen who were united in marriage Friday, November 23rd at Oak Park Lutheran Church, rural Oklee. A reception was held in the church dining hall, and many friends and relatives attended the wedding dance at DW's in Goodridge. The couple will be making their home in Deer Park. Welcome to our community JoAnn!

Mr. and Mrs. Juell Chervestad motored to Fairmont over the Thanksgiving holiday; they stayed at the Jim Johnson home. The Neuschwander and Sperby families from Orygla also motored to Fairmont.

Get well wishes to Verner Arveson who was hospitalized at Northwest Medical Center for surgery recently.

Get well wishes also go to Helen Chervestad, who has been diagnosed with shingles in her eyes last week. Get well soon Verner and Helen.

The Darrow Lundeen Farm is a quiet place these days. Kelly and Gary decided earlier this fall to sell their dairy operation. With the K and G dairy gone, that leaves only one remaining dairy in operation in Deer Park Township, owned by Orlan and Clorice Stotesbery, and their son Joel and his wife Leann. Good luck to Kelly and Gary with their future plans.

Barry and Adrienne Jensen have recently returned to America following a mission trip to Russia. They will be moving from their present Tulsa, Oklahoma home to the Princeton area for missionary work together with Phillip and Donna Larson. Barry, Donna and Jonni-Marquis are children of Alvin and Bonnie Jenson of Oklee. Barry and Adrienne arrived at the Arlen Marquis home Saturday, November 23rd for an extended visit in the area.

Sen. Stumpf named Official of the Year by Builders Ass'n.

Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls was named the 1996 State Official of the Year by the National Association of Home Builders. He was nominated by the Builders Association of Minnesota "for his hard work and commitment to wetlands reform."

In announcing the selection, the Builders Association of Minnesota stated:

Sen. Stumpf, who is currently serving his fifth term in the Minnesota Senate, led the charge for statewide reform of the Minnesota Wetlands Conservation Act, which was passed into law during the 1996 legislative session. The law streamlined processes and placed common sense in the application and preservation of our natural resources.

"Senator Stumpf has been a leader on environmental issues as well as an advocate for Minnesota's education system, serving as chair of the Senate Higher Education Committee. He has been the chief advocate for legislation that would improve networking and telecommunications throughout the state's K-12 education system, higher educational facilities, colleges and universities.

"In addition, Senator Stumpf was a proponent of workers' compensation reform legislation. As a legislator representing a district with international boundaries along Canada's Manitoba and Ontario provinces, he has been active in the Council of State Government's Midwest-Canada Relations committee, working on various international issues.

"Senator Stumpf was first elected to the Minnesota House of Representatives in 1980 and then to the Minnesota Senate in 1982. He received his master's degree in public administration from the Marshall School of Government at Syracuse University.

"The Official of the Year award recognizes the efforts of public officials who support pro-housing policies."

Builders Association of Minnesota represents 3,060 members in the housing industry before the state legislature and governmental agencies. Members include home builders, remodelers, developers, real estate representatives, building material retailers and lenders.

Register for military draft by computer

Selective Service System now is equipped to allow young men with computer access to initiate a registration on-line. Young men must register within 30 days of their 18th birthday in accordance with federal law.

The agency's joint venture is with CompuServe's "All Things Military."

According to SSS, a young man with computer access to CompuServe simply utilizes GO MILITARY and requests a registration form. Once the information is entered on-line, the information is forwarded to Selective Service for processing. Within 30 days the new registrant receives a personalized registration card in the mail. After checking the information on the card, signing and dating it, the young man mails it back to SSS.

More than 35 million men have registered since 1980, however, none has been drafted. The last military draft ended in 1973.

AAA says gas prices lower this holiday

Minnesota motorists will find gasoline prices slightly lower this month than they were over Thanksgiving, according to AAA Minnesota. A recent survey shows the average price of unleaded self-serve gasoline is $1.33 per gallon, almost two cents less than on Thanksgiving when the price was $1.35.

Gas prices typically rise in the spring and summer months, when consumer demand is high, and fall in the autumn months when demand is low. This year has been an exception, with gas prices reaching unseasonably high prices in fall. Industry experts say the higher cost of crude has been a major factor driving retail prices up.

Last Christmas, the price of self-serve unleaded gasoline was $1.11 per gallon.

Motorists venturing out this holiday should be prepared for bad weather. Important items to carry in your car include: a bag or bucket of sand, salt or cat litter; small snow shovel; combination ice scraper and snow brush; flashlight; flares or reflective triangles; rags or paper towels; first-aid kit; spray de-icer; and motor club membership card.

Hospice gets $168,000 in estate gifts

Hospice of the Red River Valley has received $168,000 in a two part gift from the Donald Mount estate. A $100,000 gift was received in December of 1995 and $68,000 in 1996.

"Gifts from estates, combined with annual giving, have played a very important role in helping us continue our mission," states John J. Klocke, director of development. "Hospice care is reimbursed by Medicare and other insurances at approximately 80 percent of the cost of care. The other 20 percent of the cost comes from ongoing donation support from individuals, businesses, churches and service clubs. Currently 91 percent of all gift donations go directly to patient care and family services."

Physical, emotional and spiritual care will have been provided by Hospice of the Red River Valley to more than 500 patients and their families during 1996. The organization has offices in Fargo, Lisbon and Mayville, ND, and in Detroit Lakes and Thief River Falls.

HRRV will offer for anyone who has lost a loved one a series of support sessions from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday evenings, January 7, 14, 21 and 28 at its office at 702 28th Avenue North in Fargo, ND. All sessions are free and open to the public.

Farmers and the internet workshop set

Farmers can find out how to harness the information power of the internet at a workshop to be conducted Thursday, January 9, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at the community hall in Stephen.

"Even if farmers don't have a computer or any computer experience, they will feel comfortable at this learning session," says Ray Thompson, Marshall county extension educator. "I would encourage all family members who are at all interested to attend this hour and a half session."

Co-sponsored by the Minnesota Extension Service and the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers, the workshop will feature an overview of the internet, a guided tour of the ag resources on the internet, how to find the information wanted, how to get connected and a question and answer session.

There is no charge for the workshop and coffee, juice and rolls will be provided. For more information, contact Hans Kandel, Red Lake county extension educator, at 253-2897 or Kris Versdahl at the Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers, 253-4311.

Persons unable to attend the workshop can also learn about the internet by visiting their county extension office.

Records of weather are being set these days in Northwest Minnesota, mostly the coldest Christmas Day since records were kept here. Also the most snow for this time of the year. When it reached into the low 30 below Roy got his parka out and his cap with the ear flaps in it. He says it is best to dress according to the weather conditions because that is one thing we mortals can't control. Think what a mess we would be in if we had the ability to do that.

As I was returning from Roseau early this morning, I kept thinking that it was in 1950 the last time that we had a full moon on Christmas Eve and it will not recur for 106 years or 2103 A.D. Only children or babies born after this time will live to see that event. The full moon was still high in the sky, shedding the whole area with its beautiful light and its face was like a golden pumpkin. Long before the sun rose over the horizon the color of the moon began to fade until at last it became imperceptible. It seemed to turn over its reign over the night to the sun, so the sun could rule over the day for which it was created.

Many of the people who were headed home for the holidays were disappointed to find the road conditions hampering them to get there on time. Northwest Minnesota was one of the better places to travel and a lot of folks took advantage of that. Morris and Hazel Anderson, accompanied by Walter Thompson, spent Christmas Day and were dinner guests at Jim, Cindy and Christy Wellerlund's in East Grand Forks. They were joined by Keith, Kathy, Josh, Jarod and Allison Britton.

Arnold and Gordon Klegstad of Warren were visitors at the Gaylord Nelson's on Friday, December 20th after attending the funeral of Delores Donaldson. They also visited at the Harold Donaldson home and the Dick Weller residence.

Linda Adils came to celebrate the holidays with her mother Elphie Adils. They were dinner guests at George and Joyce Wikstrom's on Christmas Day. I envy Elphie who says she has been keeping the house warm by putting wood on the fire. I know of nothing better than backing up to a nice wood fire and toasting the "cellulite" on those cold days.

Venalte, Stephanie, Naella and Krystine Pettis and Marginal, Alouis and Sara Donaldson visited Elsie Lofrooth on Monday.

Lois Carrico and Donna Ronstrom visited Mary Ronstrom at the Warren Hospital where she has been for a few days and Mary will be home by Saturday.

Dean and Sherry Nelson and children enjoyed Christmas holidays with Sherry's parents the Gordon Haldermans at International Falls.

Enjoying Christmas Eve at the Gayhard and Irene Nelson home for supper were Brian Nelson and children, Kari Kasprowicz, and Marcus, Ben and Brenda Kasprowicz, and children, Randy, Kathy Nelson and children, Daniel Nelson, Myron and Dede and Loyal Nelson. Merlyn Nelson was a coffee guest at the Gayhard Nelson home on Monday.

Visitors on Christmas Day at Elsie Lofrooth's home were Dave and Elaine Grovum of Thief River Falls, Marlys and Debbie Lofrooth, Dean and JoAnne Holmstrom, Pat Lindstrom, Dion, Tylor and Cassidy Lindstrom. Elsie was showered with gifts and you can bet we will help her to enjoy them while playing "Aggravation". Christmas Day dinner guests at the Gayhard Nelson home were Brian Nelson, Brittany, Jon, Matthew and Marcus, Kari Kasprowicz, Ben and Brenda Kasprowicz and Brian Nelson Jr. of Valley City, ND and Bill Vig, Daniel Nelson and Brandon Kasprowicz.

Vance Jr. and Kelly Lofrooth from the Cities, Amanda and Jessica Lofrooth from the Cities visited Elsie Lofrooth on Thursday.

The winners of the cash drawings from the Strandquist American Legion Auxiliary were 1st prize of $100.00 went to Randy Nelson of Strandquist, 2nd prize of $75.00 went to RaNae Nelson of Karlstad, 3rd prize of $50.00 went to Tina Garfue of Newfolden. We give special thanks to all the business places in Karlstad that donated gifts and money to make our Strandquist Santa Claus Day a success. Also to thank Loretta Belhum from the Strandquist Post Office for her gift, Dean Anderson from the Strandquist Elevator for his gift of money and the Rainbow Club and Irene's Cafe for their donations.

The tip—May you all have a Happy New Year from yours truly.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

On December 26 at 5:38 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Horace and Nora. Arrest. On December 26 Craig Allen Pahlen, Red Lake Falls, was arrested for escape from custody, consumption under age, and giving a false name to a police officer. Charges stem from a request from a local bar to check the identification of an individual in the bar. Upon confronting Pahlen, he allegedly provided them with a false name. Once it was learned that he was Craig Pahlen, Pahlen allegedly threw a chair in front of the officers and ran out the door. He was chased one block and caught behind The Times where he had fallen down. It was also learned that Pahlen was wanted on a warrant out of Red Lake county for failure to appear for a jury trial on a charge of theft. During a hearing in a Pennington county courtroom on Friday, he was released on his own personal recognizance and ordered to appear in court Monday. On Monday he failed to appear in court on the charges and a bench warrant was issued for his arrest.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Frozen pipes among winter's frustrations

An average of 250,000 American families have one or more rooms ruined and lives disrupted each winter by water pipes freezing, breaking and causing water damage. Loss claims paid by insurance companies for such mishaps over the past decade are estimated at more than $4 billion.

Some suggestions to help prevent the problem are presented by a major insurance company as follows:

- Since uninsulated pipes are the most vulnerable to cold air, homeowners can take a big step toward preventing damage by wrapping exposed pipe with insulation. Thick insulation found at plumbing or home improvement supply stores is generally more effective than thinner types. Insulation should be carefully wrapped with ends butted tightly and joints wrapped with tape.
- When it is especially cold, let the hot and cold water faucets drip overnight and open cabinet doors to allow heat reach uninsulated pipes under sinks and on exterior walls.
- Insulate pipes in the home's crawl space or attic. The more insulation used, the better protected pipes will be. If thermostatically controlled heat cables are used, be sure to use product approved by an independent testing organization, such as Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., and only for the interior or exterior use intended.
- Seal leaks that permit cold air to come inside. Look for leaks around electrical wiring, dryer vents and pipes. Use caulk or insulation to keep the cold out and the heat in. With severe wind chill, a tiny opening can let in enough cold air to cause a pipe to freeze.
- If going away for an extended period of time, it makes sense to shut off and drain the water system. Such action, of course, will deactivate fire protection sprinkler systems.

Lincoln Sno-Fest is underway this week

Classes at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls have selected their candidates for Sno-Fest king and queen with coronation to take place Friday, January 10, at 2 p.m. in the school auditorium. The coronation program is open to the public. King and queen will be crowned from the class accumulating the most points in competition that involves banner making, dress-up days, game attendance and button sales. Photos above in order from the top show seniors through freshmen. The candidates are seniors Kim Hook and Travis Eastey, juniors Jessica Kronkkala and Eric Rouland, sophomores Ann Gustafson and Jason Hanson and freshmen Brea Hammer and Brady Anderson.

Activities of the annual Lincoln high school Sno-Fest are underway this week with the start of classes Monday following the Christmas and New Year holidays. Theme for the event is "Let It Snow."

Each of the four grades at Lincoln has selected king and queen candidates with the royalty to be determined by which grade accumulates the most points in multiple competition. Coronation program, to which the public is invited, will take place Friday, January 10, at 2 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Candidates include seniors Kim Hook and Travis Easley, juniors Jessica Kronkkala and Eric Rouland, sophomores Ann Gustafson and Jason Hanson and freshmen Brea Hammer and Brady Anderson.

Concluding event of Sno-Fest week will be a dance from 9 p.m. to midnight Friday in the new gymnasium with recorded music by "Undertakers." Attendance is restricted to Lincoln high school students and their dates with advance registration required for those who are not Lincoln students.

Sno-Fest is sponsored by the Lincoln high school student senate with Elaine Gravum as advisor.

Officers of the student senate are Danielle Gimlet, president; Heidi Johnson, vice president; Michelle Mathson, secretary; and Kyla Skiple, treasurer. The senate consists of 20 members with five elected from each grade.

Areas of competition include banner making by each grade on either a school spirit or Sno-Fest theme. Banners may be up to 60x86 inches in size and created to hang vertically. Total points judging based on originality and overall quality is done by all school faculty and staff, except for class advisors and personnel who are parents of Lincoln students.

Other competition includes individual student participation in dress up days and game attendance and grade competition in Sno-Fest button sales. These areas are pro-rated according to enrollment per grade.

Dress up day themes for competition include Flannel Day on Monday, Class Color Day on Tuesday, No Jeans Day on Wednesday and Spirit Day on Thursday. Friday will be Dress Up Day in recognition of the coronation program.

Game attendance was scheduled to be taken at boys basketball January 4, hockey and wrestling January 7, and hockey and swimming January 9. Athletes and cheerleaders are eligible to sign in.

There is no benefit charity for Sno-Fest this year with button sale proceeds being used primarily to pay for costs of the dance. A student senate food shelf drive in coordination with other student senates and councils in the region is being planned for a later date.

Grand Forks Clinic begins TRF service

Taking the first step in its establishment of clinic facilities at Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls, Grand Forks Clinic will provide specialty outpatient services beginning Thursday, January 9.

Grand Forks Clinic announced late last week that physicians specializing in orthopedics, podiatry and rheumatology will begin seeing patients on that date at Northwest Medical Center. The clinic listed four physicians in orthopedics (Dr. Brian Briggs, Dr. Jeffrey Hrasheck, Dr. Robert Johnson and Dr. Paul MacLeod), two in podiatry (Dr. Richard Lochner and Dr. David Peterson) and one in rheumatology (Dr. Ricardo Alvillar). One of the physicians in each specialty will visit Thief River Falls on the day scheduled for that specialty.

Persons interested in making an appointment with any of the specialists may call 218-681-0600. This is a Thief River Falls exchange number, but through call forwarding will ring in at the Grand Forks Clinic office in Grand Forks. Callers will thus be in direct contact with the clinic staff.

Mark Siegel, MD and president of the Grand Forks Clinic, said the affiliation with Northwest Medical Center puts the clinic's physicians and its extended health care capabilities closer to home for residents of

Summary of events listed from The Times and Northern Watch

This is the second installment in a series of stories looking at the stories making headlines in The Times and Northern Watch during 1996.

In the May 1 edition of The Times it was announced that Northland Community and Technical College would be the first college outside of Canada authorized by Transport Canada to provide basic training in aircraft maintenance for Canadian citizens. Dates for Clean-up Week in Thief River Falls were also established. A dispute that involved incidents at Goodridge and Red Lake Falls schools was resolved by the schools.

In the May 4 edition an open house at Agassiz Refuge was announced. The feature story was about NativeGrains of Fosston selling bread dough via the internet.

Residents of Thief River Falls learned that Arctco had decided to build a distribution center in Ohio in the May 8 edition of The Times. Jack B. Erickson, Robert B. Hansen, Tony Durn Jr., Marvin Jurde, Ron Novak (deceased), Jim Sims, Dana Stromberg, and Allan Williamson were inducted into the Prowler Hall of Fame; and the Lincoln High school choir was preparing for a tour to New York. As the end of the school year approached, several scholarships and other awards were presented to students.

In the May 11 edition of the Northern Watch it was announced that the Gryph Knowledge Bowl team had won the state championship. High water was still a problem in the area. Gov. Arne Carlson declared a state of emergency; ground breaking for the Multi-Events Cultural Complex was set for June 20; and Hospital and Nursing Home week activities were planned.

One of the top stories of the year, which generated lots of heated times and controversy was the Multi-Events Cultural Complex. Frozen pipes among winter's frustrations

An average of 250,000 American families have one or more rooms ruined and lives disrupted each winter by water pipes freezing, breaking and causing water damage. Loss claims paid by insurance companies for such mishaps over the past decade are estimated at more than $4 billion.

Some suggestions to help prevent the problem are presented by a major insurance company as follows:

- Since uninsulated pipes are the most vulnerable to cold air, homeowners can take a big step toward preventing damage by wrapping exposed pipe with insulation. Thick insulation found at plumbing or home improvement supply stores is generally more effective than thinner types. Insulation should be carefully wrapped with ends butted tightly and joints wrapped with tape.
- When it is especially cold, let the hot and cold water faucets drip overnight and open cabinet doors to allow heat reach uninsulated pipes under sinks and on exterior walls.
- Insulate pipes in the home's crawl space or attic. The more insulation used, the better protected pipes will be. If thermostatically controlled heat cables are used, be sure to use product approved by an independent testing organization, such as Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., and only for the interior or exterior use intended.
- Seal leaks that permit cold air to come inside. Look for leaks around electrical wiring, dryer vents and pipes. Use caulk or insulation to keep the cold out and the heat in. With severe wind chill, a tiny opening can let in enough cold air to cause a pipe to freeze.
- If going away for an extended period of time, it makes sense to shut off and drain the water system. Such action, of course, will deactivate fire protection sprinkler systems.

Lincoln Sno-Fest is underway this week

Classes at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls have selected their candidates for Sno-Fest king and queen with coronation to take place Friday, January 10, at 2 p.m. in the school auditorium. The coronation program is open to the public. King and queen will be crowned from the class accumulating the most points in competition that involves banner making, dress-up days, game attendance and button sales. Photos above in order from the top show seniors through freshmen. The candidates are seniors Kim Hook and Travis Easley, juniors Jessica Krankkala and Eric Rouland, sophomores Ann Gustafson and Jason Hanson and freshmen Brea Hammer and Brady Anderson.

Activities of the annual Lincoln high school Sno Fest are underway this week with the start of classes Monday following the Christmas and New Year holidays. Theme for the event is "Let It Snow."

Each of the four grades at Lincoln has selected king and queen candidates with the royalty to be determined by which grade accumulates the most points in multiple competition. Coronation program, to which the public is invited, will take place Friday, January 10, at 2 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Candidates include seniors Kim Hook and Travis Easley, juniors Jessica Krankkala and Eric Rouland, sophomores Ann Gustafson and Jason Hanson and freshmen Brea Hammer and Brady Anderson.

Concluding event of Sno-Fest week will be a dance from 9 p.m. to midnight Friday in the new gymnasium with recorded music by "Undertakers." Attendance is restricted to Lincoln high school students and their dates with advance registration required for those who are not Lincoln students.

Sno-Fest is sponsored by the Lincoln high school student senate with Elaine Grovum as advisor.

Officers of the student senate are Danielle Gonlet, president; Heidi Johnson, vice president; Michelle Mathson, secretary; and Kyla Skiple, treasurer. The senate consists of 20 members with five elected from each grade.

Areas of competition include banner making by each grade on either a school spirit or Sno-Fest theme. Banners may be up to 60x86 inches in size and created to hang vertically. Total points judging based on originality and overall quality is done by all school faculty and staff, except for class advisors and personnel who are parents of Lincoln students.

Other competition includes individual student participation in dress up days and game attendance and grade competition in Sno-Fest button sales. These areas are pro-rated according to enrollment per grade.

Dress up day themes for competition include Flannel Day on Monday, Class Color Day on Tuesday, No Jeans Day on Wednesday and Spirit Day on Thursday. Friday will be Dress Up Day in recognition of the coronation program.

Game attendance was scheduled to be taken at boys basketball January 4, hockey and wrestling January 7, and hockey and swimming January 9. Athletes and cheerleaders are eligible to sign in.

There is no benefit charity for Sno-Fest this year with button sale proceeds being used primarily to pay for costs of the dance. A student senate food shelf drive in coordination with other student senates and councils in the region is being planned for a later date.

NCTC partners with business, community ed, higher education

Northland Community and Technical College of Thief River Falls has become the latest partner in Northern Lights University and will offer an Associate of Arts degree to Roseau, Warroad and Baudette areas.

Northern Lights University is a partnership of businesses, community education, colleges and universities formed to bring to northern Minnesota college classes that apply toward degrees that are relevant to local businesses and jobs.

The business partners include Marvin Windows of Warroad, Polaris Industries of Roseau and Solvay Pharmaceutical of Baudette. Educational partners are community education programs in Warroad, Roseau and Lake of the Woods school districts, Northwest Technical College and Bemidji State University, Moorhead State University and Northland Community and Technical College.

"The colleges and universities that are a part of Northern Lights University have committed to delivering entire programs to the area. A program will be offered in its entirety on a one-time basis; however, participants must realize they will be missing courses if they start after a program has begun," states Shari Olson, director of custom training at Northland.

Northland will offer one class on site in Roseau, Warroad or Baudette each quarter of the school year. Additional courses may also be taken by interactive television.

For more information contact Shari Olson at 681-0793 or toll-free from outside the Thief River Falls exchange at 1-800-959-6282, extension 0869.

Home buyers workshop

Possibilities of home ownership will be explored at a "Home Stretch" home buyers workshop series planned from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, February 18 and 25 and March 4 at the new community center in Badger.

The series is sponsored by the Minnesota Extension Service, Northwest Community Action, Inc., and the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency. It is designed for first-time home buyers of low to moderate income, for homeowners ready to refinance a contract for deed, or for persons just interested in exploring the possibilities of home ownership.

Participants will gain a thorough understanding of the home buying process. They will find out how much home they can afford; what lenders look for in a buyer; how to eliminate the barriers to home ownership; and what kinds of mortgage assistance programs are available.

Registration fee for the three sessions is $5 per household. Call the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116 or 1-800-681-2116 to receive a brochure with more information. Registration deadline is Friday, February 14.

Year-end review recalls 1996 events

In the June 1 edition of the Northern Watch, readers learned that the Red Lake Nation had earned a national wetlands award. Small Business Week breakfast was scheduled for Tuesday. Team Penning was an event added to Greenbush Sheep Days, and Pennington County board of commissioners had approved a declaration of disaster regarding flood damage.

June means Dairy Days. The June 5 edition of The Times included a full section dedicated to the dairy industry and Dairy Days. In other headlines, graduation was held at NCTC, the members of the Joint Powers Board for the Multi-Events Cultural Complex appeared before representatives of the city, county, school board and NCTC, with its neighbors eleven counties in Northwestern Minnesota were declared a disaster area as a result of flooding and winners of the Small Business awards were Butz Foods and Mike Barry.

Construction around the replacement bridge for Long's Bridge was drawing curious onlookers. Contractors warned residents not to get too close. Also in the June 8 edition of the Northern Watch, Princess Kay was a guest at Dairy Day. A new breed of horse, a Pintabian, was featured.

In the June 12 edition of The Times, readers learned that a [illegible] store had been robbed, Dave Reese had been selected as Thief River Falls Teacher of the Year, and Heritage Days at Pioneer Village were planned.

In the June 15 edition of the Northern Watch, law enforcement officials were closing in on suspects in the Sjolested store robbery; Rachel Klopp of Karlstad became the first Kittson county entrant in the 47 year history of Northwest Dairy Day to receive the title of Region 1 Dairy Princess, and Roxann Hove had dedicated much of her time to saving injured animals.

In the June 19 edition of The Times, plans for an All-Class Reunion were announced; the gazebo was dedicated; and 12-year-old Chris Swanson captured most of the major awards at Northwest Dairy Day.

In the June 22 edition of the Northern Watch, R. Jane Brown, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Employment Security declared that the Minnesota Work Force Center at NCTC was "absolutely ideal". Brown was in Thief River Falls to discuss the progress and status of the system. Also in that edition, the seven candidates for Miss TRF were reviewed; and Brad Bordwell, a state trooper, was interviewed.

In the June 26 edition of The Times, a large section of the newspaper called "Centennial Moments" [illegible] of Thief River Falls' history. Also in that edition, plans for the American Festival and [illegible] were reviewed; a story about the ground breaking of the Multi-Events Cultural Complex was also reviewed.

In the June 29 edition of the Northern Watch, the city was crammed for celebrations. Over 1,500 people had registered for the all school reunion. Also in this edition, a new mural created by Jeremy Hanson was featured, and a historic hotel restored at Maple Crossing was featured.

The July 3 edition of The Times recapped the American Festival centennial weekend with pictures and stories. There were more than 100 photos of the activities in the newspaper. One of the many visitors that weekend was Luella Pederson Hunt of Brooklyn Center. Hunt graduated from the class of 1920. As activities were winding down, plans for the 95th Pennington County Fair were underway.

Even as plans for the county fair were being refined, plans for the All Nations Cultural Festival July 13 and 14 were underway, according to the July 6 edition of the Northern Watch. The feature story in this edition was about the Argyle Migrant School keeping children out of the fields.

In the July 10 edition of The Times, suggestions from the public about who should be the next superintendent of schools left the editors believing that only a Deity would satisfy everyone. The school board also announced its intention to hold a levy referendum again.

In the July 13 edition of the Northern Watch, the Soo Depot project was discussed. The matter came before the city council as officials studied and reviewed the costs associated with renovating the facility and moving city administration to the building. Dianne Churchill, a math teacher at Badger school, was elected to the National Education Association's board of directors. Eric Rhoner, bullfighter, was featured in this issue. Rhoner would be at Bullride '96 in Thief River Falls.

The breach of contract by the carnival was the only blemish on a successful Pennington County Fair, according to the July 17 edition of The Times. The pages of The Times were filled with photos of the event. John D. (Jack) Scanlan, a graduate of the class of 1945, and former ambassador to Yugoslavia, visited with Times Editor Marvin Lundin.

In the July 20 edition of the Northern Watch, there were few filings for county commissioner positions throughout the region. May Corporation of Grygla was continuing its growth, according to a feature story.

In the July 24 edition of The Times, weather was again in the headlines. Mother Nature swept down upon residents of northwestern Minnesota with another display of its strength by sending a tornado. There was little damage in the region and some spectacular photos were taken of the event. Also in this edition it was announced that local entrepreneurs, Rhonda and Larry Amundson, were planning to build a 900-cow dairy operation in Excel township.

Bids on the Soo depot project came in thousands of dollars higher than anticipated, according to the July 27 edition of the Northern Watch. Also featured was a story about the Clearwater Evangelical Lutheran church located north of Oklee.

In the July 31 edition of The Times, Pennington County Commissioners discussed how to implement the Wetlands Act, and some plans for growth in Thief River Falls were approved. Featured in this edition was a hobo, Capt. Dingo, who accidentally wound up on the wrong train and made an unscheduled visit to Thief River Falls.

In the August 3 edition of the Northern Watch, readers learned that area cities had received notice of an increase in local government aid, the Chinese Imperial Circus was coming to Thief River Falls, and David and Ron Lubarski sold "Obviously Awesome", an appaloosa stallion that had won national and international acclaim as a two-year-old.

In the August 7 edition of The Times, another Centennial event, "Celebrate Rivers" would be held in Elks and LaFave parks. Readers learned that the MnSCU Chancellor reviewed the first year of merged programs; and a couple of youth, Brad Dekkers and Trevor Lee, were among an estimated 1,500 participants in The Ride Across Minnesota (TRAM).

In the August 10 edition of the Northern Watch, readers learned that the city of Thief River Falls had a bicycle cop; an environmental worksheet for a proposed Excel township dairy was requested, Robyn Purath, Minnesota's Beef Queen was killed in an accident at Clay County 10 and Highway 32, and two Middle River brothers, Ryan and Travis Black, assisted at a summer camp for kids with diabetes.

In the August 14 edition of The Times, readers learned that Gretchen Beitz and the Zehltars had been honored for their work; Teen achievers, Erica Young, Jenna Tsuchida and D. Paul Dehnert, were honored; and the Chautauqua and French Festival activities were planned.

Fire caused considerable damage to a storage building at SwisPenCo, formerly Future Fuels, according to a story in the August 17 edition of the Northern Watch. Also in that edition, readers learned that the city council had rejected bids on the depot project, and the finishing touches were being put on a new processing plant in Oslo. SunnyFlake production is a co-op of farmers in the region.

In the August 21 edition of The Times, Leon and Karen Johnson were interviewed after receiving the SWCD beautification award. Arctco changed its name to Arctic Cat; the medical center expressed concerns about a proposed Wellness Center at the future Multi-Events Cultural Center; and the county turned over administration of the Wetlands act to the SWCD office.

A story in the August 24 edition of the Northern Watch described how visitors to the Northern Star Dairy were impressed with it. Stories in the edition also included information from a meeting on elk, and traffic changes due to a construction project.

In the August 28 edition of The Times, readers learned that Northwest Medical Center would lease space in the Grand Forks Clinic, which could accommodate four to six physicians, and that candidates for superintendent of School District 564 were being interviewed.

According to the August 31 edition of the Northern Watch, area crops were in good condition and a better than average harvest was underway. The Silk Purse, which specializes in vintage and original pieces for the home and family, was featured in a story.

Grand Forks Clinic begins TRF service

this area. He said the two entities "share a common philosophy which illustrates the Grand Forks Clinic approach to providing quality health care services as close to the patient's home as is practical."

Richard Spyhalski, chief executive officer at Northwest Medical Center, said the agreement "will strengthen and support our community hospital and provide health care consumers with increased choice."

Remodeling of the ground floor of the convalescent and nursing care (C&NC) unit of the medical center to accommodate resident medical staff of the Grand Forks Clinic has been delayed to permit moving of departments which had been using that area to other parts of the medical center complex. It is expected that resident staff will not be located here until mid-summer with physicians recruited from 1997 medical school graduates.

NCTC partners with business, community ed, higher education

Northland Community and Technical College of Thief River Falls has become the latest partner in Northern Lights University and will offer an Associate of Arts degree to Roseau, Warroad and Baudette areas.

Northern Lights University is a partnership of businesses, community education, colleges and universities formed to bring to northern Minnesota college classes that apply toward degrees that are relevant to local businesses and jobs.

The business partners include Marvin Windows of Warroad, Polaris Industries of Roseau and Solvay Pharmaceutical of Baudette. Educational partners are community education programs in Warroad, Roseau and Lake of the Woods school districts, Northwest Technical College and Bemidji State University, Moorhead State University and Northland Community and Technical College.

"The colleges and universities that are a part of Northern Lights University have committed to delivering entire programs to the area. A program will be offered in its entirety on a one-time basis; however, participants must realize they will be missing courses if they start after a program has begun," states Shari Olson, director of custom training at Northland.

Northland will offer one class on site in Roseau, Warroad or Baudette each quarter of the school year. Additional courses may also be taken by interactive television.

For more information contact Shari Olson at 681-0793 or toll-free from outside the Thief River Falls exchange at 1-800-959-6282, extension 0869.

Home buyers workshop

Possibilities of home ownership will be explored at a "Home Stretch" home buyers workshop series planned from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, February 18 and 25 and March 4 at the new community center in Badger.

The series is sponsored by the Minnesota Extension Service, Northwest Community Action, Inc., and the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency. It is designed for first-time home buyers of low to moderate income; for homeowners ready to refinance a contract for deed; or for persons just interested in exploring the possibilities of home ownership.

Participants will gain a thorough understanding of the home buying process. They will find out how much home they can afford; what lenders look for in a buyer; how to eliminate the barriers to home ownership; and what kinds of mortgage assistance programs are available.

Registration fee for the three sessions is $5 per household. Call the Pennington county extension office at 681-2116 or 1-800-681-2116 to receive a brochure with more information. Registration deadline is Friday, February 14.

INTENTIONAL DUPLICATE EXPOSURE

In the June 1 edition of the Northern Watch, readers learned that the Red Lake Nation had earned a national wetlands award; Small Business Week breakfast was scheduled for Tuesday; Team Penning was an event added to Greenbush Sheep Days; and Pennington County board of commissioners had approved a declaration of disaster regarding flood damage.

June means Dairy Days. The June 5 edition of The Times included a full section dedicated to the dairy industry and Dairy Days. In other headlines, graduation was held at NCTC; the members of the Joint Powers Board for the Multi-Events Cultural Complex appeared before representatives of the city, county, school board and NCTC with its architect; eleven counties in Northwestern Minnesota were declared a disaster area as a result of flooding; and winners of the Small Business awards were Hartz Foods and Mike Barry.

Construction around the replacement bridge for Long's Bridge was drawing curious onlookers. Contractors warned residents not to get too close. Also in the June 8 edition of the Northern Watch, Princess Kay was a guest at Dairy Day. A new breed of horse, a Pintabian, was featured.

In the June 12 edition of The Times, readers learned that a rural store had been robbed; Darcy Reese had been selected as Thief River Falls Teacher of the Year; and Heritage Days at Pioneer Village were planned.

In the June 15 edition of the Northern Watch, law enforcement officials were closing in on suspects in the Sjulestad store robbery; Rachel Klopp of Karlstad became the first Kittson county entrant in the 47 year history of Northwest Dairy Day to receive the title of Region 1 Dairy Princess; and Roxann Hove had dedicated much of her time to saving injured animals.

In the June 19 edition of The Times, plans for an All-Class Reunion were announced; the gazebo was dedicated; and 12-year-old Chris Swanson captured most of the major awards at Northwest Dairy Day.

In the June 22 edition of the Northern Watch, R. Jane Brown, commissioner of the Minnesota Department of Employment Security declared that the Minnesota Work Force Center at NCTC was "absolutely ideal". Brown was in Thief River Falls to discuss the progress and status of the system. Also in that edition, the seven candidates for Miss TRF were reviewed; and Brad Bordwell, a state trooper, was interviewed.

In the June 26 edition of The Times, a large section of the newspaper, called Centennial Moments, examined Thief River Falls' history. Also in that edition, plans for the American Festival and an air show were reviewed; a story about the ground breaking of the Multi-Events Cultural Complex was also reviewed.

In the June 29 edition of the Northern Watch, the city was crammed for celebrations. Over 1,800 people had registered for the all-school reunion. Also in this edition, a new mural created by Jeremi Hanson was featured; and a historic hotel restored at Maple Crossing was featured.

The July 3 edition of The Times recapped the American Festival, centennial weekend with pictures and stories. There were more than 100 photos of the activities in the newspaper. One of the many visitors that weekend was Luella Pederson Ihnat of Brooklyn Center that graduated from the class of 1920. As activities were winding down, plans for the 95th Pennington County Fair were underway.

Even as plans for the county fair were being refined, plans for the All Nations Cultural Festival July 13 and 14 were underway, according to the July 6 edition of the Northern Watch. The feature story in this edition was about the Argyle Migrant School keeping children out of the fields.

In the July 10 edition of The Times, suggestions from the public about who should be the next superintendent of schools left the editors believing that only a Deity would satisfy everyone. The school board also announced its intention to hold a levy referendum again.

In the July 13 edition of the Northern Watch, the Soo Depot project was discussed. The matter came before the city council as officials studied and reviewed the costs associated with renovating the facility and moving city administration to the building. Dianne Churchill, a math teacher at Badger school, was elected to the National Education Association's board of directors. Eric Rhorer, bullfighter, was featured in this issue. Rhorer would be at Bullride '96 in Thief River Falls.

The breach of contract by the carnival was the only blemish on a successful Pennington County Fair, according to the July 17 edition of The Times. The pages of The Times were filled with photos of the event. John D. (Jack) Scanlan, a graduate of the class of 1945, and former ambassador to Yugoslavia, visited with Times Editor Marvin Lundin.

In the July 20 edition of the Northern Watch, there were few filings for county commissioner positions throughout the region. May Corporation of Grygla was continuing its growth, according to a feature story.

In the July 24 edition of The Times, weather was again in the headlines. Mother Nature swept down upon residents of northwestern Minnesota with another display of its strength by sending a tornado. There was little damage in the region, and some spectacular photos were taken of the event. Also in this edition it was announced that local entrepreneurs, Rhonda and Larry Amundson, were planning to build a 900 cow dairy operation in Excel township.

Bids on the Soo depot project came in thousands of dollars higher than anticipated, according to the July 27 edition of the Northern Watch. Also featured was a story about the Clearwater Evangelical Lutheran church located north of Oklee.

In the July 31 edition of The Times, Pennington County Commissioners discussed how to implement the Wetlands Act, and some plans for growth in Thief River Falls was approved. Featured in this edition was a hobo, Capt. Dingo, who accidentally wound up on the wrong train and made an unscheduled visit to Thief River Falls.

In the August 3 edition of the Northern Watch, readers learned that area cities had received notice of an increase in local government aid, the Chinese Imperial Circus was coming to Thief River Falls; and David and Kim Lubarski sold "Obviously Awsome", an appaloosa stallion that had won national and international acclaim as a two-year-old.

In the August 7 edition of The Times, another Centennial event, "Celebrate Rivers" would be held in Elks and LaFave parks. Readers learned that the MnSCU Chancellor reviewed the first year of merged programs; and a couple of youth, Brad Dekkers and Trevor Lee, were among an estimated 1,500 participants in The Ride Across Minnesota (TRAM).

In the August 10 edition of the Northern Watch, readers learned that the city of Thief River Falls had a bicycle cop; an environmental worksheet for a proposed Excel township dairy was requested; Robyn Purath, Minnesota's Beef Queen was killed in an accident at Clay County 10 and Highway 32; and two Middle River brothers, Ryan and Travis Black, assisted at a summer camp for kids with diabetes.

In the August 14 edition of The Times, readers learned that Gretchen Berto and the Zehlians had been honored for their work; Teen achievers, Eeva Young, Jenna Tsukiela and D. Paul Dehnert, were honored; and the Chautauqua and French Festival activities were planned.

Fire caused considerable damage to a storage building at SwisPenCo., formerly Future Fuels, according to a story in the August 17 edition of the Northern Watch. Also in that edition, readers learned that the city council had rejected bids on the depot project; and the finishing touches were being put on a new processing plant in Oslo, snowflake productions, a co-op of farmers in the region.

In the August 21 edition of The Times, Leon and Karen Johnson were interviewed after receiving the SWCD beautification award; Arctco changed its name to Arctic Cat; the medical center expressed concerns about a proposed Wellness Center at the future Multi Events Cultural Center; and the county turned over administration of the Wetlands act to the SWCD office.

A story in the August 24 edition of the Northern Watch described how visitors to the Northern Star Dairy were impressed with it. Stories in the edition also included information from a meeting on elk; and traffic changes due to a construction project.

In the August 28 edition of The Times, readers learned that Northwest Medical Center would lease space to the Grand Forks Clinic, which could accommodate four to six physicians; and that candidates for superintendent of School District 564 were being interviewed.

According to the August 31 edition of the Northern Watch, area crops were in good condition and a better than average harvest was underway. The Silk Purse, which specializes in vintage and original pieces for the home and family, was featured in a story.

this area. He said the two entities "share a common philosophy which illustrates the Grand Forks Clinic approach to providing quality health care services as close to the patient's home as is practical."

Richard Spyhalski, chief executive officer at Northwest Medical Center, said the agreement "will strengthen and support our community hospital and provide health care consumers with increased choice."

Remodeling of the ground floor of the convalescent and nursing care (C&NC) unit of the medical center to accommodate resident medical staff of the Grand Forks Clinic has been delayed to permit moving of departments which had been using that area to other parts of the medical center complex. It is expected that resident staff will not be located here until mid-summer with physicians recruited from 1997 medical school graduates.

Inter-County Nursing Services offer home health care in both Pennington and Red Lake Counties

The Inter-County Nursing Service located in Thief River Falls offers a lot of home health care options for persons in Pennington and Red Lake Counties.

History

Inter-County Nursing Service was formed in 1969 under a joint powers agreement between the counties of Clearwater, Pennington and Red Lake. In 1978, Clearwater withdrew from the group. Susan Olson, RN, PHN, has been the Nursing Service Director since 1978. Originally a survey was done in the three counties that were to be served which pointed to the fact that health care in the home was needed in the area. The main office was located in Bagley with branch offices in Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls. At the time there was one Registered Nurse, a Secretary and a number of Home Health Aides in each county.

The first year was extremely busy with setting up by-laws, medical policies, job descriptions and the ultimate goal of becoming Medicare Certified as of January 1, 1970.

Shortly after Clearwater County withdrew from the group in 1978, the programs were expanded in maternal child health, health promotion, blood pressure clinics, and foot care clinics.

The Red Lake County Nurses have always been involved in the schools in Red Lake County doing immunizations, vision, hearing and scoliosis with this population. In 1983, the agency began service to the Thief River Falls Schools, which was a large undertaking involving over 2000 students.

They continue to provide services to allow patients to remain in their own homes, safely and comfortably, for as long as possible. Over the years there have been some increases in programs to help the elderly remain in their own homes through a variety of resources. The nurses continue to be responsible in setting up the care and assessing the goals on a regular basis. All of these cares are provided under the supervision of the patient's physician.

Home Health Aides

One of the cares that the patient benefits most from is the Home Health Aides. These are dedicated caregivers that provide personal cares to the patients according to the care plan as set up by the Registered Nurse.

Home Health Aides provide personal care services, like bathing, and work under the supervision of the Registered Nurse. Home Health Aide service is provided by the hour, usually one to two hours at a time and one to two days a week.

Mission Statement

The mission statement of the Inter-County Nursing Service is: Working to attain and maintain optimal community and personal health for the residents of Pennington and Red Lake County.

They accomplish this statement through a variety of different ways. Some of the services that they offer include:

- Home Health Care. They can provide skilled nursing visits, home health aides, physical therapy, foot care clinics and a free home care needs assessment.
- Family Health. They provide school nursing, a school health curriculum, early childhood interagency, and communities caring for children.
- Disease Prevention and Control. They offer public immunization clinics, immunization tracking, disease investigation, HIV/AIDS information resource, and public flu shot clinics.
- Health Promotion. They offer public blood sugar screening, public blood pressure screening and community education.

Their core values are to service all residents of the county, professional skill, integrity and respect, and timeliness.

Medicare

Medicare helps pay for home health care, while many private insurances do not. In order to qualify for medicare coverage of home health care, there are a few points to remember:

- Homebound. Medicare requires you to be confined to your home. You must need the assistance of another person or an assistive devise such as a wheel chair to travel to doctor appointments or other necessary appointments. Occasional outings, such as once a month or holiday dinners are permitted.
- Doctor's Order. Your doctor must write an order stating the reason for your care. He or she must also set up a home health care plan for your nurse or therapist to follow. If your doctor does not feel home health care services are needed, Medicare will not pay for your care.
- Part-Time or Intermittent Skilled Care. Medicare requires that you need the services of one or more of the following: a registered nurse, a physical therapist, or a speech therapist. The key to remember is that you must need these services only on a part-time or intermittent basis. By part-time, Medicare usually means for two hours or less (a couple times per week). If you need the continuous or round the clock care of a nurse or therapist, Medicare will not pay for these services in your home.

Medicare does not pay for "maintenance" care. Normally patients need to be newly diagnosed, recently discharged from the hospital, or have some new major changes in care, such as a wound treatment or medication changes. In other words, Medicare will not pay for long-term chronic conditions with no recent complications.

- Certified Home Health Care Provider. You must receive services from a home health care provider who has been given the "stamp of approval" by Medicare. Some home health care providers are not "certified" and cannot bill Medicare for your services. Be sure to ask if your provider is "certified".

Immunizations

Immunizations are an important part of a child's life and getting ready for school. The vaccines promote wellness for all children and prevent disease.

The diseases that are prevented by vaccine are Diptheria, Tetanus, Pertussis (DTP), Tetanus (Td), Oral Polio Vaccine (OPV), Measles, Mumps, Rubella (MMR), Haemophilus B Infuenza (Hib), Hepatitis B (Hep B), and just recently released Chicken Pox.

It is important that your child has these vaccines on the schedule recommended by the Minnesota Department of Health. The recommended schedule is as follows:

- 2 months: DTP, OPV, Hib
- 4 months: DTP, OPV, Hib
- 6 months: DTP, Hib
- 15-18 months: MMR, Hib-DTP, OPV
- 4-6 years: DTP, OPV
- 12 years: MMR, Td

These vaccines are available at the Inter-County Nursing Service at a reduced rate of $5 each. No one will be turned away for lack of payment. The immunization clinics are held at various clinic sites throughout both Red Lake and Pennington Counties each month.

Foot Care Clinics

Foot care clinics are open to the public. The nurses will soak feet in mild soapy water for about 20 minutes to soften the nails. The nails are then trimmed and filed to the proper length.

Some people have this done on a monthly basis and others every other month, depending on how fast the nails grow. The cost is only $4. If you cannot get out of your home to go to a clinic site, the nurses will come to your home.

Home care in the United States is a rapidly growing and diverse service. Over 18,500 providers deliver home care services to some 7 million individuals who require such services because of acute illness, long term health conditions, permanent disability, or terminal illness.

For more information on home health care and its services, contact Inter-County Nursing Services at 681-5950.

Immunization clinics are among the services that Inter-County Nursing Services offers to residents in Penninston and Red Lake Counties. Immunization clinics are offered about once a month in both of the counties on a regular basis. For an appointment call Inter-County Nursing Services at 681-5950.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Bathtime Activity

For bath time fun, use the recipe below to make soap crayons! Your child will have so much fun and be clean before he/she knows it.

You will need: water, Ivory soap flakes and food coloring.

Measure 2 tablespoons of water into a two cup measuring cup. Add Ivory Snow soap flakes to the one cup line. Add several drops of food coloring and stir to form a very thick dough that will hold its shape. If the mixture is too soft, add soap flakes one spoonful at a time until it will hold its shape. If it is too dry, add a bit more water. Mold the mixture into sticks and place them on wax paper to dry. For chunkier crayons, press the dough into the sections of an ice cube tray. When the soap crayons are dry, they can be used to write on the sides of the tub, or on the bathroom tiles. The marks are easily rinsed away.

Use the following song to teach the names of body parts and promote cleanliness at the same time! Repeat this song several times, naming a different part of the body part each time.

Scrub-a-Duh

(Tune: Old MacDonald)

Every time I take a bath
In a nice warm tub
And when I do I wash my ears,
Scrubby, dubby, dub
Oh, I wash my ears
Yes, I wash my ears
Scrub-a-duh, Scrub-a-duh,
Scrubby, dubby, dub, dub
Every day I take a bath

Happy New Year!

The start of a new year often finds us taking stock of our lives, asking ourselves how things are going for us. This should lead us to try to improve some of our weaknesses and to feel good about our strengths.

New Year Resolutions can be a way of helping us keep on track. Here are some you may want to try.

- I will allow myself room for growth and change because every parent makes mistakes.
- I will try to establish firm and reasonable guidelines for my children.
- I will try to show my children that they are capable by not doing for them what they are capable of doing for themselves.
- I will try to "catch them doing something right" every day and tell them I appreciate what they are doing.
- I will provide myself with frequent outings and freedom from the responsibilities of parenting so as to "recharge my batteries."

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk with your child about what they have "done right." Let them know you appreciate their cooperation, pleasant attitude and help. Also let them know you love them just because they exist, not only for what they do.

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

Don't Open That

I have a list of activities that I do well. I make a great homemade spaghetti and meatballs and garlic bread meal. I almost always win at Scrabble. I can scrub both the bathroom and kitchen in the same evening. I can read a whole book in one day. I can win seven solitaire games in a row. And I'm very good at doing absolutely nothing.

But I'm afraid that I have to admit to possessing at least one shortcoming. If you ask my husband what my biggest fault is (except for squeezing the toothpaste tube in the middle) he'd say it's package opening. Yes, package opening.

This is not something I'm ashamed of or embarrassed to admit. This isn't even something I worry about or even realize that I do (or can't do, in this case), but it perturbs and perplexes my husband. I'm reminded about it each time he looks in the cupboard and wonders what happened to a certain box.

Just this morning I noticed that I incorrectly opened a box of Cap'n Crunch's Peanut Butter Crunch cereal. I struggled with the glued tabs on the top of the box (the tabs won) and it ripped. I finally opened the box, but now it won't close; it's too mangled. Maybe my son and I can eat all the cereal before my husband comes home and sees what I did to the box. At least I didn't open it from the bottom, like I did with the last three boxes of soda crackers.

The mess I made with the Cap'n Crunch box, and all other cereal boxes, is minor when compared to the result of me trying to open a box of instant rice. The directions read, Press in and pull up. I tried that; I pressed in three, four or five times – maybe six – before I realized there was little left of the opening. It was all crushed; pulling up proved impossible. Maybe a sharp scissors would work next time.

And when baking at my house, don't try measuring baking soda directly from the box and expect an accurate amount. A piece of misplaced cardboard makes a big dent in a teaspoonful of soda. Obviously, I had a small problem with that container. It's not entirely my fault. The directions weren't clear enough. All it said was: Open here. They have to be a little bit more specific with me.

Other packages that pose challenging for me are those resealable plastic bags that usually contain cheese. By the time I'm finished with them, they're not resealable anymore.

Potato chips and packages of cookies also suffer at my hand. You know the kind. You try to find the seam to rip it open. I pull and yank in all directions, with absolutely no give in the bag. I didn't think I needed to be a he-man to open a bag of potato chips. Then when I least expect it, I rug. Oops! There's a huge rip down the center of the bag and the contents have sprayed out in all directions. Can't close the bag. I guess I have to eat them all.

These bags also have to have specific instructions. There should be an arrow marking the spot for best opening results along with a warning: Gently pull here. Gently. Or the bag may explode.

And let's not even talk about those cardboard half-gallon milk containers. The containers say only: Open OK, so I gently pull the two sides apart and squeeze to make a nice pouring spout. Sounds easy. Not for me. I usually have to get a knife to pry a space large enough for milk to run out. Then, the cardboard is crinked and the milk pours out in every direction except in the glass.

That's why I buy the gallon-size milk. All I have to do is tear off that little strip of plastic to allow the cap to turn. Unless you're me, of course. The strip breaks off in mid turn and it takes a sharp steak knife to remove the rest of the strip.

My husband is amazed that a seemingly simple task of opening a package is a struggle for me. When he sees a piece of my handiwork, he suggests having my 6-year-old son help.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Getting Older...and Bolder

As I've gotten older - something that I do entirely too often - at least once a year in this cold month of January - I've discovered something. I've learned that there is no time like the present to do certain things and I plan to do some of these things as often as possible.

One of the pleasures of getting older is doing what one wants to do. (Unless, of course, what one wants to do is immoral or illegal - but nothing I want to do is either of those.) Now that I'm getting older, I think I should be able to get by with some behavior that I couldn't have gotten by with - or wouldn't have done - when I was younger. Unique behavior is one of the few privileges of growing older, isn't it?

One of the things I'm going to do more often is to compliment others. I've decided if something about someone strikes me as nice or attractive, I'm going to say it. Why am I reserved and hesitant when it comes to giving out compliments? Am I waiting for another year or two to pass? Poo - I'll do it right now. It doesn't hurt anyone. It might embarrass the receivers a little bit, but it is a nice embarrassment - one with a little glow in it that might make them feel good all day.

Another thing I am going to do more often is speak what I think. Why should I have to please everyone all of the time? Why should I keep my opinions to myself? If I disagree with someone, I will say so. If I agree with them, I will also say so. If I don't know what the heck they are saying, I will ask questions.

I'm also going to take a nap whenever I want to. As one gets older, one seems to get up earlier and earlier and stay up later and later. A little nap here and there is the solution to those mid-morning, afternoon and early evening doldrums. Why not take a little nap? (Just as long as I don't fall off my chair at work.)

I'm going to stop saving the frosting until last. I always save the frosting or the best bite of pie or the part of the sandwich with the most filling for last and I'm not going to do it any more. Who knows, I could have a heart attack while I'm eating and never get to eat the best part.

I'm going to read some of those books I've been saving for rainy days, like the umpteen volume set of the History of Civilization, except it won't be as interesting as it could be because I'm missing the book on the Middle Ages - I just know one of my kids lent it to a friend and never got it back, and none of them will own up to it and I can't figure out which kid it was or I'd make them buy me a new one.

I'm going to wear that good nightgown I have tucked in the back of my drawer. Why do we women always have a good nightgown tucked away for a rainy day? What - are we going to wear it when company comes? Are we saving it in case we have to go to the hospital? I'm going to wear mine, and I'm also going to wear my "good" slippers.

I'm going to take bubble baths and use some of those fancy bubble bath gifts that I've been given over the years. I never take the time to have baths - only hurried showers - so the fancy stuff sits on the shelf, probably losing all of its bubble capabilities, as well as its good smell. I should take bubble baths and use it - lots of it.

So - now I suppose people will think I am getting a little peculiar. That's ok. So - people will think I'm a little eccentric. That's ok. So - people will think I have a big mouth. That's ok, too. I'm old enough for all of those things now. In fact, I may even wear purple - with red shoes - like the lady in the poem.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Jenna Truklehl
Lincoln High School

As a child, I can always remember looking up to my parents for support. I remember demanding that my parents always be there for me. When they weren't, I would get upset. As their punishment, I wouldn't talk to them for a whole hour. As I am growing up, I notice more and more that I rely on my parents less and less. Now they seem to be there even when they don't have to.

I guess that's all part of growing up. It's not just my family that goes through these kinds of things. I'll be talking with my friends, and one of them will slap in a "Why can't my parents leave me alone!" or "My parents don't understand me." Sometimes there's even an occasional, "I wish my parents would learn to admit that I'm growing up. I'm not their baby anymore."

To answer the first question, "Why can't my parents leave me alone?" Parents aren't supposed to leave us alone. They're our parents. They are supposed to look after us. If not them, who will? We can't say our grandparents. They would just spoil us rotten, and we would grow up to be spoiled. I'm not saying that is true in all of the cases. Don't get me wrong. Our parents are our guardians, they are supposed to tell us "No" or (unfortunately) "You're grounded." They're just looking out for our best interest. What's so wrong about that?

In response to the second statement, "My parents don't understand me." Parents aren't always going to understand their children. Look at the average age difference. Twenty or thirty years is a big age difference. Of course we aren't always going to see eye to eye. That's why we compromise. Even though parents can tend to be a little stubborn when it comes to admitting when they are wrong, that doesn't mean they aren't trying. I'm sure their parents were the same way. The only person that can understand us is ourselves. I bet even friends say, "I just don't understand you sometimes."

The third statement, "I wish my parents would learn to admit that I'm growing up," is one that I don't always understand. I can recall a few times when I wish my parents would learn to start letting go. What does "letting go" really mean? Sending us off to college? Our parents are always going to be with us in some way or another, whether it's the annoying calls making sure we're all right or making us call to let them know we are all right. Even if we get married and move away, our parents would probably still be calling us wondering what we are doing. The only way I can think that they would really let us go is if we shut ourselves off from them completely. We wouldn't do that, though. Where would we get our money? A job? In order to get a good job, one needs an education. We have to pay to go to school. Rather, our parents have to pay for us to go to school.

I'm not trying to say that parents are always right. They aren't, even if they would like to think they are. Maybe parents need to sit back and think, "Am I really right?" Parents could learn a lot from their kids. Sometimes the kids are right. Sometimes (maybe I'm a little biased) you don't need to say, "I'm the parent, that's why" or "I'm the parent. That means I'm always right."

If you parents read this article and think "this isn't my family," ask your kids just to make sure. The reply may surprise you. If this insults any parent for that matter, I'm sorry. I have no intention of questioning parenting abilities. I'm just trying to help parents see what kids see and help show kids what my parents have been nailing into my head since I can remember. Of course, they sometimes miss, and that can hurt, but one learns to get over it.

Just remember the next time you parents say, "Because the parents are always right" or you kids say, "I wish my parents were like yours," be thankful that you have parents that are the way they are. Parents, be thankful your kids aren't off shooting someone just because they feel like it. Just be thankful that you have each other in this New Year.

Lincoln Sno-Fest Is Underway Again

Classes had no more than begun following the Christmas and New Year holiday vacation period than the students were involved in the first major all-school activity of the season. Sno-Fest 97 is being conducted this week under the appropriate general theme of "Let It Snow."

Sno-Fest, like homecoming, is an activity in which all students can participate without a large time commitment or special talent. It contributes to class and school loyalties through competition and boosts interest in school athletics. Game attendance gains points for each class in competition to have its selected candidates named Sno-Fest king and queen.

Coronation of king and queen takes place Friday, January 10, at 2 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium. Public attendance is invited and community adults need not feel out of place among the hundreds of young people attending and cheering for their classmates. We have found Lincoln students to be very tolerant of adults invading their domain for events such as this—especially if they are wearing a Sno-Fest button, available for $1 from Lincoln students until 3 p.m. Thursday.

In addition to athletic contest attendance, students can earn points for their grades by wearing clothing in accordance with established dress-up day codes. Monday was Flannel Day and Tuesday was Class Color day (blue for freshmen, black for sophomores, white for juniors and grey for seniors) and today is No Jeans Day. Thursday will be Spirit Day when the blue and gold of Lincoln high will dominate the halls. Friday is Dress-Up Day, in honor of the king and queen coronation, although this is not part of the competition.

We congratulate the Lincoln student council and adviser Elaine Grovum for sponsoring this school-wide activity.

Alcoholism A Growing Problem Among Seniors

Nearly three million older Americans have alcohol-related problems and the number is growing as the population ages. Senior citizens often use alcohol to help cope with retirement, loss of spouse, loneliness and other life changes associated with aging.

The risks of alcohol abuse are greater for the elderly than other age groups, especially when they have health problems and are taking medications.

"Alcoholism often is a hidden problem among older adults," states Edna Kane-Williams, manager of health and long-term care issues for the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), considered the nation's leading organization for people 50 years of age and older. "Older people have the highest rate of success with alcohol treatment, but family, friends and even community members must become involved to help identify and treat the problem."

To assist older people who have a problem with alcohol abuse, AARP—in cooperation with the Hazelden Foundation—has prepared a video narrated by Ed Asner and a detailed brochure on how to get help as well as a leader's guide for use in group discussions. Entitled "It Can Happen to Anyone," the video kit is available on loan or can be purchased for $20 from AARP Program Scheduling Office, 601 E Street NW, Washington, DC 20049.

The video encourages family and friends to overcome denial and embarrassment and suggests the following steps to help deal with problem drinking:

- Don't delay taking action when you suspect a problem.
- Confront and overcome your own feelings and fears about alcoholism.
- Break the barrier of silence about the issue by talking to the older person to understand his or her needs and to offer your support.
- Seek professional help from physicians and alcoholism counselors to assess the physical and medical consequences of alcohol and medication abuse.
- Take the necessary action to be better informed about alcoholism treatment and the options that are best for your situation.

Mayor Coleman Needs Long Apprenticeship

Much is being made in Minnesota political circles of St. Paul Mayor Norm Coleman's public announcement that he is leaving the DFL party and becoming a member of the Republican party. Some GOP leaders, including Gov. Arne Carlson, have welcomed Coleman as a political convert. Such enthusiasm may or may not be deserved.

Coleman has apparently had a successful experience as mayor of Minnesota's Capital City. But it is generally recognized that he has no desire to be a career mayor and would like to use the office as a stepping stone to other political office, particularly that of Governor.

That being the acknowledged situation, there is room for strong suspicion that Coleman's conversion is based more on personal ambitions than political philosophy. The only thing that would allay that suspicion is a lengthy apprenticeship during which allegiance to GOP ideals and service to the party can be demonstrated before seeking party support for any major elective office.

Coleman won election to the St. Paul mayor post by defeating an endorsed DFL candidate. It was an action that didn't sit well with the DFL hierarchy and therefore put his future in that party in question. GOP leaders also take a similar dim view of independents who oppose (and especially who defeat) their endorsed candidates. That is one reason Gov. Carlson himself, despite his ability to get elected, has not been embraced by many within the state GOP.

Mayor Coleman truly may be fed up with the DFL and sincere about his leanings to a new party. If so, only time will give him a chance to prove himself.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

On December 22, 1996, the community of Thief River Falls lost a good man. In 27 years of teaching, Al Krause made a difference in all of his 4,000 students. Al not only taught elementary school and middle school science, but he taught children to respect their fellow man, animals and nature. Al loved his students! He spent his own money making his classroom a safe, fun and nurturing environment for young children. Students would come a half hour early to school just to play with his "little critters."

Al Krause was a "professional teacher." He inspired children to learn. His priorities in life were his family, his religion, his friends and, of course, his students. There were no other priorities. On Saturday or Sunday, if you couldn't find Al at home or church, he was at the school caring for his animals.

Al Krause did what all great teachers do; he provided his children with an excellent role model. He will be missed as a husband, a father, a teacher and a friend to all. I know that I will miss him. May his memory be blessed.

Sincerely,
Bill Halme, principal

Thanksgiving Day guests at the Arlen Marquis home were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jenson, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Jenson and Jennie's brother Eric.

Mr. and Mrs. Kim Chervestad are enjoying the looks of their new home prior to moving in. The wood foundation arrived from Woodmaster Foundations, Inc. of Prescott, Wisconsin (Thanks, Beth!) in October as scheduled, yet unexpected moving delays occurred with the finished home from Union, North Dakota. The house was set on the foundation Monday, December 2nd. Woodmaster came back to install the wood floor and finish foundation walls. Bakko Homes final wrap up and small things such as siding, plumbing, etc. will be finished in the next few weeks.

Gully Community News

We receive many good messages at Christmas. It was a happy day for Esther Thorson when she learned two of her grandsons will come and help make lefse. Chad let her know he had good muscles for rolling out the dough and Patrick chummed in to say he had a keen sense in knowing just how long to bake the lefsa. Esther had the dough ready and on Tuesday Chad commanded the rolling pin and Patrick waved the lefsa stick around as he flipped the lefsa when it was baked just right. Soon they had baked 30 lefsa. They loaded the lefsa in the car and invited Esther along to enjoy dinner at their mother Patty's place. Their other Grandma Sally Gunning was also there and she and Esther enjoyed another treat lptolisk with melted butter.

A get to gether was held at the Gully Community Center for a potluck noon meal on Tuesday Christmas Eve Day. Among those present were Stanley and Arlene Ricard from Camas, WA, Lindsey and Alson Hanson of East Grand Forks, Lyle and Vickie Hanson and Evelyn Hanson of Clearbrook, Orville and Gertrude Christianson, Gertie Haugen of Goodridge, Milton and Corinne Haugen, Mark and Amy Haugen of Moorhead, Linda and Howard and Luane Hanson, Joanne Olson of Wanneska, Gay Doreen and Sarah Brovold, Arnold and Sanna Brovold, Carol, Les, Sanna and Luke Torgerson of Thief River Falls. With all the different ages together it is interesting to hear the various topics of conversation. Many of the young folks were discussing the "Internet". I could have understood more about the fishing "net" the old timers used to use.

FROM THE PAGES OF THE TIMES

50 YEARS AGO • JANUARY 9, 1947

by Jerome and Donna Myhrer

Births Up; Deaths Down Here In '46

"Births in 1946 in the city of Thief River Falls increased to 503 from 449 in 1945, while deaths declined from 144 in 1945 to 130 last year, it was announced this week by Dr. D. F. Mellby, city health officer. In 1944 there were 406 births and 142 deaths. Henry Storhaug, clerk of district court, reported that seven marriage licenses issued in December brought the total for the year up to 158, a marked increase over the total of 100 for 1945 and 106 for 1944. Mr. Storhaug also stated that divorce decrees issued rose sharply from 20 in 1945 to 30 in 1946."

Officers Take Slot Machines In Local Clubs Wednesday

"Carrying out the unannounced policy of Minnesota's new governor, Luther W. Youngdahl, to insist on strict enforcement of the law banning slot machines in private clubs as well as in public places, local officers late Wednesday afternoon raided clubrooms maintained by two local lodges, and confiscated a total of 15 machines.

"Those making the raids included Sheriff Arthur Rambeck and a deputy, and Police Chief Leonard Hanson and two patrolmen. They reported having inspected two other places, but that they found no machines there.

"The raiders found six machines in the kitchen of the Elks clubrooms, while at the Eagles rooms they found nine machines which had been placed in cabinets. The money found in the machines, it was indicated, will be turned over to the school fund after they have been opened under court order."

Order Ban On Parking On County Highways

"To facilitate snow removal operations on county roads, the Pennington county board at its January session this week ordered a ban on parking automobiles on the highways maintained by the county. It was pointed out that the parked cars are a serious handicap in the efficient operation of the snowplows."

Sheriff Reports 67 Arrests In '46

"A total of 67 persons were taken into custody by the sheriff's office in 1946, it is revealed in a summary completed this week by Sheriff Arthur Rambeck. Of the arrests, six were for burglary, four grand larceny, one petit larceny, four automobile thefts, two forgery, three reckless driving, three assault, six statutory offenses, three desertions, six drunkenness, 20 insanity, five inebriates, and three miscellaneous. Fines were paid in 17 cases."

"Following a highly successful organizational meeting Monday evening in the auditorium, Company F 136th Infantry, now boasts a membership of 40, it was announced today by A. C. Tiedeman, commanding officer. Included are a number of high school students above the age of 17. Uniforms and equipment for the unit have been ordered and are expected to arrive in the near future."

—If prices had followed the drop in the mercury during the New Years cold spell the high cost of living would have suffered a major setback.

Lincoln Sno-Fest Is Underway Again

Classes had no more than begun following the Christmas and New Year holiday vacation period than the students were involved in the first major all-school activity of the season. Sno-Fest '97 is being conducted this week under the appropriate general theme of "Let It Snow."

Sno-Fest, like homecoming, is an activity in which all students can participate without a large time commitment or special talent. It contributes to class and school loyalties through competition and boosts interest in school athletics. Game attendance gains points for each class in competition to have its selected candidates named Sno-Fest king and queen.

Coronation of king and queen takes place Friday, January 10, at 2 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium. Public attendance is invited and community adults need not feel out of place among the hundreds of young people attending and cheering for their classmates. We have found Lincoln students to be very tolerant of adults invading their domain for events such as this—especially if they are wearing a Sno-Fest button, available for $1 from Lincoln students until 3 p.m. Thursday.

In addition to athletic contest attendance, students can earn points for their grades by wearing clothing in accordance with established dress-up day codes. Monday was Flannel Day and Tuesday was Class Color day (blue for freshmen, black for sophomores, white for juniors and grey for seniors) and today is No Jeans Day. Thursday will be Spirit Day when the blue and gold of Lincoln high will dominate the halls. Friday is Dress Up Day, in honor of the king and queen coronation, although this is not part of the competition.

We congratulate the Lincoln student council and advisor Elaine Grovum for sponsoring this school-wide activity.

Alcoholism A Growing Problem Among Seniors

Nearly three million older Americans have alcohol-related problems and the number is growing as the population ages. Senior citizens often use alcohol to help cope with retirement, loss of spouse, loneliness and other life changes associated with aging.

The risks of alcohol abuse are greater for the elderly than other age groups, especially when they have health problems and are taking medications.

"Alcoholism often is a hidden problem among older adults," states Edna Kane-Williams, manager of health and long-term care issues for the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), considered the nation's leading organization for people 50 years of age and older. "Older people have the highest rate of success with alcohol treatment, but family, friends and even community members must become involved to help identify and treat the problem."

To assist older people who have a problem with alcohol abuse, AARP—in cooperation with the Hazelden Foundation—has prepared a video narrated by Ed Asner and a detailed brochure on how to get help as well as a leader's guide for use in group discussions. Entitled "It Can Happen to Anyone," the video kit is available on loan or can be purchased for $20 from AARP Program Scheduling Office, 601 E Street NW, Washington, DC 20049.

The video encourages family and friends to overcome denial and embarrassment and suggests the following steps to help deal with problem drinking:

- Don't delay taking action when you suspect a problem.
- Confront and overcome your own feelings and fears about alcoholism.
- Break the barrier of silence about the issue by talking to the older person to understand his or her needs and to offer your support.
- Seek professional help from physicians and alcoholism counselors to assess the physical and medical consequences of alcohol and medication abuse.
- Take the necessary action to be better informed about alcoholism treatment and the options that are best for your situation.

Mayor Coleman Needs Long Apprenticeship

Much is being made in Minnesota political circles of St. Paul Mayor Norm Coleman's public announcement that he is leaving the DFL party and becoming a member of the Republican party. Some GOP leaders, including Gov. Arne Carlson, have welcomed Coleman as a political convert. Such enthusiasm may or may not be deserved.

Coleman has apparently had a successful experience as mayor of Minnesota's Capital City. But it is generally recognized that he has no desire to be a career mayor and would like to use the office as a stepping stone to other political office, particularly that of Governor.

That being the acknowledged situation, there is room for strong suspicion that Coleman's conversion is based more on personal ambitions than political philosophy. The only thing that would allay that suspicion is a lengthy apprenticeship during which allegiance to GOP ideals and service to the party can be demonstrated before seeking party support for any major elective office.

Coleman won election to the St. Paul mayor post by defeating an endorsed DFL candidate. It was an action that didn't sit well with the DFL hierarchy and therefore put his future in that party in question. GOP leaders also take a similar dim view of Independents who oppose (and especially who defeat) their endorsed candidates. That is one reason Gov. Carlson himself, despite his ability to get elected, has not been embraced by many within the state GOP.

Mayor Coleman truly may be fed up with the DFL and sincere about his leanings to a new party. If so, only time will give him a chance to prove himself.

We receive many good messages at Christmas. It was a happy day for Esther Thorson when she learned two of her grandsons will come and help make lefsa. Chad let her know he had good muscles for rolling out the dough and Patrick chummed in to say he had a keen sense in knowing just how long to bake the lefsa. Esther had the dough ready and on Tuesday Chad commanded the rolling pin and Patrick waved the lefsa stick around as he flipped the lefse when it was baked just right. Soon they had baked 30 lefsa. They loaded the lefse in the car and invited Esther along to enjoy dinner at their mother Pattye place. Their other Grandma Sally Gunning was also there and she and Esther enjoyed another treat lutefisk with malted butter.

A get-to-gether was held at the Gully Community Center for a potluck noon meal on Tuesday, Christmas Eve Day. Among those present were Stanley and Arlene Ricard from Camas, WA; Lindsey and Alison Hanson of East Grand Forks, Lyle and Vickie Hanson and Evelyn Hanson of Clearbrook, Orville and Gertrude Christianson, Gertie Haugen of Goodridge, Milton and Corinne Haugen, Mark and Amy Haugen of Moorhead, Linda and Howard and Luane Hanson, Joanne Olson of Wannaska, Gay Doreen and Sarah Brovold, Arnold and Sanna Brovold, Carol, Les, Senne and Luke Torgerson of Thief River Falls. With all the different ages together it is interesting to hear the various topics of conversation. Many of the young folks were discussing the "Internet". I could have understood more about the fishing "net" the old timers used to use.

To The Editor:

On December 22, 1996, the community of Thief River Falls lost a good man. In 27 years of teaching, Al Krause made a difference to all of his 4,000 students. Al not only taught elementary school and middle school science, but he taught children to respect their fellow man, animals and nature. Al loved his students! He spent his own money making his classroom a safe, fun and nurturing environment for young children. Students would come a half hour early to school just to play with his "little critters."

Al Krause was a "professional teacher." He inspired children to learn. His priorities in life were his family, his religion, his friends and, of course, his students. There were no other priorities. On Saturday or Sundsy, if you couldn't find Al at home or church, he was at the school caring for his animals.

Al Krause did what all great teachers do: he provided his children with an excellent role model. He will be missed as a husband, a father, a teacher and a friend to all. I know that I will miss him. May his memory be blessed.

Sincerely,
Bill Hahne, principal

Mr. and Mrs. Kim Chervestad are enjoying the looks of their new home prior to moving in. The wood foundation arrived from Woodmaster Foundations, Inc., of Prescott, Wisconsin (Thanks, Beth!) in October as scheduled, yet unexpected moving delays occurred with the finished home from Union, North Dakota. The house was set on the foundation Monday, December 2nd. Woodmaster came back to install the wood floor and finish foundation walls; Bakko Homes final wrap-up and small things such as wiring, plumbing, etc. will be finished in the next few weeks.

Births Up; Deaths Down Here In '46

"Births in 1946 in the city of Thief River Falls increased to 503 from 449 in 1945, while deaths declined from 144 in 1945 to 130 last year, it was announced this week by Dr. O. F. Mellby, city health officer. In 1944 there were 406 births and 142 deaths. Henry Storhaug, clerk of district court, reported that seven marriage licenses issued in December brought the total for the year up to 158, a marked increase over the total of 100 for 1945 and 106 for 1944. Mr. Storhaug also stated that divorce decrees issued rose sharply from 20 in 1945 to 30 in 1946."

Officers Take Slot Machines In Local Clubs Wednesday

"Carrying out the announced policy of Minnesota's new governor, Luther W. Youngdahl, to insist on strict enforcement of the law banning slot machines in private clubs as well as in public places, local officers late Wednesday afternoon raided clubrooms maintained by two local lodges, and confiscated a total of 15 machines.

"Those making the raids included Sheriff Arthur Rambeck and a deputy, and Police Chief Leonard Hanson and two patrolmen. They reported having inspected two other places, but that they found no machines there.

"The raiders found six machines in the kitchen of the Elks clubrooms, while at the Eagles rooms they found nine machines which had been placed in cabinets. The money found in the machines, it was indicated, will be turned over to the school fund after they have been opened under court order."

—Now it comes out. The reason, they tell us, there are few women after-dinner speakers is that the ladies can't wait that long.

—If prices had followed the drop in the mercury during the New Years cold spell the high cost of living would have suffered a major setback.

—Speaking of places to spend a vacation, the Red Lake Falls Gazette knows a fellow who would like to spend a couple of weeks around Veronica Lake.

—And then they tell about the sweet young thing who told her boyfriend, "Why, certainly, honey, I can live on your income; but what will you live on?"

—Bemidji recently has been reporting temperatures ten degrees or more below nearby communities. That's one way to get publicity for the old home town.

—Judging by the city papers, new model cars command a premium up to $1,000. After they leave the dealer's hands they must improve with age.

—After all, there is a world of difference between the words resign and re-sign.

—When it comes to names, two operators of Detroit Lakes filling stations bear the name of Bryngelson and Fingelson.

—One criticism of the holiday season is that there is not enough holiday spirit and too much spirits.

County board receives information on ITV, and Minnesota Extension

Monday, Pennington County Board of Commissioners visited with Katherine Fennelly, dean and director of the Minnesota Extension Service, and gave its approval to pursue interactive television for district court.

Ninth District Judge Dennis Murphy said interactive TV has taken on a life of its own. The effort to bring the technology to northwestern Minnesota has attracted the interest of many counties in northwestern Minnesota and several other governmental agencies.

Monday evening Judge Murphy asked the county board to approve a resolution of support for the project, which will be making its way through the legislature this year. He said the cost has been dropping to the point where now the county could get it for $300 per month.

Murphy said all of the agencies would be able to utilize the technology. He said the courts will barely use it 30 per cent of the time, yet he sees a savings to the court. For example, he explained, orders sending a juvenile to Bemidji must be reviewed regularly. In those instances, the juvenile is transported to Pennington county for what turns out to be a five minute hearing and then transported back. That process could all be accomplished through interactive television and result in a great savings to the county.

The board took the time to discuss sentencings. Judge Murphy said the board needs to talk to legislators. The number points needed to send an individual to a state prison keep increasing. (Sentencing guidelines utilize points which accumulate based upon the type and seriousness of a crime.) Judge Murphy explained that what he sent individuals to prison for years ago, would no longer result in an individual being sent to prison.

The issue involves overcrowding in local and state prisons and the cost of housing prisoners and who should bear that cost.

Judge Murphy was asked about his opinion on work farms. Murphy said there had been some discussions about work farms.

"I don't know what we're going to do," said Murphy. He noted that the filing category hit 1,600 last week, and they have never been close to that number. He noted that the work load in the last third quarter increased roughly 25 per cent.

He said they are seeing an increase in juvenile crime and drugs. He noted that they are cracking down on juvenile crime and that is probably an explanation for the increase seen in juvenile crime.

Commissioners also noted that schools and parents cannot discipline any more the way they used to because of the fear of lawsuits. As a result, schools seem to be turning the problem of discipline over to law enforcement and the courts.

Judge Murphy said the judicial system is just not equipped to handle the juvenile problem.

The increase in property crimes probably has another root cause. Murphy said that frankly the region is no longer an agrarian community. More and more it is becoming a manufacturing community, and the residents have a different perspective on property.

State Director of Minnesota Extension, Katherine Fennelly, met with commissioners. Fennelly, who came to Minnesota from Penn State University, said she came to Minnesota because of the university-wide involvement in the extension service. In working with 15 different colleges, and numerous programs throughout the system, the issues and problems are increasingly complex. Being able to tap into the resources of the University, however, is very advantageous, she added. She said she sees it as a challenge and an opportunity.

She said she was optimistic about the future of the extension program in Minnesota.

Charles Naplin said since he was a child the extension service has really changed. Now, he noted, it is in many more fields.

In the past, agriculture was the major emphasis of extension throughout rural Minnesota. Changes in farming practices and rural living has resulted in expansion into other units. Fennelly said she foresees the extension service tapping into more units at the University, but the focus has to be on information technology, and "doing a better job of communicating what we do".

She said she sees an expansion in the use of Internet to deliver services. She said she hopes the legislature will continue its support.

The success of Cluster committees throughout the state varies, said Fennelly. She said Pennington county was very strong. In the near future she said they will be talking about how the extension service can apply what it has learned from strong clusters.

Northland explores Master's degrees in Thief River Falls

In partnership with Moorhead State University and Bemidji State University, Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls is exploring delivery of two master's degree programs to this community. The degrees are Master's in Business Administration (MBA) and a Master of Science degree in Education (M.S.Ed.).

An interest survey is included in this week's issues of The Times and Northern Watch to determine the interest level of adult learners in completing a Master's degree in either Business Administration or Education. If the response shows sufficient interest, delivery of instruction would come from MSU and BSU and classes would be held at the NCTC campus in Thief River Falls.

The MBA program is designed for practitioners seeking a foundation for growth as a professional manager. A solid grounding in a variety of disciplines and an integrative perspective are emphasized.

The Master's of Science degree in Education would provide an advanced knowledge and understanding of teaching, supervisory competencies, curriculum and instruction. To begin work on this degree a person must have an undergraduate degree in education and a valid teaching license or have the consent of the Professional Education Department Chair.

People interested in this program should contact Shari Olson, director of custom training, Northland Community and Technical College, phone 681-0793 or 1-800-959-6282, extension 0869.

Local ADA meetings to start in area soon

Local promotion meetings of the American Dairy Association of Minnesota will begin early in the new year, with several of the counties in northwestern Minnesota having meetings scheduled from mid-January and on.

Marshall, Pennington and Red Lake counties will have a combined meeting Monday, January 13, at 11:30 a.m. in the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. Polk county will have its ADA meeting the same day at 7:30 p.m. in the city hall in McIntosh.

Kittson and Roseau counties will have a combined meeting Wednesday, January 15, at 11:30 a.m. in the American Legion club rooms in Roseau.

Lake of the Woods county will have its meeting Wednesday, January 22, at 11:30 a.m. at the Ranch House in Baudette.

Mahnomen and Norman counties will conduct a combined meeting on Thursday, January 30, in the Twin Valley community center.

Beltrami and Clearwater counties will have their ADA annual meeting as a combined session Friday, January 31, at 11:30 a.m. at the American Legion club rooms in Clearbrook.

All dairy farmers in the areas of the respective meetings are invited to attend. Producers may feel free to attend the meeting closest to them, even if it is not in their own county or ADA district.

Following a meal at each of the locations, an ADA staff member will present a program illustrating some of the ways dairy farmers are promoting dairy products through their checkoff dollars. In addition, representatives from both the state board and the ADA/DC of the Upper Midwest board will report and answer questions about dairy promotion.

"These meetings are designed to provide producers with more information about how their checkoff dollars are invested and also to give them an opportunity to provide feedback to their elected representatives," states Joe Schmitz, producer services director for ADA/DC of the Upper Midwest.

Small grains update sessions scheduled

Minnesota Association of Wheat Growers is sponsoring a series of mid-winter small grains updates to be held during the week of January 21-24. There are several key topics on the program.

Among the locations where sessions are planned in this area are the Hallock Community Center at 9 a.m. January 22, American Legion club rooms in Argyle at 1 p.m. January 22, Greenbush Community Center at 5 p.m. January 22 with dinner served, McIntosh City Hall at 1 p.m. January 23 and Northwest Grain office in St. Hilaire at 9 a.m. January 24. Other sessions are in Wahpeton, ND, Moorhead, East Grand Forks and Ada.

While the program may vary at each location, the key topics arranged by the Wheat Growers are listed as follows:

The Top Issues for Minnesota Agriculture—newly-appointed Minnesota Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture Perry Aasness will update agricultural issues for the state, including the status of the Minnesota Scab Initiative which, if approved by the Legislature this session, will continue funding of accelerated research to find a solution for scab in both wheat and barley.

Crop Risk Management: What You Need to Know In Making Decisions—Public and private crop insurance experts will discuss available crop risk management tools, including details on crop revenue coverage, a new pilot crop insurance program that protects against losses of spring wheat yield and price.

What Market Outlook and Developing a Plan for 1997—Ed Usset, a grain marketing expert with The Mendota Company, will review the current market outlook for wheat and provide ideas on how to develop a marketing plan for the 1997 crop.

Varietal Performance In Your Back Forty—In 1996, University of Minnesota small grains specialist Jochum Wiersma conducted variety trials at 18 different locations in Minnesota. The information that he will present is adapted to local areas and local crop rotations.

There is no fee to attend the sessions. Meetings in Hallock, Argyle and East Grand Forks are part of the annual crop improvement meeting.

A family get together was held at the Gully Community Center on Christmas Day. Present were Barnice and Herbert Magnusson, Mervin and Rhoda Berg, Melissa, Rachel and Ouslan, Bruce and Tammy Berg, Jessy and Bobby of Duluth, Dennis and Kathy Omang, Hailey, Brandon, Daniel, Travor and Nicholas of Wingar, David and Bonnie Erlandson, Bridget and Brittany of Roseau, Jerry and Branda Rosnow, Kyle, Steven and Travis of Sharon, ND. Also, Stan and Pat Grallaas of Clearbrook. They all enjoyed Christmas dinner together visiting and playing various games. The youngsters especially enjoyed having room enough to play some of the games they enjoyed so much.

Linda and Howard Hansen received a rather unique Christmas Greeting from Linda's cousin Vern Gordon from Bremerton, WA. Verns parents Edwin and Alvina Gordon lived and worked in Gully some years ago. Vern is a business agent with the Teamsters Union and was at a Fund Raiser in Seattle, WA, where he had a chance to visit with the President and even got a picture with him. Vern was surprised at the President taking time to visit and how knowledgeable he was about the "West" and everyday affairs. The Christmas card with the picture on it was signed "Bill and Vern."

We had Christmas Greetings from Paul and Alice Lundmark formerly of Gully now of Brainerd. They are well and sends greetings to neighbors and friends. It was interesting to read about their grandson, Dennis and Sally's son Rolf. Rolf got his Masters Degree in Aerospace Engineering from Air Force Academy last August and was the 37th from top in a class of 987. He is now in Los Angeles, CA, and is an engineer in the NAVSTAR Global Positioning System. This system provides world wide latitude-longitude and altitude information. Receivers are all over such as airplanes, hikers, boats even skiers, etc. Congratulations to the Lundmarks for having such a promising young fellow in their relationship.

Visitors at the Bob Songer home on Sunday to help Joan celebrate her birthday were Wandi and Cathy and Sarah Brovold and Wanda and Brooke Dyrdahl.

Willis and Larry Emerson and their sister Ellie Handy visited with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Nelson and Celia Nelson in Longby on Saturday afternoon.

On New Year's Day in Thief River Falls many individuals and families took the opportunity to enjoy the warmer temperatures and the great sledding conditions in Hartz Park.

Tree planting plans timely despite cold

"Although the mercury may be dipping well below zero and winter winds are blowing, now is the time to start planning for spring tree planting," states Kathy Zavoral, district technician for the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District at Grygla.

"Farmstead shelterbelts can reduce heating costs and trap some of that snow you've been plowing," she continued. Trees also benefit livestock by increasing water use and winter feed efficiency, giving protection from winter winds and providing shade from the hot summer sun."

Other benefits of trees include water quality improvement, wildlife food and cover and snow distribution and control.

"Since it's too cold and blustery to spend much time outside," Zavoral added, "why not stay inside and look into planting some trees? If this winter is anything like the last one, trees are a bargain for energy conservation."

To begin planning for spring tree planting, contact your local Soil and Water Conservation District office or the Grygla office at 294-6144.

Two TRF men sentenced on felony charges

Two Thief River Falls men were sentenced on felony convictions in a Ninth District courtroom last Monday.

Brett Wayne Hamilton, 31, Thief River Falls, was sentenced to 22 months in prison following a conviction on felony obstruction of legal process. Hamilton was being served with a warrant for his arrest on other charges when he attempted to flee from officers. During the incident officers were struck. Originally, charges of assault in the fourth degree were also filed against Hamilton, but were dropped following a plea agreement. Hamilton was given credit for time served since November 22, plus an additional five days credit for 40 hours of STS work in Roseau county.

Kent Allan Magner, 33, Thief River Falls, was sentenced on a felony conviction for terroristic threats. The charge stems from an incident on October 4, 1996 with a former girlfriend. Magner was sentenced to 91 days in jail but 61 days were stayed, and he was placed on supervised probation for five years. He was also ordered to pay a fine and fees totaling $390, seek counseling, not use alcohol or drugs, and have no contact with the victim.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)— A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis®" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)— A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis®" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitation conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messanger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Prowlers lose 71-62 overtime game to EGF boys...

Missed free throws cost TRF

Missed free throws caught up to Thief River Falls Friday in a 71-62 overtime boys high school basketball loss at East Grand Forks.

Both sides were given plenty of chances to score points at the line as the two teams combined to shoot 62 free throws. But while the Green Wave capitalized on 24 of 37 gift tosses, the Prowlers were just 11-for-25.

And free throws made the difference at the end. Bryan Jargo, a junior varsity player who saw just limited playing time at the end of the varsity game, hit two free throws with 10 seconds left in regulation time – his only points of the night – to produce a 56-56 tie.

Moments later the Prowlers were right back at the line with a chance to regain the lead, but missed two shots. They also missed a put-back on an offensive rebound as the horn sounded.

East Grand Forks continued to put the free throw to good use in overtime when the Green Wave made 7 of 8, including six in a row by Travis Lindgren.

"We had our chances to win the ball game," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "The bottom line is, if we take care of the free throws we win the game. Eleven for 25 is not real impressive. That's a big stat."

Thief River Falls led 15-14 after one quarter and held on to a 28-24 halftime edge. East Grand Forks went ahead 41-36 in the third quarter.

Five East Grand Forks seniors hit double figures, led by Dan Ecklund with 18 points. Courtney Skjerven and Karl Anderson had 14 points apiece for the Prowlers, and Jared Brandt added 13. Skjerven also pulled down 10 rebounds and Brandt had 9 as the Prowlers beat the Green Wave on the boards 40-36.

From the field, Thief River Falls was 25-for-63 (40 percent) and East Grand Forks went 22-for-67 (33 percent). The Prowlers had 21 turnovers; the Green Wave finished with 16.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 4-4.

Defense produces Gators' win

Hard work on defense helped Badger/Greenbush-Middle River beat Warroad 62-46 Saturday in boys high school basketball. It was a make-up game from a Dec. 17 postponement.

"We played a solid defensive game," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "Offensively we were still spotty, but defensively, we did a nice job."

The visiting Gators had quarter leads of 12-8, 28-19 and 42-31.

Adam Holmes scored 12 points, Matt Kujava 11 and Jeremy Vacura 10 for the winners. Pat Frolander of Warroad led all scorers with 16 points.

Thief River Falls had little trouble in beating a struggling Marshall County Central squad 62-24 Monday in girls high school basketball at Newfolden.

Nicole Kopari scored 20 points and Kim Stenseth had 17 as the Prowlers rolled to quarter leads of 17-6, 34-7 and 50-14. Thief River Falls is 5-5; Marshall County Central is 1-7.

"They played a good, solid defense," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "They played us hard, and we weren't ready for it."

Thief River Falls was 24-for-47 from the field (51 percent) and 14-for-23 at the free throw line. Marshall County Central went just 10-for-43 from the floor (23 percent) and 4-for-7 at the line. The Prowlers had a 34-21 rebound advantage. The Nordics topped the turnover charts 25-16.

Elks Hoop Shoot is set Sunday 2-4 p.m. in Lincoln High gym

Thief River Falls' portion of the 25th annual Elks Hoop Shoot Contest will be held Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Lincoln High School gym.

Boys and girls ages 8-13 are invited to take part in the basketball contest in which each participant shoots 25 free throws. Last year's local event drew 276 entries.

Six champions – a boy and a girl in age groups 8-9, 10-11, 12-13 – will advance to the area finals, scheduled to be held Sunday, Jan. 19, at 1 p.m. in the Lincoln gym.

Over 3 million youth throughout the country participated in last year's levels of competition leading to the national finals.

Bemidji Invitational is turned into swim dual

Saturday's winter storm that hit part of the area turned the scheduled eight-team Bemidji Invitational boys high school swim meet into a Bemidji vs. Thief River Falls dual. The Lumberjacks won 91-74.

"Everybody swam really well, but we've got a long ways to go," said Thief River Falls co-head coach Brian Olson.

A 1-2 finish in the 500 freestyle by Chris Pribula (5:25.25) and Zach Olson (5:28.13) provided the highlight of the meet for the Prowlers. It was the only race in which the Prowlers beat the Lumberjacks.

It was just the third meet of the 1996-97 season for the Thief River Falls boys, who hosted the Prowler Relays Dec. 7 and beat Crookston 98-64 in a Dec. 19 dual.

Thief River Falls has back-to-back home duals this week, hosting Detroit Lakes Thursday at 6 p.m. and Park Rapids Area Friday at 5 p.m. in the Franklin Middle School pool.

RLCC boys hit free throws to defeat Knights

Free throw shooting wasn't a particularly strong part of the Red Lake County Central game during the early portion of the 1996-97 boys high school basketball season. So first-year head coach Ryan Sedler had his team spending a lot of time at the foul line in practice lately. It paid off. Friday the Mustangs cashed in on 14 of 15 free throw opportunities in a 53-52 road win over Climax/Fisher.

Red Lake County Central trailed by five points with about 1 1/2 minutes to play, but an effective press led to a pair of lay-ups, and Bob Christianson followed with two free throws with 15 seconds to play to complete the late-game rally.

"I thought we played really well," said Sedler. "The free throws really helped. We've only been shooting about 40 percent at the line, but we've been working on them in practice."

It was close throughout. The first quarter ended in a 10-10 tie. The Knights went ahead 25-24 at halftime and maintained a 40-39 third quarter edge.

Ben Hoff of Climax/Fisher led all scorers with 23 points. Adam Stratton had 18.

"Hoff is a great player," said Sedler. "He got some points, but I thought we did a pretty good job defensively on him. The kids worked really hard."

Jimmy Dulka paced the Mustangs with 18 points, while Mark Lorenson had 11 and Christianson contributed 10.

Red Lake County Central, 3-5 for the year, was 22-for-64 from the field (34 percent).

Nordics' offense has problems vs. W-O-A

Marshall County Central had a tough time offensively Friday in a 56-30 boys high school basketball loss to host Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

"We shot the ball so poorly, especially in the second half," reported Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We're not going to be a big-scoring team, but when we get the opportunities, we're not doing a good job finishing off."

The Ponies led 16-9 at the end of the first quarter and had a 29-18 halftime advantage before breaking it wide open by out-scoring the Nordics 14-2 in the third quarter for a 43-20 spread.

Joey Kvamme of Warren-Alvarado-Oslo (16 points) and Phil Flickinger of Marshall County Central (10) were the game's only double figure scorers. "Phil did a nice job on both ends of the court," noted Ueland.

Marshall County Central was just 10-for-36 from the field (27 percent) and made 9 of 16 free throws. Warren-Alvarado-Oslo was 25-for-54 from the floor (46 percent) and 2-for-4 at the line. The Ponies had a 22-16 rebound advantage. The Nordics topped the turnover charts 19-10.

The loss dropped the Nordics to 3-6.

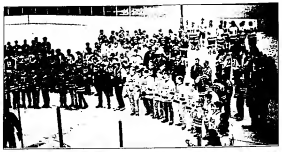
TRF-Moorhead game postponed Saturday

Saturday's Thief River Falls vs. Moorhead girls high school basketball game at the Lincoln gym was postponed because of the weather.



Players and coaches from the participating teams assembled on the ice for a Saturday presentation program during the Ron Novak Memorial Pee-Wee A and Bantam A Invitational hockey tournament. The ceremony at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center recognized the contributions Ron Novak made during his long tenure as the Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association youth hockey director. Members of the Novak family on hand for the event were, bottom photo left to right, wife Carol and sons Scott and Jeff.

Huskies beaten by Bears 64-52

Goodridge couldn't hit the outside shot, and as a result lost a 64-52 boys high school basketball game to Clearbrook-Gonvick Friday.

The visiting Bears trailed 16-11 at the end of the first quarter, but went ahead 26-24 at halftime and had a 45-36 third quarter edge.

"We played a great first half," reported Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson.

But after having success against the Bears' man-to-man defense early in the game, the Huskies ran into problems against a second half zone.

"They forced us to shoot from the outside, and we didn't make them," explained Mickelson.

B.J. Engen had a 19-point game for the Bears, while Chris Grabowska of the Huskies led all scorers with 26.

Goodridge was 23-for-55 from the field (42 percent) and 4-for-6 at the free throw line. Clearbrook-Gonvick went 24-for-52 from the floor (46 percent) and 11-for-21 at the line. The Huskies out-rebounded the Bears 31-29.

Foul trouble leads to B/G-MR loss

Early foul trouble for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River point guard Tiffany Hagen proved costly for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Monday as the Gators lost a 73-45 girls high school basketball game at Warroad.

"They got our key kids in foul trouble right away," explained Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neihauer. "We were up six when Tiffany picked up her third foul. We took her out and started turning the ball over. We don't do very well without her in there."

It was just the second loss in ten starts for the Gators, snapping an eight-game winning streak accumulated since a season-opening defeat at the hands of Roseau. "Their kids are bigger and faster than our kids," noted Neihauer. "We've got some things to work on."

The Gators led 17-13 at the end of the first quarter, but trailed 33-30 at halftime and lost ground in the third quarter, 49-34.

Lisa Fry of Warroad and Nikki Wahl of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shared game-high scoring honors with 16 points each.

The Gators were busy with a 21-for-27 free throw night, but they were limited to 12-for-38 shooting from the field (40 percent). The free throw exhibition also found Warroad going 15-for-25 at the line.

Zach Bosh scored 10 points Tuesday as Thief River Falls beat Roseau 44-36 in boys freshman high school basketball.

The two teams played to a 10-10 first quarter tie. Thief River Falls went ahead 18-16 at halftime and had a 32-25 third quarter edge.

Strong start leads to win for B/G-MR girls

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River out-scored Lake of the Woods 19-9 in the first quarter and went on to win a 57-35 girls high school basketball match-up Saturday at Middle River.

The once-beaten Gators led 31-17 at halftime and were up 48-22 through three quarters.

"It was the best game we've played this season," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neihauer. "Our passing was real sharp, we played a good floor game, and we got good shots."

Twenty offensive rebounds against a bigger Lake of the Woods squad played a major role in the outcome, noted Neihauer.

Nikki Wahl scored a game-high 17 points for the winners, while Robin Kilen netted 11 and Stefanie Sparby had 10.

Neihauer said defensive work by Sparby against the Bears' Ellie Waibel was a key factor in the one-sided win. Waibel scored 26 when Lake of the Woods lost a much closer 60-55 decision when the two teams met Dec. 7 in Baudette, but she picked up just 7 in the rematch and was held scoreless in a one-on-one battle with Sparby.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 25-for-66 from the field (38 percent) and 6-for-8 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods made 8 of 18 free throws.

Outside shooting to blame in RLCC loss

Red Lake County Central girls couldn't hit the outside shot Friday and wound up losing a 47-37 high school basketball game to Mahnomen in Oklee.

With the Mahnomen defense stacked to shut off the Red Lake County Central inside game, the Mustangs needed to hit from the outside. But instead, they hit just 4 of 30 from 3-point range and were 13-for-61 from the field overall (21 percent).

"We're couldn't shoot," offered Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "They gave us wide open shots on the outside, but we couldn't hit them."

Mahnomen led at the quarter stops 15-13, 25-19 and 34-31.

Marti Hendrickson of Mahnomen led all scorers with 20 points. Angie Chervestad netted 14 for Red Lake County Central.

The 3-5 Mustangs were 7-for-14 at the free throw line, had a 32-28 rebound edge and were guilty of just 8 of the game's 28 turnovers. But their outside shooting undermined all that.

Mahnomen was 17-for-44 from the field (39 percent) and 10-for-19 at the line.

Fouls, turnovers hurt MCC girls in Saturday setback

Fouls and turnovers plagued the Marshall County Central girls Saturday in a 58-36 high school basketball loss at East Grand Forks.

The Nordics sent the Green Wave to the line 23 times (they made 16) and turned the ball over 31 times.

"We kept putting them at the line, and they kept making the free throws," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen.

The Green Wave had quarter leads of 21-11, 35-19 and 50-25.

Jill Hageman led East Grand Forks with 15 points. Misty Fick and Kristi Kilen both netted 11 points for the Nordics. Kilen picked up most of her points in the third quarter after going to the bench with three fouls in the first two minutes of the game.

Marshall County Central was 16-for-50 from the field (32 percent) and 3-for-10 at the free throw line. East Grand Forks went 20-for-53 from the floor (38 percent). The Nordics had a 34-32 rebound edge. The Green Wave finished with 12 turnovers.

Prowlers lose 71-62 overtime game to EGF boys...

Missed free throws cost TRF

Missed free throws caught up to Thief River Falls Friday in a 71-62 overtime boys high school basketball loss at East Grand Forks.

Both sides were given plenty of chances to score points at the line as the two teams combined to shoot 62 free throws. But while the Green Wave capitalized on 24 of 37 gift tosses, the Prowlers were just 11-for-25.

And free throws made the difference at the end. Brynn Jargo, a junior varsity player who saw just limited playing time at the end of the varsity game, hit two free throws with 10 seconds left in regulation time – his only points of the night – to produce a 56-56 tie.

Moments later the Prowlers were right back at the line with a chance to regain the lead, but missed two shots. They also missed a put-back on an offensive rebound as the horn sounded.

East Grand Forks continued to put the free throw to good use in overtime when the Green Wave made 7 of 8, including six in a row by Travis Lindgren.

"We had our chances to win the ball game," said Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "The bottom line is, if we take care of the free throws we win the game. Eleven-for-25 is not real impressive. That's a big stat."

Thief River Falls led 15-14 after one quarter and held on to a 28-24 halftime edge. East Grand Forks went ahead 41-36 in the third quarter.

Five East Grand Forks scorers hit double figures, led by Dan Ecklund with 18 points. Courtney Skjerven and Karl Anderson had 14 points apiece for the Prowlers, and Jared Brandt netted 13. Skjerven also pulled down 10 rebounds and Brandt had 9 as the Prowlers beat the Green Wave on the boards 40-36.

From the field, Thief River Falls was 25-for-63 (40 percent) and East Grand Forks went 22-for-67 (33 percent). The Prowlers had 21 turnovers; the Green Wave finished with 16.

The loss dropped the Prowlers to 4-4.

Defense produces Gators' win

Hard work on defense helped Badger/Greenbush-Middle River beat Warroad 62-46 Saturday in boys high school basketball. It was a make-up game from a Dec. 17 postponement.

"We played a solid defensive game," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "Offensively we were still spotty, but defensively, we did a nice job."

The visiting Gators had quarter leads of 12-8, 28-19 and 42-34.

Adam Holmes scored 12 points, Matt Kojava 11 and Jeremy Vacura 10 for the winners. Pat Frolander of Warroad led all scorers with 16 points.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 23-for-49 from the field (47 percent) and 15-for-24 at the free throw line. Warroad went 19-for-57 from the floor (33 percent) and 4-for-6 at the line. The Gators had a 36-23 rebound advantage.

TRF girls win 62-24 game at Newfolden

Thief River Falls had little trouble in beating a struggling Marshall County Central squad 62-24 Monday in girls high school basketball at Newfolden.

Nicole Kopari scored 20 points and Kim Stenseth had 17 as the Prowlers rolled to quarter leads of 17-6, 34-7 and 50-14. Thief River Falls is 5-5; Marshall County Central is 1-7.

"They played a good, solid defense," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "They played us hard, and we weren't ready for it."

Thief River Falls was 24-for-47 from the field (51 percent) and 14-for-23 at the free throw line. Marshall County Central went just 10-for-43 from the floor (23 percent) and 4-for-7 at the line. The Prowlers had a 34-24 rebound advantage. The Nordics topped the turnover charts 25-16.

Bemidji Invitational is turned into swim dual

Saturday's winter storm that hit part of the area turned the scheduled eight-team Bemidji Invitational boys high school swim meet into a Bemidji vs. Thief River Falls dual. The Lumberjacks won 91-74.

"Everybody swam really well, but we've got a long ways to go," said Thief River Falls co-head coach Brian Olson.

A 1-2 finish in the 500 freestyle by Chris Pribula (5:25.25) and Zach Olson (5:28.13) provided the highlight of the meet for the Prowlers. It was the only race in which the Prowlers beat the Lumberjacks.

It was just the third meet of the 1996-97 season for the Thief River Falls boys, who hosted the Prowler Relays Dec. 7 and beat Crookston 98-64 in a Dec. 19 dual.

Thief River Falls has back-to-back home duals this week, hosting Detroit Lakes Thursday at 6 p.m. and Park Rapids Area Friday at 5 p.m. in the Franklin Middle School pool.

Nordics' offense has problems vs. W-O-A

Marshall County Central had a tough time offensively Friday in a 56-30 boys high school basketball loss to host Warren-Alvarado-Oslo.

"We shot the ball so poorly, especially in the second half," reported Marshall County Central coach Ron Ueland. "We're not going to be a big-scoring team, but when we get the opportunities, we're not doing a good job finishing off."

The Ponies led 16-9 at the end of the first quarter and had a 29-18 halftime advantage before breaking it wide open by out-scoring the Nordics 14-2 in the third quarter for a 43-20 spread.

Joey Kvamme of Warren-Alvarado-Oslo (16 points) and Phil Flickinger of Marshall County Central (10) were the game's only double figure scorers. "Phil did a nice job on both ends of the court," noted Ueland.

Marshall County Central was just 10-for-36 from the field (27 percent) and made 9 of 16 free throws. Warren-Alvarado-Oslo was 25-for-54 from the floor (46 percent) and 2-for-4 at the line. The Ponies had a 22-16 rebound advantage. The Nordics topped the turnover charts 19-10.

The loss dropped the Nordics to 3-6.

Elks Hoop Shoot is set Sunday 2-4 p.m. in Lincoln High gym

Thief River Falls' portion of the 25th annual Elks Hoop Shoot Contest will be held Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. in the Lincoln High School gym.

Boys and girls ages 8-13 are invited to take part in the basketball contest in which each participant shoots 25 free throws. Last year's local event drew 276 entries.

Six champions – a boy and a girl in age groups 8-9, 10-11, 12-13 – will advance to the area finals, scheduled to be held Sunday, Jan. 19, at 1 p.m. in the Lincoln gym.

Over 3 million youth throughout the country participated in last year's four tiers of competition leading to the national finals.

RLCC boys hit free throws to defeat Knights

Free throw shooting wasn't a particularly strong part of the Red Lake County Central game during the early portion of the 1996-97 boys high school basketball season. So first-year head coach Ryan Sedler had his team spending a lot of time at the foul line in practice lately. It paid off. Friday the Mustangs cashed in on 14 of 15 free throw opportunities in a 53-52 road win over Climax/Fisher.

Red Lake County Central trailed by five points with about 1 1/2 minutes to play, but an effective press led to a pair of lay-ups, and Bob Christianson followed with two free throws with 15 seconds to play to complete the late-game rally.

"I thought we played really well," said Sedler. "The free throws really helped. We've only been shooting about 40 percent at the line, but we've been working on them in practice."

It was close throughout. The first quarter ended in a 10-10 tie. The Knights went ahead 25-24 at halftime and maintained a 40-39 third quarter edge.

Ben Hoff of Climax/Fisher led all scorers with 23 points. Adam Stratton had 18.

"Hoff is a great player," said Sedler. "He got some points, but I thought we did a pretty good job defensively on him. The kids worked really hard."

Jimmy Dulka paced the Mustangs with 18 points, while Mark Lorenson had 11 and Christianson contributed 10.

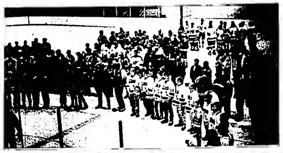
TRF-Moorhead game postponed Saturday

Saturday's Thief River Falls vs. Moorhead girls high school basketball game at the Lincoln gym was postponed because of the weather.



Players and coaches from the participating teams assembled on the ice for a Saturday presentation program during the Ron Novak Memorial Pee-Wee A and Bantam A Invitational hockey tournament. The ceremony at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center recognized the contributions Ron Novak made during his long tenure as the Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association youth hockey director. Members of the Novak family on hand for the event were, bottom photo left to right, wife Carol and sons Scott and Jeff.

Huskies beaten by Bears 64-52

Goodridge couldn't hit the outside shot, and as a result lost a 64-52 boys high school basketball game to Clearbrook-Gonvick Friday.

The visiting Bears trailed 16-11 at the end of the first quarter, but went ahead 26-24 at halftime and had a 45-36 third quarter edge.

"We played a great first half," reported Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson.

But after having success against the Bears' man-to-man defense early in the game, the Huskies ran into problems against a second half zone.

"They forced us to shoot from the outside, and we didn't make them," explained Mickelson.

B.J. Engen had a 19-point game for the Bears, while Chris Grabowska of the Huskies led all scorers with 26.

Goodridge was 23-for-55 from the field (42 percent) and 4-for-6 at the free throw line. Clearbrook-Gonvick went 24-for-52 from the floor (46 percent) and 11-for-21 at the line. The Huskies out-rebounded the Bears 31-29.

Foul trouble leads to B/G-MR loss

Early foul trouble for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River point guard Tiffany Hagen proved costly for Badger/Greenbush-Middle River Monday as the Gators lost a 73-45 girls high school basketball game at Warroad.

"They got our key kids in foul trouble right away," explained Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "We were up six when Tiffany picked up her third foul. We took her out and started turning the ball over. We don't do very well without her in there."

It was just the second loss in ten starts for the Gators, snapping an eight-game winning streak accumulated since a season-opening defeat at the hands of Roseau. "Their kids are bigger and faster than our kids," noted Neibauer. "We've got some things to work on."

The Gators led 17-13 at the end of the first quarter, but trailed 33-30 at halftime and lost ground in the third quarter, 49-34.

Lisa Fry of Warroad and Nikki Wahl of Badger/Greenbush-Middle River shared game-high scoring honors with 16 points each.

The Gators were busy with a 21-for-27 free throw night, but they were limited to 12-for-30 shooting from the field (40 percent). The free throw exhibition also found Warroad going 15-for-25 at the line.

East Grand Forks defeated Thief River Falls 51-37 Friday in boys junior varsity high school basketball.

Kelly Cota led Thief River Falls with 18 points.

TRF freshmen beat Roseau by 8, 44-36

Zach Bosh scored 10 points Tuesday as Thief River Falls beat Roseau 44-36 in boys freshman high school basketball.

The two teams played to a 10-10 first quarter tie, Thief River Falls went ahead 18-16 at halftime and had a 32-25 third quarter edge.

Strong start leads to win for B/G-MR girls

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River out-scored Lake of the Woods 19-9 in the first quarter and went on to win a 57-35 girls high school basketball match-up Saturday at Middle River.

The once-beaten Gators led 31-17 at halftime and were up 48-22 through three quarters.

"It was the best game we've played this season," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "Our passing was real sharp; we played a good floor game; and we got good shoots."

Twenty offensive rebounds against a bigger Lake of the Woods squad played a major role in the outcome, noted Neibauer.

Nikki Wahl scored a game-high 17 points for the winners, while Robin Kilen netted 11 and Stefanie Sparby had 10.

Neibauer said defensive work by Sparby against the Bears' Ellie Waibel was a key factor in the one-sided win. Waibel scored 26 when Lake of the Woods lost a much-closer 60-55 decision when the two teams met Dec. 7 in Baudette, but she picked up just 7 in the rematch, and was held scoreless in a one-on-one battle with Sparby.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was 25-for-66 from the field (38 percent) and 6-for-8 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods made 8 of 18 free throws.

Outside shooting to blame in RLCC loss

Red Lake County Central girls couldn't hit the outside shot Friday and wound up losing a 47-37 high school basketball game to Mahnomen in Oklee.

With the Mahnomen defense stacked to shut off the Red Lake County Central inside game, the Mustangs needed to hit from the outside. But instead, they hit just 4 of 30 from 3-point range and were 13-for-61 from the field overall (21 percent).

"We're couldn't shoot," offered Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "They gave us wide open shots on the outside, but we couldn't hit them."

Mahnomen led at the quarter stops 15-13, 25-19 and 34-31.

Marti Hendrickson of Mahnomen led all scorers with 20 points. Angie Chervestad netted 14 for Red Lake County Central.

The 3-5 Mustangs were 7-for-14 at the free throw line, had a 32-28 rebound edge and were guilty of just 8 of the game's 28 turnovers. But their outside shooting undermined all that.

Mahnomen was 17-for-44 from the field (39 percent) and 10-for-19 at the line.

Fouls, turnovers hurt MCC girls in Saturday setback

Fouls and turnovers plagued the Marshall County Central girls Saturday in a 58-36 high school basketball loss at East Grand Forks.

The Nordics sent the Green Wave to the line 23 times (they made 16) and turned the ball over 31 times.

"We kept putting them at the line, and they kept making the free throws," pointed out Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen.

The Green Wave had quarter leads of 21-11, 35-19 and 50-25.

Jill Hageman led East Grand Forks with 15 points. Misty Fick and Kristi Kilen both netted 11 points for the Nordics. Kilen picked up most of her points in the third quarter after going to the bench with three fouls in the first two minutes of the game.

Marshall County Central was 16-for-50 from the field (32 percent) and 4-for-10 at the free throw line. East Grand Forks went 20-for-53 from the floor (38 percent). The Nordics had a 34-32 rebound edge. The Green Wave finished with 12 turnovers.

Roseau is 82-30 Monday winner over Wolverines

Roseau out-scored Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke 43-9 in the second half Monday in winning an 82-30 girls high school basketball game.

Megan Taylor scored 28 points and impressed Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast with her passing. "That's the best passing I've ever seen her do," reported Gast. "She makes everyone around her better. She finds the open player every time. She really put on a good show."

Roseau led at the quarters 18-7, 39-21 and 60-25.

"Believe it or not, we actually played an okay first half," said Gast. "But we ended up giving them too many uncontested lay-ups. Their defense is as good as their offense. They're the best team we've played."

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke was 13-for-54 from the field (24 percent) and 4-for-10 at the free throw line. Roseau went 38-for-72 from the floor (46 percent) and 7-for-12 at the line.

The loss dropped the Wolverines to 3-5.

Eagles handle Gators with third quarter run

Grygla-Gatzke used a third quarter run to turn a two-point lead into a 19-point Friday night boys high school basketball win over Badger/Greenbush-Middle River, 66-47. The game was played in Greenbush.

Ahead 15-9 at the end of the first quarter and up 30-23 at halftime, the Eagles' lead was just 34-32 when they caught fire with five minutes left in the third quarter. It was 50-34 heading into the final period.

"We got on a roll where things went our way," noted Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "We were doing the small things that are necessary. I thought we played some pretty good defense, and we did a pretty good job taking care of the ball."

A balanced attack for the 6-0 Eagles featured Shaun Verbout with 17 points, Aaron Holthusen 15 and Jesse Lunsetter 14. Daryl Wockenfuss led the Gators with 16 points.

"We played real pathetic defense, and they took advantage of it," explained Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Eldon Sparby. "We didn't play that badly offensively in the first half, but they went to a zone in the third quarter and we did not attack the basket. They got on a run, and we turned the ball over."

Grygla-Gatzke was 26-for-54 (48 percent) from the field and 13-for-23 at the free throw line. Badger/Greenbush-Middle River struggled through a 22-for-59 shooting night from the field (37 percent), including a 1-for-16 effort from 3-point range, and had a quiet 2-for-5 free throw game. The Gators had a 33-28 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 27-14.

Stenlund wins Ironman 250 race by one second

Red Rock, Ontario, Team Arctic racer edges Jeremy Fyle of Burnsville as Arctic Cat racers claim top three places

Racers rounded the corner during the Pabst Race of Champions. The race was held on Saturday during the Ironman 250. Kirk Hibbert took first on the Pabst race.

David Stenlund of Red Rock, Ontario, Canada, squeaked out a victory at the 1997 Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 snowmobile race in Thief River Falls last weekend. Stenlund squeaked by with the narrowest of margins — one second — over Jeremy Fyle of Burnsville. Kirk Hibbert of Goodridge, finished third.

The top three riders were all riding Arctic Cat snowmobiles. In fact Arctic Cat snowmobiles were driven by four of the top five riders, and five of the top 10 riders.

Stenlund earned over $11,000 in cash and contingencies for his win. His prizes included an Arctic Cat EXT 600.

Race organizers were pleased with how smoothly the race events went. However, they noted that the number of participants in events was down.

Tom Wang, a representative on the race committee, thought the number of participants was down because of the weather and a conflict with a race in Shakopee. Wang said last year they had 278 riders. This year they had 151 entries. Wang said weather was such a concern that as late as Friday they were still deciding whether to hold the race.

The blizzard which swept through Thief River Falls on Thursday also closed roads throughout the region. A number of riders from North Dakota were unable to reach the area. Other competitors also may have been dissuaded from competing because of the bitter cold temperatures. Wind chills were recorded at 50 degrees below zero degree, Fahrenheit Saturday.

Wang said race events went smoothly and he heard a lot of compliments. To his knowledge there weren't any serious injuries, though he did hear of an accident near Red Lake Falls, and of an accident in which a pro driver's snowmobile collided with a deer on the course.

In its fifth year at the Ironman 250, the Make-A-Wish Foundation reported raising $10,000 during its auctions. During the last four years, Make-A-Wish auctions have raised $29,000 at the event. Auctions of clothing, snowmobile accessories, and mementos from the celebrities who attended the event for Make-A-Wish, were held at the Best Western Saturday night. Proceeds from the auctions and other Make-A-Wish Foundation efforts benefit children under the age of 18 who have been diagnosed with a terminal illness.

Monday night, School Board 564 in Thief River Falls approved a proposed lease agreement between Thief River Life Center and the Multi-Events Cultural Center (MECC) Joint Powers Board. The lease would turn over operation of a proposed wellness center at the MECC site.

As a member of the Joint Powers board, the school board was asked to review the lease before the Joint Powers board reaches a decision on the lease proposal. Monday night the school board discussed the proposal at length, but eventually approved the recommendation to approve the lease on a vote 6-1, with the recently installed board member, Steve Young, giving the dissenting vote.

Young expressed a number of concerns about the project. First he was concerned that it doesn't seem to have any regional sources of income though it purports to be a regional facility. Secondly, he questioned whether the school board had taken any action on the proposed operating agreement for the MECC. His third concern was with the no-compete clause in the lease agreement. He said it appears to prohibit the district from allowing the public to use its weight room.

Darla Twomey, the school board's representative on the Joint Powers board for the MECC, explained that the school board had not taken any action on the proposed operating agreement, but that it was being studied by school district officials. (Among other items, the agreement includes a clause which requires the district to maintain and replace the proposed track.)

She explained the district would be responsible for future replacement, repair and betterment of the track and surface if it had one. Responsibility for the track is really a "trade-off" because the district didn't have any cash to give to the project. Though the district will be responsible for the track, she added, it is actually the beneficiary. School District 564 is the only double "A" school in the state without a track.

Pennington and Red Lake ADA boards vote to merge

Declining number of dairy herds in Pennington and Red Lake counties resulted in a vote Monday to consolidate the two American Dairy Association units from those counties under a single board.

Annual meetings of those two associations and the Marshall county ADA were conducted Monday, January 13, at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls. A dinner was served at 11:30 a.m., followed by a report session and separate business meetings of county organizations.

Among the participants in the program were Sherri Newell, field representative for Minnesota ADA, who showed a video on use of dairy check off funds; Norma Hanson of Goodridge, member of the Minnesota Dairy Promotion Council and Dairy Council of the Upper Midwest, and Vera Malone of Wadena, member of the Minnesota ADA board, who reviewed the effect of dairy promotion activities.

The new joint Pennington Red Lake ADA board elected at the meeting includes Roger Walter, Tony Gerardy and Tom Willett of Plummer, Wayne Vettleson of Oklee, Mike Hanson of Goodridge, Lyle Swanson and Mark Hanson of Thief River Falls. Howard Person of Thief River Falls, Pennington county extension educator, was elected to the board as its treasurer.

Board members were elected as dairy couples with either spouse eligible to attend board meetings and to vote on county ADA business.

LHS science fair is Jan. 31 and Feb. 1

Second annual Lincoln high school science fair has been scheduled for Friday and Saturday, January 31 and February 1, in the high school cafeteria.

Public viewing of the projects on display will take place from 6 to 8 p.m. January 31 and 9 to 11:30 a.m. February 1.

Students in grades nine through 12 are eligible to participate in the science fair and are currently working on scientific projects and papers that will be exhibited at the fair. Grand champion winners locally will advance to regional competition on Saturday, March 15, at Bemidji State University.

Regional winners may compete at the state science fair April 11-13 in Duluth and state winners advance to international competition May 10-16 in Louisville, KY.

At the local science fair, special awards will be provided to students with winning projects through donations by local businesses and organizations. Anyone who would like to donate cash or merchandise in support of the program may contact Patti Johnson, coordinator, at Lincoln high school (phone 681-7432).

Under the schedule arranged for the science fair, projects will be set up in the school cafeteria January 31 from 2 to 3 p.m. and project judging will take place from 3 to 6 p.m., followed by the public viewing period mentioned above. At 11:30 a.m. February 1 an awards ceremony will take place in the cafeteria. Students will remove their projects following the awards program.

Coordinator Patti Johnson said the average cost to cover display boards, ribbon awards and judging expenses is $6 per student participant.

The Lincoln science fair was reinstated last year for the first time in about 30 years. There were about 75 project entries which involved about 150 students since teams and small groups were allowed to work on some projects. Johnson is hoping to increase those numbers this year.

ADA boards vote merger

The individual counties will still be eligible to conduct county dairy princess contests if they prefer to do so, or one princess could assist with dairy promotions in the two counties. The board did not elect officers for the new combined committee at the annual meeting.

Dairy check-off funds reallocated to the counties also would be computed by ADA on an individual county basis but would be paid into the combined association's account.

Marshall county conducted its annual meeting and elected three members to its board of directors. Laurie Polansky of Gatzke was elected to succeed Lowell Smeby of Grygla for a three-year term and Rose Fulton of Warren was elected to fill the unexpired term of Duane Krohn of Viking, who had indicated his intention to resign from the board. Wayne Larson of Middle River was reelected to a three-year term.

At the reorganizational meeting of the board, Sherri Rupprecht of Thief River Falls was elected chair to succeed Sharon Bring of Strandquist. Norma Hanson of Goodridge was elected vice chair and Laurie Polansky was elected secretary-treasurer to succeed Lowell Smeby. Also serving on the board is Mary Otto of Newfolden as a producer delegate.

School board gives approval to lease and it will be paying far less for this facility than if they had to build it on their own.

Though the proposed NRCC does not include any "regional" monies, any group using the facility will have to go through a scheduling committee, and will have to pay for its use. (It does include substantial funds from the state.)

Twomey said it is the policy of the school board not to compete with private business, but she didn't foresee any changes in the operation of the school weight room facility.

Twomey believes the no compete clause requires the district not to promote the facility, sell memberships, provide supervisors or extra hours to accommodate the general public. Though it will remain open to the public and equipment was donated, it is a facility primarily for students.

Young disagreed with her interpretation of the no compete clause, noting that it is open to interpretation. He also argued that this action really limits the choice of the public, not expands it.

Jim Langland, a representative of the Thief River Life Center, provided some history about the project, including the fact that Dakota Clinic and Northwest Medical Center deciding not to participate in the operation of a wellness center, and their personal efforts to raise funds for the project. Langland said, the purpose of the non compete clause was to align the philosophy of the Joint Powers board with Thief River Life Center's philosophy. If Thief River Life Center is going to operate the facility with the Joint Powers board, which includes the district, being landlords, Thief River Life Center should at least enjoy their support and not be undermined. He added that it gives Thief River Life Center the option to get out of the lease to protect themselves, and was worded in its present fashion because they don't know what the future will hold for the school board. They could become openly hostile in the future, depending on any new board members being elected to the board.

After repeated questioning from Key Teeters-Asp, who was also in the audience, Langland seemed to agree that operation of the weight room, as outlined by Twomey, was okay. Langland seemed to hedge his answer because he was concerned with how it is marketed.

Langland explained that what Thief River Life Center is proposing to offer is much greater than what is presently being offered anywhere in the city.

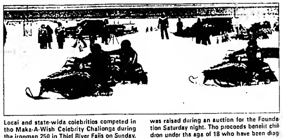
Computer weed control is new aid to farmers

According to the Agricultural Utilization Research Institute (AURI), a new computer program has been developed that allows farmers, consultants, students and industry to easily forecast weed-seedling emergence and growth for many common annual weeds found in northern states.

It is a self-contained program entitled "WeedCast" that can be downloaded from the USDA-ARS North Central Soil Conservation Research Laboratory web site (http://www.mrsars.usda.gov).

The program is based on years of data collection across the Corn Belt and gives predictions of potential weed populations, the timing of weed species' emergence and average heights of already emerged weeds. It makes its predictions based on growing degree days and estimates of soil temperature and soil water potential from current weather data and field histories.

"The program permits hands-on interaction by the people who need information of weed biology," says USDA-ARS scientist Frank Forcella, who led in development of the program. It is not meant to be the sole answer source, but can be a valuable tool along with other pieces of information. The program will be updated regularly and was partially funded by AURI's pesticide reduction options grant program.



Local and state-wide celebrities competed in the Make-A-Wish Celebrity Challenge during the ironman 250 in Thief River Falls on Sunday. The challenge was one element in a fund raiser for Make-A-Wish Foundation. A total of $10,000 was raised during an auction for the Foundation Saturday night. The proceeds benefit children under the age of 18 who have been diagnosed with a life-threatening illness.

MN cities will share $12 million dividend

The League of Minnesota Cities Insurance Trust (LMCIT) this week began mailing dividend checks totaling $12 million to cities that participate in the organization's property/casualty program. The dividend is the largest single dividend LMCIT has ever returned. It marks the tenth straight year the LMCIT property/casualty program has returned money to Minnesota cities, and brings the total to just over $78 million returned to cities since 1987.

"The success of LMCIT reflects the success of cities across the state," said Jim Miller, League of Minnesota Cities Executive Director. "Minnesota city officials can be justifiably proud of what they've achieved."

The extraordinary amount of surplus funds is available to be returned this year because cities' liability loss experience has steadily improved over recent years. The biggest single factor in that improvement is the success cities have had in reducing the cost of liability claims related to employment.

"It shows once again what cities can accomplish through cooperation," said Sig Stene, LMCIT Trust Board Chair and Mayor of Lindstrom.

The improved claims experience also made it possible for the LMCIT to reduce liability premium rates by an average of eight percent, and to reduce workers compensation rates by five per cent for the coming year. The LMCIT Board of Trustees also tentatively designated another $8 million to be returned over the next two years if loss experience continues to be favorable.

"What really sets LMCIT apart is the ability and willingness to develop new coverages and options to meet cities' needs," said Bob Richter, Mankato Council member and member of the LMCIT Board of Trustees. "As an insurance agent myself, I can tell you that's not something you'll find with most insurance companies."

Each city that participates in LMCIT's property/casualty program will receive a share of the dividend based on a formula that considers the total losses of each city for each of the years the city has been in the program. Those cities that have been members the longest and that have been most successful in avoiding losses, receive a proportionately greater share of the dividend.

Cities created the Insurance Trust in 1980, at a time when cities didn't have many options for their risk management and insurance needs. Through much of the 1980s and 1990s, few insurance companies would even consider writing insurance for cities, and those that did charged steep premiums. About 95 per cent of cities in Minnesota participate in at least one of LMCIT's coverage programs.

Women's Resource Center in Thief River Falls offers a place, program and person to women

Tammy Nerby takes advantage of the peace and quiet at the Women's Resource Center located at NCTC to catch up on her reading. The Center is open from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Mon.-Fri.

Andrea Stephens uses the courtesy phone in the Women's Resource Center to call home and check on things.

Women's Resource Center is a program, place and a person all wrapped up into one. It is located on the Northland Community and Technical College campus in Thief River Falls. It is at the east entrance right inside the door (across from the Bookstore and near the Placement Center.)

The purpose of the center is to help women become economically self-sufficient. It is funded by federal grants through the Carl Perkins Applied Technology Act, and must be applied for every year. The program has the special purpose of serving the following populations:

- Women entering career fields in which less than 25 percent of those currently employed are women (non-traditional).
- Single parents with custody of their children
- Displaced homemakers – those who have in the past relied on a spouse for income and now have lost that source of income.
- Single pregnant women

Any member of the Northland Community and Technical College community may use the Women's Resource Center regardless of gender. Some programs are limited to special populations due to the federal funding criteria.

It is a program

The Women's Resource Center offers many programs to women throughout the year. Every month there are monthly lunches with speakers or workshops.

It offers annual retreats for single parents, displaced homemakers, single pregnant women and women in nontraditional career fields.

There will be a nontraditional retreat held on January 31 and February 1 in Brainerd at the Holiday Inn. This is one way for women to take a mini-vacation and get to know themselves a little better. This particular retreat is designed to help women feel more confident in their choice of a nontraditional career.

The following weekend there will be a retreat for single parents and displaced homemakers in Detroit Lakes. It is a time for them to relax and take a vacation from the chaos of their everyday lives.

It offers "Career Explorations", a week long class for women who are unsure of what they want to go to school for or who are pursuing a nontraditional career. The class is offered three times a year, with the next one being offered January 27-31.

The center offers a mentoring program for persons wishing to be matched up with someone in the field of work in which they are studying. It is a way for the students to see what goes on in the field and to see if they will really like it.

Women's Resource Center is a co-sponsor of the Women's Issues Series. The second Tuesday of every month is a time for women to get together and listen to a speaker on one of numerous topics. This month Women's Issues will be held on January 14 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Northland Community and Technical College in room 131. The topic will be Legal Issues. Gayle Borchert, J.D. will be the presenter and speak on guardianship and living wills.

The center also offers emergency loans and stipends for qualifying students for assistance with school expenses, child care or transportation. Shawn MacDonald, director of the center, says that emergency loans are very common. Students who suddenly have to move out of their home or their car breaks down, are faced with needing a loan.

It is a Place

The Women's Resource Center offers a comfortable lounge to rest, study or talk. It has resource library books, audio cassettes, and videos on various topics from parenting to getting a job and much more. There is a TV/VCR for viewing and listening to resources. There is a stereo and an assortment of relaxing music.

A multi-media computer is available for completing homework assignments, exploring new careers or having fun with games. There is always free coffee, tea and hot chocolate to drink and there is a refrigerator for students to use for their lunch or pop.

It is a Person

Shawn MacDonald, the director of the Women's Resource Center and equity coordinator, is available to assist students, staff or community members with numerous issues such as:

- Advocacy. She can help in the solving of problems off or on campus.
- Assist you in choosing the career that is right for you.
- Referal to services and agencies on and off campus.
- Training, resources and advocacy in sexual harassment and sexual violence issues.
- Assist with obtaining child care, housing or other needs to stay in school.
- She will offer support and a listening ear when dealing with the transition to school or from school to work.
- Assistance with internet searches for other resources.

The Women's Resource Center is a place where women can go to relax and get away for a while, a program to help them become economically self-sufficient, and a person who will always be there to help and listen to your problems.

For more information, to register for a retreat or class, or to see if the Women's Resource Center is for you, contact Shawn MacDonald at 681-0779 or toll-free at 1-800-959-6282 ext. 0779.

Barb Lundeen uses the computer in the Women's Resource Center to finish up her homework. The computer is available to students to use during Center hours.

Shawn MacDonald is the director of the Women's Resource Center which is located at the Northwest Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. She is available Monday through Fridays to talk with women and students wishing to discuss non-traditional careers or anything that is on their mind.

ON MY MIND
Kim Chadwick-Quade

A Mighty Duck Of Our Own

My six-year-old son has decided to pursue a "career" in hockey. That's after watching all three versions of the "Mighty Ducks" movies, attending Prowler hockey games, participating in the ice skating program for the second year, and watching the "big" kids skate around wielding big sticks and smashing each other into the boards. I guess he thinks it looks like fun.

And for his age, I think he's quite serious. Especially as I watch the training program he's designed for himself.

He's commandeered the basement as his practice hockey "arena." Because we do not own any of the real hockey equipment, our son has been quite creative when selecting his equipment for practice.

I've never purchased a real-size stick because one of these in the hands of any boy (on or off the ice) can be extremely dangerous, even in the basement. So a cast-off racquetball racquet (one destined for the garbage or a rummage sale) serves as his hockey stick.

A tennis ball substitutes for a puck, even though I think we might have an authentic puck around somewhere but a puck doesn't slide well on carpet.

A closed bedroom door serves as the goal, at which stands dad, pretending to be the goalie. Because we're lacking for equipment, dad uses his foot to make a save.

The six-year-old is always the rough-and-tumble and sometimes out-of-control player careening around the basement, hitting the tennis ball with a racquet and calling it hockey. By the sound of the play wafting up from the basement, I think he should spend a little more time in the penalty box.

His games in the basement are second to the actual skating practice. He's seen the older kids skating and knows exactly how it should be done. With his Mighty Ducks headband affixed over his ears, he skates as fast as he can, hunched over slightly, swinging his arms back and forth vigorously for about two minutes. Then he's face down on the ice. He spends more time laying on the ice than skating on it.

Many people panic when they see this technique and think he may be injured. I know my son well enough not to be alarmed. It's just his way of getting a drink. He replenishes his body fluids by taking a big scoop of ice or snow and eating it. Repeated dire warnings from mom about getting sick from eating stuff off the ground go unheeded. I think this is his personal take on how a hockey player should act because I've never seen a player drop to the ground and scoop up rink ice for refreshments. I guess many professional athletes have their own quirks. It could be worse; he could dye his hair purple or cover himself with tattoos.

Our son likes to skate in the arena because it gives him the opportunity to practice a very important part of the game, according to him – checking. He'll skate around and then, with little warning, he throws his body into the boards. For effect, he falls to the ground, gets up and shakes himself off. At least he hasn't tried to "check" any unsuspecting and unwilling skaters.

Again, as a worried mother, I warn him that he could hurt himself with such roughness and foolishness. My warnings are ignored and he practices his checking technique on every board in the arena, making a small thudding sound as he bounces off the wall.

Practice makes perfect.

Megan Browning
Lincoln High School

The Christmas break officially came to an end at 8:30 a.m. on Monday, January 6. There were the typical people in the halls whining about school, but there were also people who were glad to have a change of scenery. Let's face it, one can only stay up until four a.m. for so long before everything becomes somewhat fuzzy. Through out all my educational years, I have never seen so many smiling faces the first day after a break. A probable reason for that is that it is Lincoln's Sno-Fest week. Sno-Fest is a time when all alliances with students and other classes are forgotten. Everyone is out for blood.

Sno-Fest week seems innocent at first glance. Each class bands together to earn points in four different competitions: making a banner, dressing up, attendance at athletic events and button sales. In the banner competition, every class designs and makes its own banner. The banners are then displayed and voted on. The dress-up competition is very simple. Each day is assigned a different clothing theme. In support of their class, people can be seen sporting anything from flannels to dresses.

Students go to the athletic events in order to rack up class points in the attendance competition. The class which sells the most Sno-Fest buttons, which are made and then sold to students, wins the button sales competition. These may seem like mere friendly competitions, but when four proud classes compete for the title of Sno-Fest Champion, it is war.

The Senior class is extremely competitive. Since it is our last chance, we want the title so bad we can taste it. We have suffered the pain of defeat three times too many. As a result we feel it's time to settle the score. The senior hall walls are plastered with gold posters advertising the various events. Nothing is sacred; a couple of people have sneakily sold buttons to ignorant Freshmen.

The Junior class won't give in easily however. They, too, have lost before. A few people took the initiative and had locker signs placed on each junior's locker with all the Sno-Fest information before everyone left for Christmas break. If that's not spirit I don't know what is.

The Sophomore class members have recovered from their Freshmen year, and have finally learned the rules. However, the sophomore year task is one of learning to instill school spirit into uninformed classmates. By the time coronation rolls around on Friday, this task is usually mastered.

If every rule has an exception, it is the Freshmen who usually fit that mold. Most Freshmen don't realize that Sno-Fest is a competition until mid-week. However, this year's class seems very well prepared. Previous Freshmen classes have struggled to get the majority of their classmates to participate in the Dress-up competition and to fix the inevitable mishaps they encounter in the Banner competition. One has to remember that the Freshmen are preoccupied with simply surviving their first year at Lincoln. So they deserve some credit.

Although Sno-Fest week is one of fierce competition, it is one of the most entertaining weeks of the school year. During Sno-Fest each class bands together. As a result, friendship with one's classmates is strengthened. Of course, friendships with people from the other classes diminish temporarily. Sno-Fest forces people to work together. This camaraderie can be seen everywhere in the school. After school the art room is full of students frantically gluing and sewing their banners together. The communication hall is constantly jingling with the sound of students selling buttons. Inevitably, some poor frosh in that hall is probably buying a button from a very crafty senior. Hey, all is fair in love and Sno-Fest.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . It's Time To Think Ahead

I guess it must be about time to write my annual gripe column about school closings. I could tell it was time when I looked out of the office window early one afternoon last week and, through a haze of blowing snow, saw school buses driving by with dozens of little people in them.

I wondered how many of those little people would be dropped off at the end of farm roads and driveways filled with snow, and how many of them would have to trudge through drifts almost as high as they were to get safely home. I wondered how many of those little people would be left at bus stops around town and how many of them would have to walk several blocks through blowing snow and hazardous wind chills to reach their homes.

After all, the wind had been blowing and the snow had been falling since morning. Most area schools had closed. As we northerners know, the combination of strong winds and snow can create some pretty high drifts in a few hours. Drifts can get up to two or three feet in that short time. How tall are some of those children, anyway!

Thief River Falls' schools should have been closed in the morning, along with all the rest of the area schools.

What about one of those other blizzards we had this year - the one that began early in the afternoon? How many parents called the schools to ask when schools would be closing, and what did the school do about closing that day?

Those of us who were listening to the radio heard that Mr. Mykleby was "checking out the storm" to see if it was bad enough for the schools to close. Ah, yes, we did hear that announcement - over and over through the entire afternoon. It certainly took Mr. Mykleby a long time to check out the weather! We heard about it until 3:00 rolled around and school was done for the day. Whoops - too late to close school - but the parents were appeased, weren't they? Anyway, they'll forgot about it, won't they?

When my older children were in grade school, Thief River Falls was the first to close schools for storms. All the area schools would wait to see what TRF was doing on a stormy morning and then they would do whatever TRF did. There would be a rash of announcements from area schools as soon as Thief River announced its school closing. Obviously the TRF schools were considered the best informed, most enlightened and most insightful about the weather.

Do we see any of the area schools waiting to see what TRF does any more? No. In fact, we see that nearly all of the area schools decide to close for storms and that TRF is often still staying open, still busing students in from the country, some of whom walk long distances from their homes and have to wait in the open for the bus to pick them up, still expecting little ones to wait outdoors in the storm at various bus stops around town.

Is there some reason that our schools are trying to stay open in storms? Is there a big prize at the end of the year for the school that doesn't close for storm days? This would surely be called the foolhardy prize, wouldn't it?

Not only is trying to keep school open in a storm a foolhardy thing to do, but it is careless and, I think, negligent. As our most recent storm has shown, north country blizzards can be dangerous, even fatal. They are not something to be trifled with, nor is the well-being of our children.

Children are not always dressed for bad weather. I have lived near schools and school bus stops for nearly 30 years and I have often seen children going to school on a cold winter day dressed in light jackets, with no hats, mittens or boots. Yes, we all know that our children are supposed to dress warmly for Minnesota winters, but there are those who do not have warm clothes or who do not wear them. And even when dressed properly, small children can get mighty cold when the temperatures are below zero.

Frankly, I don't care that enough storm days were not allotted at the beginning of the school year. I care about the children. Take the days from somewhere else this year and be sure to allow for enough storm days next year.

One of these nasty days there will be schools filled with children who can't make it home because someone waited too long to close the schools. Is this what it will take to make sensible school closing decisions? I hope not.

Making Mistakes

Children who are constantly called names and criticized for doing wrong will have difficulty acquiring self confidence in their ability to act correctly. These children may even misbehave simply to get attention.

Everyone makes mistakes. These mistakes can and should be used as a way of learning. If a child accidentally spills his milk, this "mistake" can be used as a learning experience. There is no need to get angry or to punish the child. Instead we could use this as an opportunity to show what happens when a glass of milk sits too close to the edge of the table. This can also be an opportunity to teach your child how to clean up the spill that he/she created. After the mistake your child needs an opportunity to try again.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When you make a mistake, talk to your child about it. Help him to understand that everyone makes mistakes, even parents.

Utility customers asked to keep all meters free of snow

Northern Minnesota Utilities is asking all utility customers to assist in providing access to their utility meters as well as keeping them uncovered and free of snow.

Because of the heavy snowfall this winter, many meters have become inaccessible or covered with snow. As a result, meter readers for all local utilities are having difficulty getting to meters in order to obtain an accurate meter reading.

"Without an accurate meter reading, a utility customer's bill may have to be estimated at a level that could be significantly higher or lower than the actual usage. More importantly, a large amount of snow covering a utility meter may affect its operation," states Mike Melsa of the Northern Minnesota Utilities office in Bemidji.

Therefore, the utility company has requested customers to clear a path to their gas meter if possible and, more importantly, to avoid piling snow on or near their gas meter. By taking the time to remove this snow, customers can help ensure that their gas meter is operating safely and properly. In addition, they may also avoid the possible inconvenience that could result from an estimated meter reading and utility bill.

The utilities company also reminds its customers and others that the snow accumulation could cause problems with chimneys and vents on their homes or businesses. The snow can potentially block chimneys and other vents, resulting in operational problems with their furnaces or boilers, water heaters and even their plumbing systems. This is especially true for residents of mobile homes, due to the large build-up of snow on the flatter roofs.

By keeping chimneys and roof vents as clear of snow as possible, home and business owners can help ensure the safe and proper operation of their heating systems and may save themselves the inconvenience and cost associated with a heating system that fails to operate on the next cold winter night.

For more information, contact the local Northern Minnesota Utilities Service Center.

ON THE OTHER HAND

Megan Browning
Lincoln High School

The Christmas break officially came to an end at 8:30 a.m. on Monday, January 6. There were the typical people in the halls whining about school, but there were also people who were glad to have a change of scenery. Let's face it, one can only stay up until four a.m. for so long before everything becomes somewhat fuzzy. Through out all my educational years, I have never seen so many smiling faces the first day after a break. A probable reason for that is that it is Lincoln's Sno-Fest week. Sno-Fest is a time when all alliances with students and other classes are forgotten. Everyone is out for blood.

Sno-Fest week seems innocent at first glance. Each class bands together to earn points in four different competitions: making a banner, dressing up, attendance at athletic events and button sales. In the banner competition, every class designs and makes its own banner. The banners are then displayed and voted on. The dress up competition is very simple. Each day is assigned a different clothing theme. In support of their class, people can be seen sporting anything from flannels to dresses.

Students go to the athletic events in order to rack up class points in the attendance competition. The class which sells the most Sno-Fest buttons, which are made and then sold to students, wins the button sales competition. These may seem like mere friendly competitions, but when four proud classes compete for the title of Sno-Fest Champion, it is war.

The Senior class is extremely competitive. Since it is our last chance, we want the title so bad we can taste it. We have suffered the pain of defeat three times too many. As a result we feel it's time to settle the score. The senior hall walls are plastered with gold posters advertising the various events. Nothing is sacred; a couple of people have sneakily sold buttons to ignorant Freshmen.

The Junior class won't give in easily however. They, too, have lost before. A few people took the initiative and had locker signs placed on each junior's locker with all the Sno-Fest information before everyone left for Christmas break. If that's not spirit I don't know what is.

The Sophomore class members have recovered from their Freshmen year, and have finally learned the rules. However, the sophomore year task is one of learning to incite school spirit into uninformed classmates. By the time coronation rolls around on Friday, this task is usually mastered.

If every rule has an exception, it is the Freshmen who usually fit that mold. Most Freshmen don't realize that Sno-Fest is a competition until mid-week. However, this year's class seems very well prepared. Previous Freshmen classes have struggled to get the majority of their classmates to participate in the Dress-up competition and to fix the inevitable mishaps they encounter in the Banner competition. One has to remember that the Freshmen are preoccupied with simply surviving their first year at Lincoln, so they deserve some credit.

Although Sno-Fest week is one of fierce competition, it is one of the most entertaining weeks of the school year. During Sno-Fest each class bands together. As a result, friendship with one's classmates is strengthened. Of course, friendships with people from the other classes diminish temporarily. Sno-Fest forces people to work together. This comaraderie can be seen everywhere in the school. After school the art room is full of students frantically gluing and sewing their banners together. The communication hall is constantly jingling with the sound of students selling buttons. Inevitably, some poor frosh in that hall is probably buying a button from a very crafty senior. Hey, all is fair in love and Sno-Fest.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . It's Time To Think Ahead

I guess it must be about time to write my annual gripe column about school closings. I could tell it was time when I looked out of the office window early one afternoon last week and, through a haze of blowing snow, saw school buses driving by with dozens of little people in them.

I wondered how many of those little people would be dropped off at the end of farm roads and driveways filled with snow, and how many of them would have to trudge through drifts almost as high as they were to get safely home. I wondered how many of those little people would be left at bus stops around town and how many of them would have to walk several blocks through blowing snow and hazardous wind chills to reach their homes.

After all, the wind had been blowing and the snow had been falling since morning. Most area schools had closed. As we northerners know, the combination of strong winds and snow can create some pretty high drifts in a few hours. Drifts can get up to two or three feet in that short time. How tall are some of those children, anyway?

Thief River Falls' schools should have been closed in the morning, along with all the rest of the area schools.

What about one of those other blizzards we had this year - the one that began early in the afternoon? How many parents called the schools to ask when schools would be closing, and what did the school do about closing that day?

Those of us who were listening to the radio heard that Mr. Mykleby was "checking out the storm" to see if it was bad enough for the schools to close. Ah, yes, we did hear that announcement - over and over through the entire afternoon. It certainly took Mr. Mykleby a long time to check out the weather! We heard about it until 3:00 rolled around and school was done for the day. Whoops - too late to close school - but the parents were appeased, weren't they? Anyway, they'll forgot about it, won't they?

When my older children were in grade school, Thief River Falls was the first to close schools for storms. All the area schools would wait to see what TRF was doing on a stormy morning and then they would do whatever TRF did. There would be a rash of announcements from area schools as soon as Thief River announced its school closing. Obviously the TRF schools were considered the best informed, most enlightened and most insightful about the weather.

Do we see any of the area schools waiting to see what TRF does any more? No. In fact, we see that nearly all of the area schools decide to close for storms and that TRF is often still staying open, still busing students in from the country, some of whom walk long distances from their homes and have to wait in the open for the bus to pick them up, still expecting little ones to wait outdoors in the storm at various bus stops around town.

Is there some reason that our schools are trying to stay open in storms? Is there a big prize at the end of the year for the school that doesn't close for storm days? This would surely be called the foolhardy prize, wouldn't it?

Not only is trying to keep school open in a storm a foolhardy thing to do, but it is careless and, I think, negligent. As our most recent storm has shown, north country blizzards can be dangerous, even fatal. They are not something to be trifled with, nor is the well-being of our children.

Children are not always dressed for bad weather. I have lived near schools and school bus stops for nearly 30 years and I have often seen children going to school on a cold winter day dressed in light jackets, with no hats, mittens or boots. Yes, we all know that our children are supposed to dress warmly for Minnesota winters, but there are those who do not have warm clothes or who do not wear them. And even when dressed properly, small children can get mighty cold when the temperatures are below zero.

Frankly, I don't care that enough storm days were not allotted at the beginning of the school year. I care about the children. Take the days from somewhere else this year and be sure to allow for enough storm days next year.

One of these nasty days there will be schools filled with children who can't make it home because someone waited too long to close the schools. Is this what it will take to make sensible school closing decisions? I hope not.

Hats Off To Local Snow Removal Crews

Snow removal—whether from sidewalks, driveways, roofs or any other place an accumulation of the white stuff is unwanted—has been nearly a full-time job for residents of northwest Minnesota this winter. That statement will not come as news to anyone who has gone outdoors since late October, but the point is that snowfall has been plentiful and frequent so far this season.

With the volume of snow that has been received and the number of times that snowfall has occurred, the efforts of city street department crews should certainly be recognized and commended. In the downtown area especially, timely and thorough snow removal has been evident all winter. It is frequently amazing to come downtown in the morning following heavy snow to find the streets cleared and very little accumulation remaining anywhere.

Maintaining cleared streets in a winter like this is a costly proposition, but—like summer mosquito control—is one government service for which few people object to paying taxes ...and especially when the job is done well. The ability for cars to move about freely in traffic lanes and in and out of parking spaces certainly contributes to public safety as well as to downtown shopping opportunities.

While a word of thanks to the street department is in order, a word of caution to motorists is also appropriate. Snow piled at intersections on the periphery of the downtown business area and in many residential neighborhoods can partially or even fully obscure approaching vehicles. It makes sense when approaching intersections to be prepared to stop quickly if crossing traffic is suddenly encountered. That means substantially reducing speed and even stopping when it is necessary to be sure an intersection is clear before entering to cross or to turn.

If past performance is an indicator of things to come, this winter season has a few more weather acts and probably a couple of encores in store before we can bring down the curtain.

We thank the street department crews for making much of the city a tolerable place to live and work by making mobility possible.

Patti's At It Again! Second Annual Science Fair At Lincoln Jan. 31

Leave it to Patti Johnson to make something out of nothing and then improve on it. The Lincoln high school science teacher formed a local envirothon team at Lincoln in her first year on the Lincoln faculty after a number of years teaching at Goodridge. That team advanced through regional and state contests to compete in the national event.

Last year she reinstituted a science fair which had been absent for some 30 years. In that first year of rejuvenation, the science fair at LHS had nearly 75 entries and involved nearly double that number of students. Although well satisfied with the response a year ago, she is looking to improve those numbers and the quality of projects at the second annual event this year.

Patti has invited local businesses and organizations to be a part of the event by providing financial and prize support. The science fair has no school budget and received a start-up grant last year. That grant is not available this year. Businesses and organizations are even encouraged to view the projects and make their own selections of recipients of their awards. If they choose not to do so, the selections will be made for them.

The second annual Lincoln high school science fair is scheduled for Friday, January 31, with projects to be set up for judging in the school cafeteria. Judging will take place from 1 to 6 p.m. and the projects will be open for public viewing from 6 to 8 p.m. Public viewing will continue from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Saturday, February 1, at which time an awards ceremony will take place.

Anyone interested in showing support for this activity may contact Patti Johnson at Lincoln high school (she commutes from Gryglá) or send or bring checks or merchandise prizes to her at Lincoln. Make checks payable to Lincoln Science Fair. This is a worthwhile project that is deserving of public support.

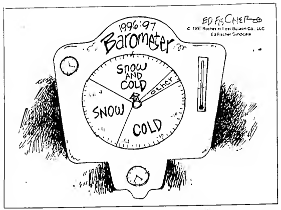
Airport Remained Open Despite Stormy Weather

While news reports from around the area and country have pointed out travelers stranded due to weather-related airport closings, the Thief River Falls Regional Airport is not among them. Despite the frequent storms of this winter season, the Thief River Falls airport has never been officially closed.

In several instances, commercial service into or out of Thief River Falls has been canceled, primarily due to airport closing at Grand Forks, ND. Other aircraft using the airport, including those transporting medical specialty personnel and those operated by United Parcel Service, have routinely used the airport on a daily basis.

Even on Thursday, January 9, when schools were closing early and highways throughout much of western Minnesota and most of North Dakota were blocked or officially closed, the Thief River Falls airport had five movements of UPS aircraft, arrival and departure of two anesthesiologists and regular commercial passenger aircraft arrival and departure.

Airport crews make an extra effort to keep runways clear of snow under all conditions. The cleared blacktop runways show up well to pilots from the air, the local airport is equipped with virtually all navigational and instrument landing equipment except radar and icing conditions are uncommon here.



Your Times

Allows readers to speak out on a variety of issues

by Warren Gast
Beltrami, Minnesota

Christmas 1996—a time that should have been filled with warmth and happiness for all. Instead, on December 20, when the milk check arrived (or when it should have arrived), dairy farmers across this land were scratching their heads and asking, "Who's the grinch who stole Christmas?"

But don't worry, if the milk check doesn't go around, you could always sell that pen of bull calves and maybe even throw in "Ol' Bessie." At today's prices, that should really have made you feel good for Christmas. If you were still short of cash for Christmas, you may have expected to end up using that credit card after all—until you realized that it, too, was already maxed out.

I'm not trying to steer you away from the true meaning of why we celebrate Christmas. I'm just trying to draw your attention to a very serious injustice in rural America.

The simple fact is, you've been outsmarted again. Swindled out of hundreds of millions of dollars that you need and are entitled to have; money that our county, state and national economy will never see because you didn't have it to spend.

Take a hard look at your buildings and machinery. You can only live on depreciation so long. Take a hard look at what's happening to the churches, schools and businesses of our towns. The money has been swept from Main Street and has landed on Wall Street.

So who's to blame for all of this? In recent weeks I've heard the blame put on the government, Philip Morris and Kraft, and others. You name it, I've heard it. You can point fingers until the cows come home. You can accuse whoever you want of whatever you want, but you'll be like a lone wolf crying in the wilderness.

I'm not going to bore you with a lot of facts and figures, because by now you all know there is a very short supply of milk across this country.

In a matter of a few seconds in Green Bay, WI, at the National Cheese Exchange, someone decided that an already filthy rich dairy giant needed to show a much larger profit on its bottom line. The easiest way to do this was to steal the raw material from the unorganized dairy farmers. The dairy giants' bottom lines will look really good at the end of the fiscal year. How will yours look?

If you milk cows for a living, might I suggest that when you get through reading this, you take a look at your family. Then look at your individual operation from a business standpoint. Then get up and take a long, hard look in the mirror. Ask yourself this question: "Am I a part of the problem or part of the solution?"

Most farmers today chose their occupation because they love their independence. That same independence has put more farmers out of business than any other reason. There has never been a truer form of "divide and conquer" than in the dairy industry. How long can you continue to buy retail, sell wholesale and pay the freight both ways?

It always amazes me how a dairy producer can be smart enough to develop a 25,000 pound herd average, but at the same time doesn't put a price tag on the milk in his bulk tank.

Farmers tell me every day that there is no money in agriculture today. Actually, that isn't true. There are billions of dollars made on agricultural commodities every year—once it is out of the unorganized farmers' hands.

So, what's the solution? Produce more underpriced milk, get more efficient and just tighten that old belt one more notch? Get two more spouses and send them to town to work so you can buy groceries and have some health insurance?

There has to be a better way. If the old marketing system has failed you (and all indications are that it has), maybe it's time for a change. Call it what you want, color it what you want, it is called "working together with your neighbors" instead of "competing against them."

Let the industry people continue to do what they are good at and what they were intended to do—making excellent finished products. Leave the pricing of the raw material (in this case, milk) up to an organization made up of fellow dairy farmers, and let the price be based on cost of production, plus a profit.

There is just such an organization in existence today, and contrary to what your field representative may have told you, our sole purpose is to help you start in business by negotiating for you as one voice that is large enough and loud enough to take those dollars from the processors' bottom line and put them on your bottom line where they belong.

If you are merely looking for some short-term relief from a devastating economic blow, just dial 911. But if you are serious about your future in dairying, and the future of your family, and want some long-term relief, there is someone who truly cares. With you and the help of others, we can work together to provide a stable and brighter future for you, your family and America. If you are willing to take a stand and fight for what you deserve, call 1-800-247-2110, extension 355, or in this area 1-800-584-7057.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

Two weeks ago we all lost a friend and a dedicated teacher. Al Krause's first love was his family and then his students. He touched either your life or that of your children.

For several years Al had a dream. His dream was that a greenhouse would be constructed. It was to be attached to the science room at Franklin middle school, but because of budget cuts, his dream never came true.

He believed that all students past, present and future would be able to appreciate the beauty of nature and animals. He believed that each student needed to see, touch and experience the growth of pure nature. He knew that a greenhouse was an excellent way to learn about this world we live in.

To make this dream possible we need your financial help.

Alan's co-workers have offered to organize, plan and collect the necessary funds. We (Al's wife and daughter) are starting the fulfillment of his dream by making the first donation to "Al's Dream." But we can't do it alone; we need your help. Having the greenhouse built for the students in memory of Al is our way of saying thank-you to him.

If you would like to help contribute to "Al's Dream," send your donation (which is tax deductible) to: Al's Dream, c/o Diane Marshall, Franklin Middle School, 300 South Spruce, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

To everyone who donates, we thank you.

Sincerely,
Sue and Kelly Krause

ECHOES FROM THE PAST

HISTORICAL REVIEW OF THE TIMES AND ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

FROM THE NEW CITY

THE NEWS, HENRY W. LEE, EDITOR — JANUARY 11, 1897
THIEF RIVER FALLS, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA

News Items

"The Red Lake county organization will not be contested. Crookston thinks it the best solution of a perplexing problem; St. Hilaire is well pleased and McIntosh and Thief River Falls must take their medicine.

"The case of H. W. Lee vs. the Village Council was called in district court Tuesday and judgment rendered in favor of Mr. Lee, the village putting in no defense whatever. An order was made that the plaintiff should obtain the amount of his judgement from moneys in the county treasury belonging to the village. The case was called and judgement rendered at this term of court as the village had failed to file an answer within the time prescribed by law. An interesting point in connection with this case is the finding of Judge Ives that the village of Thief River Falls is a disorganized town."

Thief River Falls, Minn.

"We clip the following letter from the children's corner of the Northwestern Chronicle;

"The name of our village is Thief River Falls, and it is situated at the point where the Thief and Red Lake rivers flow into each other. This village has from 1,200 to 1,500 inhabitants. It is very beautiful here, especially in the summer. We have a waterfall about fifteen or eighteen feet in height and two saw mills, a planing mill and a flour mill, four in all, are worked by the water power mill and it looked queer and strange to me. The machinery seemed like it was alive and knew what it was doing. This is a very woody county and has many picturesque hills and pretty rivers. We have seven dry goods stores, seven groceries, four candy stores, and we have one Catholic church. Father Lawrence is the pastor. We have no convents here, nor sisters nor sisters' schools, and I am awfully sorry; but we have one English and one German school. I go to the English school and I am in the third room. My teacher's name is Miss Polly Ames and she is very good to us. I live in the city. It is very beautiful. I wish you could see it. The first man to build here was Mr. John LaBree. He built the first store also. The largest buildings in the city are the Great Northern Hotel, Hotel Ogahmah and the school house. This is only my second letter to the Corner. I am a little lame yet, but I can go out and play and have a good time. We girls of the Catholic church are going to have a basket social after New Years. Well, I must close my letter, hoping that it is not too long. -- Katie Holtzknecht.'"

Red Lake County

"The officers of the new county are as follows: Board of Commissioners: Samuel Gibeau, Chairman; Hanson, Anderson and Denman.

"W. T. Mullarky, Auditor; S. A. Swanson, Register of Deeds; Joseph Perrault, Clerk of Court; S. M. Dainard, Sheriff; M. A. Hatton, Treasurer; L. D. Simons, Judge of Probate; Frank Jeffers, Supt. of Schools; C. E. Boughton, County Attorney; J. Belaire, Coroner; J. C. Mathews, Court Commissioner.

"The board of commissioners held their first meeting at Red Lake Falls on Tuesday, Jan. 5th.

"The salary of the auditor will be $1,104 per annum, as fixed by law. The board fixed the salary of the superintendent of schools at $600, of the county attorney at $700 and of the judge of probate at $500 per annum.

"The attorney general has decided not to certify the quo warranto papers to the supreme court. The papers were prepared and filed by Attorneys Steenerson and Watts as instructed by him on his promise to sign and present them. But he now announced that on more mature consideration he has decided to take no action in the matter. And consequently Red Lake county will stand.

"The Fertile people have made the Red Lake county commissioners parties to their contest proceedings against the organization of Columbia county, but that will have no effect on the affairs of Red Lake county.

"LATER: Attorney General Childs has agreed to issue a quo warranto in the matter of the creation of Red Lake county, the case will be heard by the supreme court on January 22nd."

"The snow plow (dozer) pushed in here yesterday.

"The train came in at 2:25 p.m. to-day just 96 hours late and a fraction.

"On dit: That only six of the ten bachelors will remain in the ranks when '98 is ushered in.

"The marshal will see to it that no teams are allowed to stand out on the streets these cold nights.

"P. G. Paradis purchased the postoffice building yesterday for consideration of $1,750. He will not occupy the same before July 1.

"We had a little snow storm up this way last Sunday. In some places it drifted the snow in banks as high as eight to ten inches. That was too deep for Jim Hill's train, and therefore we had no train service Monday. The section men hadn't finished sweeping off the rails to Crookston.

"Frank Mogeau and his assistant will have the carpenter work on the St. Hilaire Lumber company's office finished some time tomorrow and will leave on Friday's train for Crookston. The boys are first-class carpenters and their work speaks for itself. Undoubtedly they will be up again in the spring when building season opens.

"The Bachelors of St. Hilaire have issued handsome invitations to a grand ball on the 29th. The bachelor list is unusually large in St. Hilaire. This is unfortunate as it is the only thing that can keep the town down. It can have but a slim future without a rising generation, and but a slim and unsatisfactory rising generation where the majority of the business men are bachelors."

Wylie Gleanings

"Wheat keeps coming in slow but steady.

"The snow which fell Sunday in company with the storm compelled some in this vicinity to use the shovel.

"Nelson J. Perron, who has been teaching school near Red Lake Falls the past few months, shook hands with the boys as he passed through here on his way to Fosston where his parents reside."

Rotarians Hear Talks On March Of Dimes

"The March of Dimes campaign, now under way here under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, was given the endorsement of the Rotary club at its luncheon meeting Tuesday noon in the Evelyn hotel. Action followed discussion of the drive by James Roche of the local committee and Andrew Anderson, chairman of the Pennington county chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. Another feature of the program was the presentation by Roy J. Oen of motion pictures supplied by the Shell Oil company, dealing with the oil industry in relation to the field of aviation. A safety film also was shown."

Blizzard Halts Traffic

"Starting out with a light snowfall Monday evening, a strong west wind Tuesday developed a fierce blizzard, filling the air with loose snow and limiting visibility to such an extent that traffic on the highways was brought to a standstill. School buses were unable to make their rounds Tuesday morning, and with restricted attendance, classes were dismissed at 10:30 for the rest of the day. The westbound Wheat Line got as far west as Overly, North Dakota, 200 miles west of Thief River Falls, where drifting snow prevented further progress, and the train returned to this city."

March Of Dimes Dance

"The first of two dances to be given for the benefit of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis under the sponsorship of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be staged in the municipal auditorium Friday evening, January 17, with music to be supplied by Eddie Eastman and his orchestra. The second dance is scheduled for January 31."

New Members Join Local National Guard

"At the regular meeting of the local National Guard company in the room on the second floor of the arena, ten new members were admitted and Lt. Colonel Mueller was present to inspect the membership roster previous to the activation of the unit. A. C. Tiedeman, company commanding officer, explained that membership in the company is not confined to Thief River Falls, but that men from surrounding communities are welcome to join."

60,347 Books Are Circulated

"That the Carnegie public library was a well patronized institution in 1946 is revealed in the annual report of Mrs. Hazel Halgrim, librarian, which indicates that a total of 60,347 volumes were circulated during the past year, of which 27,269 were adult books and 33,078 were juvenile works."

Mercury Ranges Widely

"With Tuesday's blizzard as the main feature, weather locally during the past week was marked generally by moderate temperatures, a high for the period of 34 above zero being recorded Saturday, while the low mark of 18 below was registered this morning. Approximately two inches of snow fell Monday night and Tuesday."

On January 9 at 1:53 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Pennington and Nora. Donald Dale Ryan, Thief River Falls, was driving a Bronco west on Nora when his vehicle slid into the intersection at Pennington Avenue and collided with a car driven by Cynthia Ann Vennes, Thief River Falls. John Anthony Rausch, Thief River Falls, was driving a Bronco south when his vehicle collided with a car driven by David Lyle Hoplin, St. Hilaire, which was traveling west on Mussey. The drivers did not see each other because of a high snow bank. Damages were estimated at $100 to the Rausch vehicle and $1,000 to the Hoplin vehicle.

On January 11 at 4:05 p.m. police received a report of an accident at First and Arnold. Alvina Marie Rutteman, Thief River Falls, was driving a car east on First, and Lisa Ann Redman, Mentor, was driving a pickup south on Arnold. On January 13 at 3:07 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Second and Main. Eric J. Jones, Thief River Falls, was driving a car south on Main when he lost control because of a vehicle slowing in traffic ahead of him, and the vehicle slid into the corner of City Auditorium. Damage was extensive. There was some damage to the building and the driver had a cut lip. He was cited for driving too fast for conditions.

On January 13 at 2:12 p.m. police received a report of an accident in the 300 block of Knight Avenue South. Carrie Margaret Juneau, St. Hilaire, was driving a GMC Jimmy south on Knight Avenue and following a car driven by Janice Margaret Umlauf, Duluth, which was also going south. EIA in horses topic of meet in Bemidji

Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA) is the topic of a public policy forum to take place Saturday, January 18, from 1 to 4 p.m. in the Maple Room at the Northern Inn in Bemidji.

Purpose of the forum is to permit public comment to help determine state regulatory requirements to control this serious horse disease. Horse owners, farm board members or anyone else interested in this issue should plan to attend the forum and voice their opinions and concerns.

At the forum will be representatives from the Minnesota Board of Animal health, University of Minnesota School of Veterinary Medicine, Minnesota legislators and Minnesota Extension Service.

EIA, commonly known as "swamp fever," is a viral disease threatening all equine family members. Sometimes considered to be the "AIDS disease of horses," it is a highly contagious and sometimes fatal disease that has no vaccine to prevent infection and no cure for infected animals. It is transmitted from infected animals to healthy animals through blood exchange, most often by feeding horse and deer flies.

Animals contracting EIA can develop acute symptoms and die; they can develop chronic symptoms and live with deteriorating health for several years; or animals can be infected but live a normal life with no symptoms.

All infected animals, regardless of the type of infection, are lifelong carriers of the disease and threaten the health of other animals with which they come in contact. At present, controlling the disease can only be accomplished by detecting and elimination or quarantine of carrier animals. The presence of EIA can be accurately confirmed only with a blood (Coggins) test.

Although EIA does not pose a threat to human health, its increasing presence in the northern areas of Minnesota are posing major concerns for horse owners. The Minnesota Board of Animal Health is the state agency responsible for controlling disease spread. Currently regulations do not require mandatory testing of animals at exhibitions or other horse gathering events. However, by law, those animals that have been voluntarily tested and confirmed as positive carriers must either be destroyed or undergo lifelong quarantine.

In response to the high level of concern about this disease in northern Minnesota, the Minnesota Board of Animal Health would like to solicit public input regarding increased testing requirements and quarantine restrictions in an attempt to minimize this disease. A good representation of regional horse owners at the EIA forum in Bemidji January 18 will provide major input on just how the board will attempt to contain this threatening disease.

Horse owners from across the region are urged to attend the forum, learn more about the disease and its implications, and make their opinions known. Contact the Beltrami county extension office at 218-759-0038 for more information.

Strandquist

Many places were receiving up to two feet of the white stuff which made drifts that closed roads and seemed to almost cover some houses. Now that's a blizzard which is. Up here in the great Northwest we have had sunshine all day today and we even seem to have about 5 minutes more of daylight than we had at Christmas time. That makes it seem that Spring is right around the corner.

Another sign of Spring is the first seed catalog was in our mailbox today. There is nothing more interesting than studying all the new items they have for sale. I am wondering if it is more profitable to get seeds and plant them in milk cartons and coffee cans that I've been saving or wait until the end of the season of all the nurseries that spring up around the grocery stores and markets. They usually have some nice plants and Roy has plenty to take care of without the added work while I take time to go out west to do taxes for a month or more.

Elphie Adlis, the president of the Strandquist seniors, has been nursing a real flu and now is better and has been having a good time for the holidays. Her daughter Kim and family of Minot came on Friday and returned home on Sunday. On Saturday they went to Thief River Falls to the Alan and Kelly Rogalla's new country home for dinner where they were joined by the George Wikstrom family and Vernon and Audrey Wikstrom from Goodridge.

The Bethesda Lutheran Church had their Christmas program on Sunday afternoon and a potluck dinner was served afterwards. Pastor Norquist has compiled his bird list for 1996 and it will surprise you how many he had seen. In Marshall and Kittson counties he had watched 119 different species and in the backyard 56. This area is great for birds with all the sunflowers and grains that grow so well here and all the sloughs for the water birds.

We are glad to have Betsy Thompson home for a short time from St. Charles, MO where she helped care for their daughter Barbara. On New Years Day she had as guests to celebrate Carol Thompson's birthday Richard, Carol, Karr, Robert, Cathy, Andrew and Lisa Thompson.

Snowmobilers need to drive with caution on state forest roads

While snowmobilers are generally prohibited from highways and public roads outside of city limits, most unplowed forest roads on public land in Minnesota are open to snowmobile traffic unless posted otherwise.

But winter traffic in the woods also includes logging trucks and equipment, and the possibility of truck/snowmobile collisions is cause for concern, according to officials with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"The winter logging season in northern Minnesota – from first freeze-up to spring thaw – is the same as the snowmobiling season," said Dick Kimball, area Trails & Waterways Manager for the DNR at Bemidji. "Many forest roads serve as snowmobile trails and connecting routes between trail systems.

In state forests, both plowed and unplowed roads are open to snowmobiles unless posted as closed. In federal forests, snowmobiles are allowed on unplowed roads only.

"It is the responsibility of the snowmobilers, when traveling on forest roads, to use caution, keep to the right and yield the right-of-way to logging trucks and other vehicles," said Kimball.

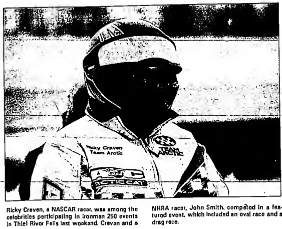
"There is a potential for logging activity in any wooded area, be it state, federal, county, tribal or private land," advised Kimball. "If a road has been plowed recently, or has lots of tire tracks, it's probably an indication that there's logging activity in the area. Slow down and give yourself time to react."

According to the DNR Forest Division, several logging operations are currently active in the White Earth State Forest located in Mahnomen, Becker and Clearwater counties; in the Beltrami Island State Forest in Beltrami, Lake of the Woods, Marshall and Roseau counties; and in the Paul Bunyan State Forest in Hubbard County.

John Smith, 1992 National Dragster "Rookie of the Year", was among the celebrities participating in the Ironman 250 events in Thief River Falls last weekend. Smith and a NASCAR racer, Ricky Craven, competed against each other in a featured event.

Arctic Cat provided several snowmobiles for the Make-A-Wish Celebrity Challenge, which was held Sunday during the Ironman 250 in Thief River Falls. During an auction Saturday night, a total of $10,000 was raised for the Make-A-Wish Foundation. The proceeds from the auction benefit children under the age of 18 who have been diagnosed with a life-threatening illness.

Brad Pako of Fallon flies from one of the snocross jumps on his Arctic Cat snowmobile. Pako finished fifth in the overall standings of the Commercial Sewing Ironman 250 snowmobile race which was held in Thief River Falls last weekend.



Ricky Craven, a NASCAR racer, was among the celebrities participating in Ironman 250 events in Thief River Falls last weekend. Craven and a NHRA racer, John Smith, competed in a featured event, which included an oval race and a drag race.

Finseth sworn into office for his third term

State Representative Tim Finseth of Angus was sworn into office for his third term Tuesday, January 7 and has received his appointments for the 1997-98 legislative sessions.

Rep. Finseth will serve on the House Environment & Natural Resources, Environment & Natural Resources Finance Division, Transportation and Transit and Ways & Means committees. He is the Lead Republican on the Ways & Means Committee.

"One of my legislative priorities has always been environmental issues," Rep. Finseth said, "so I am pleased with my appointments to the Environment & Natural Resources committees."

House Republican Leader Steve Sviggum said Rep. Finseth "was instrumental in the historic wetlands reforms we made last session. There is, however, still more work to be done in that area. Rep. Finseth is one of the most knowledgeable legislators in environmental and hunting issues and our caucus depends on him for leadership in that area.

"He is not afraid to tackle tough issues," Sviggum added, "and the respect he has earned has led me to his appointment as the Lead Republican on the Ways & Means committee." Ways & Means is the last committee stop for all legislation before it is allowed to continue to the full House for a vote.

Constituents can reach Rep. Finseth in St. Paul at 377 State Office Building, 100 Constitution Avenue, St. Paul, MN 55155 and by calling 1-612-296-9918. His computer e-mail address is: rep.tim.finseth@house.leg.state.mn.us. He can also be reached at home by calling 1-218-745-6200 or writing to Route 3 Box 22, Angus, MN 56712.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee were in Fargo, ND, during Christmas visiting at the Mr. and Mrs. Julion Lee home. Patrick and Mark Lee were also there and Dick's sister Ella from Missouri came to visit with them.

With all the snow this year it has been a good winter for owners of snowcats. Not so good for the "woodsmen" and "lumberjacks". Lately there has also been excitement for spectators and winter sports enthusiasts. Drivers from our area have won some beautiful trophies in recognition of behavior and good sportsmanship. In the Red River Shootout Snowmobile Race in Thief River Falls on January 5th, 1997 in the 40 mile race on the river, Joan Erickson of Gully won first in the Women's 440 Fan Class. Tamara Sundrud of Fosston won first in the Women's 440 Liquid Class. Tamara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sundrud. In the Men's 440 Fan class Doyle Erickson of Bagley won first, Trent Dyrdahl of Gully also placed in the races. This is not the first nor the only trophy won by Joan Erickson and its not the first year she has participated in snowmobile races. Her collection of trophies would make any trophy case proud. Her participation could make any parent's or grandparent's heart skip a beat.

Tony and Virginie Weber visited at the Arnold Brovold home, Sunday evening. They are dismantling one of the very old houses in the Northwest part of town. They brought some pieces of old newspaper that must have been used for insulation between walls. The newspapers were brown and crisp and in small pieces. There have been many occupants in the house. Thorwald Brekke lived in the house for a few years. The last ones were Alvin and Ella Amberson, Mr. and Mrs. Sevrin Swanson and her handicapped sister were of the earliest people living in the house. Parts of the Minneapolis Daily News from April 21, 1916 were found, also a "Skandinaven" from April 16th, 1916. Another part must have been a McIntosh paper or had news from there. It said the following officers were declared duly elected to the offices opposite their respected names.

Engvel Vaatvelt, President Village Council; J.K. Holverson, Trustee Village Council; John Alrick, Trustee Village Council; Shadduck, Trustee Village Council; Geo. A. Bello, Recorder; Chas L. Conger, Treasurer; Ed Jorgenson, Constable; Emil Jorgenson, Justice of the Peace.

Elaine Bergman and Carol Burslie of McIntosh were Sunday afternoon visitors and luncheon guests at the Kenneth Forsberg home.

Kenneth and Alice Forsberg visited with Leon Peterson at his home on Thursday evening. They had a chance to enjoy his Christmas decorations. Nancy complained about how hard it was to find a nice Christmas tree this year with all the snow and ice. Leon must have chose the nicest tree in the area at least with his carefully placed decorations to further emphize its beauty it seemed like a majestic tree. They also enjoyed coffee and Christmas goodies and it seemed like Christmas all over again even after New Year's.

New Year's visitors for a family "Get-together" at the Kathy Forsberg home in Crookston were Kenneth and Alice Forsberg from Gully, Elaine Bergen of McIntosh, Warren and Barb Torgerson, Erick and Arlene Bergman, Wanda and Rueben Rydeen all from Clearbrook also Jerry and Kathy's daughter Kimberly and Jeremy Reitmeier and family from Beltrami. They all enjoyed a potluck New Year's dinner together.

The first big blizzard of 1997 missed Northwest Minnesota but came almost up to Thief River Falls. It made us feel like we were in the "Banana Belt" though it was a bit too cold for that, but we got no new snow to be blown around. Roy's brother Johnny who has spent the fall and winter so far in Brainerd called and said they had 19 inches of new snow and still more falling. By the way, Johnny is expected to be moving up to Karlstad about the 17th of this month.

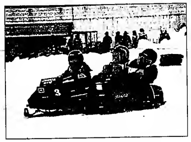
A Kitty Cat competitor appears fiercly intent upon competing in the KCPRO race held Sunday during the Ironman 250 in Thief River Falls.

Last minute preparations before the final race for this youngster included an adjustment to gloves, and instructions from mom and dad. Sunday several youngsters competed in the KCPRO Kitty Cat races held during the Ironman 250 in Thief River Falls.



One youngster's Kitty Cat was crunched between two competitors in a final heat of Kitty Cat stock races held Sunday. The collision and another roll over resulted in this final race being re-started. The race was held during the Ironman 250 in Thief River Falls last weekend.

Bemidji 51-34 winner vs. TRF girls

Bemidji blitzed Thief River Falls 16-3 in the second quarter Saturday and went on to beat the visiting Prowlers 51-34 in girls high school basketball.

"We shot real poor, especially in the second quarter," explained Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "Bemidji has a good team. They're big, and they're physical. You've got to play well if you want to beat a team like that."

Thief River Falls, down 12-8 at the first break, went 1-for-11 from the field in the second quarter and fell behind 28-11. It was 42-23 through three quarters.

Bemidji got double figure scoring from Amber and Erin Richgels with 17 and 11 points, respectively. Kim Stenseth led the Thief River Falls offense with 14 points.

Thief River Falls was held to just 34 field goal attempts, hitting 12 of them (35 percent). They were 10-for-14 at the free throw line. Bemidji was 23-for-51 from the field (45 percent) and 5-for-12 at the line. The Lumberjacks had a 39-23 rebound advantage. The Prowlers had more turnovers, 24-20.

Results left Bemidji 5-5 and Thief River Falls 5-6.

Grygla-Gatzke overtakes RLF

Grygla-Gatzke had to weather a sizzling Red Lake Falls start before laying claim to an 85-67 boys high school basketball win Saturday.

Red Lake Falls quickly jumped ahead 16-6 and had 19 points four minutes into the game. The visitors were 9-for-10 from the field, including a 3-for-3 showing from 3-point range, while coming out of the first quarter with a 21-19 lead.

"They (RLF) really lit it up in the first quarter," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "They really came at us. But we changed up our defense a little, and we got on a pretty good run in the second and third quarters. That put us up, but we never did have a comfortable lead until the end."

It was the eighth straight win for an unbeaten Grygla-Gatzke team that had a half-dozen double-figure scorers, led by Aaron Hollhusen with 19 points. Josiah Hoefer was the Red Lake Falls scoring leader with 15 points.

Grygla-Gatzke was 36-for-57 from the field (63 percent), but just 11-for-21 at the free throw line. "We got a lot of points from our defense," explained Johnson. "We got some steals, and some high-percentage shots."

Red Lake Falls wound up 25-for-47 from the floor (53 percent) and 10-for-13 at the line. The winners had a 22-17 rebound edge.

"We were playing right with them until the last two minutes of the half," noted Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "We had been handling their pressure, but all of a sudden the press got to us."

Jenny Johnson and Jennicca Gallagher led the Wolverines with 16 and 10 points, respectively. Brandi Olson scored 17 points and Kristi Kilen had 15 for the Nordics.

Strong start carries Pioneers

■ NCTC men's team out-scores Mesabi 96-85

Northland started the 1996-97 Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball season with a bang Saturday, jumping out to a 13-1 lead and knocking down 15 of 20 shots during the first half stretch en route to a 96-85 Northern Division win over Mesabi. The MCCC opener for both teams was delayed one day by the weather, and it was the Pioneers' first home game since Dec. 11.

"It's nice to be home," said Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "The ball starts to go in, and you play that much harder on defense."

While Northland shot 66 percent from the field in the first half (20/30) and 60 percent from the floor for the game (37/62), Dannhoff was more excited about the Pioneers' defense than their offense.

"I thought for the most part, we played pretty intense defense," said Dannhoff. "We were the quicker team, and we used that to our advantage."

Northland led from wire-to-wire, but didn't always dominate play. A 3-point basket by Marcus Merriett provided the Pioneers with their biggest lead of the first half at 31-16 with 8:40 to play, but the difference was down to just 46-38 when Brooks Hannula of Mesabi dropped a 3-pointer with 1:30 left in the half.

However, the gap was back to 51-38 at the break as Kenta McGaughy knocked down a trey and Ikenna Martin beat the buzzer with a fast break basket.

A rebound basket by McGaughy, a drive by Hassan Jihad and a 3-point play by Macy Ford pushed the Pioneers' lead to 63-42 – the biggest spread of the game – just 3 1/2 minutes into the second half.

But once again Mesabi managed to hang in there with a 13-4 response that made it 67-55 following a Jason Carlson trey with 13:26 still to play. But that's as close as it got.

"We're streaky," acknowledged Dannhoff. "That's the just the style of ball we play. When you press and fast break, you're going to get points in bunches. We felt we were okay as long as it (lead) stayed above 10 points."

Five Pioneers hit double figures led by McGaughy, a 6-3 sophomore, with 24 points; Martin, a 6-4 freshman, 16; Jihad, a 6-3 sophomore, 16; Jon Hager, a 6-2 freshman, 14, and Merriett, a 6-0 freshman, 11.

Carlson, a 6-3 freshman, led Mesabi with 19 points, while Hannula and Jason Wefel both netted 17, and Joe Chambers had 14.

Mesabi was 30-for-67 from the field (45 percent). The free throw figures were nearly identical, with Northland hitting 15 of 23 and Mesabi making 16 of 25. The Pioneers had a 40-26 rebound advantage, and also had more turnovers, 22-19.

Northland wins women's basketball game 74-66...

NCTC numbers beat Mesabi

It was a matter of time. Mesabi's small numbers simply couldn't keep pace with Northland's depth. The Pioneers shook off the visitor's challenge with a 10-0 run midway through the second half to pick up a 74-66 Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball win Saturday.

The MCCC Northern Division opener for the two teams, delayed a day because of the weather, was closer than anticipated. The Pioneers won 82-53 when they met in a nonconference match-up at the Itasca Invitational just prior to the holiday break.

Led by 5-10 center Michelle Madison and 5-7 forward Livia Monacelli, Mesabi's seven-player roster stayed with Northland until the stretch run. The lead changed hands 12 times and there were two ties before the Pioneers came out of the first half with a 34-33 lead.

The last lead change came with 18:33 to play when Jenny Smith hit a 3-point basket to put the Pioneers ahead 39-37. Mesabi stayed close, though, with back-to-back buckets by Madison making it 55-51 with 10:34 left.

That's when Northland finally put it away as LaVonne Nelson came up with a 3-point play on the inside, and moments later added another free throw; Smith scored from underneath, Tammy Nerby connected on a base line drive, and Naomi Wilebski converted a Mesabi turnover into a fast break lay-up for a 65-51 spread with 8:53 remaining.

Northland coach Rick Nikunen, who has been in Mesabi's small-squad situation in the past, recognized the Pioneers' obvious advantage as he freely substituted to maintain an up-tempo pace.

"They (Mesabi) were missing some shots in the second half they were hitting in the first half," noted Nikunen. "I think the numbers had something to do with that. We kept subbing fresh people and kept pushing the ball up the floor. Even if we didn't always get the shots on breaks, we wanted to make them run. We wanted to wear them down."

Northland's balanced attack featured Wilebski, a 5-11 freshman from Kittson County North, with 17 points; Adria Olson, a 5-11 freshman from Edmore, ND), 16; and Smith, a 5-10 sophomore from Stephen, 15. For Mesabi, Madison scored 26 points and Monacelli had 20.

Northland was 31-for-72 from the field (43 percent) and 9-for-16 at the free throw line. "I didn't think we played particularly well offensively," said Nikunen. "We made some poor decisions."

Mesabi went 29-for-60 from the floor (48 percent) and 7-for-12 at the line.

Northland had a 36-33 rebound edge. Mesabi topped the turnover charts 17-13.

Pioneers' bench has role in win over VCC

Nearly half of Northland's points came from its bench Sunday as the Pioneers got by Vermilion 90-86 in Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball.

The Northland bench out-scored its counterpart 44-13 as the Pioneers completed an MCCC Northwest Division-opening weekend home court sweep that began with a 96-85 Saturday victory over Mesabi.

John Harris got the 15; Kenta McGaughy and Ikenna Martin both netted 13; Hassan Jihad and Jon Hager picked up 12 each; and Marcus Merriett contributed 10. Harris and McGaughy also grabbed 11 rebounds apiece.

Northland women tip 9-1 VCC 61-54

Sunday, Northland still exhibited [illegible] a team coming off a long holiday break as the Pioneers labored against a small Mesabi squad before winning the Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball opener 74-66. Sunday their game came together in a 61-54 victory over a Vermilion team that arrived in Thief River Falls with a 9-1 record.

"Against Mesabi we were still struggling – trying to put things together after the lay-off," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "Things went a lot better, especially offensively, against Vermilion. It was a nice win for us. They have a good team. They're big, and they're experienced with four starters back from last year. It was a really good ball game. We played well. We're taking steps in the right direction."

Northland led 32-30 at halftime, and the game remained close to the end.

Jenny Smith connected on five 3-pointers and was 4-for-4 at the free throw line while leading Northland with with 19 points. Adria Olson of the Pioneers made 7 of 10 shots from the field for 14 points. Vermilion's Sabina Hollander, a 5-11 sophomore, finished with a game-high 22 points.

The Pioneers, 7-2 overall and 2-0 in the Northern Division, host the Mayville State University junior varsity tonight (Wednesday) in a 5:30 p.m. nonconference make-up game. The Pioneers return to MCCC play Saturday against Rainy River in International Falls.

■ NCTC men's team out-scores Mesabi 96-85

Northland started the 1996-97 Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball season with a bang Saturday, jumping out to a 13-1 lead and knocking down 15 of 20 shots during one first half stretch en route to a 96-85 Northern Division win over Mesabi. The MCCC opener for both teams was delayed one day by the weather, and it was the Pioneers' first home game since Dec. 11.

"It's nice to be home," said Northland coach Mark Dannhoff. "The ball starts to go in, and you play that much harder on defense."

While Northland shot 66 percent from the field in the first half (20/30) and 60 percent from the floor for the game (37/62), Dannhoff was more excited about the Pioneers' defense than their offense.

"I thought for the most part, we played pretty intense defense," said Dannhoff. "We were the quicker team, and we used that to our advantage."

Northland led from wire-to-wire, but didn't always dominate play. A 3-point basket by Marcus Merriell provided the Pioneers with their biggest lead of the first half at 34-16 with 8:40 to play, but the difference was down to just 46-38 when Brooks Hannula of Mesabi dropped a 3-pointer with 1:30 left in the half.

However, the gap was back to 51-38 at the break as Kenta McGaughy knocked down a trey and Ikenna Martin beat the buzzer with a fast break basket.

A rebound basket by McGaughy, a drive by Hassan Jihad and a 3-point play by Macy Ford pushed the Pioneers' lead to 63-42 – the biggest spread of the game – just 3 1/2 minutes into the second half.

But once again Mesabi managed to hang in there with a 13-4 response that made it 67-55 following a Jason Carlson trey with 13:26 still to play. But that's as close as it got.

"We're streaky," acknowledged Dannhoff. "That's the just the style of ball we play. When you press and fast break, you're going to get points in bunches. We felt we were okay as long as it (lead) stayed above 10 points."

Five Pioneers hit double figures led by McGaughy, a 6-3 sophomore, with 24 points; Martin, a 6-4 freshman, 16; Jihad, a 6-3 sophomore, 16, Jon Hager, a 6-2 freshman, 14, and Merriell, a 6-0 freshman, 11.

Carlson, a 6-3 freshman, led Mesabi with 19 points, while Hannula and Jason Wefel both netted 17, and Joe Chambers had 14.

Mesabi was 30-for-67 from the field (45 percent). The free throw figures were nearly identical, with Northland hitting 15 of 23 and Mesabi making 16 of 25. The Pioneers had a 40-26 rebound advantage, and also had more turnovers, 22-19.

Northland wins women's basketball game 74-66...

It was a matter of time. Mesabi's small numbers simply couldn't keep pace with Northland's depth. The Pioneers shook off the visitor's challenge with a 10-0 run midway through the second half to pick up a 74-66 Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball win Saturday.

The MCCC Northern Division opener for the two teams, delayed a day because of the weather, was closer than anticipated. The Pioneers won 82-53 when they met in a nonconference match-up at the Itasca Invitational just prior to the holiday break.

Led by 5-10 center Michelle Madison and 5-7 forward Livia Monacelli, Mesabi's seven-player roster stayed with Northland until the stretch run. The lead changed hands 12 times and there were two ties before the Pioneers came out of the first half with a 34-33 lead.

The last lead change came with 18:33 to play when Jenny Smith hit a 3-point basket to put the Pioneers ahead 39-37. Mesabi stayed close, though, with back-to-back buckets by Madison making it 55-51 with 10:34 left.

That's when Northland finally put it away as LaVonne Nelson came up with a 3-point play on the inside, and moments later added another free throw; Smith scored from underneath, Tammy Nerby connected on a base line drive, and Naomi Wilebski converted a Mesabi turnover into a fast break lay-up for a 65-51 spread with 8:53 remaining.

Northland coach Rick Nikunen, who has been in Mesabi's small-squad situation in the past, recognized the Pioneers' obvious advantage as he freely substituted to maintain an up-tempo pace.

"They (Mesabi) were missing some shots in the second half they were hitting in the first half," noted Nikunen. "I think the numbers had something to do with that. We kept subbing fresh people and kept pushing the ball up the floor. Even if we didn't always get the shots on breaks, we wanted to make them run. We wanted to wear them down."

Northland's balanced attack featured Wilebski, a 5-11 freshman from Kittson County North, with 17 points; Adria Olson, a 5-11 freshman from Edmore, ND), 16; and Smith, a 5-10 sophomore from Stephen, 15. For Mesabi, Madison scored 26 points and Monacelli had 20.

Northland was 31-for-72 from the field (43 percent) and 9-for-16 at the free throw line. "I didn't think we played particularly well offensively," said Nikunen. "We made some poor decisions."

Mesabi went 29-for-60 from the floor (48 percent) and 7-for-12 at the line.

Northland had a 36-33 rebound edge. Mesabi topped the turnover charts 17-13.

Pioneers' bench has role in win over VCC

Nearly half of Northland's points came from its bench Sunday as the Pioneers got by Vermilion 90-86 in Minnesota Community College Conference men's basketball.

The Northland bench out-scored its counterpart 44-13 as the Pioneers completed an MCCC Northwest Division-opening weekend home court sweep that began with a 96-85 Saturday victory over Mesabi.

Northland's balance produced six double figure scorers, but nobody with more than 15 points. John Harris got the 15, Kenta McGaughy and Ikenna Martin both netted 13; Hassan Jihad and Jon Hager picked up 12 each; and Marcus Merriell contributed 10. Harris and McGaughy also grabbed 11 rebounds apiece.

Vermilion, meanwhile, relied on the 1-2 scoring punch of 6-6 sophomore Bill Fetsch with 25 points and 6-4 sophomore Phil Deal with 24.

Northland led 43-41 at halftime.

The Pioneers were 33-for-89 from the field (37 percent) and a busy 20-for-33 at the free throw line. The Ironmen went 35-for-75 from the floor (47 percent) and had a 12-for-21 free throw game. Northland out-rebounded Vermilion 61-47 and had 11 turnovers – half as many as Vermilion.

Bemidji 51-34 winner vs. TRF girls

Bemidji blitzed Thief River Falls 16-3 in the second quarter Saturday and went on to beat the visiting Prowlers 51-34 in girls high school basketball.

"We shot real poor, especially in the second quarter," explained Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "Bemidji has a good team. They're big, and they're physical. You've got to play well if you want to beat a team like that."

Thief River Falls, down 12-8 at the first break, went 1-for-11 from the field in the second quarter and fell behind 28-11. It was 42-23 through three quarters.

Bemidji got double figure scoring from Amber and Erin Richgels with 17 and 11 points, respectively. Kim Stenseth led the Thief River Falls offense with 14 points.

Thief River Falls was held to just 34 field goal attempts, hitting 12 of them (35 percent). They were 10-for-14 at the free throw line. Bemidji was 23-for-51 from the field (45 percent) and 5-for-12 at the line. The Lumberjacks had a 39-23 rebound advantage. The Prowlers had more turnovers, 24-20.

Grygla-Gatzke overtakes RLF

Grygla-Gatzke had to weather a sizzling Red Lake Falls start before laying claim to an 85-67 boys high school basketball win Saturday.

Red Lake Falls quickly jumped ahead 16-6 and had 19 points four minutes into the game. The visitors were 9-for-10 from the field, including a 3-for-3 showing from 3-point range, while coming out of the first quarter with a 21-19 lead.

"They (RLF) really lit it up in the first quarter," pointed out Grygla-Gatzke coach Vern Johnson. "They really came at us. But we changed up our defense a little, and we got an a pretty good run in the second and third quarters. That put us up, but we never did have a comfortable lead until the end."

It was the eighth straight win for an unbeaten Grygla-Gatzke team that had a half-dozen double-figure scores, led by Aaron Holthusen with 19 points. Josiah Hoefer was the Red Lake Falls scoring leader with 15 points.

Grygla-Gatzke was 36-for-57 from the field (63 percent), but just 11-for-21 at the free throw line. "We got a lot of points from our defense," explained Johnson. "We got some steals, and some high-percentage shots."

Wolverines stop Nordics 55-43

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke closed out the first half with a 13-0 run Monday en route to a 55-43 girls high school basketball win over Marshall County Central at Goodridge.

The Wolverines, after trailing 8-6 at the end of the first quarter, were clinging to a 20-17 edge when their press suddenly turned effective, leading to a 33-17 halftime advantage. It was 43-24 at the end of the third quarter. The Nordics closed the gap at the end.

"We were playing right with them until the last two minutes of the half," noted Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "We had been handling their pressure, but all of a sudden the press got to us."

Jenny Johnson and Jennicca Gallagher led the Wolverines with 16 and 10 points, respectively. Brandi Olson scored 17 points and Kristi Kilen had 15 for the Nordics.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke was 27-for-66 from the field (44 percent) and 3-for-10 at the free throw line. Marshall County Central went 16-for-43 from the floor (37 percent) and 8-for-12 at the line. The Nordics had a 30-29 rebound edge, but also had more turnovers, 23-13.

Northland women tip 9-1 VCC 61-54

Saturday, Northland still exhibited signs of a team coming off a long holiday break as the Pioneers labored against a small Mesabi squad before winning the Minnesota Community College Conference women's basketball opener 74-66. Sunday, their game came together in a 61-54 victory over a Vermilion team that arrived in Thief River Falls with a 9-1 record.

"Against Mesabi we were still struggling – trying to put things together after the lay off," explained Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "Things went a lot better, especially offensively, against Vermilion. It was a nice win for us. They have a good team. They're big, and they're experienced with four starters back from last year. It was a really good ball game. We played well. We're taking steps in the right direction."

Northland led 32-30 at halftime, and the game remained close to the end.

Jenny Smith connected on five 3-pointers and was 4-for-4 at the free throw line while leading Northland with with 19 points. Adria Olson of the Pioneers made 7 of 10 shots from the field for 14 points. Vermilion's Sabrina Hollander, a 5-10 sophomore, finished with a game-high 22 points.

Northland was 24-for-55 from the field (44 percent) and 8-for-17 at the free throw line. Vermilion struggled through 20-for-70 shooting from the floor (29 percent) and went 12-for-15 at the line. The visitors had a 45-43 rebound edge. Northland topped the turnovers charts 14-13.

The Pioneers, 7-2 overall and 2-0 in the Northern Division, host the Mayville State University junior varsity tonight (Wednesday) in a 5:30 p.m. nonconference make-up game. The Pioneers return to MCCC play Saturday against Rainy River in International Falls.

Thief River Falls JV girls win in overtime

Thief River Falls was a 35-33 overtime winner over Bemidji Saturday in girls junior varsity high school basketball.

Stephanie Leach scored 8 points to lead the Thief River Falls team that led 8-4 at the end of the first quarter, fell behind 19-14 at halftime and trailed 27-25 through three quarters before gaining a 29-29 regulation time tie.

An ill-advised bet with Thief River Falls' No. 1 Green Bay Packers fan – Lincoln High School head football coach Jeff Mumm – wound up costing Charlie Cornell a bit of dignity Tuesday when the Lincoln instructor was forced to wear one of the famous Wisconsin cheese-head hats and intermittently wave a miniature Packers flag during his classroom presentations. The Packers' success this year has allowed Mumm and the rest of the Dairy State alumni to step into the '90s after having survived decades of National Football League mediocrity through constant reference to Green Bay's TitleTown USA image acquired during their Vince Lombardi glory days of the 1960s. Cornell, for reasons most educated individuals would have a hard time fathoming, bet Mumm the Minnesota Vikings would beat the Packers, and that Green Bay would never advance far in the NFL playoffs. Mumm obviously won, and was quick to call in his winnings. The hat will be passed on to Thief River Falls businessman Ragan Rohl, who, like Cornell, raised Mumm's ire by ranking the Vikings ahead of the Packers.

Goodridge bench plays major role in win over KCN

Kittson County North used a box-and-one defense in an effort to hold down leading Goodridge scorer Chris Grabowska. It was effective. But several others filled the void as the Huskies beat the visiting Cougars 57-37 in a Monday (Jan. 6) boys high school basketball match-up.

Grabowska still finished with a game-high 12 points and Benji Marquis netted 11, while Jared Eidelbes (10) and Ben Hanson (8) led a strong effort from the Huskies' bench.

"We played really well," said Goodridge coach Eric Mickelson. "It was a real good effort by the kids off the bench."

Goodridge turned a 17-13 first quarter edge into a 29-17 halftime spread.

"We had a good second quarter," noted Mickelson. "First quarter was a little too fast for us. We slowed it down in the second quarter, became more patient, and got some good shots."

Goodridge was 26-for-51 from the field (51 percent) and 4-for-6 at the free throw line. Kittson County North was just 15-for-57 from the floor (26 percent) and 4-for-13 at the line. The Huskies had a 39-23 rebound advantage. The Cougars topped the turnover charts 13-12.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to the entire community of Thief River Falls for their love and support.

It may have been the kind words you said, the simple embrace, the card you sent, the tear you cried, the smile of hope or the hug you gave. No matter how big or small, we are overwhelmed by the warmth and support of the entire community.

We would like to thank all of you for helping us through the death of our loved one, Alan Krause, to cancer. Although we cannot thank all of you personally (the list would be endless), we need to mention some of you.

Special thanks to Audrey, Angie and Bonnie from Hospice. You made a difficult time bearable.

To St. Bernard's Parish, Father Dennis and Father Bob, your spiritual guidance was a true gift from God.

To the relatives of the Krause and Delorme families, your love, support and prayers kept us strong.

To Al's best friends Dale, John, Bob, Pat and Art, Al couldn't have had better friends;

To our Special friends Lori, Connie, Amy, Jason, Paul and Bill, Rob and Mary, Diane, John and Rose, Susie, Pat and Retta, Paul and Carol and Alicia, you have made us feel so special we are truly blessed.

To the entire School District 564, with a special thanks to the Franklin staff, you make us feel like family.

To our wonderful neighbors Mae, Iver and Betty, Arlene and Ron and Mike and Diane, we couldn't live in a kinder neighborhood.

To the Times for their continuous coverage of the students of our community, thank you.

To everyone who has touched our hearts, and showed us that we still live in a society that cares, our deepest appreciation.

Finally, to all past and present students, may you carry the spirit of learning with you throughout your lives.

With gratitude,
Sue and Kelly Krause and the family of Ernest Delorme

Pennington County seeks winter disaster declaration

Pennington county is in the process of submitting documentation to be declared a disaster area as a result of the heavy snowfall recorded this winter. It will be joining efforts and documentation being collected statewide.

Pennington County Sheriff Gerald Moe, the county's emergency management director, said the period they are looking at is up to January 4 and affects the cost of snow removal in the county, townships and cities. He said those agencies need to have their information returned to his department as quickly as possible. They want to submit documentation on a county level.

Moe said he isn't sure whether all counties in the state of Minnesota would be included in the disaster declaration. He said he believes the declaration would be the same as the flood disaster declaration, which involved several counties in the region, not the entire state.

Moe said the storms have had quite an impact on the county, according to early report. He said he hopes chances of getting a disaster declaration are good.

To his knowledge Pennington county has never been declared a disaster because of the cost of snow removal. It seems that no one has pursued it in the past. Sheriff Moe belives counties hit a little harder have been requesting more assistance so state officials began looking at it. He noted that South Dakota has already been declared disaster area.

Other than present practices of encouraging drivers to avoid travel during storms, enforcement will remain about the same. Sheriff Moe said he has no authority to close state highways and if it came to it, closing county highways and roads would involve several officials. He said Pennington county hasn't had the kind of problems other areas have had. People appear to be paying attention to road and weather reports.

Media and public officials have come under fire recently because of their coverage. Some people have been saying that the coverage is another example of a situation being blown out of proportion.

Moe said his dispatchers have been receiving some of the same complaints, but he doesn't believe it has been blown out of proportion. "Because you live in town," he said, "you don't always see what it's like out in the county."

In the case of the media, Moe said he couldn't say enough good about the coverage. "It's been great," he said. "I find out more by listening to the radio than by looking at our teletype."

He added that if people don't want to listen, it's up to them.

Moe said he isn't sure how long it will take to get the disaster declaration prepared and moved through the proper channels. If more storms are recorded, they'll just keep adding it to the list if the county is declared a disaster area.

The deadline for the application to be returned to the state is Thursday, January 23. He encouraged all officials to have their reports in to his office as quickly as possible.

Times, Northern Watch go online January 22

The Times and the Northern Watch will soon be found on its own web site. Beginning January 22, the newspaper's web site can be found at http://www.trftimes.com and http://www.nwatch.com.

The new web site will offer visitors access to 11 sites or links to other sites. Specifically, visitors will be able to access information about The Times, newsroom, sports department, editorials, business and agriculture, weather, high school activities, history, senior meals and activities, and even classified advertisements. Once a site is accessed, visitors will find news, pictures, graphics, and other links that may be of interest.

The Times and Northern Watch join a growing number of newspapers now offering web sites for browsers. Browsers will find top stories from the newspapers, as well as information not found in The Times or Northern Watch. Not all of the information found in The Times or Northern Watch will be found at the web site, however. Hopefully, as the project develops, it will become more geared to the needs of the browser.

Publisher John Mattson said, "The Times is taking initiative and advancing into several new ventures, including its own web site and on line classified advertisements. In the near future, readers will learn that The Times has made significant changes in the production of the newspaper, but right now we are particularly excited to introduce the new web site, which has been under the direction of a new employee at The Times, Marnie Berglund, our internet coordinator."

Berglund, a resident of Fosston, has been working with computers and networks for six years and internet for one and one-half years. She admits that this is her most ambitious project.

Berglund said her goal was to offer low cost advertising access on the internet, and give on-line users from outside the area, indeed the world, an opportunity to find out more about Thief River Falls.

The Times

WATCH

Berglund said she is interested in hearing from other designers in the area about our web site.

In February local advertisers will be approached about the project. Shortly after their introduction to the web site, visitors will find advertisements from their favorite businesses, and possibly even some bargains they won't be able to find in the newspaper.

Visitors can participate on the sites in at least two ways. One way is through a new classified advertisement service. The new service, called AdQuest, is operated by Quest Network, which has assembled one of the largest and fastest databases in the country. More than 125 publications with classified ads from 37 states, currently use Quest Network.

By placing a classified advertisement on this network, participants will find people from a much wider geographic area taking interest in what they have to offer. Quest Network's database of information is promoted in affiliated papers with a total circulation exceeding 8.5 million.

AdQuest is expected to be available to area residents in March. More about how it works will appear in future editions of The Times or Northern Watch.

Visitors to the web site can also participate by letting us know what you think about the site or giving us some interesting story ideas. You can send us your ideas and suggestions via e-mail: trftimes@trftimes.com or nwatch@nwatch.com.

Access to the site has been simplified as much as possible. Users familiar with internet just need to enter: http://www.trftimes.com, or http://www.nwatch.com. Individuals unfamiliar with internet or who do not have access to a computer can get access to the world wide web at the Minnesota Extension office at the Pennington County Courthouse, or the Thief River Falls Public Library.

Minnesota Extension office hours are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. They ask that time on the computer be reserved, and so that someone is available to answer questions. The Extension office telephone number is 681-2116.

There is menu-driven access to internet at the public library. Individuals interested in gaining access to internet only have to ask for assistance.

A public hearing on the budget has been scheduled for March 17. Final action will be taken on budget adjustments at a meeting on March 24.

As part of the budgeting process, Robicheau has proposed a community forum on February 8. Specific invitation will be sent out in an attempt to have a broad representation. Business, community groups, service clubs, chamber, senior citizens, staff, parents, students, rural organizations, district committees, the school board, city council, NCTC, county commissioners, media people and other agencies will be invited. In addition, a general invitation will be included in the paper. The forum has been scheduled for Saturday, February 8 from 9 to 3 p.m. at Challenger.

Fire department reports busiest year on record

Fire Chief Dave Bjorkman called 1996 the busiest year on record for the Thief River Falls fire department. It was also one of the most expensive.

According to the annual report submitted to the Thief River Falls City Council Tuesday night, the fire department responded to 163 calls in 1996, which is up from 133 in 1995. The highest number of calls in one year, prior to this year's total, was in 1993 when they responded to 142 calls. The ten year average is 127 calls.

It was also an expensive year in terms of fire damage. Two fires, the fire at the local elevator and at the county's solid waste facility, caused the most damage. The total in 1996 was estimated at $993,445. By contrast, the damage estimate last year was one of the lowest on record at $114,150. Prior to this year's total, the highest total in the past six years was recorded in 1994 at $337,440.

There were no deaths to report this year. A young girl was injured in one incident.

The single highest cause of fire in Thief River Falls during 1996 was accidental damage. Juvenile's playing with fire was the second most frequent cause of fire. There was one arson last year, which resulted in a conviction.

The largest single type of call for the fire department last year was smoke calls or good intent calls. Bjorkman said those calls could be just about anything, but aren't false alarms. He noted that in one incident a neighbor noticed what appeared to be smoke coming from a house, but turned out to be the dryer vent on a cold day.

For whatever reason, false alarms kept fire department personnel busy in 1996. There were 24 false alarm calls. In 1995, there were 27 false alarms.

Other calls included 19 home, apartment or garage fires, 14 spills, leaks or hazardous conditions, 13 auto fires, 12 grass fires, seven rescues and business fires, six appliance fire calls, five public service calls, three mutual aid calls, two each of chimney, trash, wood pile, and recreational vehicle fire calls, and one electrical fire call.

The Thief River Falls Fire District includes 198 square miles, and the townships of North, Rocksbury, Smiley, Norden and Silverton. Excel township was also added last year. There were 19 fire

Last year was the busiest on record for the Thief River Falls Fire department. It was also the most expensive. Damages amounted to $993,445 in 1996, $114,150 in 1995, $337,440 in 1994, $362,800 in 1993, $285,900 in 1992, and $328,150 in 1991.

Deer Hunters begin deer feeding program

Thief River Falls Chapter of the Deer Hunters Association will begin an emergency deer feeding program February 1. Due to the limited funding available, this year's program will differ from last year's in that the general public and Deer Hunters members will have to buy some of the feed.

Dana Klos, member of the Deer Hunters Association, said there was considerable discussion by the board about the problem. They did, however, decide to begin the emergency deer feeding program February 1. As last year, feed will be distributed from the feed mill at Fourth and Atlantic on Saturday mornings between 8:30 and 11 a.m. But due to limited funding, the general public and members of the association will be asked to purchase some of the feed. For the general public, if an individual buys two bags, the association will provide them with two bags. Klos said that should provide feed for about 12 to 15 deer per week. For members, if they buy four bags, they will be given four bags. That should provide feed for 15 to 25 deer per week.

Klos said there is little funding available for the project. He said the DNR has no money so unless the legislature comes up with some money, the Deer Hunters are on their own.

Klos said the DNR has said conditions are as bad or worse than last year. He said club members were out making trails for the deer last weekend. They found that deer are yarded up in many of the same areas as they were last year. He said they

Septic system regulation draws concerned crowd

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

It was anything but a sympathetic crowd that gathered at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls Friday afternoon, January 17, to hear and discuss law and regulations relating to individual sewage treatment systems (ISTS, commonly known as septic systems).

Enforcement of the legislation signed into law May 10, 1994, and the rules made under the law by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) was a source of contention for the county commissioners, real estate agents, financial institution representatives, property owners and others in attendance.

Presiding at the meeting, following an introduction by Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls, was Susan Schmidt, policy analyst for the water quality division of the MPCA in St. Paul.

Schmidt said she had suggested the meeting to (1) present information on the law and proposed changes in the rules under the law and (2) to hear the concerns and problems which the public has regarding them. She hadn't progressed far on the former when there was an eagerness expressed to provide the latter.

Schmidt explained that the 1994 law (Minnesota Statutes 115.55-56) included five major provisions: (1) minimum design standards; (2) triggers for inspection and upgrades; (3) licensing; (4) local administrative requirements, and (5) disclosure at the time of property transfer.

The Minnesota Pollution Control Agency is the lead agency responsible for ISTS regulation. Local units of government and businesses which work with design, installation, inspection and servicing of the systems are also involved with administering the program along with MPCA.

The ISTS program provides local government assistance, training, education/outreach, technical assistance and licensing services. Historically, Schmidt said, the program has been assistance oriented, however, with the implementation of the new 1994 law, the MPCA program is now also regulatory.

The regulatory aspects were points of concern of those in attendance in several areas.

- County commissioners, who serve as boards of health for their respective counties, felt that their role was being circumvented by MPCA while at the same time expressing a strong distaste for being the MPCA's local regulatory body.
- Real estate dealers complained that confusion and concern among lenders was holding up property transfers. They said that a mandatory inspection of septic systems prior to sale in this area would mean no transactions during the winter months.
- Local lenders questioned how the secondary mortgage market would react, noting that they had been stymied in sale of residential property loans due to restrictions applied by former secondary market buyers.
- Installers had mixed opinions on being given the flexibility to design and install systems that work and having established criteria which, if followed, would absolve them of liability if the systems failed.
- Several in attendance expressed concern over the cost of suggested mound type systems which were said to cost several times more than traditional trench type systems, or in the $5,000 to $9,000 range.
- And an over-riding opinion leading to suspicion and skepticism seemed to be that MPCA was trying to establish a presence by exerting control over a problem that doesn't exist.

Asked if it was the position of MPCA that failing septic systems constitute a serious threat to the health and safety of Minnesotans,

Monday night, the board accepted his resignation, effective February 13, with a letter of appreciation for his many years of service to the school district.

The board authorized the transfer of the balance in the Swenson Trust Account, approximately $300,000, to the Thief River Falls Education Foundation subject to the agreement with Lowell and Marjorie Swenson dated July 15, 1986.

The board approved an adjustment of the 1996-97 revenue budget from $16,038,028 to $16,083,872 and the expense budget from $15,706,530 to $15,682,211.

There are seven paid fire department employees, and 22 volunteers. The volunteers are required to participate in many hours of training. Last year they logged 1,000 hours.

Bjorkman indicated that equipment for the fire department was in relatively good shape. They now have two sets of emergency extraction equipment. The rural fire department has added a new pumper, and Bjorkman said the city is setting aside $15,000 per year toward the purchase of a pumper in five years.

were surprised to find the deer getting around better than they thought. He said they do have a problem moving around in open areas. He also said they found some winter kill already — mostly fawns.

The purpose of the emergency deer feeding program, said Klos, is to provide a food source for the core of the deer herd, which would be the does. He said they know they won't be able to save them all, but they believe it will be well worth the effort.

The Chestnut Brass Company, formed as a street band on Chestnut Street in Philadelphia, PA in 1977, has evolved into an international touring group, performing in Europe, Canada, Mexico and the Caribbean as well as throughout the United States. The group will appear Thursday, January 23, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln high school auditorium as the third concert on the Thief River Falls Concert Association's 1996-97 series.

Brass ensemble in concert Thursday

In the third of five Thief River Falls Concert Association presentations for 1996-97, The Chestnut Brass Company will appear in concert Thursday, January 23, at 7:30 p.m. at the Lincoln high school auditorium. Admission is by season membership only.

The quintet has a repertoire that spans musical time from the Middle Ages to contemporary jazz and performs on three dozen different instruments from the collection of more than 150 owned by the musicians. It is known for its versatile and exuberant performances on both modern and ancient brass instruments.

The traveling entourage has a collection of instruments which includes several over-the-shoulder horns, sachots (forerunner of today's trombone), a double-bell euphonium, a helicon (early version of the sousaphone) and Renaissance cornettos (forerunners of today's trumpet).

Formed as a street band on Chestnut Street in Philadelphia in 1977, the ensemble has performed throughout Europe, Canada, Mexico, the Caribbean and United States and performs in general with two trumpets, French horn, trombone and tuba.

The group, now the Ensemble in Residence at Temple University, learned early in its career on the streets of Philadelphia how to please an audience with virtuosity and good programming. "If the pedestrians didn't like our music," one of the members said, "they didn't throw their money."

Members of the ensemble and the instruments they play include Bruce Barrie, trumpets, flugel horn, Eb keyed bugle and Eb over-the-shoulder saxhorn; Chris Moore, trumpets, Bb keyed bugle, Bb cornopean and Bb over-the-shoulder saxhorn; Marian Hesse, horn, quinticlave, natural horn and alto saxhorn, Brett Shuster, trombone, sachut, 19th century trombone and over-the-shoulder saxhorn; and Jay Krush, tuba, bass sacbut, ophicleide and Eb over-the-shoulder saxhorn.

The program will include such selections as Sabre Dance, selections from the Renaissance period played on reproductions of period instruments, I Concentrate On You, I Get A Kick Out Of You and others.

MPCA hears problems, fears at local meeting

Schmidt replied, "Yes, in some instances." Asked earlier in the meeting when MPCA documented that there was a serious problem in northwest Minnesota, she made no attempt to answer.

While attempting to answer some of the questions and showing an understanding for some of the concerns, Schmidt pressed to explain that MPCA is seeking some changes in its own rules. Since it takes 18 months to two years for the rule-making process, she said, and it appears advantageous to make changes sooner than that, the agency will be asking the legislature for authority to supersede its rules and bring about change in a more timely manner.

In the program review process, she said, it was determined that the dramatic changes for a lot of people in a short period of time have resulted in numerous complaints about the required minimum design criteria, homeowner confusion, high costs for ISTS replacement, differences in requirements among jurisdictions, lack of ISTS professionals to meet the demand and new licensing procedures.

As a result of six meetings hosted by the statutorily established ISTS advisory committee involving several hundred interested parties, a series of recommendations for changes in the program was developed.

Recommended changes include: increased flexibility for inspectors and local governments, modified inspection and upgrade "triggers," outreach and education to alleviate confusion; expanded ISTS training; coordinated ISTS research, encouraging use of new technology, and increased ISTS funding for homeowner assistance and local government administration. It is proposed to make these adjustments over the next several years.

Schmidt also said the MPCA is recommending changes to the ISTS law as a result of the program review. Materials distributed at the meeting list the following amendments proposed for 1997 legislation and the MPCA rationale for each:

- Requiring counties throughout the state to adopt Chapter 7080 rules by Jan 1, 1999. MPCA staff believe this statewide requirement is preferred over MPCA administration of ISTS rules in areas not covered by local ordinance.
- Requiring local units of government to disclose local differences from the 7080 rule upon request. The MPCA and program partners believe that having access to this information will alleviate some of the confusing ISTS regulatory differences among jurisdictions.
- Directing the MPCA to develop a less rigorous "alternative standards" process. This process will enable local units of government to request different yet still protective standards for existing systems. The MPCA believes this is a timely solution to the call for more flexibility which we are hearing from local government, contractors and homeowners.
- Requiring an ISTS inspector to indicate on a Notice of Noncompliance why a system is failing and the upgrade timeframe specified in law, rule or local ordinance. This requirement will result in lenders making better decisions about the status of an ISTS rather than requiring unnecessary upgrades at property transfer.
- Requiring cesspools, currently subject to local regulation, to be upgraded within 10 months. The majority of program partners believe that cesspools are a definite threat to ground water and public health.
- Clarifying the relationship between "imminent public health threat" in ISTS law (115.55 subd 5) and "public health nuisance" in public health law (145A.94 subd 8).
- Requiring inspection of an ISTS prior to property transfer. The MPCA and many program partners believe that this new inspection trigger will streamline and simplify the process for prospective sellers, buyers, realtors and lenders.
- Directing the MPCA to allow inspectors flexibility in making judgments about groundwater protection relative to ISTS, using vertical soil separation and other criteria. MPCA staff believe this is a timely solution to the calls we're hearing for more flexibility. (At the meeting, such factors as soil types, drainage patterns and vegetation were listed in addition to soil mottling as part of this criteria.)
- Directing the MPCA to allow new ISTS technology on "warranteed" systems if the manufacturer provides documentation and financial assurance on the product. MPCA staff believe this is a timely solution to the call for new, more cost-effective ISTS technologies from local government, contractors and homeowners.

Howard Person, Pennington county extension educator, said that ISTS studies are now being done on five sites in Pennington and Marshall counties. In response to ideas and concerns expressed by those in attendance, he noted several areas of concern which the group felt legislators should address in 1997 legislation to alleviate problems with the existing law and rules.

A hands-down favorite for quote of the day was a comment made by Gary Lockner, environmental services officer for Lake of the Woods county. When discussion was held on inspection of septic systems for banks when property transactions were pending, Lockner said "I'd do it, if the (county) board would give me three more people, an armored car and my own attorney."

Senator Stumpf spells out major legislative concerns

According to Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls, the major concerns of greater Minnesota in this year's legislative session includes education funding, welfare reform, property tax relief, septic system changes and funding of several agriculture research projects.

"It is essential to place the important concerns on the table early so everyone knows they need to be dealt with during this session," he said.

"Some of the issues are straightforward, such as education funding. There seems to be broad bipartisan support for removing the K-12 funding caps and eliminating the cuts that are scheduled to go into effect next year.

"Other issues, however, are still being worked out," he continued. "The two most difficult issues we are facing are welfare reform and property tax reform. For welfare reform to be successful, there needs to be good communication and coordination among state agencies and between state and municipal governments. There also needs to be private-sector employer participation because the federal rules require an increasing percentage of AFDC participants to be employed. The state's goals should be to help people become gainfully employed or trained for employment as quickly as possible."

Property tax reform means different things to different people, the senator notes. No one wants to pay higher property taxes and all would like to pay less. There are several hot spots or classes of property that are quite high, including commercial and industrial property, apartments and non-homestead agricultural land. The solution may be different for rural Minnesota than for the metro area, he said.

"I think the current two tier commercial and industrial rate works well for rural communities," Sen. Stumpf said. "The first $100,000 in commercial and industrial property value has a tax rate of 2.5 percent and any value over that amount has a tax rate of 4.6 percent. We could increase the first tier from $100,000 to a higher figure for additional tax relief."

Stumpf said that metro communities are less supportive of this approach because of their higher valued property and their large percentage of buildings that are leased rather than owned. "There will always be geographic differences," he said, and the task of the legislature is to fashion an acceptable reform package that will be fair for all parts of Minnesota.

"When we look at the issues like welfare reform and property tax reform, good sound policies are needed," the senator said. "Good policies are based on good ideas. Please let me know if you have suggestions so I can make them part of the discussion in the upcoming months of the session. Write me at G-24 State Capitol, St. Paul, MN 55155 or call me at 612-296-8660."

Representatives of SWCD attend state convention

Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) was represented by Grant Satre, supervisor, and Kathy Zavoral, district technician, at the annual convention of the Minnesota Association of Soil and Water Conservation District, which was held recently in Bloomington.

Jim Hest and Bryan Malone from the Northwestern Minnesota Joint Powers Board of Grygla were also among the over 900 people attending the convention.

Also attending were Ashley Holthusen and her parents Blair and Denise Holthusen of Grygla. Ashley was an honorable mention winner in the elementary division of the conservation essay contest, and was on hand to give her essay and receive her trophy at the Sunday night convention kick-off.

Also honored, but unable to attend were Lee and Donna Nelson and Richard and Margaret Nelson of Goodridge, who were recognized as Outstanding Conservationists. "We felt the Nelsons deserved this honor for their hard work in managing their resources and willingness to apply conservation practices," said Lloyd Wiseth, supervisor for the SWCD. "We've worked with them over the years in many areas such as erosion control structures, tree planting and an agriculture waste management system," he said.

The keynote speaker was John Miller, president of Prosperity Dynamics Inc. A variety of training sessions were held on such subjects as feedlots, shoreland restoration, the internet, education and the SRF loan program.

As part of the convention, the annual business meeting and election of new officers was held. Vern Wilker of Steele SWCD will serve as president, replacing Jim Schafer of Renville SWCD; and Owen Knutson of Goodhue SWCD will serve as vice president, replacing Wilker. The new officers began their terms on December 11.

Women of Today offers service, growth and fellowship to women of the community

The Women of Today is an organization that is devoted to community service, personal growth and fellowship. They want women to learn more about themselves and their community and to make it a better place to live in.

The Women of Today officially began on July 1, 1958. They used to be a part of the Jaycees, but they did not allow women full membership. The women went to the Supreme Court with the case, and that is how The Women of Today came about.

The Thief River Falls chapter has 14 members, and they are always looking for more. In Minnesota alone there are 121 chapters and some 2,400 members. Minnesota has the largest amount of participation of any state within the nation.

Most members are between the ages of 18 and 40, but any woman over 18 can be involved. It is a way for women to learn educational facts and help local causes and nationwide causes as well. They try to keep most of the money they raise localy in the community. The state chapter must be informed of where the money has been donated so that the group can get credit for it.

There are four levels to the group. There is the local level, which would be Thief River Falls, then there is a district level which includes Middle River, Mahnomen, Twin Valley and Thief River Falls. After the district, there is the state level and finally the national level. Women can hold offices in any of these levels but the higher the level she is involved in, the more time and dedication it requires. A member can put as little or as much time into the group as she is able, and time served is greatly appreciated. A little bit a time can go a long way.

There are numerous awards that women may be awarded for their services. The Presidential Pin is the most common award and normally awarded to new members. The Key Woman Award is a very prestigious award. Arlene Novak of Thief River Falls received this award about seven years ago. This award is only given out one per year, and it is a very big honor to receive it. There are also awards given out within each chapter, such as outstanding first year member, outstanding chairman, and outstanding women of today.

President of the Thief River Falls chapter is Tammy Audette. Her theme for the year is "Growing Together with Women of Today". Vice-president is Dawn Dyrdal, secretary is Beth Kucera, treasurer is Diane Johnson, and state delegate is Kim Quade. There are also various external program areas that women can hold a position in.

Service

The Women of Today believe in servicing the community as much as possible. They are very active in fundraisers and other charities.

They offer a babysitting clinic to students in grade five on up. It is put on to help potential babysitters learn more about safety and nutrition. A list of students that successfully completed the course is given to the Chamber of Commerce for parents to pick up and select a babysitter from.

Spring bingo will be held in March, this will be the third year it is offered. The chapter must designate where the money will go before they can hold bingo. It is a legal requirement.

A baby photo contest is held every year with proceeds going to the local DARE chapter. They have a yearly scholarship of $150 that goes to a student at the technical college. It is called the Lynne Bylander memorial fund in honor of a past member who was very active in the community. Every year they also have a creative craft festival which has been a big hit.

They have numerous priority projects which focus on a certain charity such as Lupus, Kidney Foundation, and the March of Dimes.

This year they will be adding another big fundraiser to their agenda. They will be holding a Spring Showcase on April 12 at the Armory. The showcase will be very similar to the Women's Expo held in Fargo and Minneapolis. It will feature a style show and many keynote speakers. There will be various booths set up for women to visit and learn about their health and other subjects.

Growth

A major part of the Women of Today is self-growth. Women have the opportunity to better themselves and open a door for personal enrichment.

They offer a variety of personal enrichment courses that help them to excel in reading and writing more effectively. The main objective of these courses is to focus on women.

"The personal satisfaction you get out of helping someone feels good," stated Tammy Audette. There is a lot of personal growth that happens when someone helps another in need, which is what the Women of Today is all about.

"It's not only the money, it's the awareness. Not everyone knows about Lupus and other diseases," commented Kim Quade. Women of Today try to make community members aware of the diseases and organizations out there. They want people to be able to understand what is going on in the development of the seeking for the cure.

Fellowship

The Women of Today is also a good way to meet people. It is a group where no one is judged and members of all ages and occupations come together.

They get together the first Wednesday of every month for their meeting at 7 p.m. at the Elks. But aside from meetings, they get together for social events as well.

They hold monthly socials, and occasional luncheons. They have Santa Bowl and a summer picnic every year for members and their family.

It is a group of women that look out for each other and a place where they can go to meet new people.

There will be a meeting of the Women of Today on February 5 at the library in Thief River Falls at 6:30 p.m. There will also be a district meeting on Saturday, January 25 at the Elks Club from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. All interested women are invited to attend. For more information, contact Tammy Audette at 681-8747.

Emergency Medical Technician, Jason Brendon, spoke to children about safety at the babysitters clinic held each year by the Thief River Falls Women of Today. The babysitters clinic is a way for children grades five on up to further their learning on babysitting. It is also a way for them to get their name on a list that is kept at the Chamber of Commerce for parents to get and choose a babysitter from.

Vrenda Bengtson and Arlen Holm united in marriage

Vrenda Bengtson and Arlen Holm were united in marriage on December 21 at Association Free Lutheran Schools Chapel in Plymouth. Rev. Jim Haga, brother-in-law of the groom, officiated the double ring ceremony.

Vrenda is the daughter of Vernon and Lois Bengtson of Newfolden. Arlen is the son of Garnett Holm of Moorhead and the late Wallace Holm.

The 6:30 p.m. ceremony took place by candlelight with the sanctuary decorated by brass candelabra and pew candles as well as evergreen trees, pine boughs, white miniature lights and accented in dark purple.

The bride wore a white satin gown with full-length lace sleeves and a v-shaped back. The bodice was overlaid with lace accented with pearls and sequins and with the full skirt also trimmed in lace accented with glitter. She wore a fingertip length veil with a headpiece covered with lace and decorated with pearls and sequins and featuring a small cluster of white miniature silk flowers and pearl strands. Both the gown and the veil were made by Rachel Johnson of Brooklyn Park, friend of the bride. The brides bouquet was of stargazer lilies, bridal pink roses and ming fern with purple accents and white ribbon.

Maid of honor was Carla Boen, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Calayne Haga of Cambridge, sister of the groom, Wanda Spading of Chisago City and Doreen Rosevold of Mayville, ND, friends of the bride. They wore tea length dark purple crepe-backed satin gowns with short sleeves and v-shaped backs. They carried a bouquet of bridal pink roses with ming fern and white ribbon.

Rachelle Holm, sister of the groom, was the bride's personal attendant.

Best man was Marine Corp. Capt. Lindell Holm of Tustin, CA, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Steven Anderson of Halstad, cousin of the groom; Roger Dyrdahl of Perley, friend of the groom; and Allen Monson of Lakeville, brother-in-law of the groom. The groom was attired in a black tuxedo with a white vest and tie. Other men in the bridal party wore black tuxedos with dark purple vests and ties. Their boutonnaires were a single pink rose bud with purple accents.

Ushers were Gregory Bengtson of Newfolden, brother of the bride, Brent Boen of Strandquist, brother-in-law of the bride, and Leland Betz of Moorhead, brother-in-law of the groom.

Music was provided by Allen Monson, brother-in-law of the groom, Tim Johnson, Joanne Herset, Janell Kneeland, and Joanne Herset, friends of the bride. Selections included "Surely the Presence", "Open Our Eyes Lord", "O Perfect Love", "This is the Day", "The Wedding Prayer" and "Cherish the Treasure".

Mother of the bride wore a dark purple long-sleeved dress with a white collar and cuffs. The groom's mother wore a blue long-sleeved two-piece dress with a pleated skirt. Both wore corsages of white and pink roses with purple accents.

Guest book attendant was Devon Sadowski, sister of the groom. Candle lighter was Nathan Monson and gifts were carried by Erin Monson and Courtney and Lindsey Betz, nephew and nieces of the groom. Wendy Greven, friend of the bride, coordinated the gift table. Stacy Thompson, friend of the groom, distributed programs.

A reception followed the service at the church hosted by Ralph and Katha Tjelta, friends of the bride. Punch was served by Kirsten and Allison Monson and reception favors were passed out by Mikayla Sadowski, all nieces of the groom.

The wedding cake was three-tier and decorated by Charlotte Qualley of Brockton, MT, friend of the bride. It featured dark purple bulbs and ribbon, fern, cameo candles, white lights, miniature flowers and topped with a cherished teddies figurine couple. The cake was cut and served by Cindy Bengtson, sister-in-law of the bride; and Connie Monson, sister of the groom. Coffee was served by Natalie Ueland, cousin of the bride, and Renee Betz, sister of the groom.

Flower hostesses were Wanda Jacobson and Pat Hendrickson. Kitchen assistance was proveded by Cheryl Ree and Sonia Buchholz. Candid photographer was Wyatt Ree and videographer was Dennis Rosevold, all friends of the bride.

The couple is now at home in Perley.

When a Child Says, "No!"

One of the most frustrating things for parents is when their young child learns to say "No," and then he uses it loudly and almost constantly. We wonder what has happened to the "sweet, cooperative" child we used to have. Now the question is: why is the child suddenly refusing to cooperate and what should parents do about it?

First, parents need to realize this is normal behavior and in fact indicates intellectual growth. Your child has now developed the ability to realize that he has a choice and can use a very powerful word. Previously when it was time to eat, he ate. When it was time to get dressed, you dressed him. Now your child is exercising his power to make a choice.

Secondly, he is experimenting with this powerful word. After saying it your child will watch to see your reaction. This will tell him just how powerful it is. Try to avoid a power struggle. It may be necessary to ignore resistance and proceed gently but firmly along the path you have chosen.

Finally, avoid asking questions that require a yes/no answer, especially if you are not willing to allow a no answer. Instead of saying "Do you want some carrots?" say "Here are some carrots." If you think your child may still be resistant to the carrots, give him a choice (and some power) by asking "Would you like two or four?"

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Give your child choices of two things that you are willing to allow. Instead of saying "Do you want to go to bed?" say "It's time to go to bed. Do you want to walk or hop like a bunny!"

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

Dirty Dish Dilemma

My dishwasher went on strike recently. Unfortunately, it's not something that can be solved simply by a call to the repairman. You see, the dishwasher is my husband.

I always tell him that dishwashing is good therapy for his hands, that a once-a-day massage in a sink full of sudsy, warm water does wonders for his circulation. I'm sure washing dishes also somehow improves his overall health.

He began to boycott last week when he came home and saw the disaster: dishes piled everywhere. He said it looked as if the entire Pillsbury bake off had been conducted in my kitchen.

I don't know what the big deal was. The kitchen looks like that every time I cook. And that's fairly frequently.

But as he filled the sink with dishes, the first time, he began to grumble. Judging by the quantity of dirty dishes, he said it looked as if I fed the entire city of Thief River Falls a five-course meal. He claimed that I used every pot, pan and lid that we own. (We have two sets.) He claimed that I dirtied four mixing bowls, all the mixer attachments, four forks, five coffee mugs, 10 spoons, seven sharp knives, and on and on and on. He stopped short of accusing me of using every dish in the house.

As he began the task of washing all these dishes he quizzed me about the function of each in the preparation of dinner.

He held up four hand mixer attachments. "Why four?" he asked me. "Couldn't one have sufficed?"

"Well," I tried to explain, "when I was mixing the soup and water with that one, I was curious to see what the difference was so I tried them all."

"I see. And what about these?" he said as he waved his hands across a nice collection of now-dirty mixing bowls."

"Let's see," I began to reply. "I put the stuff in one, too small. I tried another one. Too big. I finally found one that fit the batter, but I decided I didn't like the color."

"And these," he said, raising his voice slightly and clutching seven sharp knives.

"I was chopping vegetables for soup. I needed one for the carrots, one to cut the onion, one for the celery, another for the garlic, and one to pry open the canned tomatoes."

I had an answer for everything. There was a good reason for using almost every dish in the house, I maintained.

It's just that he and I have different methods of preparing a meal and cleaning up afterward; he shares my mother's philosophy. I know that I do not follow the teachings of my mother. Her schooling in this particular chore went something like this: "As soon as you finish using an ingredient, put it away. Clean as you go."

Good concept, but I just don't feel like following it. Putting ingredients away, washing spoons and bowls, and wiping off the counter slow down the actual cooking process. I don't have time for that.

And what about nuisance! Flour flying about and pots, pans and bowls scattered around the kitchen make it look as if dinner for the Queen is being prepared. A clean kitchen, on the other hand, with clean dishes tucked neatly into the cupboard, suggests a meal out of a box or take-out. The amount of dirty dishes, I believe, is relative to the quality of the meal cooked.

Besides, I can use as many dishes as I please; I don't have to wash the dishes.

For us, a very special day,
the birthday of our son.
We had no way of knowing,
We'd share only twenty-one.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Time For A Little Chuckle

Perhaps you've seen these (supposedly true) funny lawyer questions before, but it's the middle of January and certainly a good time to enjoy another chuckle or two.

"Was that the same nose you broke as a child?"
Q "What happened then?"
A "He told me, he says, 'I have to kill you because you can identify me.'"
Q "Did he kill you?"
"Do you have any children or anything of that kind?"
Q "I show you Exhibit 3 and ask if you recognize that picture."
A "That's me."
Q "Were you present when that picture was taken?"
"So you were gone until you returned?"
"The youngest son, the 20-year-old, how old is he?"
Q "Now, Mrs. Johnson, how was your first marriage terminated?"
A "By death."
Q "And by whose death was it terminated?"
"You don't know what it was, and you don't know what it looked like, but can you describe it?"
Q "Do you know how far pregnant you are?"
A "I'll be three months on November 8th."
Q "Apparently, then, the date of conception was August 8th?"
A "Yes."
Q "What were you doing at that time?"
A Texas attorney, realizing he was on the verge of unleashing a stupid question, interrupted himself and said, "Your Honor, I'd like to strike the next question."
Q "Mrs. Jones, do you believe you are emotionally stable?"
A "I used to be."
Q "How many times have you committed suicide?"
"Were you present in court this morning when you were sworn in?"
Q "She had three children, right?"
A "Yes."
Q "How many were boys?"
A "None."
Q "Were there girls?"
"Was it you or your brother that was killed in the war?"
Q "You say that the stairs went down to the basement?"
A "Yes."
Q "And these stairs, did they go up also?"
"Now, doctor, isn't it true that when a person dies in his sleep, in most cases he just passes quietly away and doesn't know anything about it?"
Q "Have you lived in this town all your life?"
A "Not yet."
"How long have you been a French Canadian?"
Q "Do you recall approximately the time that you examined the body of Mr. Edington at the Rose Chapel?"
A "It was in the evening. The autopsy started about 8:30 p.m."
Q "And Mr. Edington was dead at the time, is that correct?"
A "No, stupid, he was sitting on the table wondering why I was doing an autopsy."
"Were you alone, or by yourself?"

Christmas tree walk helps

Third annual Pine Tree Farm Christmas Tree Walk to benefit Hospice of the Red River Valley raised $406.55 this season, more than doubling the amount raised during the first year, according to Jim and Robin Bitzegaio of Pine Tree Farm.

The tree walk was part of the festivities during the farm's annual open house weekend. Fifteen groups from the community decorated trees for the walk this year and donated all lights, decorations and time to decorate the trees.

Buckets were placed in front of each tree and as people strolled past the trees on the walk they put donations into the bucket or buckets by the tree or trees they wished to support. All money collected in this manner was donated to the local hospice, and the trees with their lights and decorations were donated to needy families. Pennington county social services selected the recipient families and the trees were delivered by individuals in the sentence-to-serve program.

Decorating trees this year were Pennington Square/Main, Key Club /Kiwanis, Lincoln high school chapter of the National Honor Society, Women of the Elks, JC Penney, Rose Wold's daycare, Challenger Preschool, Happy Acres 4-H Club, Youth of the Evangelical Free Church, Youth of First Baptist Church, Youth of United Methodist Church, Girl Scout Troop 190, Hospice of the Red River Valley, St. Bernard's School and Pine Tree Farm.

The groups put much time and effort into decorating their trees as well as the money to purchase the decorations or supplies to make the decorations. Pamida and Ben Franklin stores gave discounts on materials for the project.

Goodridge ECFE added to the event by decorating a small tree outdoors with edible ornaments for birds. The ornaments were sold and the funds added to the hospice donation.

St. Bernard's school tree received the largest amount of donations and the school received a plaque in recognition of that support. The tree featured many kinds of angels made by the various classes.

The Bitzegaios expressed their appreciation to the groups and community for their support in raising money for the hospice through this event.

Challenger school closes Jan. 30 and 31

Challenger elementary school will not be in session on Thursday and Friday, January 30 and 31, according to Glenn Espe, principal. Teachers at the school will be attending health curriculum meetings on those two days.

PRAIRIE RAMBLING

Naming the Arctic Cat

The name, "Cats" was first written in early 1960 by Roseau native Rudy Billberg in his daily travel journal to describe the machines he and three others were using on their daring 1,100 mile cross country trip across Alaska. The Alaskan adventure proved the effectiveness and reliability of what were then called by Alaskans "iron dogs." The gas-powered sleds, invented and constructed by Edgar Hetteen of Roseau, performed even better in the trackless wilderness than he had hoped. The four intrepid snowmobilers: Billberg, his wife Bessie Billberg, Hetteen, and Erling Falk called the machines "little cats," short for the machines' miniature crawler type tracks.

All through his daily accounts, Billberg referred to the trusty machines that finished the dangerous but enjoyable journey as "cats."

News in publications such as Field and Stream and other media of this 18-day Alaska cross country trip was the first glimpse the world had of the snowmobile. Use of the snowmobile as recreation was just a glimmer in Hetteen's eye.

At Christmas time 1960, Hetteen left behind his and his brother's fledgling Roseau company, called "Polaris," and moved to Thief River Falls. His new Thief River Falls company's name was Polar Manufacturing Company and its snow machines were called "Polar 500's." But the name was similar to the company he had split from in Roseau. As a result of the Alaskan trip, Hetteen thought of his invention as Arctic-proven cats. In 1962 he renamed his company Arctic Enterprises, Inc. The first red and white machine called "Arctic Cat," was manufactured in the spring of 1962.

In 1966, an energetic and enthusiastic CPA, Lowell Swenson, bought ownership in and became President of the Company. Swenson was ready to seek new markets, build prototypes, and make all kinds of improvements. Swenson brought new ways of doing business at the very time the company had an arsenal of ideas, from ride quality to design. Roger Skime, who had started work at Arctic Cat nailing crates together in 1962, tried a new way of track suspension in 1966 that is still used today.

One of Swenson's first personnel changes was to name Bill Ness as director of engineering. That year, 1966, a new, faster model was developed and Arctic changed the machine colors from red and white to black. Swenson and Ness discussed which cats were black, and then came up with the name, "Panther," to complement the machine's new look. The name they first considered was "Black Panther," but the name would not fit on the decal. The theme of cat was carried through by using faux leopard-spotted fabric for the seats on the snowmobiles and for hood trim on Arctic suits.

From 1966 on, cat names proliferated. Besides "Panther," models produced were named "Puma, Cougar, Wildcat, Kitty Cat, Boss Cat, Cheetah, El Tigre, Lynx, Pantera, and Jag" (short for Jaguar). "Thunder Cat" is the most powerful machine you can buy in 1997.

A newsletter was called "Arctic Cat Howl." Advertisements for Arctic Enterprises or Arctco featured "Catillacs," "Good Times are Coming on the Cat," "Cat's Pajamas" (Arctic clothing), "Flying Tigers," "Cat's Pride," "The Cat is Back" and "The Cat: It's an Animal."

"In 1996 the company came full circle and changed its corporate name from "Arctco" to "Arctic Cat." New product lines include the personal watercraft "Tigershark" and the all-terrain vehicle, "Bearcat." All the cat names are trademarks of Arctic Cat.

Other cat names trademarked by Arctic Cat are "Alley Cat, Cat Kitchen, CatMaster, Cross Country Cat, Sand Cat, Tales of the Cat, Trail Cat, and Turf Tiger."

The "Cat" has been very good for Thief River Falls. In 1997 Arctic Cat employs 1,600 people full-time in the city.

The huge prowler cat is the symbol for powerful snow, land, and water machines manufactured in Thief River Falls. Coincidentally, a panther-prowler is the symbol of Lincoln, Franklin and Challenger Schools' sports and activities. Stan Newland, a senior at Lincoln, originated the panther as the symbol of the Prowlers in 1938. It is interesting to find out that the prowler-cat emblem for these two important Thief River Falls institutions arose separately. Whether word or image, the prowler or cat has become synonymous for the city with the name of "Thief."

WCA program report says it's saving Minnesota wetlands

The controversial Minnesota Wetland Conservation Act (WCA) saved an estimated 3,493 acres of wetland in 1995, and resulted in the creation or restoration of almost 400 more acres, according to a recent report issued by the Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources (BWSR).

"Clearly, we are saving wetlands, which is what the WCA set out to do," said Ron Harnack, executive director of the BWSR. "This report, combined with the changes made to the WCA during the last legislative session, indicate to me that we are on the right track," Harnack said.

According to the report, which was compiled with information provided by the local governments that implement the act locally, about 7,673 projects were reviewed in 1995 under the act. About 71 per cent ([illegible]) of these projects were re-worked to avoid wetlands entirely. About 11 per cent (843) were resolved through reducing the impact on the wetland; and about five per cent (395) resulted in new wetlands being restored or created to replace wetland area drained or filled. The remaining 13 per cent of projects were judged exempt from the act.

Harnack stressed that local governments have played a key role in the act's success. Many local governments have incorporated the WCA into existing land use regulations, making it easier for landowners to comply with the act's requirements.

"Local government deserves a lot of the credit for the wetlands this act has helped preserve and restore," Harnack said.

Since the Legislature approved the WCA in 1991, controversy around the act has centered on its requirement that, in many cases, drained or filled wetlands must be replaced. Amendments to the act approved in 1996 addressed many of the concerns various groups had raised about the law.

While the WCA's goal is "no net loss" of wetlands, the report stresses that the actual acreage loss or gain of wetlands is secondary to the loss or gain of wetland benefits, which may or may not be related to size. Some important wetland benefits include filtering sediment and other pollutants out of water; retaining stormwater in times of flooding; providing educational and recreational opportunities; augmenting water bodies during times of drought, and using wetlands for commercial purposes such as growing wild rice.

One of the major benefits of the WCA, Harnack said, is that wetland acres restored to replace lost acres are often of a higher quality.

"When someone needs to drain or fill a wetland, and the project can't be changed to avoid it, they most often end up replacing those acres through restoring a previously drained wetland," Harnack said. "And since most drained wetlands are in the southern area of the state, that's where they are most often restored and where they are most needed," he said.

The report also cites the growing use of wetland banking as a replacement option. Wetland banking allows someone wishing to drain or fill a wetland to purchase wetland credits from already-restored or -created wetlands, thus avoiding the task of finding appropriate wetland replacement acreage on their own. Banking is most often used to expedite a project, Harnack said.

Counseling for home buyers at Tri-Valley

Betty Koltes, home buying counselor at Tri-Valley Opportunity Council, Inc. in Crookston, is available to provide information to low or moderate income persons who are currently renting or leasing and are interested in purchasing their own home.

"Buying a home is a sign of maturity, independence and a source of pride—the ultimate investment in your family and your community," Koltes said. She said the counseling is part of a community growth program initiated last year by the Tri-Valley Opportunity Council.

Koltes said her goal is to give people the knowledge they need to check their credit rating, determine their financial boundaries, understand what to look for in real estate transactions and property purchases and how to anticipate and budget for the cost of maintaining a home.

While anyone can contact her at any time at 1-800-584-7020 or 218-281-5832, extension 253, Koltes said group workshops on home buying will be conducted in March.

Bids on bridge and Soo Depot projects opened

Bids on the Soo Line Depot renovation projects and the proposed Riverwalk Project Bridge, were opened in Thief River Falls Tuesday.

The city received six bids on the Riverwalk bridge project. Ron Lindberg, public works director, said the city will review the bids and prepare an abstract for the city council. He said he expects the bids will be discussed at the next city council meeting on January 28.

Bids on the project ranged from a low of $306,858.89 to a high of $377,243. The low bid appeared to have come from Swingen Construction.

The city received eight bids on the Depot Renovation project. Don Stewart, community development director, noted that there was an apparent discrepancy or problem with one of the bids. He advised those in attendance at the bid opening that the city had some unresolved issues regarding use of state funds for the exterior package of the depot renovation. He said he hopes the issues will be resolved prior to the city council's next meeting on Tuesday.

The low bid and apparent discrepancy came from Innes Construction of Grand Forks, ND, which submitted a bid of $1,050 on the Depot Renovation project. The other seven bids ranged from roughly $179,000 to $222,000.

Innes also provided the lowest bid on the Addition and Interior Remodeling project for the Depot with a bid of $206,000. There appears to be a problem with that bid as the other bids ranged from a low of $1,027,000 to $1,239,000 plus varying costs on alternates.

No bids were awarded at the bid opening Tuesday morning.

Sustainable-Ag loan applications accepted

Minnesota Department of Agriculture is accepting applications for loans from its Sustainable Agriculture Program through Feb. 17, 1997.

Purchases and projects that help make Minnesota farms and farmers more economically, environmentally and socially sustainable are eligible for loans of up to $15,000 at a six percent interest rate. Joint projects involving two or more farmers are eligible for loans of up to $75,000.

"This program has assisted scores of Minnesota farmers to improve their profitability through the application of innovative sustainable practices," states Minnesota Agriculture Commissioner Gene Hugoson. "With more than $1.8 million loaned to 212 farmers since the program began, the payback record is outstanding, indicating that these are true success stories."

Eligible purchases may include items such as fencing to implement rotational grazing systems, alternative weed and soil management or fertilizing equipment, on-farm processing equipment for value-added products and other items.

The loan program accepts applications continuously and reviews them twice a year. In order to enable farmers to make timely decisions, however, a purchase made after an application is submitted can still qualify for a sustainable ag loan. Applications for loans for this program cycle are being accepted through Feb. 17, 1997.

A technical review panel evaluates the applications based on potential to increase farm profitability and benefits to the environment. The next review panel meeting will be in late February.

For an application or additional information, call Wayne Monsen, loan and grant coordinator at 612-282-2261 or write: Sustainable Agriculture Program, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 90 W. Plato Blvd., St. Paul, MN 55107.

Dawn Penning is Park Rapids Young Educator

(Editor's Note: The following article and photo are reprinted with permission of writer Allen Undem and photographer Liz Shaw of the Park Rapids Enterprise. Dawn Penning is the daughter of Don and Joan Engelstad of Thief River Falls and married to Dave Penning, son of Bill and Melba Penning, also of Thief River Falls. Dave is a sales representative for Aid Association for Lutherans in Park Rapids.)

by Allen Undem

For Dawn Penning teaching isn't a job, it's a passion.

Penning was recently honored as Park Rapids' Young Educator of the Year.

She was elected by her peers and last year's winner, Shelli Walsh, made the following comments in her award presentation.

"She sets high standards for her students. She is caring and loving. She works very closely with the classroom teachers by giving helpful strategies and her teachers respond to her beautifully....

"She has been described as 'going the second mile,' never once complaining. As one member of the staff described her, she is a 'spark' among our staff."

Originally from Thief River Falls, Penning, 31, earned her degree in special education from Moorhead State University. She has worked at Frank White Elementary since 1993.

Penning is certified in several areas of emotional, behavioral and learning disorders, referred to in the education world as EBD, LD and EMH. However, she tries to avoid the alphabet soup of labels.

"Special education is loaded with labels," she says. "I like to set the labels aside."

Throughout the day Penning works with eight to 23 students at a time, all with special needs classified as having emotional or behavioral disturbances.

She teaches everything from reading to making sure her students (a mixture of kindergarten to grade four kids) have their hands washed.

The core of her curriculum is based on being positive. "I don't like the words 'good' and 'bad,'" she says. "In fact the word 'bad' is never used in this classroom."

Each child is evaluated and goals are set. Twice a day Penning or paraprofessional aide Joan Cumber rate the students on personalized mini-report cards they call "I Can Do It" cards.

Examples of categories: Keep eyes on speaker, follow directions, stay in assigned area; show respect to others, no outbursts; be on time; clean body and clothes.

For each of nine categories children are given a score of 1, 2 or 3. A "1" wins the student 10 points; "2" equals five points, and "3" means two points. In keeping with the positive nature, a child cannot get "0" points.

At the end of the week the points are tallied and the kids use their accumulated points to go "shopping." Penning and parents have set up a little store where donated merchandise is set up for sale. Wares range from candy bars to small toys to Penning's own jewelry. "It's heartwarming," she said, "that a popular item is my old jewelry. They aren't buying it for themselves, but for their moms."

Speaking of moms, parents play an important role in the education of Penning's students.

"A difficult part of my job is when I have to sit down with parents and tell them their child is emotionally disturbed," she said. "They are often shocked and it's heartbreaking. I'm a parent, too, and I understand their shock. That's why I like to set labels aside."

But parent involvement is integral to the program. Penning and other staff have set up a team approach. Classroom teachers often make referrals, then decisions about educational goals for students are made through the collaborative effort of several professionals. Sometimes a psychologist and/or counselor is used to make assessments of a child's special needs and work on resolutions.

And parents are included every step of the way. Penning said in nearly all cases parents are receptive to her programs and are happy to be involved.

For example, on the daily "I Can Do It" cards described above, students must take the cards home for parents' signatures before the points are earned.

Penning uses several lines of communication between herself and parents. Children keep a journal called a "Good Notebook," which they regularly take home to show Mom and Dad.

Further, she makes frequent telephone calls to parents to let them know how their son or daughter is doing. That doesn't happen only when a child gets into trouble or is having problems. "The calls I like to make is when (the child) is not having problems," she said. "We really stress open communication. It makes everyone feel more comfortable—parents, our staff and the children."

Penning said she teaches handwriting, reading, math "or whatever it takes to keep (the kids) from falling behind."

For many students an important part of the curriculum is teaching social skills: manners, respect for teachers and peers, self esteem.

Again, the positive attitude is paramount. "Before they leave each day we ask them something that they did that day that was positive."

Her techniques appear to work. During an interview for this article, one of Penning's young students entered her classroom. "Mrs. Penning, may I please use the bathroom?" the polite youngster asked.

"Yes. Then are you going to do your reading?"

"Yes. Thank you."

The cheery and positive atmosphere is important, but that doesn't mean the teacher is a pushover. "From the beginning they know our expectations," she says. "They need to respect teachers, peers, raise their hands, and no violence."

When expectations aren't met, they know there will be consequences. "They can't get away with much."

Penning not only sets individual goals for her students, but also for herself. "My ultimate goal for each student is to get them out of the program," she said. Sometimes that happens, more often it doesn't. "The key is early intervention."

For that she credits the collaborative effort among Frank White staff and administration. "I didn't win this award (Young Educator of the Year)," she says. "I was honored but it belongs to everybody here. We're a team."

EBD teachers have stressful jobs. The turnover rate is high with many burning out after a few years. "According to the burnout statistics, this is supposed to be my last year. I'll show them," she asserts. "I love my job."

Dawn Penning, daughter of Don and Joan Engelstad of Thief River Falls and a graduate of Lincoln high school, was named Young Educator of the Year for the Park Rapids school system. She is married to Dave Penning, son of Bill and Melba Penning, also of Thief River Falls.

DON'T WAIT FOR THE BIG MELTDOWN!!

THE ACCUMULATION OF SEVERAL FEET OF SNOW THIS WINTER PRESENTS TWO HAZARDS THAT MAY BE EASILY OVERLOOKED.
1.) Many roofs are not sturdy enough to support the extra weight and are in danger of collapse.
2.) The ice-builds up from partial thawing and re-freezing and pushes the shingles up. Consequently, the water backs up under the shingles, causing interior damage to ceilings and walls.
Your home is one of your most valuable assets. PROTECT YOUR INVESTMENT by removing the excess snow buildup before any damage can occur.

Ely Mercil and Alexander Nelson were winners of the National Geography Bee at Our Saviour's Christian Academy in Thief River Falls. The school-level geography bee was the first round in the ninth annual National Geography Bee. Alex was the winner and Ely the runner up. Alex will now take a written test and up to 100 of the top scorers in each state will be eligible to compete in their state bee April 4.

Two students at Our Saviour's win Geography Bee

Alexander Nelson, a sixth grade student at Our Saviour's Christian Academy, won the school-level competition of the National Geography Bee and a chance at a $25,000 college scholarship.

Alex is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Greg Nelson of Thief River Falls. The runner-up in the school level competition was Ely Mercil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Mercil of Brooks.

The school-level Bee, at which students answered oral questions on geography, was the first round in the ninth annual National Geography Bee. The Bee is sponsored by the National Geographic Society and Sylvan Learning Center, which provide supplemental education services to students at all skill levels.

Thousands of schools around the United States and in the five U.S. territories participated. The school winners, including Alex Nelson, will now take a written test; up to 100 of the top scorers in each state and territory will be eligible to compete in their state Bee April 4.

The National Geographic Society will provide an all-expenses-paid trip to Washington, DC, for state champions and their teacher-escorts to participate in the National Geography Bee national championship on May 27 and 28. The first-place national winner will receive a $25,000 college scholarship. Alex Trebek, host of "Jeopardy!", will moderate the national finals.

The National Geographic Society developed the National Geography Bee in response to a growing concern about the lack of geographic knowledge among young people in the United States. A 10-country Gallup survey conducted for the Society in 1988 and 1989 found that people in the U.S. ages 18 to 24 — the youngest group surveyed, — knew less about geography than young people in any of the other countries in the survey.

Driving to the basket, Thief River Falls' Kim Stenseth went by a pair of Fergus Falls defenders during Saturday afternoon's girls high school basketball game in the Lincoln gym. Stenseth scored a game-high 28 points in the Prowlers' 49-44 win over the Otters.

Victory over Otters follows Friday win over Moorhead...

TRF finds winning formula

It was a formula that worked well the night before in a 54-50 win over Moorhead – a strong start, a sometimes shaky middle, and a game-clinching finish – that produced a 49-44 Thief River Falls girls high school basketball victory over Fergus Falls Saturday afternoon.

The home court weekend sweep over the Class AAAA Spuds and the Class AAA Otters bumped the Prowlers to 7-7 for the year. The verdict over Fergus Falls was the first Thief River Falls win over a North Sub-Section 8AAA foe in five starts.

Thief River Falls took control at the start with a 12-1 run – including eight points by Kim Stenseth – that led to a 16-6 first quarter scoreboard gap.

It was 17-8 when the quarter ended, but Fergus Falls hit six free throws in an 8-2 start to the second quarter that kept the Otters close. It was 31-26 at halftime and 37-35 through three quarters.

Out-scoring Thief River Falls 14-2 during a 5 1/2-minute spell that stretched from the middle of the third quarter and into the start of the fourth quarter, Fergus Falls went ahead for only the second time, 42-39, on a 3-point basket by Nicole Rostad with exactly five minutes left.

That would be the last field goal for the visitors, who went 0-for-9 the rest of the way. Two free throws by Lyndsi Harworth with 4:07 to play kept Fergus Falls on top 44-41, but the Prowlers' Erica Owen pulled up on a fast break jump shot to make it 44-43. Moments later Stenseth grabbed a rebound and went the length of the court for a fast break lay-up and a 45-44 Thief River Falls lead.

Becky Mooney knocked down a short jumper with 1:53 left for a 47-44 game, and the Prowlers sealed it when a long inbounds pass to a streaking Stenseth led to a wide-open lay-up and a 49-44 cushion with 44 seconds showing.

"We started out well, again," said Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "We did a lot of things we wanted to do at the start. After that, it's kind of hard to explain what happened. But the kids came through at the end when they had to. Down the stretch had some kids who might normally shy away from taking shots step up and hit a couple of key baskets for us."

Stenseth, who had 20 first half points, finished with 28 to lead all scorers. "Kim had a real strong game for us," noted Loe. "That (breakaway) lay-up at the end was a big play. We've had some success with it in the past, and it worked for us again today."

Rostad, a 5-7 junior guard, came off the bench to lead Fergus Falls with 14 points.

The Prowlers hit 19 of 56 field goal attempts (34 percent) and 11 of 17 free throws. The Otters made 13 of 57 from the field (23 percent) and 16 of 24 at the line. Thief River Falls finished with a 38-32 rebound advantage, but they also had more turnovers, 22-16.

Prowlers knock off Moorhead

■ TRF girls come up rare win over Spuds, 54-50

Wins over Moorhead have been few and far between, so it's understandable the Thief River Falls girls were pretty excited Friday following a 54-50 home court high school basketball victory over the Spuds.

The Class AAA Prowlers play mostly area Class AA and Class A team during the regular season, which added a little spice to the triumph over the Class AAAA Spuds.

"It was a nice win," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Jeff Loe. "Moorhead has a good team. Our kids did a nice job. Everybody played well."

Thief River Falls won by starting strong, then handling the pressure down the stretch. The Prowlers had quarter leads of 18-11, 28-23 and 40-34.

"We got up 12-13 points right away and looked good," pointed out Loe. "We gave up some leads, which was a little disappointing, but we kept our cool at the end."

It was a one-point game before the Prowlers sealed it at the line, where Kim Stenseth made 3 of 4 shots in the final moments.

Stenseth and teammate Nicole Kopari shared game-high scoring honors with 16 points each. Andrea Shogren scored 15 to lead the Spuds. Stenseth, the Prowlers' scoring leader this winter, also turned play-maker with seven assists.

MCC looks forward to homestand

Marshall County Central boys high school basketball coach Ron Ueland is hoping a home court edge will benefit the Nordics going during a week in which Warroad (Tuesday), East Grand Forks (Friday) and Kittson Central (Saturday) visit Newfolden.

The home court has been good to the Nordics, but unfortunately, they've had few opportunities to use it to their advantage. In starting the 1996-97 season 3-9, Marshall County Central is 3-0 at home and 0-9 on the road. Complicating matters is the fact the Nordics haven't played a home game since Dec. 13. A 55-43 loss to Lake of the Woods Friday in Baudette stretched their current road losing streak to seven games.

Marshall County Central led Lake of the Woods 18-12 at the end of the first quarter, but the Bears controlled play after that. It was 22-22 at halftime and Lake of the Woods had a 40-32 third quarter spread.

"They switched to a zone and we didn't adjust very well," explained Ueland.

A 1-for-7 second quarter at the free throw line began the Nordics' downfall.

"When we did get the ball inside against their zone and drew the fouls, we couldn't hit the free throws," noted Ueland.

Garrett Magner of the Nordics finished with a game-high 16 points. Marty Humeniuk led the Bears, who lost a 61-52 game at Newfolden earlier this season, with 14 points.

Marshall County Central shot only 38 percent from the field (15/40) and wound up 8-for-18 at the free throw line. Lake of the Woods shot 41 percent from the floor (22/54) and made 7 of 12 free throws.

The Bears out-rebounded the Nordics 33-15.

"We missed a lot of shots in the second half, and they beat us so bad on the boards," pointed out Ueland. "They're huge, but still, you can't give a team that many second-shot opportunities and expect to win."

Lake of the Woods topped the turnover charts 23-20.

Detroit Lakes' board work tops TRF 56-52

Detroit Lakes converted 20 offensive rebounds into offensive opportunities that led to a 56-52 North Sub-Section 8AAA boys high school basketball win over visiting Thief River Falls Monday.

The Prowlers cashed in on 20 of 26 free throw chances and limited their turnovers to 10, but couldn't make up for 27 percent, 15-for-55 shooting from the field and a 41-31 beating on the boards.

"We cut our turnovers down and we shot free throws well – two areas we've been working on," explained Thief River Falls coach Scott Brekke. "But the offensive rebounds just killed us. You just can't give up rebounds like that and expect to win. It gives them too many offensive opportunities."

The Lakers got 15 of those offensive rebounds in the first half.

Detroit Lakes led 17-13 at the end of the first quarter and held on to a 33-29 halftime edge. The game was tied at 43-43 heading into the fourth quarter.

"We had some opportunities, but we just couldn't get the lead," noted Brekke.

Ryan Kotta led the Lakers with 16 points. Jared Brandt and Courtney Skjerven scored 14 points apiece for the Prowlers.

Thief River Falls is 4-6.

NCTC women lose battle of defenses

Defense dominated the action Saturday afternoon as Rainy River beat Northland 55-49 in Minnesota Community College Conference Northern Division women's basketball at International Falls.

"It was a real intense defensive game," reported Northland coach Rick Nikunen. "I think we've got one of the best defensive teams in the Northern Division, and Rainy River is very similar. When you get two good defensive teams going at each other like that, the offensive play will suffer. It was not a clean game."

The two teams were tied at 22-22 at halftime. Rainy River scored on its first four possessions of the second half and never trailed the rest of the way. The Pioneers did gain a second half tie, but also fell behind by as many as 10 before narrowing the gap.

Northland shot just 34 percent from the field (18/54) and struggled through a 9-for-19 free throw game.

"We played rather poorly offensively the whole game," noted Nikunen. "We just never really got into a rhythm."

Rainy River was 19-for-49 from the field (38 percent) and 14-for-27 at the line. The winners had a 36-34 rebound edge. The Pioneers had more turnovers, 22-18.

Northland, 7-3 overall, is 2-1 in the MCCC heading into a Northern Division game tonight (Wednesday) against defending national champion Central Lakes in Brainerd.

Roseau edged Thief River Falls 2-1 Saturday in junior varsity high school hockey.

After a scoreless first period, Roseau pick up a second period goal, and scored again late in the third period before Thief River Falls' Shawn Rud made it a one-goal game at 13:52.

Thief River Falls goalie Mike Dowers had 34 saves. The winners faced just 13 shots.

MCC girls lose ground in final quarter vs. S-A

Stephen-Argyle girls out-scored Marshall County Central 17-5 in the fourth quarter to turn a two-point game into a 51-37 high school basketball win Saturday at Newfolden.

It was the ninth loss in ten starts for the Nordics, who stayed with the Storm until the final quarter.

"We ran into that two-minute stretch that puts us behind by 10," explained Marshall County Central coach Jerald Hagen. "We just got out-played at the end. I think their experience showed over our inexperience. We're playing a lot of young kids, and we're still playing young."

The Storm led 11-6 at the end of the first quarter, had a 21-20 halftime edge and maintained a 34-32 third quarter lead.

Alysa Stoltman of the Storm led all scorers with 13 points. Brandi Olson and Misty Fick both netted 10 for the Nordics.

Stephen-Argyle was 17-for-44 from the field (30 percent) and 16-for-30 at the free throw line. Marshall County Central went 14-for-45 from the floor (31 percent) and 9-for-15 at the line. The Storm out-rebounded the Nordics 27-21.

Red Lake Falls out-scored Red Lake County Central 30-12 in the second half Monday for a 49-26 girls high school basketball win.

The Eagles led just 8-6 and 19-14 at the first two quarter stops, but opened up a 32-18 third quarter spread.

"We played a good first half," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "They just kind of overwhelmed us in the second half. Their pressure takes its toll."

Red Lake Falls used a 33-15 rebound advantage to put up 30 more shots than Red Lake County Central. The Eagles were 21-for-65 from the field (32 percent), while the Mustangs went 12-for-35 (34 percent). At the free throw line, Red Lake Falls was 7-for-13; Red Lake County Central went 2-for-6.

B/G-MR girls lose five-point contest to Stephen-Argyle

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River was shut out in the third quarter Monday in a 43-38 girls high school basketball loss to Stephen-Argyle.

It was just the third defeat in 12 starts for the Gators, who led 23-14 at halftime, but came out of the third quarter facing a 26-23 deficit.

"It was ugly," said Badger/Greenbush-Middle River coach Tom Neibauer. "We couldn't make a breakaway lay-up. We were missing two-footers."

The Gators were 15-for-48 from the field (31 percent) and a quiet 1-for-4 at the free throw line, where the host Storm was a productive 17-for-25.

Early foul trouble cost the Gators the services of starters Nikki Wahl and Tiffany Hagen. Stefanie Sparby tried to fill the void with a game-high 16-point night. Allison Widner scored 13 points and Alysa Stoltman had 12 for the winners.

Detroit Lakes 43-42 winner over TRF JV

Detroit Lakes edged Thief River Falls 43-42 Monday in boys junior varsity high school basketball.

The winners trailed 11-10 at the end of the first quarter, went ahead 20-14 at halftime and fell behind again in the third quarter 26-24.

Todd Christensen scored 10 points to lead the Thief River Falls offense.

Roseau power play beats TRF

Unable to beat the front runners, Thief River Falls will try to be the best of the rest over the final portion of the 1996-97 regular season high school hockey schedule in a quest for a more favorable Section 8A tournament seed, according to Prowlers head coach Pat Cullen.

Roseau won a 5-1 Saturday night match-up at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center, to go along with an earlier 6-0 home ice win over the Prowlers. Warroad also beat Thief River Falls twice this winter, 10-3 and more recently 8-1.

Those two will be the top two seeds when Section 8A tournament play begins next month. Rest of the positions are expected to be up for grabs and despite a 2-10-1 record, Thief River Falls could be right in the thick of things, predicted Cullen.

That's because Thief River Falls began the week with home-and-home series remaining against East Grand Forks and Crookston, along with a single meeting with Lake of the Woods – teams looking to be seeded right behind Warroad and Roseau. Success in those games would cover up the Prowlers' below-par overall record that has been the result of hitting a young, inexperienced team with a tough schedule.

"We didn't beat Warroad and we didn't beat Roseau," said Cullen. "We know we're not going to be seeded one or two, but we're going to work for as high a seed as possible. If we can beat East Grand Forks, Crookston and Lake of the Woods, we could still be seeded three or four. We have some big games coming up."

Whatever upset hopes the Prowlers carried into the Roseau rematch vanished into the penalty box. Thief River Falls took seven of them, resulting in three Roseau power play goals.

"You can't give a good team that many power play opportunities," said Cullen.

It took Roseau just 1:41 to score. Thief River Falls goalie Brian Barry got a piece of a shot by the Rams' David Klema, but not enough to keep the puck from trickling across the goal line.

Six seconds into their first power play the Rams went up 2-0. Barry, who would wind up with 42 saves, made the initial stop when Trevor Hammer let loose with a slap shot from the point. But the long rebound caromed into the slot, and Mike Klema lifted the puck up and over the sprawling netminder at 11:21.

The 2-0 game became 3-0 when Hammer's shot from the point got through traffic and skidded under Barry as the clock hit :00.

Another Hammer slap shot, this one a power play ice-hugger, made it 4-0 at 4:17 of the second period.

The Prowlers responded with a power play goal of their own at 8:07 on a neat-looking play that found Kyle Anderson shoving a soft pass into the slot that was put away by Wade Chiodo.

Roseau, however, came back with a power play goal just 53 seconds later by Andy Lundbohm.

The third period was scoreless, thanks to 16 saves by Barry.

"I thought we played as well in the third period as we have for a long time," said Cullen. "I was happy with the third period effort. A lot of our trouble in the first two periods was a mental thing. If they believe they can play with people like Roseau, they can. But you have to work hard and use your head. You have to work hard and play smart hockey."

Scoring

First period - Roseau, David Klema (Trevor Hammer, Andy Lundbohm), 1:41. Roseau, Mike Klema (Hammer, Josh Olson), 11:21. Roseau, Hammer (Philip Larson, Matt Erickson), 15:00

TRF - Brian Barry 9-17-16–42. Roseau, Aaron Hokanson 4-3-5–12

Warroad rebounds topple Wolverines

Warroad used its size advantage to dominate the offensive boards Friday in a 64-44 girls high school basketball win over Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke. The game, which was played at Grygla, was set back one day by the weather.

The 37-22 Warroad advantage on the boards included a 23-7 difference on the offensive end.

"They just killed us on the boards," noted Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "A lot of their points came on offensive rebounds. They're big, but it's just a matter of boxing out and being more aggressive."

Warroad jumped out to a 26-11 first quarter lead, maintained a 35-23 halftime spread, then opened up a 56-35 third quarter gap.

Lisa Fry led the winners with 26 points. The Wolverines had ten players in the scoring column, but none with double figures.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke was 15-for-44 from the field (34 percent) while the offensive boards enabled Warroad to put up 33 more shots in a 29 percent 22-for-77 shooting performance. The winners were more accurate at the free throw line where they were 20-for-25 and the Wolverines were 13-for-21.

Wolverines upend Bears 71-57

Friday, Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke watched Warroad use a big rebound advantage to win 64-44. Monday, the Wolverines used the boards to their advantage in beating Lake of the Woods 71-57 in girls high school basketball at Grygla.

The winners out-rebounded the bigger Bears 40-30 and improved their record to 5-7.

"That's the best we've hit the boards all year," said Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Mike Gast. "That's probably the most intense we've played. We got after them on defense and caused some turnovers. It was a good team victory."

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke jumped out to a 21-9 first quarter lead, maintained a 37-25 halftime advantage and went into the fourth quarter with a 52-46 edge.

Jenny Johnson scored 22 points and Jenny Nelson 11 for the Wolverines. Ellie Waibel of the Bears matched Johnson for game-high scoring honors with 22 points.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke shot only 39 percent from the field, but the rebounds led to a busy 28-for-71 night. The Wolverines were 11-for-21 at the line. Lake of the Woods shot 42 percent from the floor (22/53) and went 13-for-25 at the line.

Sixth annual Blackduck youth wrestling tournament will be held Saturday in the high school gym.

The event is open to wrestlers kindergarten through sixth grade. Weigh-in will be held from 7:30 to 9 a.m., with wrestling scheduled to start at 10 a.m.

Tired RLCC girls lose lead, game to Eagles

Red Lake County Central couldn't finish the job Saturday in losing a 66-52 girls high school basketball game to East Grand Forks Sacred Heart in Plummer.

The Mustangs had quarter leads of 10-9, 19-14 and 42-39, but were out-scored 27-10 over the final eight minutes.

"We just plain and simple got tired," said Red Lake County Central coach Rick Koivisto. "We played really well for three quarters, then we just ran out of gas."

Weather-related interruptions to the schedule has a lot to do with the Mustangs' late-game problems, according to Koivisto. The game was a make-up from a Jan. 9 postponement.

The Mustangs, who at one time led by as many as 11 points, were still up 48-41 with five minutes to go before a rash of turnovers took their toll. They turned it over 34 times, with many of those mistakes occurring in the final quarter.

Angie Cherveslad scored 22 points and Ami Tvedt had 17 for the Mustangs. Four Sacred Heart scorers reached double figures, led by Chrissy Benson with 17 points.

Red Lake County Central was 22-for-53 from the field (42 percent), but just 5-for-15 at the free throw line. Sacred Heart went 26-for-64 from the floor (39 percent) and 12-for-26 at the line. The Mustangs finished with a 37-25 rebound advantage. The Eagles turned the ball over 20 times.

Pool hours extended

Lap swimming hours at Franklin Middle School are being extended.

"Swimming is hard to beat when it comes to a sport that builds the body, and soothes the mind," said Kathy Huschle, swimming pool director. Huschle also noted that it helps regulate breathing, stimulates circulation and puts no stress on joints. She said that makes swimming an ideal exercise for just about everyone — seniors, overweight people, young people, people with hip, knee and ankle problems, and active people with no health problems at all.

"No matter how you've abused or neglected your body. No matter how old you are or what your physical condition is, swimming can help you get back on the road to fitness. Swimming just three times a week for 30 minutes a session will improve the condition of your heart, arteries and lungs, lower blood pressure and reduce body fat. Plus, swimming has a calorie-burning potential of 350 to 420 calories per hour," Huschle said.

Swim fins, hand paddles, swim buoys, and kickboard are all ways to make your swim workouts more fun and challenging. This equipment is available for use during lap swimming hours at the Franklin Middle school pool.

Huschle said swimming lessons are available if your swimming skills are a little rusty. Adult swim lessons are offered through the Community Education program. These lessons can be designed around your expectations and goals. She explained that swimming is only one way to get fit in the pool. Exercising in water gives you 12 times the resistance of exercising on land.

Due to many requests, lap swimming hours at the Franklin Middle school pool will be extended beginning Monday, January 27.

Public pool hours are:

- Lap swimming — 6 to 7:30 a.m. (extended time), Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and from 6 to 7 a.m. Tuesday and Friday.
- Open swimming — 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday; from 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.
- Water Aerobics — 6 to 7 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Punch cards for water aerobics are available for $25 per 15 sessions. They can be obtained at the Community Education office.

The cost for public swimming and lap swimming is $1.25, payable at the pool. Individual and family passes are also available at the pool. The pool is available for rental at $25 per hour. The charge includes two lifeguards on duty. Please call the pool office at 681-8065 to inquire about available times.

Groups are invited and encouraged to use the pool during open swim hours. With all of the various activities people are involved in during the school year, there are many times when the pool is not busy. Feel free to call the pool office to discuss this option for your group.

Think about all the good things swimming can do for you: health benefits, fitness gained, cosmetic effects, stress reduction, and the soothing qualities of water. Join the 27 million American adults who swim on a regular basis.

If you have any questions about how to get started call the Franklin pool at 681-8065 and they will be happy to show you the way.

Please remember the closing policy for the Franklin pool in case of inclement weather:

1. If school is dismissed early or cancelled, all activities at the pool are cancelled;
2. If school begins late in the morning, lap swimming is cancelled;

DNR News

Slow down. It's the smart thing to do.

Department of Natural Resources will be driving home that message Jan. 17-20, which the agency has identified as Winter Wise Weekend. The first-year safety campaign aims to help snowmobilers be better riders by knowing more about reaction times, skidding distances, and how far a snowmobile travels before coming to a full stop.

"There is a difference between what seems like a safe speed and what is a safe speed," said Leo Haseman, DNR Enforcement Division director. "The difference between the two is often the difference between a wonderful weekend and unexpected tragedy."

DNR studies conducted with Minnesota State Patrol accident experts indicate it takes about 300 feet – of the entire length of a football field – to stop a snowmobile that is traveling at 50 miles an hour on a compacted trail. This distance is based on a 1.5 second reaction time, during which the snowmobile will travel about 100 feet, and skid a distance of about 200 feet.

"Most snowmobilers believe they can stop in a much shorter distance than that," said Haseman. "Unfortunately, the opposite is true, especially if alcohol is involved."

Haseman said a key factor in reducing snowmobile accidents is to get male drivers to slow down, especially at night.

Haseman stressed that the speed limit of 50 miles an hour on state trails, lands and waters isn't necessarily the safe speed limit.

TRF, EGF boys split freshman match-up

Thief River Falls won the A game 53-40 and East Grand Forks took the B game 55-49 Friday in freshman boys high school basketball.

Zach Bosh scored 11 points as Thief River Falls posted A game quarter leads of 15-4, 30-18 and 45-29.

Derek Kalsnes scored 15 points and George Haj had 10 in the B game as Thief River Falls fell behind at the quarters 16-7, 25-18 and 39-29.

Jan. 25-26 outings will be held at Old Mill State Park

January 25-26 weekend events at Old Mill State Park will include candlelight/moonlight ski and ice skating will be Saturday from 6 to 10 p.m. and a snowshoe interpretive hike Sunday beginning at 4 p.m.

Visitors are invited to take part in mile-long trek down ski trails lighted by candles and (if the weather cooperates) the moon on Saturday.

Great Minnesota Ski Passes, required for all people ages 16-65, may be purchased at the park. Daily passes for the ski trails are $1, with 1-year and 3-year passes also available. Approximately 20 sets of skis, boots and poles in a variety of sizes are available to rent at the park office for $6.50 per set. You should call or write the park to reserve sets.

Sunday, the snowshoe hike will follow the Lake Agassiz Interpretive Trail to explore the winter landscape of the Red River Valley of the North. Space is limited. Register in advance by calling 218-437-8174, or writing to Old Mill State Park, Route 1, Box 43, Argyle, MN 56713.

Snowshoes may be rented for $5 per day at the park on days not scheduled for interpretive hikes.

Vehicle permits are required to enter the park. They may be purchased at all state parks from now until Dec. 31, 1997.

The Old Mill State Park picnic shelter will be used as a warming house for the winter months. Snowmobilers may ride down to the shelter and warm up, but you are asked not to snowmobile on the cross country ski trails because it destroys the ski track.

Todd Michael Ricard, Crookston, was traveling south on Barzen, stopped for a stop sign and pulled out into the intersection with First. He collided with a vehicle driven by Jack Lynn Klemmetson, Thief River Falls. Damages were estimated at $250 to the Ricard vehicle and $1,600 to the Klemmetson vehicle. Klemmetson and a passenger complained of a sore back and neck.

On January 16 at 11:30 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a snowmobile accident in Rocksbory township, section four, about two miles south of the Best Western. According to the accident report, Darin Dwayne Jacobson, 27, Thief River Falls, was driving south in a ditch when his snowmobile hit a hard-packed snow bank and the snowmobile rolled. Jacobson cut his chin, twisted his wrist and bruised his leg. He sought medical attention for his injuries. Damage to the snowmobile was estimated at $2,000.

On January 14 at 11:18 a.m. police received a report of an accident in an alley between Main and Knight in the 100 block. Mya Dawn Krantz, Thief River Falls, was driving a car north in the alley, and Carl Vern Cleven, Thief River Falls, was driving a pickup west and coming out of a parking lot when the vehicles collided. The vision of the drivers was obscured. Damages were estimated at $1,200 to the Krantz vehicle, and $400 to the Cleven vehicle.

On January 16 at 3:50 p.m. police received a report of an accident in the City shed lot on North Horace. According to the accident report, Dale Anthony Narlock, Thief River Falls, bent down to pick up something while the City pickup he was driving was traveling west in the lot when it collided with a pickup driven by Richard John Gorde, Thief River Falls. Gorde was in the process of backing his pickup up. Damages were estimated at $3,000 to the City pickup, and $700 to the Gorde vehicle.

On January 18 at 9 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Eighth and Main. According to the accident report, Angela Dawn Edlund, Thief River Falls, was driving a car east on Eighth when a car driven by Mary Jo Hulst, Badger, ran through a stop light and the vehicles collided. Burglary. On January 14 at 3:49 p.m. police received a report from a local resident that items had been taken from her home. A 14-year-old male of Thief River Falls was later charged with burglary. The items taken from the home were returned. Theft loss was estimated at $80.

Assault. On January 19 at 12:50 a.m. police received a report of an assault. David Maurice Solberg, Fisher, was cited for fifth degree assault following an incident at a local motel. The woman struck in the incident did not require hospitalization.

Following an incident on January 12, police cited Paul Brian Grochowski, Thief River Falls, with fifth degree assault. The male victim did not require medical attention.

Driving while intoxicated. On January 15 at 6:27 p.m. police arrested James Brian Baker, 26, Thief River Falls. Baker was allegedly observed driving in an erratic manner on First Street bridge. He was taken to the law enforcement center where he allegedly threatened to kill a police officer. The charges placed against Baker were for aggravated driving while intoxicated and terroristic threats.

Consumption under age. On January 18 at 1:23 a.m. police were called about a noise complaint at the C'mon Inn. There were several under-aged youths drinking alcohol in four rooms at the motel. On checking the rooms several youth under the age of 18 were found in the presence of alcohol containers or to have been drinking alcohol. In all, nine youths were cited for consumption under age. All but one were from Thief River Falls. Another was from East Grand Forks. The youths were brought to the law enforcement center and released to their parents. Several other youths had left the area prior to the arrival of officers. The incident remains under investigation.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Local man faces criminal sexual conduct charges

Christopher Daniel Rux, 18, Thief River Falls, was arrested January 16 on several charges for criminal sexual conduct.

Following a complaint into sexual abuse, Rux was charged with two counts of criminal sexual conduct in the third degree, and one count of criminal sexual conduct in the fourth degree. These charges stem from incidents with males under the age of 16 and between July and December 1996. Rux is also being charged with two additional counts of criminal sexual conduct in the third degree. Those charges stem from incidents involving minor females under the age of 16 in Thief River Falls between October 1996 and January 1997.

Hitchhiking in blizzard lands G. F. man in jail

Twenty-year-old James Jeremy Amundson of Grand Forks attracted considerable attention Wednesday, January 15, when he was observed hitchhiking in a blizzard.

At 4:03 p.m. Pennington County Sheriff's department received a report that a person was spotted hitchhiking along State Aid 3 east of Thief River Falls. The individual walked to a nearby residence where he called the sheriff's department and asked for assistance. The sheriff's deputy arrived and gave Amundson a ride to Thief River Falls.

At 5:09 p.m. law enforcement officials received a report of a car that had been discovered in a ditch along State Aid 3 west of the location where the Amundson had been located. The vehicle, which was unoccupied when discovered, had gone off the road and rolled. Law enforcement learned it had been stolen from a location in Grand Forks. It has been alleged that Amundson took the vehicle, which would help explain why he was hitchhiking in a blizzard.

Shortly after that report, law enforcement in Thief River Falls received a report that Amundson had attempted to forge a check at a local convenience store. Amundson was taken into custody and faces charges in Pennington county for possession of stolen property, and forgery.

Area drama departments in One-Act Play Festival

Several area schools will perform short one-act plays in the One-Act Play Festival sponsored by the University of Minnesota at Crookston and the Crookston Community Theater on Saturday and Sunday, January 25 and 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Crookston Central High School Auditorium.

Red Lake Falls Lafayette High School Drama Club will present its one-act play "Sally and Sam," and the Plummer High School Drama department will present "Bridal Terrorism" Sunday, January 25. Both shows are directed by Andrea Liston of Red Lake Falls.

Liston said she is excited about the event. She said "Sally and Sam" took first place at sub-section competition January 18 in Oklee. She said they received an A+ and A- from judges. Their next competition will be January 25 in East Grand Forks.

Other productions in Crookston will include "Babes in Gangland" by the UMC Theater Department, "For Whom the Southern Belle Tolls" by the Crookston Community Theater, and "The Inner Circle" by the Crookston Central High School Drama Department.

The Festival will also be held on Saturday, January 25, with the three Crookston productions and "The Letter People" by the Fertile-Beltrami High School Drama Club. The Lafayette and Plummer productions will be presented only on Sunday night.

Admission is $3 for adults and $1 for students and children. This event is sponsored by the University of Minnesota at Crookston Theater Department and the Crookston Community Theater as a fund-raiser for the Crookston Community Theater Building project. For more information contact Music and Theater Director George French at the University of Minnesota at Crookston 218-281-8266.

Ag-Arama held at UMC January 24, 25

Ag-Arama, the annual winter competitive and fun event at the University of Minnesota, Crookston (UMC), will be held Friday and Saturday, January 24 and 25, at the University Teaching and Outreach Complex.

Ag-Arama provides students the opportunity to showcase their knowledge and skills in their individual interest areas. There are contests in horticulture, agriculture aviation, agronomy, soils, natural resources, mechanized agriculture and animal science showmanship.

Ag-Arama is planned by a committee of students and advised by a faculty member. This year's advisor is Bobby Holder, associate professor of soils in the agricultural management division. Student chair people are: Julie Schermerhorn, from New York Mills, MN, and Melissa Myron from Elbow Lake.

"We try to involve students from all divisions and all majors on campus," said Schermerhorn and Myron. "Ag-Arama is open to anybody who has an interest in any of the contests. All of the events during the day are open to the public, as well as to the UMC community, students and alumni."

Through Ag-Arama, students learn organizational skills by serving on committees. Ag-Arama gives students the opportunity to interact with each other and with faculty members through the various contests.

The event will end with an Ag-Arama dance at the Armory in Crookston from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday evening.

Faculty and students hold first ever meeting of the minds

Students and faculty boards hold first strategic session

On Friday, January 24, student leaders and faculty members from the Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MnSCU) will hold a first ever "meeting of the minds" to discuss common goals and related action. Starting at 2:00 p.m. at the Sheraton Midway (I-94 at Hamline) in St. Paul, the event is sponsored by a newly formed coalition of the six state-wide organizations that represent MnSCU students and faculty. The event will culminate with a 6 p.m. dinner and forum with key state legislators, including House Education Committee Chair Lyndon Carlson (DFL-Crystal), Rep. Dee Long (DFL-Minneapolis), House Higher Education Finance Division Chair Gene Pelowski (DFL-Winona), and Sen. Steve Morse (DFL-Dakota). Earlier that day, Rep. Myron Orfield will meet with the coalition to discuss tuition relief plans.

The meeting will involve the members of the governing boards for the Inter Faculty Organization (IFO), the Minnesota Community College Faculty Association (MCCFA), the Minnesota Community College Student Association (MCCSA), the Minnesota State University Student Association (MSUSA), the Minnesota Technical College Student Association (MTCSA) and the United Technical College Educators (UTCE).

"With education now at the forefront of many political debates, the student associations and faculty unions realize the need to form a united front," said TJ Wenker, MCCSA president. "The time has come to put aside differences and join the Legislature in a combined effort to improve the state through higher education."

Issues students and faculty plan to discuss include financial aid reform and a joint budget proposal for MnSCU. Drafted as an alternative to the $1,073,646,000 biennial budget approved by the MnSCU Board of Trustees, the $1,084,179,000 student/faculty request would freeze tuition rates at 1996 levels and halt increases in instructional fees for two years.

"Accelerated tuition increases have reduced access to our public colleges and universities, causing substantial enrollment declines," said Dave Abel, IFO president. "If this trend continues, it will negatively affect Minnesota's tax base and economy."

The student/faculty budget also calls for an annual inflationary increase of 3 per cent in base funding for MnSCU, an item not included in the MnSCU Board proposal. "MnSCU will have difficulty attracting quality faculty members with substandard compensation and working environments," said Larry Luecky, MCCFA president. "The failure to voice a need for an inflationary increase to cover existing and heating costs, the purchase of equipment and supplies, and cost of living adjustments for faculty and staff sets a bad precedent."

The student/faculty coalition plans to exit the Jan. 24 meeting with a concrete strategy outlining how the various groups will coordinate efforts throughout the current legislative session.

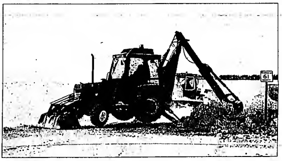
Agassiz Environmental Learning Center in Fertile to host moonlight skiing

The public is invited to an evening of cross-country skiing on Thursday, January 23, at the Agassiz Environmental Learning Center (ELC) in the Fertile Sand Hills.

Ski by the light of the full moon with the help of the luminaries lighting the trail. Bring your own skis or rent a pair from the Agassiz. The cost for ski rental is $3.

The Native Plants Trail, west of the Nature Center, will be luminated from 5 to 8 p.m. Experienced skiers are not limited to this trail.

Refreshments and restrooms will be available in the Nature Center. Free-will donations will be accepted to help defray the costs of refreshments and trail grooming.



Considerable leverage was needed to break down and remove this 10-foot high snow drift blocking County road 61 at Highway 10 in Pennington County. Dennis Nelson and Conrad Holtan, Pennington County Highway department employees, spent much of Thursday, January 16, clearing out the snow at this intersection. Unfortunately, intersections like this tend to fill back in with snow every time it snows or the wind picks up.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerbert Tronvol and Mr. and Mrs. Curt Thompson enjoyed their anniversary supper at the Best Western a few weeks ago December 21st. Enjoying a lovely visit while enjoying our meal.

Harvey Skyberg was a recent evening visitor and lunch guest of Curt and Elaine Thompson.

Curt Thompson called on Harvey Skyberg on Saturday morning the 21st of December we enjoyed snacks.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Thompson attended the Bridgeman Christmas supper Saturday evening December 14th. Had a delicious supper and enjoyed a nice visit while eating with Mr. and Mrs. Harland Lee. Both ladies were lucky and won a door prize.

Elaine Thompson received such a surprise and great blessing on Wednesday evening December 11th when the youth group with Pastor L. Flickinger, Robbin and Angie Anderson and Mark Knutson. They sang several lovely Christmas Carols. I wasn't feeling good that evening so when they came it was such a blessing. May God Bless you each one and Merry Christmas.

Harvey Skyberg was a forenoon coffee guest and visitor at the home of Roger and Robbin Mathsen, Monday, December 16th, then he went to Warren where he was a overnight guest a couple of nights.

On December 19th, Harvey Skyberg was a visitor and dinner guest of Carl and Delores Johnson at Karlstad.

Christmas Eve supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Thompson were Mark Thompson, Barb Herman of Moorhead, Roger Thompson and Ryan, Sam and Lisa Sparhawk, Jeremy, Jayme, and Amber, Roger and Robbin Mathsen, Ronelle, Ryan and Roanne, Dawn Thompson, Chad, Mike and Amy and Harvey Skyberg. We had turkey and trimming and meatballs. We had potluck and it all was delicious. It didn't take long with the dishes this year as grandma used the dishwasher her and grandpa got from the kids and grand kids for our anniversary. Before we know it we were done as Jeremy and Jayme also helped. We then gathered in our family room around the fireplace and our Christmas tree and had our annual Christmas program with some of the grand kids saying their parts. Grandpa read the Christmas Story from Luke 2. We then sang Christmas Carols and had an exchange of gifts with two granddaughters Amber and Ronelle being Santa Claus. While the younger ones played with their gifts the older ones played several kinds of games. Had Christmas snacks, coffee and punch. Mark, Barb, Lisa and Sam, Jeremy, Jayme and Amber were all overnight guests. Fun having them stay. Lisa and Sam and kids went to Sam's mom Linda's on Christmas Day. While Mark and Barb spent the day here and left around 4 p.m. We are thankful for another bountiful Christmas Eve. We had with our family and thank God for each one.

Thursday, December 26th, Mr. and Mrs. Curt Thompson drove to Thief River Falls where Elaine had a Doctor appointment. Afterwards we drove out to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Nelsons to visit their son Greg and Patti. Alex and Dexter were there so we got to visit with them and we also were dinner guest to a very good meal by Patti. It was good to visit them again. From there we were to visit Gib and Clarice Tronvol and were luncheon guests to alot of Christmas goodies and enjoyed our visit much.

Elaine Thompson was a recent visitor of Agnes Bjorgaard in December and had a lovely visit over a cup of coffee, goodies and also I bought her Christmas goodies and a few other things. When Curt came to pick me up he had coffee also.

Generation X Has Legitimate Concerns

Americans born after 1960 have been dubbed Generation X and constitute a group of younger residents of the nation who are legitimately concerned about the direction of the nation's economy and its government's handling of programs dealing with future health and security.

As pointed out by Dr. Richard Lesher, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, continuing fiscal irresponsibility is sabotaging productivity growth which is the key to advances in wages and standard of living.

"Vast amounts of the nation's wealth that should have been invested in infrastructure, research and development has been diverted to frivolous consumption and wasteful bureaucratic programs," Dr. Lesher writes. "As a result the one percent average annual growth rate in output per hour in the 1990s is only about one-third the 1960's rate of 2.8 percent. In fact, in only three of the last 22 years has productivity growth exceeded the average 2.9 percent set during the 1960-73 period.

"Even worse," he continues, "is our continuing failure to address maturely the conspicuous flaws in our entitlement programs, mainly Social Security and Medicare, which are headed inexorably toward fiscal disaster. A couple retiring in 1995 can expect to receive $118,200 more in Social Security and Medicare benefits than they paid in. A Generation X couple retiring in 2030 will pay $350,600 more into the system than they will get out of it. It is a giant ripoff by anyone's definition. Seen in that light, it is no wonder that Generation Xers are in a funk, nor any question who they hold responsible."

We would hope that the people held responsible are the elected representatives who have seen fit to replace cash contributions into the system over the years with paper credits while spending the money which should have been invested and earning more income. We would hope that Generation X doesn't fault the wage earner and his or her employer who have paid increasingly large sums into the system over their lifetimes in good faith that the workers will realize a return on that investment in their retirement years.

One of the objectives of a long-term program such as Social Security should be appreciation of funds. Many people retiring now have paid into the program for their entire working lifetime of 45 to 50 years. They should expect to get more back than they paid in, and $118,200 is not a magnificent sum for the anticipated retirement years of a couple.

That said, there is good reason to believe that some reform is necessary in Social Security and Medicare while fiscal restraint still offers a solution to the problem. The first effort should be to ferret out and eliminate the waste and fraud in the Medicare system which is perpetuated despite the knowledge of its administrators and Congress. The second should be a total hands-off policy on use of Social Security payments by workers for anything but the Social Security and Medicare program.

The concerns of Generation X are well founded, but often lacking is the recognition that it probably has the best start on a lifetime of any generation in history. In general, it was born into the greatest affluence of any generation and for the most part has no idea of what it is like to be without food, medical care or adequate shelter. It has never known the sacrifices made by Americans in the World War II struggle against Germany and Japan.

In 1994, for instance, 93 percent of all households living below the poverty line had color television sets. In virtually every material measure of the quality of life—diet, clothing, living space, automobiles, medical care, longevity, vacation time, entertainment options— Americans are living better than ever before.

It therefore is necessary for Generation X to spend less time complaining about what is being done to it and more time becoming a part of the solution by creatively effecting change that will improve its future outlook. Certainly the opportunity exists for effective involvement.

It Could Never Happen Here....Could It?

County commissioners and others attending a meeting last Friday afternoon regarding the state's legislation on Individual Sewage Treatment Systems (ISTS) are having difficulty understanding a need for the push apparently being made by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency to tighten the clamps on (primarily) rural septic systems.

Law governing individual systems was adopted by the legislature in 1994 and rules under the law are now being enforced by the MPCA. The law and rules provide for such things as determined state-wide standards for system design, a state-wide licensing of all businesses which deal with designing, building, inspecting, pumping or otherwise involved with ISTS installations, and disclosure of whether or not the system is in compliance with the law and rules at time of property transfer. So far it has been a muddled mess for many, not the least of which are real estate dealers and financial institutions.

The commissioners and others are puzzled because they haven't been convinced there is a need for either the legislation or the MPCA involvement. They have not been shown that any failing individual sewage treatment system has polluted the waters of the State of Minnesota. And they are concerned that the cost of systems designed to meet the criteria established by MPCA would not only cost at least several times more than currently used systems, but probably would work no better and be more prone to failure.

And at least some people who were at the meeting are concerned that the legislation and the rules under it could lead to abuses such as the case of Kent and Glenda Duell in Essex county, New York. Although their septic system was designed and approved by HUD and it was never shown that raw sewage had spilled out of the system or had seeped into state waters, the Duells on January 7 of this year were convicted on 164 counts, 102 of which were felony charges for "intending to pollute" the waters of the State of New York.

Kent Duell and his wife were each sentenced to six months in prison, five years on probation and fined $68,000, with Glenda Duell to serve her sentence beginning January 21 and her husband to begin his term upon her release. Judge David F. Jung cited the couple's serious criminal behavior and characterized his staggered sentencing as humane and caring because their two children would not need to be placed in foster homes.

As seemingly outrageous as the penalties imposed are, the maximum under New York law would have been over 1,200 years in prison and more than $30 million in fines.

Of course, nothing like that could ever happen in Minnesota—could it?

To The Editor:

Because of a desire to make our community more accessible to emergency care, the Goodridge Area EMS was formed.

We are a strictly volunteer organization, staffed by First Responders—certified by the State of Minnesota. As First Responders, we are covered under the "Good Samaritan" law. That means we are granted immunity (protected from civil liability) by acting in good faith to provide care to the level of our training, to the best of our ability.

Do we need First Responders? That seems to be a common question. The answer is a strong "yes!" Various organizations and individuals have confirmed our mission with words of encouragement, donation of funds and bent over backward to help us out. Thank you!.

"What will a First Responder do for me?" is another question asked. Last weekend, during the Ironman 250 snowmobile race, our rescue squad covered the Highlanding bridge area in the event of an emergency—to put it bluntly, if there was an accident. While the ambulance was enroute to the scene, we could hopefully provide lifesaving emergency care and get the individual out of the winter elements in the meantime. Do we charge for this service? No!

Our squad has responded to car accidents in the area. Once again, you or someone you love may be traveling through the most remote area of Pennington county and need us. I personally can tell you that I live 30 minutes from Thief River Falls, and that seems like an eternity when waiting for an ambulance.

You may have noticed the rescue vehicle at a football game last fall. I don't like to think of sports injuries, but they happen. It takes at least 20 minutes for an ambulance to arrive from Thief River Falls to Goodridge. That child on the ground is our future; if I can do one thing to make a difference, I will!

So why this letter? I've grown up in this area and know the horror when you need to make a 911 call. I know first hand who is going to arrive at the scene first. It's going to be a neighbor or a family member. If that individual is trained as an emergency responder, you might luck out and buy a few more minutes until the ambulance arrives.

The Goodridge Area EMS will be offering another training session this winter to fulfill the needs of more First Responders. If you would think about becoming a First Responder, let me know. If you are unable to take the training, but would be willing to send us a few bucks, we'd gladly take that, too!.

Thanks

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL)— A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthur Itis®" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthur Itis® relieves pain by first selectively attracting, and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthur Itis® is an odorless, greaseless, non-staining cream and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work or your money back.

Council Rejects Bids On Cast Iron Pipe; Defers Action On Sewer Lift Bid

"The city council, at an adjourned session Wednesday evening, voted to reject all bids on cast iron pipe and other materials needed for projected water main extensions on the ground that promised dates for delivery of the material were too far in the future. Laid over for further investigation was the single bid entered on the Horace avenue sewer lift relocation project by the Minneapolis Bridge Construction company in the base amount of $13,977."

Dr. Mellby Again Heads Sanatarium Commission

"Dr. O. F. Mellby, for approximately 30 years president of the Oakland Park sanatarium commission, was reelected to that office at the annual meeting held Wednesday of last week. Martin Hegland of Roseau was named vice president. Dr. Baldwin Borreson, superintendent, stated that the annual report of the institution would be completed this week."

J. Brandt Cites Effects Of Cuts In Farm Income

"Public rejoicing over the price declines in agricultural products should be tempered by a sober realization that cutting the income of farmers is bound to affect all consumer income proportionally, John Brandt told a meeting of the Minnesota Employers association in the St. Paul hotel.. Mr. Brandt, president and general manager of Land O'Lakes Creameries, Inc., pointed out that reduction of the high cost of living cannot be affected by cutting present incomes. 'Any hope of reducing living cost,' he said, 'must be based on greater productivity and lower prices that are effected by economy and industrious applications of our fullest efforts.'"

Check Forgers Wanted In Duluth Picked Up Here

"Two youths wanted by St. Louis county authorities on charges of having issued worthless checks in Duluth were picked up by local police last week-end and turned over Tuesday to Deputy Sheriffs to be returned to Duluth for trial on charges of second degree forgery. One of the youths was from Minneapolis and the other was from California. They had apparently not passed any checks in Thief River Falls."

Two Men Bound Over To District Court After Raids

"Following the recent raids staged by Sheriff Arthur Rambeck and local police on the Elks and Eagles clubrooms, in which a number of slot machines were confiscated, representatives of the local Elks lodge and Eagles aerie appeared Monday afternoon before Special Judge W. J. LaBree in municipal court on charges of maintaining gambling devices. Each of the two men was bound over to district court under bonds of $200. County Attorney Paul A. Lundgren stated that the maximum fine that can be imposed for this offense is $200."

"The Thief River Falls Press insinuates that there must have been something wrong about the trial of the case of H. W. Lee against the village of Thief River Falls, in district court here. The Tribune does not know whether the defendant was notified or not, but we do know that the case was fully discussed in open court, and we also know that Judge Ives is not in the habit of allowing the trial of cases brought up in an irregular manner. THE PRESS, we fear, is unduly prejudiced in the matter.

Forty-nine junior and senior class members from area high schools participated in the Top Gun competition Monday evening, January 13, at the National Guard armory in Thief River Falls. Gully Community News

Sanna Brovold

There are still a few who remember Hans Melbo and Oscar Thor when they operated the General Store in Gully. Part of their building still stands, but because of fire it is not in use. While they lived in Gully, Hans and Hilda Melbo had a son Irvin born in Gully. Records show Irvin's mother Hilda taught him all the curriculum subjects by their kitchen table and yet from that simple beginning Irvin later earned his bachelors and masters degrees at the New Mexico Western College and his doctorate from the University of California at Berkeley. He taught at Columbia University and held many administrative positions.

During World War II he served as Lieutenant in the U.S. Naval Reserve and was attached to the training division of the Bureau of Naval Personnel in Washington D.C. After the war he was chosen by President Eisenhower to monitor war activities and training for all branches of the armed forces. One of his noteworthy beliefs were: "There must be a readiness, a willingness and capability to take action to correct what is known to be wrong to improve what is known to be bad." Before he died he was known as "The Nations Leading Statesman." How proud we should be to know he spent his early years in Gully until he was nineteen years old. Even as a young boy he was ambitious. Some remember him being Black and Mortar Tender when the Creamery was built in Gully.

Wally Rutkowski and Alice Forsberg were guests at the "Birthday of the Month" party held at the First Care Nursing Home at Fosston on Monday afternoon. On this day the residents that have birthdays in that particular month are honored. Among those honored on Monday was Esther Rutkowski whose birthday will be January 30th. So if her friends would care to send her a greeting for her birthday, I am sure Esther would really appreciate it. She was a faithful reporter of the "Gully News" before entering the home. Ladies from Hope Church served lunch. They all enjoyed Angel food Strawberry Short Cake. Happy Birthday Esther.

Herb and Vanny Larson from Roseau visited with Ann Nyland at her home at the Gully Mall on Friday they invited Ann along and drove over to Clearbrook to visit with Grace Nyland and enjoyed a good lunch.

We were saddened to hear of the death of our neighbor over at Trail. Rosalie (Rose) Hruby Aaknes passed away on Thursday, January 9th. Rose was an important individual in the community, but also touched the lives of many in a large area especially with her baking of bread and donuts, and especially in making decorated cakes. If we had a picture of all the cakes she had baked it would be an "impressive line up." One could depend on Rose if we needed a large many layered cake, a large sheet cake or she took time to make a cute little cake for a first or second birthday party all artistically and appropriately decorated. She will be missed by the community as well as her family Darlene, Glenn, Kathy and Paulette and families, fifteen grandchildren and seventeen great grandchildren. Her funeral was Monday at the Sand Valley Church. Rev. Daniel Faugstad officiated. Members of the Mount Olive Guild served dinner afterwards at the VFW Hall. Rose was a charter member of Mount Olive Lutheran Church and Ladies Guild. Our sympathy to the Aaknes and Hruby families.

We had another sad message when we heard of the death of Dick Krogstad from a few miles south of Gully near his home by the former Olga Store. Winter weather can be tricky even for those of us who have lived in the north a long time. Dick would fit into the old fashioned saying "He would give the shirt off his back to anyone needing help." It was uplifting to visit with Dick, he seemed to see something good and promising about tomorrow even though the day might be dark and dreary. Now his home is dark and lonesome. Dick's light will no longer shine in the windows, just the memories remain. His mother Ragna and his sister Debbie and husband Warren Alloll live in Fosston.

Strandquist

Northwest Minnesota felt the fury of the blizzard "Doris" this past week and all of Ray's thermometers were way below zero the whole time. The wind chill factors were so low it almost gave you pneumonia just hearing about it. Most activities were cancelled including some schools.

I saw an ad in the paper this week for a recipe of a "Fat Burning Stew" for $3.00 that would take off 17 pounds of cellulite in a week. But wanting to lose only 10 pounds I figured I would only have to eat it for 4 days. That would put me into my last wedding dress again cause I buy them big to get my money's worth. I learned that as a kid from my cousin Esther, when she stepped into my fathers overshoes to go with me to the barn late one winter evening. She said, "I buy them big to get my money's worth." With only a kerosene lantern for light, as we came around the corner of the barn, a big pig that had broken out of the pen, let out a loud snort and Esther dashed up on a huge pile of hay in her stocking feet, leaving my fathers overshoes behind. I think she flew up there.

Back to the stew, when Ray heard I had sent for it he said that maybe it meant to burn some fat meat in the frying pan and make stew on it not for to eat. With that thought in my head, I didn't feel a bit hungry even though it was supper time. If I couldn't eat for 4 days, to say nothing about staying on that diet for a whole week I think I'm better off the way I am. When I get the recipe I will let you in on that $3.00 secret.

The Strandquist Seniors have been staying at home this past week as a rule, going out only if they have to do so. Elsie Berggren who was a regular member of the group was found to have passed away by her family members when they returned from their dinner, to which Elsie had declined due to feeling a bit ill. She will be sadly missed in Strandquist and this area. She was a very generous person.

The Bethesda Lutheran Church services was cancelled during the week but Pastor Norquist held Confirmation classes. Most folks had a hard time getting around.

Elphie Adlis was snowed in but her son Stanley made it to work using his pickup.

Sunday, supper guests at Gayhard Nelsons home were Bilon Nelson, Karl and family, Myron Nelson visited later.

Marcelyn Lindstrom spent from Wednesday until Monday in Bemidji taking care of the children of Dr. Paul and Diane Dirmenson while they were in Phoenix, AZ.

Thursday visitors at the Gayhard Nelson home were Bilon Nelson, Karl and family, Myron Nelson, Deda and Logan.

Elmer Holmstrom, Evalyn Albaugh, Bud and Marie Stollon of Argyle, June Kasprowicz, and Lowell Lofrooth visited at Judy Kleinvachter's this week.

Bob and Pat Lindstrom left on a Caribbean Cruise to the Bahamas this week. Dianne Lindstrom stayed with Morris Lindstroms while they are gone. They picked a good time and a place where they can go swimming in the sunshine rather than here stoking the fires.

Elsie Lofrooth entertained Isaac and Betsy Thompson, Pearl Thompson and Roy and Myrtle Vagle on Tuesday evening.

Brenda Kasprowicz and children and Irene Nelson were visitors at the Donald Nelson home on Saturday evening. Russell Grandstrand visited Gayhard Nelsons on Saturday.

Most visiting had to be done during daylight hours as with the severe winds and blowing snow it was not too wise to be on the roads after dark. Friday visitors at Gayhard Nelsons were Myron Nelson, Deda and Logan, Marlyn Nelson and Audrey and Donovan Chicalinski.

The tip for this week is even though the weather has let up for a bit be sure to have your survival kit in your vehicles as you can become stranded and it may save your life. There were some who froze to death this past week and we need all of you to keep up the number of residents in our smaller towns.

Those who enjoyed our annual Ladies Mission Fellowship Christmas program party at the home of Percy and Vernace Stokke on Thursday, December 5th were Ruby Holmaas, Elaine Thompson, Orpha Shalhauser, Murial Nelson, Darlene Chapman, Kathrina Knutson, Valborg Huglen, Iola Rokke, Adeline Stennes, Ellen Flaten and Amy Hjelles who helped Vernace hostess the potluck lunch. The men who came were Pastor Leroy Flicklinger, Curt T., Jake S., Percy S.

We had a very interesting program with Valborg, Kathrina in charge. Each one of us read the Christmas tradition in different countries. Sang carols. Prayed Leid's prayer and sang the table prayer. We also had our exchange of gifts by Amy. It was lots of fun. Then we enjoyed the delicious potluck lunch and visiting together.

Thursday, December 5th, late p.m. Curt and Elaine Thompson drove to Greenbush and visited with Olga Thompson and Emma Kammen. They are doing ok. Also celebrated Emma's 86th Birthday with coffee, goodies and gift. Send greetings to everyone back there.

Harvey Skyberg helped Curt Thompson put in our new picture window on December 6th and was a luncheon guest also.

On Sunday evening, December 6th, Mr. and Mrs. Curt Thompson invited the following to the Wastaker Sunday School Christmas program. They were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Sistad, Harvey Skyberg and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leigh. They had a very good program and had a good turn out. After the program we stayed for coffee and Christmas goodies.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Thompson were among the ones who attended the funeral services for Lawrence Slodol on December 12th at the St. Joseph's Church in Strandquist. It was good to see all the children and their children again. God be with you all.

Thursday evening, visitors and supper guests of Grandpa and Grandma Thompson were Sam Sparhawk, Jolomy and Mackenzie. Had a lovely evening.

Northwest Minnesota felt the fury of the blizzard "Doris" this past week and all of Roy's thermometers were way below zero the whole time. The wind chill factors were so low it almost gave you pneumonia just hearing about it. Most activities were cancelled including some schools.

I saw an ad in the paper this week for a recipe of a "Fat Burning Stew" for $3.00 that would take off 17 pounds of cellulite in a week. But wanting to lose only 10 pounds I figured I would only have to eat it for 4 days. That would put me into my last wedding dress again cause I buy them big to get my money's worth. I learned that as a kid from my cousin Esther, when she stepped into my father's overshoes to go with me to the barn late one winter evening. She said, "I buy them big to get my money's worth." With only a kerosene lantern for light, as we came around the corner of the barn a big pig that had broken out of the pen, let out a loud snort and Esther dashed up on a huge pile of hay in her stocking feet, leaving my father's overshoes behind. I think she flew up there.

Back to the stew, when Roy heard I had sent for it he said that maybe it meant to burn some fat meat in the frying pan and make stew on it not fit to eat. With that thought in my head, I didn't feel a bit hungry even though it was supper time. If I couldn't eat for 4 days, to say nothing about staying on that diet for a whole week, I think I'm better off the way I am. When I get the recipe I will let you in on that $3.00 secret.

The Strandquist Seniors have been staying at home this past week as a rule, going out only if they have to do so. Elsie Berggren who was a regular member of the group was found to have passed away by her family members when they returned from their dinner, to which Elsie had declined due to feeling a bit ill. She will be sadly missed in Strandquist and this area. She was a very generous person.

The Bethesda Lutheran Church services was cancelled during the week but Pastor Norquist held Confirmation classes. Most folks had a hard time getting around.

Elphie Adle was snowed in but her son Stanley made it to work using his pickup.

Sunday supper guests at Gayhard Nelsons home were Dion Nelson, Kari and family. Myron Nelson visited later.

Marcelyn Lindstrom spent from Wednesday until Monday in Bemidji taking care of the children of Dr. Paul and Diane Dimmanson while they were in Phoenix, AZ.

Thursday visitors at the Gayhard Nelson home were Dion Nelson, Kari and family, Myron Nelson, Dede and Logan.

Elmer Holmstrom, Evelyn Albaugh, Bud and Marie Stelton of Argyle, June Kasprowicz and Lowell Lofhooth visited at Judy Kleinvachter's this week.

Elsie Lofhooth entertained Isaac and Betsy Thompson, Pearl Thompson and Roy and Myrtle Vagle on Tuesday evening.

Brenda Kasprowicz and children and Irene Nelson were visitors of the Donald Nelson home on Saturday evening. Russell Grandstrand visited Gayhard Nelsons on Saturday.

Most visiting had to be done during daylight hours as with the severe winds and blowing snow it was not too wise to be on the roads after dark. Friday visitors at Gayhard Nelsons were Myron Nelson, Dede and Logan, Marilyn Nelson and Audrey and Donovan Chicolin ski.

Dion Nelson visited at the Myron Nelson home on Saturday.

The tip for this week is even though the weather has let up for a bit be sure to have your survival kit in your vehicle as you can become stranded and it may save your life. There were some who froze to death this past week and we need all of you to keep up the number of residents in our smaller towns.

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS

HOW

WHAT

YOUR CHILD LEARNS

There's probably never been a tougher time to be a parent. Which is why there's never been a better time to choose a Catholic school for your child's education.

In a Catholic school, your child will receive an education that's second to none. Nationally, Catholic school students consistently outperform others on tests for math, reading and science. They're also the most likely to go to and graduate from college.

Just as important as academic achievement is the environment in which your child learns. Catholic school educators share your beliefs and values. They reinforce the morals you instill in your child.

Call or visit your local Catholic school today. You'll see why a Catholic school is a school you can believe in.

SD 564 students have three storm days to be made up

March 31, April 1 and June 2 recommended by Supt. Robicheau

Three of the five days of school missed by students because of the weather will have to be made up. School Superintendent Dr. Jerry Robicheau outlined a plan for making up those days to the school board Monday night, and the school board adopted the recommendation.

Snow days were declared on December 17 and 18, and January 10, 16 and 22. Dr. Robicheau recommended that they not make up the first day. He recommended that staff make up a day with a staff development day on February 17, and that snow days for students be made up on March 31, April 1, and June 2. Any additional snow days will be made up during the first week in June. Graduation will remain on May 30.

The school board has adopted a new policy regarding requests by parents for specific teachers to teach their children. Three important changes to the policy were outlined by Challenger Principal Glen Espe, and Assistant Principal Marti Erlandson – the requests must be made in writing before March 1, three choices must be made, and there must be a "valid educational" reason for the request.

Letters will soon be sent to parents who have made requests or expressed interest in making a request. Espe and Erlandson explained that requests can cause a great imbalance among classrooms. Requiring valid educational reasons for the request should help. They indicated that every effort will be made to honor the request, but other considerations will be taken into account and in the end, administration reserves the right to make the final decision.

The school board approved a policy change regarding confidentiality. The policy states "No board member shall knowingly disclose confidential information gained by reason of information shared at a board meeting. This includes details about property, operations, personnel policies or other confidential affairs of the organization.

"Nor shall board members use information to advance any personal interest, financial or otherwise.

"The organization shall maintain confidentiality of employee records, and no board member shall accept employment or engage in any business or professional activity that might be expected to induce him or her to disclose confidential information acquired by reason of serving on the board.

"A breach of this policy will be reviewed by the full board and may result in public censure."

The school board recognized the following for their contributions

LHS second annual science fair Friday and Saturday

Second annual Lincoln high school science fair will be conducted Friday and Saturday in the high school cafeteria with the public invited to view the exhibits from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday and 9 to 11:30 a.m. Saturday. An awards program will begin at 11:30 a.m., after which the projects will be removed by the student exhibitors.

Participants will set up their projects in the cafeteria from 2 to 3 p.m. Friday and judging will take place from 3 to 6 p.m., according to Mrs. Patti Johnson, Lincoln science instructor and science fair coordinator.

Grand champions will advance to regional competition on Saturday, March 15, at Bemidji State University with regional winners qualifying for the state science fair April 11-13 in Duluth. State winners are eligible for international competition May 10-16 at Louisville, KY.

At the Saturday morning awards program, special awards will be presented from cooperating local businesses and organizations.

At the first Lincoln high school science fair in nearly 30 years last year, approximately 150 students participated in preparing about 75 project entries. Of the winning projects selected for advancement to the regional event at BSU, three entries prepared by five students gained advancement to the state science fair at the Thunderbird Motel in Bloomington.

Despite the favorable experience each of the students reported at the regional and state competitions, only one of the five will have a project at the Lincoln science fair this year. Jennifer Vad of rural Goodridge is continuing with her several-year experiment on results of fertilization on crops.

Other local and regional winners last year were Lacey Huschle and Leah Kenner, who combined on a "Fan in a Box" project and Eeva Young and Jamie Kalsnes, who were partners on an experiment entitled "What Toothpaste Is Most Effective?"

"It was a great experience," said Eeva Young, daughter of Steve and Paivi Young, about the three day state science fair. "There were more than 100 exhibits and we had to answer questions about our project from about five judges. We got a blue ribbon, so we felt good about that."

Jamie Kalsnes, daughter of Ken and Janeen Kalsnes and Eeva's partner on the science project, said "I had a great time and it was good experience, seeing the other projects and finding out more about how the state science fair was conducted."

Eeva had participated in Bemidji as a Lincoln freshman two years ago, the year before the Lincoln science fair was held as a competitive event. Jamie had her first science fair experience a year ago.

"We wanted to be in the science fair again this year," Eeva said, "but I knew I had to be gone this weekend and we have had a lot of other things to do."

"But we plan to be prepared for the science fair next year as seniors," Jamie added. "Last year our project was in biology. Next year we will have a chemistry basis and our project will be a lot more complicated."

Lacey Huschle, daughter of Gary and Kathleen Huschle, said the state science fair was not only a lot of fun but educational. "We got a lot of

Ceiling sag at Grygla school causes yet another day of cancelled classes

School was called off Tuesday for Grygla students when a roof over a hallway was discovered to be sagging six to eight inches under the weight of heavy snow and an air conditioner.

Superintendent Sal Hoffert said a janitor discovered a sag in a false ceiling in the hallway Tuesday morning. Upon removing some tiles from the false ceiling he discovered that the 20-foot span of ceiling over the hallway between the new portion of the school and the cafeteria and old section of the school was sagging six to eight inches. All of the bolts connecting the roof to the buildings had snapped under the weight of heavy snow and the air conditioner.

The hallway is a location where students tend to congregate and where student lockers are located. Hoffert said their insurance company was contacting a structural engineer and the school district was attempting to contact the engineer who designed the hallway. In the meantime, school was called off and some metal supports were installed under the roof.

It may be perfectly safe, Hoffert said, but they didn't want to take any chances.

Hoffert commented that the school hasn't had a five day week since the first week of December. Other than vacations, he said this will be the fifth day school has been called off Tuesday morning. Hoffert said he expected school to be back in session Wednesday morning.

Special honors were bestowed upon several people during the Annual Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce banquet, which was held at the Best Western in Thief River Falls Saturday evening. Pictured from left are Diane Johnson, Education Award for Higher Education; Deb Malere Zak, Volunteer of the Year; Roberta Kalsnes, Young Leader Award, Joanne Pearson, Young Leader Award; and Mike Lehrer, Education Award for K-12

Curt Neumann to head TRF Chamber for 1997

At the Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet Saturday night, Curt Neumann was introduced as chairman of the Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce. Neumann has adopted as his theme for 1997 — "Working Together for Your Success". In his first address to the chamber membership, Neumann discussed the recently completed survey of chamber members which, among other things, directed the chamber to take a stand on sensitive issues. Neumann said the board would soon be addressing the issue of the Multi-Events Cultural Center. He also hinted at taking another look at a sales tax, which would definitely be another sensitive issue.

Sen. Roger Moe, who was the guest speaker for the event, also adopted the '97 theme. Specifically, he explained that in his opinion during the last election voters directed legislators to work together.

Some of the issues Moe saw as important in the coming legislative session included the proposed stadium for the Twins. The major media in the state, he said, have spent more time on the issue than he thinks legislators will. He later added that they aren't going to take any money from the general fund to build a stadium unless taxpayers choose to pay for it. In essence, he explained that if taxpayers choose to pay for expensive fees on holdings at the stadium and if by going to interested parties who promise to pay back the loan, then legislators might go for it. But he said, it will be an interesting debate.

Welfare reform, property tax reform, and K-12 funding will also be among the contentious issues faced by legislators this session. He warned though that what some people think of as reform may not be what northern Minnesotans think of as tax reform.

Outgoing chairman of the board, Darcy Harbott, thanked the membership for their support during the city's Centennial Year, and for doing their part to help keep Thief River Falls strong.

A number of awards were presented during the evening. The President's award was presented to the Centennial Committee, which was composed of Jean Heinrichs, Dale Weinberg, Maryel Anderson, and Jane Mattson. The Chamber of Commerce Young Leader Award was presented to Joanne Pearson, and Roberta Kalsnes. Pearson is the Youth and Education Worker at

Oklee teachers considering filing for state arbitration

Teachers in School District 627 (Oklee) are still without a master contract for the 1995-1997 two-school-year contract period and are considering filing for arbitration, according to Brad Burene, president of the Oklee Education Association.

Burene said the Oklee district is one of only four public school districts in Minnesota where a 1995-97 contract has not been negotiated.

Charles Bishop, chief negotiator for the Oklee Education Association, said that District 627 teachers are working under the terms of the 1993-95 master contract. "That makes Oklee teachers the lowest paid teachers in Minnesota," Bishop said.

Under the continuing contract for 1993-95, Oklee teachers have a salary schedule which begins at $19,470 and has a maximum of $33,170. Burene said this compares with a regional average for 1996-97 of $23,219 and $38,235 for schools comparable in size to Oklee.

Negotiators for the Oklee board of education last offered an increase of $800 on the salary schedule per teacher annually. Oklee Education Association's negotiators had stated they would consider $1,408 per teacher per year as a settlement.

Negotiations for the board and faculty have been meeting since November of 1995. A mediation session conducted by Gary Rogers of the Bureau of Mediation Services was also held in an effort to reach agreement.

Because District 627 has not agreed to a contract with the Oklee Education Association for 1995-97, it will have $25 per pupil deducted from the foundation aid paid to the district from the State of Minnesota. State law requires that school districts must reach an agreement with the teachers' exclusive representative by January 15 of the even-numbered year or the $25 per pupil penalty will go into effect.

No further negotiations sessions are currently scheduled between the school district and education association. "Once the January 15 deadline was passed, negotiations sessions haven't made much progress. The district doesn't have much financial incentive to settle," Bishop said.

The Times contacted David Bachand, who is serving as a spokesman for the School District 627 negotiations committee. Except to say that the school district will be facing substantial deficit spending starting this spring and continuing into the next school year, he said the board's negotiating committee preferred not to comment on the contract negotiations.

Lincoln mock trial team prepares for two regional rounds

In preparation for competition against Twin Valley in Warren Monday, February 3 and against Frazee in Bagley Wednesday, February 12, the Lincoln high school mock trial team will take part in a practice trial this afternoon (Wednesday) in the Pennington county courthouse court room in Thief River Falls. The trial will begin about 3:30 p.m. and the public is welcome to attend.

This year's case involves Chris Moss, a fictitious senior at Liberty Senior High School, who claims that the school district fails to equip all students with basic academic skills. The school district maintains that it has met its duty to provide educational opportunities for students enrolled in the schools.

In the mock trial program, students assume the roles of lawyers and witnesses as they argue the case before a judge. The 11-year-old program has grown to include more than 140 Minnesota schools. More than 700 lawyers and judges volunteer their time to coach students.

Assisting Lincoln coach Cal Lindberg with the local team are attorneys Michael Jorgenson and Gayle Borchert. The team has had good success through the years, narrowly missing advancing to the state from regional final competition on several occasions.

Minnesota State Bar Association (MSBA) sponsors the program in an effort to teach students about the legal system through direct participation.

"Each year, students and their parents tell us how much they enjoy the experience of preparing and arguing a case," states Lisa Wilde, director of public affairs for the MSBA. "The program represents a truly collaborative effort that brings together teachers, students, parents, lawyers, judges and community members."

In the opening trial against Twin Valley in Warren next Monday, Lincoln will have the role of plaintiff in the suit. Paul Dehnert, Lesley Ihle and Kate Ihle will be the attorneys with Sara Rasmussen, Jenna Tsukichi and Nikolas Kotz as witnesses. Rachel Greelis will serve as timekeeper, Stephanie Stanina as bailiff and Stephanie Wiseth operating the video camera.

In the trial February 12 in Bagley, Lincoln will be the respondent and Frazee will have the plaintiff role. Attorneys for Lincoln will be Sara Rasmussen, Kate Ihle and Lesley Ihle while the witnesses will be Stephanie Wiseth, Rachel Greelis and Stephanie Stanina. Nikolas Kotz will be timekeeper, Jenna Tsukichi will serve as bailiff and Paul Dehnert will operate the video camera.

Following the two regional trials, qualifying teams will advance to regional playoffs scheduled for February 22 and regional finals for March 3-4. The state tournament will bring together the top 12 teams to compete in St. Cloud March 19-20.

Attorneys and judges preside at the first and second rounds and score the teams on their presentations. At the final trial to determine the state mock trial champion March 20, Supreme Court Justice Paul Anderson will preside. The Minnesota champion will be invited to the national competition May 8-10 in Nashville, TN.

At the practice trial today, jurors will be from the Thief River Falls Academic Boosters Club. They are Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerry Robicheau, Joan Bolar, Cindy Clow, Mary Follett, Bob Ekeren, Cindy Tsukichi and Jean Larson (alternate). Lincoln staff members serving as jurors are Bill Stock, Lynn Dyer and Scott Hetherington.

MSBA's Wilde noted that the mock trial program selects an issue each year that is of particular importance to young people. Past mock trial cases have addressed such issues as domestic abuse, drunk driving, gangs and drug testing of high school athletes.

Unemployment in region rises from October

Unemployment in Region 1 during November matched the 4.3 percent mark of a year ago but was up from 3.2 percent in October, according to the Minnesota Department of Economic Security.

Clearwater county, in Region 2, had the highest unemployment rate in the state at 11.4 percent, but it was the lowest percentage of unemployment in that county in six years.

Marshall county, at 9.8 percent, had the highest unemployment rate in Region 1 in November of 1966, surpassing Red Lake county with 9.1 percent. Lowest rate was 3.2 percent in Polk county, edging Roseau county's 3.5 percent.

Every county in Region 1 had an increase in its jobless rate from October to November, led by Marshall county's jump from 7.0 to 9.8 percent and Red Lake county's rise from 6.4 to 9.1 percent.

A comparison of rates in Region 1 counties is as follows with percentages for November 1996, October 1996 and November 1995 listed respectively: Kittson, 5.1, 3.8 and 5.9; Marshall, 9.8, 7.0 and 8.3; Norman, 4.3, 3.2 and 4.3; Pennington, 3.9, 3.3 and 4.1; Polk, 3.2, 2.3 and 3.6; Red Lake, 9.1, 6.4 and 8.8; and Roseau, 3.5, 2.6 and 3.0.

The following is the text of Curt Neumann's message to the chamber membership. "Thief River Falls' 100th birthday provided our community with a number of Centennial activities that made it an exciting year for Thief River Falls and the surrounding area. We extend a huge thank you to the people who worked so hard to make the Centennial a success. Congratulations for a job well done!

"The many events of the Centennial did much to promote the city in a positive manner. Our Chamber of Commerce had an integral role in promoting many of the events during the past year.

"The past year has also been one of better crops, better retail business, more jobs and more available housing.

"The success of the past year should serve as a springboard to continue the work of promoting Thief River Falls as a regional center for retail businesses, professional services, manufacturing, post secondary education and medical services. Thief River Falls truely is the "hub" of Northwestern Minnesota.

"Even though our Chamber had a successful year representing our community, much work remains. As I begin my term as the Chamber chairman of the board, I know that it will be a challenge to carry on with a busy agenda for moving our organization forward in a positive direction.

"In a survey of its members in 1996, it was asked "What do you expect the Chamber to do for you?" There were many different responses to that question, but most comments included the word "Promote" more than any other word. Those replies presented many different ides such as: Promote Thief River Falls. Promote retail business. Promote health care. Promote education. Promote Thief River Falls as a regional center. Promote our city's lodging and restaurants. Promote our parks, camping, and recreational activities. Promote civic activities. Promote business enterprises. Promote activities which bring people to Thief River Falls. We should look at this as a mandate to support "Promotion" as a key part of the Chamber's mission.

"Thief River Falls is fortunate to have over 5,000 jobs. There are not many communities that can say they have nearly as many jobs as residents. As employers and managers, many of us have the opportunity to "Promote" by communicating with our employees about the value of doing as much business as possible locally and about the value of becoming actively involved in the activities sponsored by the Chamber which are beneficial to our community and area.

"By promoting and becoming involved, our membership can make sure our slogan "Working Together for Northwest Minnesota" equates with "Working Together For Your Success."

Survey indicates state needs more dairy cows

A survey coordinated by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) has found that dairy plants in the Tri-State area (Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota) are operating on average at only 85 per cent of capacity, because there's insufficient milk available to operate at full capacity.

"These results drive home how critical it is for us to maintain and expand our dairy herds," noted MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson. "In fact, this survey indicates that Minnesota needs 59,000 more dairy cows to operate our plants at full capacity." The state currently has 595,000 dairy cows.

Plant capacity is a concern to the dairy industry because plants are most profitable when they are operating near their capacity. Unprofitable plants will go out of the business or be forced to seek a milk supply from outside the Upper Midwest. As plants seek milk from places such as California, Colorado, New Mexico and Texas, increased procurement and transportation costs will reduce any competitive advantage for Tri-State dairy plants. The survey found that plant capacity utilization varies from 28 per cent to 100 per cent, with overall averages indicating that dairy plants in the Tri-State area are operating at 85 per cent of capacity.

Placing additional pressure on the industry is another statistic that emerged from the survey. Even though the Upper Midwest's current supply of raw milk is declining, a majority of plants intend to expand or modernize within the next five years. This makes dairy herd retention and expansion efforts even more critical.

"These dairy processing plants are an important source of jobs and income throughout our state," Commissioner Hugoson said. "We must retain them, and in order to do so, we must concentrate on making dairying a profitable enterprise so young people will want to enter the business and current producers can make a decent living."

The MDA recently hired a dairy development specialist, Harold Stanislawski, to work directly with Minnesota dairy farmers to try to increase profitability. Stanislawski noted, "If all plants were operating at full capacity, the Tri-State region could process more than 43 million pounds of raw milk daily. That would have a tremendous, positive impact on the economic health of many rural communities." To enhance profitability, Stanislawski recommends dairy farmers use current technology in dairy herd management, improve their farm management skills, and research value-added opportunities. Another important step is reforming the federal milk marketing order system, which would improve milk marketing opportunities for Upper Midwest dairymen and processing plants.

The survey of 54 dairy processing plants in the three-state area was conducted in January and February of 1996.

ideas from the projects on display there," she said.

Lacey and her project partner Leah Kenner, daughter of Lyle and Peggy Kenner, were freshmen last year and found that this year their busy sophomore schedule didn't seem to allow them time to put a project together for the science fair.

"Mrs. Johnson is a good teacher, she makes you want to participate," Lacey said. "We were surprised to make it to the state last year. I think it would be interesting to have a project again next year."

Jennifer Vad has made her science fair project not only a year-around effort but a multi-year project as well. Each year she has built on the previous year's effort.

The daughter of Lynn and Laurie Vad, Jennifer not only recorded information on her crop fertilization studies but documented it on film in the form of color photographs and on videotape. She edited the video for showing with her project exhibit entitled "Fertilization—Phase II." This year she has been working extra hard to prepare her exhibit for a final statement as a senior.

"The purpose of the science fair is to get students interested in various subject areas and develop a curiosity that leads to inquiry and discovery," Mrs. Johnson said. "Whether the effort is a continuing one like Jennifer's or a shorter term, concentrated study like many of the projects are, the level of learning is enhanced by the study and participation."

Mrs. Johnson said the science department at Lincoln welcomes the public to visit the display Friday evening and/or Saturday morning at the Lincoln cafeteria. "We think you may be surprised at the quality of many of the exhibits you see," she said.

Heritage Center celebrates 10 years of service

The Heritage Center in Thief River Falls is entering into their 10th anniversary year, and they have a year packed full of activities planned. Check out this section for a monthly feature of the Center throughout the year.

The Heritage Center officially opened on February 20, 1987 with a ribbon cutting ceremony. The Center had been opening and serving meals since January 4, 1987.

Harry Simons, Harry Oen, Morris Howick, Jim Metusalem, Blanche Larson, Merle Lindberg, Hannah Kisch, Gerhart Quan, Vi Henning and Val Chimmie all played a key part in getting the Center off the ground. They had a vision in 1983 of a place where seniors could go to eat, do crafts, have a meeting place, recreation, hold dances and just to go and get out of the house. Seniors usually have homes or apartments that are small and leave no room for the them to do crafts and other recreational activities.

The group saw a need for the Center and went ahead with plans to make their vision a reality. They were instrumental in the whole process and didn't give up until the building was up and running.

Of the original members only Harry Oen, Jim Metusalem, Blanche Larson and Val Chimmie are still alive, and are all very active in the Center to this day.

There was a lot of opposition voiced saying that there were already places available for seniors, and that there was no need for a new Center. The group of determined seniors stuck to their goal and went out to seek funding for the new facility.

The community had an enormous part in getting the Center to where it is today. With $60,000 donated from the city, $50,000 from the County Commissioners, and $60,000 from LB Hartz, they were off to a great start toward their goal of $400,000.

The American Legion, the VFW, and even the local schools all pitched in and donated money and time to getting the Center going. Lincoln High School held a dance to raise money and the student council donated money toward a building petition drive.

When it was first built, it was intended to be used for more than just the seniors. It would be a place that could be rented out to private individuals to hold parties and to organizations to hold meetings.

When construction began in April of 1986, the whole community came together to put the building up. All of the equipment used to build the Center was donated, along with most of the materials. The parking lot was later donated after the Center was up and running for a few years and a need arised for a place to park.

Since the Center has been open there has been a lot of positive feedback. The community continually contributes to the Center by donating money, an item, or their time. They have replaced the carpets by a private donation, repainted inside from money left to the Center by an estate, they have purchased two new stoves, tables and chairs from a grant by Hartz Foundation, and they put in air conditioning in the kitchen by fund raisers.

Everything in the Center is kept up by donation, grants and the seniors themselves. All of the revenue from activities helps to pay for the upkeep of the Center. Without the monies from the city and United Way, which is ongoing support from year to year, and the support from the volunteers, the Center would not be able to operate.

When the Center was first started it was written in the by laws that persons 55 and older could be members. It was said that when someone first gave a donation, they would be a life time member. It also stated that should a need arise, yearly dues may be imposed at a suggested donation of $10 per year. The Center has recently needed to impose that law to help in the upkeep of the Center. But the seniors don't seem to mind as long as the Center stays.

The Center is a very convenient place for the seniors to go. With the Senior Federation office, craft shop, meals, health services, and the social security contact station, they have everything under one roof. The only other stop they may need to make is at the store for groceries!

The Heritage Center has done nothing but grow in the 10 years that they have been open. All of the suggestions for the building have been met, plus many more. The city uses the Center for their meeting because it is handicap accessible, it is used as a polling station, for forums, and the Tri-Valley bus is dispatched out of the Center.

The Center is always looking for new members and community support. Without the help of the community, the Center would not be where it is at today. They are very grateful for all of the support they have had over the past 10 plus years and look forward to serving the seniors for many more years to come.

The official opening and ribbon cutting ceremony of the Thief River Falls Heritage Center was on February 20, 1987.

Ground breaking began in April of 1986. It took just over six months to complete the construction of the Heritage Center.

Dr. Charles and Idella Samuelson of Thief River Falls had the opportunity to stand before Big Ben in London on New Year's Eve and hear it ring in the New Year.

Samuelsons visit Big Ben in London on New Year's Eve

Dr. Charles and Idella Samuelson of Thief River Falls, traveling to London, England for a winter vacation with their son David and his wife Lisa.

They were able to stand in front of Big Ben at midnight on New Year's Eve. Several thousand people braved the cold snowy weather to see and hear Big Ben ring out 1996 and ring in 1997. Big Ben is the large clock located in a tower adjacent to the House of Parliment and Westminster Abby.

The carillon at Westminster Abby played a concert of bell ringing prior to and following the stroke of midnight. At the stroke of midnight, the several thousand people present gave a huge cheer. It was a very orderly crowd which was there especially to hear Big Ben ring. Many people brought champagne and glasses and toasted in the New Year at midnight. The cold temperature of 20 and the snow in the air did nothing to damper the spirits of the crowd.

It was an experience that the Samuelsons will never forget. Others from Thief River Falls who went to London were Judy Whaley, Diane Drake and Faith Rud, all from Northland Community and Technical College, and their families.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

... Heroes There and Here

Well, if I ever get stuck in a storm, I sure hope I end up by Don Halvorson's farm. You heard about him - he's the farmer from Walsh county, North Dakota, who took off in his tractor in a blizzard to rescue a woman who had been stranded in her car for eight hours on her way home from work. What a guy!

Jan Novak started home from her job at 10 p.m. in a blizzard, took a wrong turn, and ended up stuck in a snowdrift. Her husband called the sheriff when she didn't come home. The Walsh county sheriff started a search, but called it off after three hours when searchers were unable to see the roads. Then he decided to call farm homes along the county road where Novak would have driven, telling the people to watch for any lights. The sheriff didn't know that one of those calls would alert a hero.

Farmer Don Halvorson got the call from the sheriff's office about 3:30 a.m. He said he couldn't sleep after that, thinking about the lady stranded in the storm. "It could have been my wife out there," he said. Finally he got up, got dressed and went out to warm up the tractor. He decided to brave the storm to see if he could find the stranded car, using a snowblower attachment on his tractor to negotiate the drifts.

Meanwhile, Novak was tucked into blankets with candles and a full tank of gas, but she was far from cozy. She ran her car intermittently, but she became more fearful as more time passed, the weather got colder and the car became more and more difficult to start. She said she prayed for a rescuer.

After driving around in white-out conditions for over two hours, Halvorson finally came across Novak's little car. She looked up and said she couldn't believe her eyes - there were lights - big lights - attached to a big tractor. Her rescuer had arrived.

It takes somebody special to go out tramping around in a north country blizzard to help someone else. It happened that Don Halvorson's story got national attention, but I have a feeling that there are many tales of heroism that have happened this winter that have not been told.

Maybe some of the stories are not as spectacular as Mrs. Novak's rescue, but I am sure there are many small acts of kindness and compassion this nasty winter that are going untold, as well as many that would rival Mr. Halvorson's in drama.

Maybe someone has done something special for you. Maybe you know of someone who should be lauded for their acts this winter. Maybe some of those stories should be told. Write a letter to the editor about your special rescuer. If you don't want to do that, tell me and I'll see if I can't write it for you.

People say there are too many bad things in the newspaper. Maybe it's time to write about the good things - it's so nice to read about them.

Heritage Center celebrates 10 years of service

The Heritage Center in Thief River Falls is entering into their 10th anniversary year, and they have a year packed full of activities planned. Check out this section for a monthly feature of the Center throughout the year.

The Heritage Center officially opened on February 20, 1987 with a ribbon cutting ceremony. The Center had been opening and serving meals since January 4, 1987.

Harry Simons, Harry Oen, Morris Howick, Jon Metusalem, Blanche Larson, Merle Lindberg, Hannah Kisch, Gerhart Quan, Vi Henning and Val Chommie all played a key part in getting the Center off the ground. They had a vision in 1983 of a place where seniors could go to eat, do crafts, have a meeting place, recreation, hold dances and just to go and get out of the house. Seniors usually have homes or apartments that are small and leave no room for the them to do crafts and other recreational activities.

The group saw a need for the Center and went ahead with plans to make their vision a reality. They were instrumental in the whole process and didn't give up until the building was up and running.

Of the original members only Harry Oen, Jon Metusalem, Blanche Larson and Val Chommie are still alive, and are all very active in the Center to this day.

There was a lot of opposition voiced saying that there were already places available for seniors, and that there was no need for a new Center. The group of determined seniors stuck to their goal and went out to seek funding for the new facility.

The community had an enormous part in getting the Center to where it is today. With $60,000 donated from the city, $50,000 from the County Commissioners, and $60,000 from LB Hartz, they were off to a great start toward their goal of $400,000.

The American Legion, the VFW, and even the local schools all pitched in and donated money and time in getting the Center going. Lincoln High School held a dance to raise money and the student council donated money toward a folding petition door.

When it was first built, it was intended to be used for more than just the seniors. It would be a place that could be rented out to private individuals to hold parties and to organizations to hold meetings.

When construction began in April of 1986, the whole community came together to put the building up. All of the equipment used to build the Center was donated, along with most of the materials. The parking lot was later donated after the Center was up and running for a few years and a need arised for a place to park.

Since the Center has been open, there has been a lot of positive feedback. The community continually contributes to the Center by donating money, an item, or their time. They have replaced the carpets by a private donation, repainted inside from money left to the Center by an estate, they have purchased two new stoves, tables and chairs from a grant by Hartz Foundation, and they put in air conditioning in the kitchen by fund-raisers.

Everything in the Center is kept up by donation, grants and the seniors themselves. All of the revenue from activities helps to pay for the upkeep of the Center. Without the money from the city and United Way, which is ongoing support from year to year, and the support from the volunteers, the Center would not be able to operate.

When the Center was first started it was written in the by-laws that persons 55 and older could be members. It was said that when someone first gave a donation, they would be a life-time member. It also stated that should a need arise, yearly dues may be imposed at a suggested donation of $10 per year. The Center has recently needed to impose that law to help in the upkeep of the Center. But the seniors don't seem to mind as long as the Center stays.

The Center is a very convenient place for the seniors to go. With the Senior Federation office, craft shop, meals, health services, and the social security contact station, they have everything under one roof. The only other stop they may need to make is at the store for groceries!

The Heritage Center has done nothing but grow in the 10 years that they have been open. All of the suggestions for the building have been met, plus many more. The city uses the Center for their meeting because it is handicap accessible, it is used as a polling station, for forums, and the Tri-Valley bus is dispatched out of the Center.

The Center is always looking for new members and community support. Without the help of the community, the Center would not be where it is at today. They are very grateful for all of the support they have had over the past 10 plus years and look forward to serving the seniors for many more years to come.

The official opening and ribbon cutting ceremony of the Thief River Falls Heritage Center was on February 20, 1987.

Ground breaking began in April of 1986. It took just over six months to complete the construction of the Heritage Center.

Dr. Charles and Idella Samuelson of Thief River Falls had the opportunity to stand before Big Ben in London on New Year's Eve and hear it ring in the New Year.

Samuelsons visit Big Ben in London on New Year's Eve

Dr. Charles and Idella Samuelson of Thief River Falls, traveling to London, England for a winter vacation with their son David and his wife Lisa.

They were able to stand in front of Big Ben at midnight on New Year's Eve. Several thousand people braved the cold snowy weather to see and hear Big Ben ring out 1996 and ring in 1997. Big Ben is the large clock located in a tower adjacent to the House of Parliment and Westminster Abby.

The carillon at Westminster Abby played a concert of bell ringing prior to and following the stroke of midnight. At the stroke of midnight, the several thousand people present gave a huge cheer. It was a very orderly crowd which was there especially to hear Big Ben ring. Many people brought champagne and glasses and toasted in the New Year at midnight. The cold temperature of 20 and the snow in the air did nothing to damper the spirits of the crowd.

It was an experience that the Samuelsons will never forget. Others from Thief River Falls who went to London were Judy Whaley, Diane Drake and Faith Rud, all from Northland Community and Technical College, and their families.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

... Heroes There and Here

Well, if I ever get stuck in a storm, I sure hope I end up by Don Halvorson's farm. You heard about him - he's the farmer from Walsh county, North Dakota, who took off in his tractor in a blizzard to rescue a woman who had been stranded in her car for eight hours on her way home from work. What a guy!

Jan Novak started home from her job at 10 p.m. in a blizzard, took a wrong turn, and ended up stuck in a snowdrift. Her husband called the sheriff when she didn't come home. The Walsh county sheriff started a search, but called it off after three hours when searchers were unable to see the roads. Then he decided to call farm homes along the county road where Novak would have driven, telling the people to watch for any lights. The sheriff didn't know that one of those calls would alert a hero.

Farmer Don Halvorson got the call from the sheriff's office about 3:30 a.m. He said he couldn't sleep after that, thinking about the lady stranded in the storm. "It could have been my wife out there," he said. Finally he got up, got dressed and went out to warm up the tractor. He decided to brave the storm to see if he could find the stranded car, using a snowblower attachment on his tractor to negotiate the drifts.

Meanwhile, Novak was tucked into blankets with candles and a full tank of gas, but she was far from cozy. She ran her car intermittently, but she became more fearful as more time passed, the weather got colder and the car became more and more difficult to start. She said she prayed for a rescuer.

After driving around in white-out conditions for over two hours, Halvorson finally came across Novak's little car. She looked up and said she couldn't believe her eyes - there were lights - big lights - attached to a big tractor. Her rescuer had arrived.

It takes somebody special to go out traipsing around in a north country blizzard to help someone else. It happened that Don Halvorson's story got national attention, but I have a feeling that there are many tales of heroism that have happened this winter that have not been told.

Maybe some of the stories are not as spectacular as Mrs. Novak's rescue, but I am sure there are many small acts of kindness and compassion this nasty winter that are going untold, as well as many that would rival Mr. Halvorson's in drama.

Maybe someone has done something special for you. Maybe you know of someone who should be lauded for their acts this winter. Maybe some of those stories should be told. Write a letter to the editor about your special rescuer. If you don't want to do that, tell me and I'll see if I can't write it for you.

People say there are too many bad things in the newspaper. Maybe it's time to write about the good things - it's so nice to read about them.

There have been many times when I have wished I could read people's minds. To have telepathic power would be very interesting, but out of telepathy, telekinesis, clairvoyance and precognition, which would be the best power to have?

I am sure that everyone at some time or another has wished they could tell what someone was thinking. I sure have! Shopping for Christmas presents would be a cinch if I knew exactly what everyone wanted. There would be very few mixed signals in relationships, and when someone knows a juicy piece of gossip and they won't tell, I would just peer into their mind for the scoop! But what if that sizzling talk were about me? What if I asked my friend's opinion on my new shirt, and she says she likes it, but I can see her mind churning over synonyms for "hideous?" That would hurt, but what I don't know can't hurt me? Would I really want to know if my buddies were planning a surprise party for me? No! The unexpected makes life zingy! Telepathy would come in handy now and then, but I think I can live without it.

When the event arises where I am forced to clean my room, the thought of having telekinesis often comes to mind. "If only I could lie on my bed and hang these clothes up with my mind!" I always envied Mary Poppins for that! When I'm in the middle of watching an enthralling movie on TV and I get hungry, I wouldn't have to wait for a commercial to get a Pepsi out of the fridge. Helping my aunt move into her upstairs apartment would have been a breeze. When I'm carrying 400 books and a bag of Skittles, I wouldn't have to pray for an innocent bystander to come by and open the door. It would be great!

However, wanting to move a mountain with my mind and actually doing it are two different things. It could cause some serious environmental problems. Also, if I had this power, would I be able to control it? When I walk down the aisles of the grocery store, I see a lot of things I want, but I realize I can't buy 30 kinds of cookies, so I don't grab them. Would these tempting yummies just fly off the shelves toward me? Major clean up on Aisle 9!

The ability to see what's happening in a different place, but at the same time is known as clairvoyance. There are some pros to this power. When deciding which restaurant to eat at, I could see which one is less crowded. I never want to wait for a table. While I'm in Physics, I could check in on AP English and see if I would need my book. I would never have to pay to go to a movie. I could sit in the bathtub and catch "Jerry Maguire" all at once.

Yet, there are downfalls with this omniscient power, too. What if I wanted to check up on someone and I caught them in the shower?? Would I be able to control this power, either? What if I wanted to see the third period of the hockey game but ended up with some guy riding a camel in the desert. That would not be fun.

Probably the most popular one of these powers is precognition, or the ability to see into the future. This would be a bonus in everyday life. I could know for sure if school is going to be canceled the next day. If I saw that I was going to slide into the ditch, I would go to town another way. When dealing with the weather, I would blow Too Tall Tom out of the water!

But what if I saw something horrible, like myself dying. Would I be able to change the future like in "Back to the Future?" It would ruin my life if I knew something fatal was going to happen to me, my friends, or my family. The element of surprise is not always good, but again, what I don't know can't hurt me.

At least once a week, I find myself pining for one of these powers. "Is it going to storm tomorrow?" "I wish my slippers would just jump on my feet." "What's going on behind this closed door?" "What do the people reading this article think of it?" One of these abilities would be handy, but hard to control. But if I had them...

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

Have You Seen My...?

If I collected a finder's fee for every item I located in my house I'd be lounging on the beach in some tropical destination at this very moment.

It's flattering that my family appreciates my ability to locate a plethora of so-called "lost" items. My son and my husband must think I'm endowed with telepathic abilities or have two eyes on each side of my head. It's a never-ending chorus of "have you seen my...?"

Many times, I even surprise myself by knowing the precise location of some object left in an obscure place.

My six-year-old son can't seem to find anything he's looking for. If my bedroom looked like his, I'd be lost too.

"Mom, I can't find the wings for my Batman."

"Have you looked in your closet?" I reply, knowing that he's standing in the middle of his bedroom staring at the ceiling expecting the wings to magically appear.

"Yes, but I can't find them anywhere," he says, with his voice escalating to a high-pitched whine.

"Try looking in the yellow Lego bucket with the rest of your Batman stuff."

"Oh, yeah, I forgot," he says.

I make another checkmark in my imaginary notebook, hoping to actually someday collect my fee and be lying on a beach somewhere while the rest of my family looks for things.

I could make the most cash by locating the television remote control; it's the most sought-after item in the house.

"Mom," son yells. "Have you seen the TV changer?"

"Did you look on the couch?"

"It's not there," he complains. I can tell he's concerned about missing the beginning of some very important cartoon.

"Look under the newspapers," I holler back.

"Oh, yeah, I forgot."

The missing remote must now be found because he's not yelling any more and the sounds of Sonic waft from the living room.

My son is not the only one who thinks I'm his personal lost and found. My husband often uses my item-finding service.

"Honey, have you seen my headband?"

Rubbing my temples to put my telepathic powers into action, I say, "Yes, dear, it's on the white bench near the steps in the basement." But the real story is that I saw it the day before and wondered why it was left in that strange place. Of course, I didn't bother picking it up and putting it where it belonged.

His billfold is never where it belongs either, it usually grows legs and crawls off to hide somewhere.

"Honey, have you seen my billfold?"

"Yes, dear, try looking under the stack of towels on the dryer. You put your billfold on the dryer when you changed your pants. The towels fell on top of it," I reply. It would have taken until next Christmas to locate that item if it weren't for my extraordinary powers.

My powers have also helped to locate his tools, which should be in the toolbox in the garage.

"Honey, have you seen my Phillips screwdriver?" he inquires in the middle of a fix-it project.

"Yes, dear, it's in the junk drawer along with your hammer, pliers and wrench."

Another item located. Another checkmark on my finder's fee list. One step closer to my imaginary retreat where I don't have to answer the question. Have you seen my...?

PARENTING TIPS
Learning Social Skills

Becoming sociable, happy and emotionally secure is a basic learning task for children. You, the parent, are the key person in helping your child become emotionally healthy. You have many opportunities throughout your day to show him love and to help him learn the social skills needed to get along with others.

According to Alice S. Honig, professor of Child Development at Syracuse University, children need to learn self control. For example, they need to obey the rule about no playing with matches. They need to wait if someone else has the toy that they want. They need to learn that they can feel jealous about a baby sister or brother, but they must not hurt the baby. Preschoolers need parents to teach them how to express and to handle emotions.

You can help your child learn polite ways to behave with others. Show him/her ways to solve problems. For instance, if your child wants the toy that someone else has, help your child think of different ways to get the toy. Encourage ideas that allow both persons to work out the problem. The aim is for both children to feel okay.

Children who feel good about themselves use their energy for learning about the world. They do not need to fight or pester others for attention.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Use the "what if" approach to help your child think of ideas to solve problems before the situation occurs. "What if you and Jenny both want to play with the doll stroller at the same time?"

Mike Lehrer receives Chamber of Commerce Education award

Mike Lehrer

by Heidi Hoks

Referred to, at times, as the Pied Piper of Band Music, Mike Lehrer has long been known for his dedication to music and his ability to teach positive life values to students along with musical skills. On Saturday, January 25, Mike was honored at the Chamber Banquet with the Chamber Education Award for K-12. Mike was selected because of his contributions to both students' lives and to the community at large.

Mike Lehrer and his family moved to Thief River Falls 29 years ago when he accepted the position as the Franklin Junior High school band instructor. Since that time, he has seen many changes in the school system and he has changed with the times. One thing that he has not changed, however, is his commitment to his students and to the community of Thief River Falls.

"I think it's important," he notes, "that people realize that nine out of 10 or maybe even 99 out of 100 kids in our schools in Thief River Falls are really good kids. It reflects back on the number of parents who care about their kids and the community that has placed a high value on these kids. I appreciate that."

Mike has also given back to the community. He has performed in the Community Chorale, Community Band, in church choirs and used to work on such community organizations such as Jaycees and the Big Brother program.

"It's good to be a participant or member of things outside of school. It gives you perspective as a person and as a teacher," says Mike. "It also gives your kids perspective and shows them the value you place on those things. I can talk to the kids about my experiences and I can empathize more with the kids as they play their pieces of music."

Mike believes that the teaching of music can accomplish so much in a child's life and so his participation in community events emphasizes what he believes is his true purpose in teaching.

As he says, "It's important not to always be seen as the director, but sometimes as a participant. I stress the value of teamwork in my classes. Teamwork is a lifelong skill. In fact, I'd say it's the essence of what I teach. If you flunk a math test, it's you that flunks, but if you fail in playing a musical piece correctly, the whole band suffers from it. By pulling together and working to the best of your ability, you can contribute to your whole team's success. That's what music is about. Sure, it's about appreciation of music, of what gives quality to our lives, but more importantly, it's a lesson in life — We all need to work together to accomplish anything, whether as a family member, as a member of an organization or as a member of a community."

One of the activities that Mike feels is a great learning experience in teamwork is the three-day spring trip that the Jazz Band and the Swingsations take annually. When they go, the students organize the instruments and load and unload. The responsibility they assume for ensuring everything is aboard and that they all share the load equally is a wonderful learning process according to Mike.

He also notes that this trip helps these students appreciate what they have in Thief River Falls by showing them the "city environment". "What happens when they come back," he says, "is that they're appreciative of our school and community and want to make it better." Mike also feels the annual Chanhassen dinner theater experience is extremely valuable for these students. "Many of these kids have never gone to a professional theater and will never go again. We introduce them to something and expand them. That's what teaching is all about: Providing experiences that make the kids look beyond their present world. And I know it makes a big impression on them. I've had kids that went to the Chanhassen with us 20 years ago that tell me that was one of the best things they ever did and they'll never forget it."

When asked what one thing he would wish his students to remember him for, Mike says, "In the exploratory class on music, I tell the kids to respect other kids' taste in music. This one might like rock and this one might like country, but they can still be friends and they can still understand that they can have differences in taste and that's all right. I hope they carry that over to all aspects of their lives. I want kids to remember to respect other people's points of view no matter how you feel about them and to be kind. That's the key to making the world a better place: Respect."

Joanna Pearson receives Chamber Young Leader award

Joanna Pearson

by Heidi Hoks

A leader with bright optimism and a deep commitment to the youth of our area, Joanna Pearson was honored at the Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet, Saturday, January 25, with the Chamber Young Leader Award. Joanna is the Youth and Education Worker at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. Her co-recipient of this award was Roberta Kalsnes, the Youth Worker at Zion Lutheran Church.

Three and a half years ago, Joanna came to Thief River Falls and immediately endeared herself to the youth of her church with her bubbly personality. Joanna works with all ages of youth, overseeing the Saturday and Sunday school programs and organizing and training those teachers as well as subbing for them. Her K-2 and third through fifth grade youth groups meet once monthly while her middle school and high school groups meet twice a month for activities and spiritual talks.

Joanna provides leadership through her youth ministry by her example and by providing both fun and spiritual activities for Redeemer's young. "Youth ministry gives kids someone who can bring out a part of them that they don't have a chance — with their regular groups of friends — to express," says Joanna. "It can create a spark in kids that will ignite into a deeper faith. I really believe that, because it happened with me. Youth ministry was fun for me to go to when I was young, but I realized later on that the spiritual seed was planted. That's why I'm doing what I'm doing today. I want to plant those spiritual seeds, because I believe you're stronger and more solid with a faith. And with that faith, you can make better decisions that affect everyone around you. You can even be a more effective leader if you're grounded rather than living on a live wire."

To plant the seeds, Joanna uses structured activities such as the National Youth Gathering, National Synod Gathering, camps, Sunday School, Confirmation program, and other trips for the youth. "Some kids get involved in our youth ministry program because of the trips," notes Joanna, "but they're getting much more out of it. When they go to a National Youth Gathering, like the one this year in New Orleans, they see how many high school Christian kids there are and they see it's okay to be a Christian — that they're a part of a bigger family of God."

Joanna also noted it's important as a youth worker to realize that the teen years are years of great peer pressure and the youth gathering experience can introduce youth to a new peer group, one of faith in which they can fit in and feel they belong. Feeling a sense of belonging, she notes is the key. She adds, "The energy at the National Youth Gatherings is amazing and revs up the kids. They want to come back and accomplish great things. We also get time to get devotional time in — like on our Mexico trip and that's important, too."

Joanna notes the relationships that develop within a youth ministry often do not extend to school, but do sensitize youth to others. "Youth ministry gives kids the opportunity to talk to kids they wouldn't normally talk to outside of the group," she notes. "They come to share with each other and understand each other as people rather than the nerds or jocks or some other label and they are more understanding of each other."

Joanna also feels that youth need to be guided to service to others. "When my kids get involved, it's usually because I ask them," she says, "but they find that when they serve others, they get a lot out of it. It builds their self-esteem because they actually did something for someone else. They made a difference in someone else's life. They realize they're an important part of the community and they've got a lot to contribute." Under Joanna's guidance, the Redeemer youth have done a number of service projects including collecting food for the Food shelf, holding fun days for the Little Brother Little Sister program, helping deliver turkeys to the needy at Thanksgiving, making placemats for the community Christmas Eve service, raising money for World Vision with the 30 hour Famine project, and helping with the Valley Home Centennial program.

Does she feel her work has impacted the youth of her church? "With a lot of youth ministry, you don't see the results until much later," she notes. "Sometimes kids don't even give input at Bible studies, but they still get something out of it — something they can build on for later. We won't know the impact we have for a long time. But I'm in it for the long haul. I'm committed. This is my career — to help youth and to build something strong for them." Joanna hopes the future of youth ministry at Redeemer keeps building. She wants to see the church and especially personal faith become a priority in the lives of her youth.

Joanna also notes that Thief River Falls has been a very supportive community. "This community really does value the youth," she says. "It's a wonderful community for families. Thief River supports the kids and each other. That's one of the reasons that's kept me her — the community. I love it! I really enjoy this community. And more than that, I feel this is where God wants me now."

Upper Midwest employment growth slowed

For the second consecutive year, Upper Midwest employment growth has slowed and according to the Minneapolis Fed's regional forecasting models that slowing is expected to continue through 1997.

District employment growth is foreseen dropping to 1.2 per cent between fourth quarters 1996 and 1997 — the trend rate is 2.5 per cent — with growth decelerating across the region.

Forecasting models indicate a slackening in the employment growth of the national economy as well, and reveal that the district's fall-off has been somewhat greater than the nation's. One explanation is that labor availability is restraining hiring more in the district than in the nation.

The Minneapolis Fed's regional forecast is premised on a slowing in the national economy. In the United States, non-farm employment grew 2.1 per cent between third quarters 1995 and 1996, and its growth is expected to slow to 0.8 per cent in 1997 and then rise to 1.7 per cent in 1998.

Looking ahead through 1998, the models offer a degree of optimism. Accelerated job growth in Minnesota, Montana, South Dakota and Wisconsin is expected to increase the district's employment growth rate from 1.2 per cent through fourth quarter 1997 to 1.9 per cent by fourth quarter 1998 — although that is still below the district's 2.5 per cent average.

In Minnesota, between third quarters 1995 and 1996, Minnesota's non-farm employment grew 1.9 per cent, below its 2.8 per cent historical average. Growth is expected to slow further to 1.6 per cent in 1997 and then jump to 2.3 per cent in 1998. Growth in construction and in the various service sectors accounted for much of the state's recent employment gains. Minnesota's unemployment rate rose slightly, from 3.7 per cent in third quarter 1995 to 3.9 per cent in third quarter 1996, 1.2 percentage points below its long-term average. Over the next two years, it is expected to drop to 3.4 per cent in fourth quarter of 1998.

The complete forecast will appear in the January 1997 issue of the fedgazette, a quarterly business and economics publication of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

There have been many times when I have wished I could read people's minds. To have telepathic power would be very interesting, but out of telepathy, telekinesis, clairvoyance and precognition, which would be the best power to have?

I am sure that everyone at some time or another has wished they could tell what someone was thinking. I sure have! Shopping for Christmas presents would be a cinch if I knew exactly what everyone wanted. There would be very few mixed signals in relationships, and when someone knows a juicy piece of gossip and they won't tell, I would just peer into their mind for the scoop! But what if that sizzling talk were about me? What if I asked my friend's opinion on my new shirt, and she says she likes it, but I can see her mind churning over synonyms for "hideous?" That would hurt, but what I don't know can't hurt me? Would I really want to know if my buddies were planning a surprise party for me? No! The unexpected makes life zing! Telepathy would come in handy now and then, but I think I can live without it.

When the event arises where I am forced to clean my room, the thought of having telekinesis often comes to mind. "If only I could lie on my bed and hang these clothes up with my mind!" I always envied Mary Poppins for that! When I'm in the middle of watching an enthralling movie on TV and I get hungry, I wouldn't have to wait for a commercial to get a Pepsi out of the fridge. Helping my aunt move into her upstairs apartment would have been a breeze. When I'm carrying 400 books and a bag of Skittles, I wouldn't have to pray for an innocent bystander to come by and open the door. It would be great!

However, wanting to move a mountain with my mind and actually doing it are two different things. It could cause some serious environmental problems. Also, if I had this power, would I be able to control it? When I walk down the aisles of the grocery store, I see a lot of things I want, but I realize I can't buy 30 kinds of cookies, so I don't grab them. Would these tempting yummies just fly off the shelves toward me? Major clean up on Aisle 9!

The ability to see what's happening in a different place, but at the same time is known as clairvoyance. There are some pros to this power. When deciding which restaurant to eat at, I could see which one is less crowded. I never want to wait for a table. While I'm in Physics, I could check in on AP English and see if I would need my book. I would never have to pay to go to a movie. I could sit in the bathtub and catch "Jerry Maguire" all at once.

Yet there are downfalls with this omniscient power, too. What if I wanted to check up on someone and I caught them in the shower?! Would I be able to control this power, either? What if I wanted to see the third period of the hockey game but ended up with some guy riding a camel in the desert. That would not be fun.

Probably the most popular one of these powers is precognition, or the ability to see into the future. This would be a bonus in everyday life. I could know for sure if school is going to be canceled the next day. If I saw that I was going to slide into the ditch, I could go to town another way. When dealing with the weather, I would blow Tim Tall Tom out of the water!

But what if I saw something horrible, like myself dying. Would I be able to change the future like in "Back to the Future?" It would ruin my life if I knew something fatal was going to happen to me, my friends, or my family. The element of surprise is not always good, but again, what I don't know can't hurt me.

At least once a week, I find myself pining for one of these powers. "Is it going to storm tomorrow?" "I wish my slippers would just jump on my feet." "What's going on behind this closed door?" "What do the people reading this article think of it?" One of these abilities would be handy, but hard to control. But if I had them...

ON MY MIND

Kim Chadwick-Quade

Have You Seen My...?

If I collected a finder's fee for every item I located in my house I'd be lounging on the beach in some tropical destination at this very moment.

It's flattering that my family appreciates my ability to locate a plethora of so called "lost" items. My son and my husband must think I'm endowed with telepathic abilities or have two eyes on each side of my head. It's a never-ending chorus of "have you seen my...?"

Many times I even surprise myself by knowing the precise location of some object left in an obscure place.

My six-year-old son can't seem to find anything he's looking for. If my bedroom looked like his, I'd be lost too.

"Mom, I can't find the wings for my Batman."

"Have you looked in your closet?" I reply, knowing that he's standing in the middle of his bedroom staring at the ceiling expecting the wings to magically appear.

"Yes, but I can't find them anywhere," he says, with his voice escalating to a high-pitched whine.

"Try looking in the yellow Lego bucket with the rest of your Batman stuff."

"Oh, yeah, I forgot," he says.

I make another checkmark in my imaginary notebook, hoping to actually someday collect my fee and be lying on a beach somewhere while the rest of my family looks for things.

I could make the most cash by locating the television remote control; it's the most sought-after item in the house.

"Mom," son yells. "Have you seen the TV changer?"

"Did you look on the couch?"

"It's not there," he complains. I can tell he's concerned about missing the beginning of some very important cartoon.

"Look under the newspapers," I holler back.

"Oh, yeah, I forgot."

The missing remote must now be found because he's not yelling any more and the sounds of Sonic waft from the living room.

My son is not the only one who thinks I'm his personal lost and found. My husband often uses my item-finding service.

"Honey, have you seen my headband?"

Rubbing my temples to put my telepathic powers into action, I say: "Yes, dear, it's on the white bench near the steps in the basement." But the real story is that I saw it the day before and wondered why it was left in that strange place. Of course, I didn't bother picking it up and putting it where it belonged.

The billfold is never where it belongs either, it usually grows legs and crawls off to hide somewhere.

"Honey, have you seen my billfold?"

"Yes, dear, try looking under the stack of towels on the dryer. You put your billfold on the dryer when you changed your pants. The towels fell on top of it," I reply. It would have taken until next Christmas to locate that item if it weren't for my extraordinary powers.

My powers have also helped to locate his tools, which should be in the toolbox in the garage.

"Honey, have you seen my Phillips screwdriver?" he inquires in the middle of a fix-it project.

"Yes, dear, it's in the junk drawer along with your hammer, pliers and wrench."

Another item located. Another checkmark on my finder's fee list. One step closer to my imaginary retreat where I don't have to answer the question: Have you seen my...?

ACTIVITIES
Red Light, Green Light

Play a toddler variation of this classic game with your children.

You will need white, red and green paper, scissors and glue.

Draw a circle on the red paper and one the same size on the green paper. Cut them out and glue one to each side of the white paper. Show the paper to your child and see if he/she has any ideas about what the circles might mean. Help him/her conclude that the red circle means "stop" and the green one means "go". Then invite your child to pretend to be a car. When you hold up the green light, he/she can dance around; when you hold up the red light, the "car" stops.

PARENTING TIPS
Learning Social Skills

Becoming sociable, happy and emotionally secure is a basic learning task for children. You, the parent, are the key person in helping your child become emotionally healthy. You have many opportunities throughout your day to show him love and to help him learn the social skills needed to get along with others.

According to Alice S. Honig, professor of Child Development at Syracuse University, children need to learn self control. For example, they need to obey the rule about not playing with matches. They need to wait if someone else has the toy that they want. They need to learn that they can feel jealous about a baby sister or brother, but they must not hurt the baby. Preschoolers need parents to teach them how to express and to handle emotions.

You can help your child learn polite ways to behave with others. Show him/her ways to solve problems. For instance, if your child wants the toy that someone else has, help your child think of different ways to get the toy. Encourage ideas that allow both persons to work out the problem. The aim is for both children to feel okay.

Children who feel good about themselves use their energy for learning about the world. They do not need to fight or pester others for attention.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Use the "what if" approach to help your child think of ideas to solve problems before the situation occurs. "What if you and Jenny both want to play with the doll stroller at the same time?"

Joanna Pearson receives Chamber Young Leader award

Joanna Pearson

by Heidi Hoks

A leader with bright optimism and a deep commitment to the youth of our area, Joanna Pearson was honored at the Annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet, Saturday, January 25, with the Chamber Young Leader Award. Joanna is the Youth and Education Worker at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. Her co-recipient of this award was Roberta Kalenes, the Youth Worker at Zion Lutheran Church.

Three and a half years ago, Joanna came to Thief River Falls and immediately endeared herself to the youth of her church with her bubbly personality. Joanna works with all ages of youth, overseeing the Saturday and Sunday school programs and organizing and training those teachers as well as subbing for them. Her K-2 and third through fifth grade youth groups meet once monthly while her middle school and high school groups meet twice a month for activities and spiritual talks.

Joanna provides leadership through her youth ministry by her example and by providing both fun and spiritual activities for Redeemer's young. "Youth ministry gives kids someone who can bring out a part of them that they don't have a chance — with their regular groups of friends — to express," says Joanna. "It can create a spark in kids that will ignite into a deeper faith. I really believe that, because it happened with me. Youth ministry was fun for me to go to when I was young, but I realized later on that the spiritual seed was planted. That's why I'm doing what I'm doing today. I want to plant those spiritual seeds, because I believe you're stronger and more solid with a faith. And with that faith, you can make better decisions that affect everyone around you. You can even be a more effective leader if you're grounded rather than living on a live wire."

To plant the seeds, Joanna uses structured activities such as the National Youth Gathering, National Synod Gathering, camps, Sunday School, Confirmation program, and other trips for the youth. "Some kids get involved in our youth ministry program because of the trips," notes Joanna, "but they're getting much more out of it. When they go to a National Youth Gathering, like the one this year in New Orleans, they see how many high school Christian kids there are and they see it's okay to be a Christian — that they're a part of a bigger family of God."

Joanna also noted it's important as a youth worker to realize that the teen years are years of great peer pressure and the youth gathering experience can introduce youth to a new peer group, one of faith in which they can fit in and feel they belong. Feeling a sense of belonging, she notes is the key. She adds, "The energy at the National Youth Gatherings is amazing and revs up the kids. They want to come back and accomplish great things. We also get time to get devotional time in — like on our Mexico trip and that's important, too."

Joanna notes the relationships that develop within a youth ministry often do not extend to school, but do sensitize youth to others. "Youth ministry gives kids the opportunity to talk to kids they wouldn't normally talk to outside of the group," she notes. "They come to share with each other and understand each other as people rather than the nerds or jocks or some other label and they are more understanding of each other."

Joanna also feels that youth need to be guided to service to others. "When my kids get involved, it's usually because I ask them," she says, "but they find that when they serve others, they get a lot out of it. It builds their self-esteem because they actually did something for someone else. They made a difference in someone else's life. They realize they're an important part of the community and they've got a lot to contribute." Under Joanna's guidance, the Redeemer youth have done a number of service projects including collecting food for the Food shelf, holding fun days for the Little Brother Little Sister program, helping deliver turkeys to the needy at Thanksgiving, making placemats for the community Christmas Eve service, raising money for World Vision with the 30 hour Famine project, and helping with the Valley Home Centennial program.

Does she feel her work has impacted the youth of her church? "With a lot of youth ministry, you don't see the results until much later," she notes. "Sometimes kids don't even give input at Bible studies, but they still get something out of it — something they can build on for later. We won't know the impact we have for a long time. But I'm in it for the long haul. I'm committed. This is my career — to help youth and to build something strong for them." Joanna hopes the future of youth ministry at Redeemer keeps building. She wants to see the church and especially personal faith become a priority in the lives of her youth.

Joanna also notes that Thief River Falls has been a very supportive community. "This community really does value the youth," she says. "It's a wonderful community for families. Thief River supports the kids and each other. That's one of the reasons that's kept me here — the community. I love it! I really enjoy this community. And more than that, I feel this is where God wants me now."

Upper Midwest employment growth slowed

For the second consecutive year, Upper Midwest employment growth has slowed, and according to the Minneapolis Fed's regional forecasting models, that slowing is expected to continue through 1997.

District employment growth is foreseen dropping to 1.2 per cent between fourth quarters 1996 and 1997 — the trend rate is 2.5 per cent — with growth decelerating across the region.

Forecasting models indicate a slackening in the employment growth of the national economy as well, and reveal that the district's fall off has been somewhat greater than the nation's. One explanation is that labor availability is restraining hiring more in the district than in the nation.

The Minneapolis Fed's regional forecast is premised on a slowing in the national economy. In the United States, non-farm employment grew 2.1 per cent between third quarters 1995 and 1996, and its growth is expected to slow to 0.8 per cent in 1997 and then rise to 1.7 per cent in 1998.

Looking ahead through 1998, the models offer a degree of optimism. Accelerated job growth in Minnesota, Montana, South Dakota and Wisconsin is expected to increase the district's employment growth rate from 1.2 per cent through fourth quarter 1997 to 1.9 per cent by fourth quarter 1998 — although that is still below the district's 2.5 per cent average.

In Minnesota, between third quarters 1995 and 1996, Minnesota's non-farm employment grew 1.9 per cent, below its 2.8 per cent historical average. Growth is expected to slow further to 1.6 per cent in 1997 and then jump to 2.3 per cent in 1998. Growth in construction and in the various service sectors accounted for much of the state's recent employment gains. Minnesota's unemployment rate rose slightly, from 3.7 per cent in third quarter 1995 to 3.9 per cent in third quarter 1996, 1.2 percentage points below its long-term average. Over the next two years, it is expected to drop to 3.4 per cent in fourth quarter of 1998.

The complete forecast will appear in the January 1997 issue of the fedgazette, a quarterly business and economics publication of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

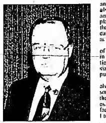
Mike Lehrer receives Chamber of Commerce Education award



Mike Lehrer

by Heidi Hoks

Referred to, at times, as the Pied Piper of Band Music, Mike Lehrer has long been known for his dedication to music and his ability to teach positive life values to students along with musical skills. On Saturday, January 25, Mike was honored at the Chamber Banquet with the Chamber Education Award for K-12. Mike was selected because of his contributions to both students' lives and to the community at large.

Mike Lehrer and his family moved to Thief River Falls 29 years ago when he accepted the position as the Franklin Junior High school band instructor. Since that time, he has seen many changes in the school system and he has changed with the times. One thing that he has not changed, however, is his commitment to his students and to the community of Thief River Falls.

"I think it's important," he notes, "that people realize that nine out of 10 or maybe even 99 out of 100 kids in our schools in Thief River Falls are really good kids. It reflects back on the number of parents who care about their kids and the community that has placed a high value on these kids. I appreciate that."

Mike has also given back to the community. He has performed in the Community Chorale, Community Band, in church choirs and used to work on such community organizations such as Jaycees and the Big Brother program.

"It's good to be a participant or member of things outside of school. It gives you perspective as a person and as a teacher," says Mike. "It also gives your kids perspective and shows them the value you place on those things. I can talk to the kids about my experiences and I can empathize more with the kids as they play their pieces of music."

Mike believes that the teaching of music can accomplish so much in a child's life and so his participation in community events emphasizes what he believes is his true purpose in teaching.

As he says, "It's important not to always be seen as the director, but sometimes as a participant. I stress the value of teamwork in my classes. Teamwork is a lifelong skill. In fact, I'd say it's the essence of what I teach. If you flunk a math test, it's you that flunks, but if you fail in playing a musical piece correctly, the whole band suffers from it. By pulling together and working to the best of your ability, you can contribute to your whole team's success. That's what music is about. Sure, it's about appreciation of music, of what gives quality to our lives, but more importantly, it's a lesson in life — We all need to work together to accomplish anything, whether as a family member, as a member of an organization or as a member of a community."

One of the activities that Mike feels is a great learning experience in teamwork is the three-day spring trip that the Jazz Band and the Swingsations take annually. When they go, the students organize the instruments and load and unload. The responsibility they assume for ensuring everything is aboard and that they all share the load equally is a wonderful learning process according to Mike.

He also notes that this trip helps these students appreciate what they have in Thief River Falls by showing them the "city environment". "What happens when they come back," he says, "is that they're appreciative of our school and community and want to make it better." Mike also feels the annual Chanhassen dinner theater experience is extremely valuable for these students. "Many of these kids have never gone to a professional theater and will never go again. We introduce them to something and expand them. That's what teaching is all about. Providing experiences that make the kids look beyond their present world. And I know it makes a big impression on them. I've had kids that went to the Chanhassen with us 20 years ago that tell me that was one of the best things they ever did and they'll never forget it."

When asked what one thing he would wish his students to remember him for, Mike says, "In the exploratory class on music, I tell the kids to respect other kids' taste in music. This one might like rock and this one might like country, but they can still be friends and they can still understand that they can have differences in taste and that's all right. I hope they carry that over to all aspects of their lives. I want kids to remember to respect other people's points of view no matter how you feel about them and to be kind. That's the key to making the world a better place. Respect."

SPEAKING OF EDUCATION

by Jerry Robicheau
Superintendent
School District 564

Dear Citizens of Independent School District #564

In this column I would like to address what has become a rather sensitive issue over the last several weeks–the process that is used for closing school early, cancelling school for the day, or starting late. This is an issue that has become rather complex this year.

What I'd like to do first is provide an overview of the whole area of transportation. First of all, I take my hat off to those people who provide transportation for students. Any time in the State of Minnesota weather can be a factor regarding transportation. These individuals are transporting 50-60 students in a confined environment and have the responsibility for their safety at all times.

Thief River Falls can be proud of the individuals who are transporting students. In fact, as I understand it, there has never been any kind of serious accident, no bus has ever been stranded, no kids have ever been left unattended, and Thief River Falls has a very high record of safety as it relates to students getting to and from school. This is in spite of the unpredictable weather. We have never at any time put the safety of students in jeopardy regarding transportation.

Let me give you a little background regarding the magnitude of our transportation operation. In the 1995-96 school year, buses collectively put on 285,552 miles–that is about 1,500 miles per day that we are transporting students. We have 32 buses transporting close of 1,800 students on a daily basis. Our buses are maintained by a full-time mechanic so they are operated in tip-top condition. We will not allow any buses to transport students that do not meet a high level of standard regarding their level of operation.

We are governed by a very strict set of rules passed by the Minnesota Legislature and administered through the Department of Education. Bus drivers are screened and are required to go through a training program in addition to a special license. Operation of the Transportation Department is supervised by an individual who we feel has all the highest qualities necessary to assure the safety of students.

Be assured that our primary purpose and focus is the safety of children. As you can see by the magnitude of the number of miles put on transporting students every year, the amount of time required to provide their transportation is handled in a most efficient and effective way. This, by the way, does not include the miles put on for extra-curricular activities and field trips.

Next let me address the decision-making process used when we have a late start, cancel school or dismiss early. Our Transportation Supervisor first personally checks the roads to see if they can be traveled. He will also contact the county offices and any other individual he feels might be in a position to alert him more to the road conditions. We also very closely monitor the weather and will be in contact with other districts throughout the area as to what their decision is in regard to holding school. He will then contact me as to what the road conditions are and a decision will be made.

We will attempt to make the decision regarding holding school prior to 6:15 a.m. and that is announced on the local radio and KVLY TV stations. Our primary concern in making decisions is the safety of students.

If we feel road conditions are going to be improving throughout the course of the day, we may decide to start two hours late. If we feel the conditions are such that they are not going to improve or the wind chill is going to be of such a magnitude that we're putting students in jeopardy, we will in fact close school for the day.

As to closing early, that is a little more difficult to determine as it relates to the changing conditions. However, the same process is used. We, in fact, will consider no other variables other than the safety of children. We do not consider the serving of lunch, whether they have started lunch or whatever other issues we're facing. Our primary focus will be, can we get kids home safely in a reasonable amount of time? That is our primary concern when making these decisions. We will look at no other issues. If we feel we can feed them lunch, we will certainly do that. However, that is not part of the decision-making.

If we do close school early, we do, however, have a concern about giving parents enough time to make accommodations for their children. We do not want children left stranded in any kind of environment with their parents not home or without some kind of alternative being made. We definitely need to make the announcement well enough in advance so that parents can make accommodations for their children who will be coming home earlier than normally expected.

I want to re-emphasize that parents can be very proud of the transportation system, proud of the fact that there have never been any accidents nor any buses stranded nor have we ever had a situation where we were not able to get students home in a safe process. We are very proud of our transportation system and I would encourage you to get to know your bus driver and thank him or her for transporting your children safely.

Our process of making up any snow days or developing a calendar is determined by the educational needs of students, not by a vacation schedule. Lastly, at any time in inclement weather conditions, parents can pick up their child or make arrangements to have their child picked up or keep their child home when school is open. That is their prerogative.

I invite comments, questions, concerns regarding the educational programs in Independent School District #564. For your information, we will be holding a Community Forum on Saturday, February 8th, beginning at 9 a.m. If you're available, come to the Challenger Cafeteria and give us your input about what you see are the expectations of your educational program. If you want to give me a call at 681-8711 or write to me at 230 LaBree Avenue, I would be most pleased to hear from you.

Minnkota plant third lowest in production cost

Minnkota Power Cooperative's Milton R. Young Station near Center, ND, was the third lowest cost producer of electricity in the United States over the five-year period 1991-1995.

The national ranking results from a comparison of operation, maintenance and fuel costs for 700 steam-electric power plants with analysis made by the Utility Data Institute (UDI) of Washington, DC.

The generation and transmission cooperative supplies wholesale electricity to 12 rural electric cooperatives serving a 34,500-square mile area in eastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota. Minnkota is also operating agent for the Northern Municipal Power Agency of Thief River Falls which serves 12 municipal utilities.

The 673-megawatt plant's average cost for the five-year period was 10.66 mills per net kilowatt-hour (A mill is one-tenth of a cent). Lowest cost producer was Laramie River Station operated by Basin Electric Power Cooperative in Wyoming at 9.55 mills per KWh. Second lowest was the George Neal South plant operated by Mid-America Energy Co. in Iowa at 10.57 mills.

The UDI report tracked costs at 700 power plants, including more than 400 coal-fired plants. Of the 20 lowest cost generating stations ranked in the survey, 19 are coal-fired and only one nuclear.

One play will advance to the state festival February 7 and 8 in St. Paul.

Thursday Shirley, Jenny Kordiplin and Kennick Anderson went to Chatfield returning Sunday evening. They went to attend a 50th Wedding Anniversary for Shirley's aunt and uncle Bob and Vivian [illegible].

The tip for this week is don't be in a hurry to pack your boots and mittens away, that weather reporters said another blizzard will be here by Sunday. It may even hit us here.

Vance and Adrienne Lehmoth attended the funeral for Lucy Tveidel Monday morning and later visited Clint Nelson. Brian Nelson and children and Myron Nelson were Thursday afternoon visitors at the Gaylord Nelson home.

Tip for today—Be sure that the [illegible] you have to take that is late so often won't be the one that is on time the day you wish to go.

Northwest Minnesota just went through the 6th blizzard of the season and today they said number 7 is on the way. The wind blows most every day so if we get an inch or two of snow we have a full blown blizzard. Or if you meet an 18 wheeler on the highway, its what you could call a complete white out for a few seconds. That's when I draw in most of the air in the car.

Cabin fever is running high along with a dose of [illegible]. But one thing about the folks in this part of the country is how quickly they get back into their usual grooves and begin to think of Spring and all the field work.

Roy received a catalogue the other day from the same company that he bought that composter from last year with a hundred other ideas to keep him busy. He was looking at a roto tiller with several attachments that would do away with hoeing, etc. I hope he remembers that perennial flowers have a habit of coming up year after year [illegible] but unlike [illegible] this year. One year [illegible] through the [illegible] to plant [illegible] they were [illegible] years in coming up and try to bloom.

Winter storms cause damage in millions

Willis Sparby, state executive director of the federal Farm Service Agency, said that winter storms have caused losses to agriculture that will accumulate to millions of dollars. A recent survey showed about 5,400 agricultural facilities, 3,000 livestock and 187,000 poultry have been damaged or destroyed, he said.

For the purpose of this report, facilities are described as agricultural dwellings, service structures, machinery and equipment.

President Clinton signed a Presidential Major Disaster Declaration based on damages and losses caused by severe winter storms and blizzard conditions in 40 Minnesota counties. Eligible family farmers may qualify for federal disaster assistance, including Farm Service Agency (FSA) emergency (EM) loans.

The Minnesota state FSA committee has requested authorization to implement the Emergency Feed Grain Donation Program (EFGDP).

The program provides for assistance to feed cattle, sheep and goats. Eligible livestock owners have the option to receive assistance as any of the following: (1) direct cash donation for plowing or commercial snowremoval specifically related to providing access to existing feed or to the livestock; (2) cash reimbursements at 100 percent cost-share or feed purchased; or (3) direct grain donations from CCC owned stocks for livestock in immediate need of feed.

Assistance is computed for the actual number of days the livestock are determined to be in danger of perishing and do not have access to their normal feed supply, not to exceed 15 days.

Hay shortages exist throughout the state and severe winter conditions in the western counties of Minnesota have been devastating to livestock producers, Sparby said. For more information, contact the local county FSA office.

SPEAKING OF EDUCATION

by Jerry Robichean
Superintendent
School District 564

Dear Citizens of Independent School District #564:

In this column I would like to address what has become a rather sensitive issue over the last several weeks--the process that is used for closing school early, cancelling school for the day, or starting late. This is an issue that has become rather complex this year.

What I'd like to do first is provide an overview of the whole area of transportation. First of all, I take my hat off to those people who provide transportation for students. Any time in the State of Minnesota weather can be a factor regarding transportation. These individuals are transporting 50-60 students in a confined environment and have the responsibility for their safety at all times.

Thief River Falls can be proud of the individuals who are transporting students. In fact, as I understand it, there has never been any kind of serious accident, no bus has ever been stranded, no kids have ever been left unattended, and Thief River Falls has a very high record of safety as it relates to students getting to and from school. This is in spite of the unpredictable weather. We have never at any time put the safety of students in jeopardy regarding transportation.

Let me give you a little background regarding the magnitude of our transportation operation. In the 1995-96 school year, buses collectively put on 285,552 miles-- that is about 1,500 miles per day that we are transporting students. We have 32 buses transporting close of 1,800 students on a daily basis. Our buses are maintained by a full-time mechanic so they are operated in tip-top condition. We will not allow any buses to transport students that do not meet a high level of standard regarding their level of operation.

We are governed by a very strict set of rules passed by the Minnesota Legislature and administered through the Department of Education. Bus drivers are screened and are required to go through a training program in addition to a special license. Operation of the Transportation Department is supervised by an individual who we feel has all the highest qualities necessary to assure the safety of students.

Be assured that our primary purpose and focus is the safety of children. As you can see by the magnitude of the number of miles put on transporting students every year, the amount of time required to provide their transportation is handled in a most efficient and effective way. This, by the way, does not include the miles put on for extra-curricular activities and field trips.

Next let me address the decision-making process used when we have a late start, cancel school or dismiss early. Our Transportation Supervisor first personally checks the roads to see if they can be traveled. He will also contact the county offices and any other individual he feels might be in a position to alert him more to the road conditions. We also very closely monitor the weather and will be in contact with other districts throughout the area as to what their decision is in regard to holding school. He will then contact me as to what the road conditions are and a decision will be made.

We will attempt to make the decision regarding holding school prior to 6:15 a.m., and that is announced on the local radio and KVLY TV stations. Our primary concern in making decisions is the safety of students.

If we feel road conditions are going to be improving throughout the course of the day, we may decide to start two hours late. If we feel the conditions are such that they are not going to improve or the wind chill is going to be of such a magnitude that we're putting students in jeopardy, we will in fact close school for the day.

As to closing early, that is a little more difficult to determine as it relates to the changing conditions. However, the same process is used. We, in fact, will consider no other variables other than the safety of children. We do not consider the serving of lunch, whether they have started lunch or whatever other issues we're facing. Our primary focus will be, can we get kids home safely in a reasonable amount of time? That is our primary concern when making these decisions. We will look at no other issues. If we feel we can feed them lunch, we will certainly do that. However, that is not part of the decision-making.

If we do close school early, we do, however, have a concern about giving parents enough time to make accommodations for their children. We do not want children left stranded in any kind of environment with their parents not home or without some kind of alternative being made. We definitely need to make the announcement well enough in advance so that parents can make accommodations for their children who will be coming home earlier than normally expected.

I want to re-emphasize that parents can be very proud of the transportation system; proud of the fact that there have never been any accidents nor any buses stranded nor have we ever had a situation where we were not able to get students home in a safe process. We are very proud of our transportation system and I would encourage you to get to know your bus driver and thank him or her for transporting your children safely.

Our process of making up any snow days or developing a calendar is determined by the educational needs of students, not by a vacation schedule. Lastly, at any time in inclement weather conditions, parents can pick up their child or make arrangements to have their child picked up or keep their child home when school is open. That is their prerogative.

I invite comments, questions, concerns regarding the educational programs in Independent School District #564. For your information, we will be holding a Community Forum on Saturday, February 8th, beginning at 9 a.m. If you're available, come to the Challenger Cafeteria and give us your input about what you see are the expectations of your educational program. If you want to give me a call at 681-8711 or write to me at 230 LaBree Avenue, I would be most pleased to hear from you.

Minnkota plant third lowest in production cost

Minnkota Power Cooperative's Milton R. Young Station near Center, ND, was the third lowest cost producer of electricity in the United States over the five-year period 1991-1995.

The national ranking results from a comparison of operation, maintenance and fuel costs for 700 steam-electric power plants with analysis made by the Utility Data Institute (UDI) of Washington, DC.

The generation and transmission cooperative supplies wholesale electricity to 12 rural electric cooperatives serving a 34,500-square mile area in eastern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota. Minnkota is also operating agent for the Northern Municipal Power Agency of Thief River Falls which serves 12 municipal utilities.

The 673-megawatt plant's average cost for the five-year period was 10.66 mills per net kilowatt-hour (A mill is one-tenth of a cent). Lowest cost producer was Laramie River Station operated by Basin Electric Power Cooperative in Wyoming at 9.55 mills per kWh. Second lowest was the George Neal South plant operated by Mid-American Energy Co. in Iowa at 10.57 mills.

The UDI report tracked costs at 700 power plants, including more than 400 coal-fired plants. Of the 20 lowest cost generating stations ranked in the survey, 19 are coal-fired and only one nuclear.

Lincoln one-act play will enter Section 8AA event

A shortened version of the full-length play Death of a Salesman will be presented as Lincoln high school's entry in the Section 8AA one-act play competition Saturday, February 1, in Alexandria. The play has been adapted for one-act presentation by director Connie Stock.

A local public performance of the play will take place Thursday, January 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium.

"Death of a Salesman by Arthur Miller portrays the fragmented dreams and broken pieces of Willy Loman's life," director Stock said. "It is about a dysfunctional family which tries to live a reality that exists only in Willy's mind.

"One of his sons, Biff, tries to break out of this pattern and deal with the truth of who he is, but it is too late for the rest of the family. Willy's life has been a lie for too long; he cannot see it any other way."

The cast includes Kyle Rokke as Willy, Lana Rodahl as his wife Linda, Aaron Furuseth and Lucas Rohll as his sons Biff and Happy, respectively. Other players from Willy's past who appear in and out of his dreams are Ben (Jed Brazier), Willy's successful brother; Bernard (Hans Heppner); and The Woman (Meghan Reed).

Also in the cast are Josh Hendrickson as Charlie, Adam Quesnell as Howard, Bridgette Stock as Miss Forsythe, Wendy Tomsich as Letta and Matt Bitzegaio as Stanley.

Family argument erupts between Willy Loman (Kyle Rokke, left) and his son Biff (Aaron Furuseth, standing at right) in this scene from "Death of a Salesman," the Lincoln high school one-act play. Also pictured are Willy's wife Linda (Lana Rodahl) and son Happy (Lucas Rohll). The play will be presented Saturday, February 1, and the Section 8AA contest in Alexandria with a local premiere performance Thursday, January 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln auditorium.

Crew members include Yvonne Asp, sound; Dawn King and Megan Browning, lights; Jeremiah Hasnedl and Joe LaFriniere, set.

The Sub-Section 8AA contest set for last Saturday was canceled due to bad weather and four plays were advanced to this week's sectional contest instead of three qualifiers. Plays from Thief River Falls, Detroit Lakes, Alexandria and Moorhead will compete with three plays from the south sub-section. One play will advance to the state festival February 7 and 8 in St. Paul.

Thursday, Shirley Jenny Kristopher and Kendrick Anderson went to Chatfield, returning Sunday evening. They went to attend a 50th Wedding Anniversary for Shirley's aunt and uncle Bob and Vivian Coe.

The tip for this week is don't be in a hurry to pack your boots and overshoes away. That weather reporter said another blizzard will be here by Sunday. It may even hit us here.

Vance and Adrienne Lefrooth attended the funeral for Lucy Twistel Monday morning and later visited Clair Nelson. Brian Nelson and children and Myron Nelson were Thursday afternoon visitors at the Gayhard Nelson home.

Tip for today—Be sure that the train you have to take that is late so often won't be the one that is on time the day you wish to go.

Northwest Minnesota just went through the 6th blizzard of this season and today they said number 7 is on the way. The wind blows most every day so if we get an inch or two of snow in a little while we can have a full blown blizzard. Or if you meet an 18-wheeler on the highway its what you could call a complete white out for a few seconds. That's when I draw in most of the air in the car.

Cabin fever is running high along with a dose of some sort of flu. But one thing about the folks in this part of the country is how quickly they get back into their usual grooves and begin to think of Spring and all the field work.

Roy received a catalogue the other day from the same company that he bought that composter from last year with a hundred other ideas to keep him busy. He was looking at a roto tiller with several attachments that would do away with hoeing, etc. I hope he remembers that perennial flowers have a habit of coming up year after year, a bit unlike potatoes, or no tulips again this year. One year he punched holes through the frost to plant tulips and they were so deep it took them three years to come up and try to bloom.

Most of the Strandquist seniors have been house bound lately but they do get together to celebrate birthdays and anniversaries and to church. Confirmation classes are held in both Bethesda and Salem Churches.

Marcelyn Lindstrom and Ida Bruce visited Adrienne Lefrooth on Thursday afternoon.

Winter storms cause damage in millions

Wally Sparby, state executive director of the federal Farm Service Agency, said that winter storms have caused losses to agriculture that will accumulate to millions of dollars. A recent survey showed about 5,300 agricultural facilities, 2,900 livestock and 187,000 poultry have been damaged or destroyed, he said.

For the purpose of this report, facilities are described as agricultural dwellings, service structures, machinery and equipment.

President Clinton signed a Presidential Major Disaster Declaration based on damages and losses caused by severe winter storms and blizzard conditions in 40 Minnesota counties. Eligible family farmers may qualify for federal disaster assistance, including Farm Service Agency (FSA) emergency (EM) loans.

The Minnesota state FSA committee has requested authorization to implement the Emergency Feed Grain Donation Program (EFGDP).

The program provides for assistance to feed cattle, sheep and goats. Eligible livestock owners have the option to receive assistance as any of the following: (1) direct cash donation for plowing or snow removal specifically related to providing access to existing feed or to the livestock; (2) cash reimbursements at 100 percent cost-share or feed purchased; or (3) direct grain donations from CCC-owned stocks for livestock in immediate need of feed.

Assistance is computed for the actual number of days the livestock are determined to be in danger of perishing and do not have access to their normal feed supply, not to exceed 15 days.

Hay shortages exist throughout the state and severe winter conditions in the western counties of Minnesota have been devastating to livestock producers, Sparby said. For more information, contact the local county FSA office.
